A CHAPTER ABOUT FUR SMUGGLING

Mysterious Man Disappeared with Bag, and Later on the Filling of a Bale of Wool Vanished from C. T. R. Station—An Arrest in Orillia, and a Strange Fitting from Barrie Hospital.

Evening Post of July 31.
For months past the police of this district have had reason to believe that an illicit trade in close seasons was being carried on under their noses, so to speak, but try as they might, they were unable to get on the trail of the smugglers. Some months ago they received a "tip" that a man with a suspicious looking bag in his care was on board the north country train, due to reach Lindsay in half-an-hour, but when the sleuths boarded the cars it was learned that the man they were after had slipped off on the opposite side of the train and was nowhere to be seen. Disappointment No. 1.

About five weeks ago High Constable Jones, of Fenelon Falls, and Magistrate James Dickson, of the same village, happened to be on the same train coming to Lindsay. Jones, while fraternizing with the baggage man, happened to notice a bundle of wool, directed to Horn Bros., of this town, and made a cursory inspection of the same, with the result that he satisfied himself that the interior of the innocent looking bale was made up of beaver skins. The Constable was informed that the bundle was being looked after by a man on board, but the latter was too wise to claim it, and when Lindsay was reached the bundle was placed in charge of the G. T. R. baggage man, who was ordered by the Magistrate and Constable to keep watch and ward over it until their return from Toronto next day.

Sure enough, the bale was handed over next day on demand, but when it had been opened, only a bunch of wool remained—apparently the outer covering of the original bale. The baggage man could offer no solution of the mystery, and the man said to have been in charge of the bundle the day previous could not be located by Constable Jones or the local police. Disappointment No. 2.

THE SUSPECT.
A warrant was then issued for one Simon Marshall, of the south shore, who was suspected in connection with the spiriting away of the illicit furs. For some days the local police have been on his trail, but without success—although Marshall is known to have been in town several times, he managed to evade arrest, and went his way rejoicing. Disappointment No. 3.

Friday last Chief of Police Reid, of Orillia, arrested an individual in that town who was acting in a suspicious manner. He gave the name of Peter McDonald, and said he was buying horses for Mr. Wm. Wexce, of Lindsay. On being taken to the lock-up McDonald became ill, and a physician was called he said his patient had pneumonia. That evening he was taken by train to Barrie hospital. In the meantime Chief Reid called up Chief Vincent, of this town, on the phone, and informed him of the fact that the man who claimed to be McDonald had papers on his person, which seemed to prove that his real name was Simon Marshall. Chief Vincent informed his brother constable that Marshall was wanted in Lindsay, and that there was a warrant out for him. The Orillia man notified Baggage Chief to that effect, but the latter refused to neglect to act. Chief Vincent on Saturday night called up the Barrie night policeman and put him wise, telling him to have a man remain on guard at the hospital. Instead, the night man consulted the hospital authorities or doctor, who said a watchman was unnecessary—Marshall was too ill to be to leave his bed before a couple of days had passed. Sunday night the sick man was escaped from the ward, striking with him the clothing of a juvenile patient, and has not been seen since. Disappointment No. 4.

Chief Vincent, now thoroughly aroused—on the trail of Marshall, and says he will land his man inside of a week. Marshall, it is thought, received furs from north country trappers, who penetrated into Algonquin Park, either doing the killing themselves, or receiving them from unscrupulous Park rangers.

The Canadian Magazine.
The holiday equipment would be well supplemented with a copy of the August number of The Canadian Magazine, which contains a good supply of short stories and excellently illustrated travel articles. The art features are exceedingly good this month, the wash and pen drawings being above the average. With one or two exceptions, for instance, an article entitled "Party Government," by Prof. Goldwin Smith, the number contains light, warm weather reading matter.

COUNTERFEITERS SENTENCED

End of Celebrated Case That Has Done so Much to Advertise Town of Lindsay.

Magistrates Jackson and Moore Pronounced Judgment Last Friday—The Guilty Men Received the Reward of Their Misdeeds—Conclusion of Interesting Proceedings—How the Accused Took Their Sentences.

RESULT OF FRIDAY MORNING'S TRIAL.

C. BURKE—Sentenced to three years of hard labor in Kingston Penitentiary.
R. LOGIE—Sentenced to two years of hard labor in Kingston Penitentiary.
A. BOUYEA—Sentenced to one month in the County Gaol at hard labor.
R. WYNN—Sentenced to one month in the County Gaol at hard labor.
GEO. MILLER—Discharged.
JOHN EVELEIGH—Liberated on suspended sentence.

Evening Post of July 26

The Court room in the Court House was crowded this morning by citizens anxious to hear sentence imposed on Burke, Logie, Bouyea, Wynn, Eveleigh and Miller, the parties charged with counterfeiting. Police Magistrates Jackson and Moore occupied the bench.

GEORGE MILLER

was first called. Magistrate Moore proceeded to review the evidence given in the case. When Miller was first arrested he positively denied any connection with the crime, and afterwards, when face to face with Logie and Burke, he repeated his denial. The only witnesses produced by the Crown against him were Detective Parkinson and the two prisoners, Burke and Logie. There was nothing conclusive in the statement of the first named to connect Miller with the crime, and evidence consisted of a resume of his own movements and what he had picked up from Logie and Burke. He did not claim to have connected Miller with the crime—the only testimony to that effect had been furnished by Burke and Miller. Nothing had occurred to connect Miller with the second forgeries; if connected with the first case he apparently had kept himself aloof from the second offence.

What is the charge against Miller? It is that on or about Nov. 25th, 1905, he had in his possession forged bank notes of the Dominion and Montreal Banks, knowing such to be forged. That is what the Crown undertook to prove. The charge was very distinct and definite—was there any evidence in support of it? His Honor then read extracts from Robt. Logie's evidence relative to the time of year that offence had been committed with which he claimed Miller had been conversant and given aid. The time fixed by Logie was April or May—did that support the charge as to Jan. 25th? He didn't think so. At a later stage in his evidence Logie said he was sure the bills had been made in the spring or whether the time was two years ago, or not.

What does Burke say on this point? He said, in reply, that it must be three or four years since the bills were made, while the Crown fixed the time of Miller's guilt at a period two and one-half years ago. Could he (Magistrate Moore) be expected to sign a year and a half off the Burke period to make it fit? Then Burke thought the bills were made in the fall because they used to get apples out of the orchard. Does not that statement contradict Logie? The latter says the crime was committed in April or May, the Crown fixes January, Burke says in the fall, and Miller says it was never committed. In his case, at least, one would think it would be quite possible for these men to fix a date of that kind precisely. How am I going to reconcile such differences? I find no evidence upon which to convict the prisoner—if heard before a jury he would regard it as his duty to do the jury against accepting the evidence of Burke and Logie, an it came from a tainted source. The demeanor of Burke during the trial had not satisfied him—he seemed to treat the proceedings as a joke; on the other hand, Miller's demeanor throughout made a testimony of one accomplice, but owing to the discrepancies in the present case he felt there should be corroborative evidence in the case to justify the conviction of the prisoner. His Honor referred to cases on record as bearing out his contention, after which he announced that he found Geo. Miller not guilty of the charge brought against him by the Crown. (Applause.)

TRIAL OF THE LEADER.

Burke, Eveleigh, Wynn, Logie and Bouyea were then brought in from the gaol, whereupon County Crown Attorney Devlin asked that sentence be imposed upon the first named. Mr. Thos. Stewart, counsel for the accused, addressed the Court, and made an earnest appeal for a light sentence, contending that the ends of justice would be well served. Burke had lived in town all his life—56 years—and this was the first time he had appeared before any Court of criminal or civil justice—the greatest offence he had been guilty of was idleness in recent years, and this it was that had led him astray. Since his arrest he had played the man. Regarding his conduct in Court, it should be remembered that different men are differently constituted, and that levity is not far removed from crime. These men were strangers to crime—they are not to be classed in the category of dangerous criminals; they had been led into this thing through childish foolishness. Very little of the bogus money had been scattered, and all of it had been redeemed. The object of punishment is corrective, and in this case a light sentence would serve the ends of justice. The accused were nothing better or worse than children in crime. The officers had admitted that they had seldom dealt with so artless a combination of wrongdoers. Burke had received a lesson that would never be forgotten, and which would induce him to lead the balance of his free life in an industrious and lawful occupation.

Magistrate Jackson said in imposing sentence—"The four of you (meaning Burke, Logie, Bouyea and Wynn) are to be commended for honestly acknowledging your crime. It is indeed a serious one. You are to be congratulated on the conduct on your counsel in that you were not advised to plead innocence and so delay the cause of justice. I believe the truth was told—perhaps there was shielding of some one, and perhaps all of you were excited and didn't know whether you were standing on your head or your heels. The extreme penalty for the crime of which you have been guilty is 14 years. You, Burke, are 56 years of age. You didn't stop at a first offence—you repeated it; you have been in a sense the ringleader, as you procured the plates in both cases. I sentence you, Charles Burke, to three years in Kingston penitentiary at hard labor."

was the next prisoner called upon to stand up, and in his behalf Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., spoke briefly, but effectively. Evidence as to the prisoner's unimpeachable character was unnecessary, because both judges were aware of the facts. The prisoner had lived here 50 years, and had been a hard working and industrious, yet unsuccessful farmer, and therefore was liable to temptations. He was a man of simple mind—so simple, indeed, that he did not fully understand the serious nature of his voluntarily made choice of breast of the whole thing to the detectives. Crown had used him as a witness—he was likewise entitled to the consideration of the Court on that account. There was no good reason why a light sentence should not suffice.

Magistrate Moore said, "In regard to your case, I agree entirely with what has been said as to your past good character, and your good offices in becoming a Crown witness. Knowing you as I have for many years, it is a painful duty for me to have to sentence for this deed. Had you given the matter any thought you would have realized what the end was sure to be. Your crime is a serious one, as it strikes at the financial integrity of our country. It was Burke's insidious advances which led you astray; I cannot forget, however, that this was your second offence—had you remained after your first crime your name would have been lighter. Although the colleague of Burke, you are not equally guilty, and therefore I sentence you to two years in the penitentiary at hard labor."

was the next to respond to his name, and Mr. L. V. O'Connor, his counsel, made a feeling appeal for clemency. A week previous to committing the offence the prisoners had been engaged in a trusted capacity as night watchman for a local firm; previous to that he had been in the employ of the Bank of Montreal, but owing to blindness he had been tempted and had fallen because of his desire to earn a living for his family but it was a fact that he had become dissatisfied with his new work, and had quit before his arrest, while the bogus bills distributed had been redeemed. Finally Mr. O'Connor submitted a testimonial in behalf of his client, signed by Mr. J. A. Paddock, of St. John's, N.B., formerly manager of the Bank of Montreal, town.

RICHARD WYNN

was likewise included in the scope of Mr. O'Connor's remarks. Wynn was a native of Emily township, 66 years of age, well connected and always known to be respectable and hard-working.

Magistrate Jackson—"Bouyea I have known for years—he evidently was persuaded into this; Wynn I have not known, but have heard many speak well of him. It is said indeed to see men of their age here, upright lives. It is not in my power to liberate you on suspended sentence—I will order that each of you be imprisoned in the County gaol for one month at hard labor. (Applause.)

J. EVELEIGH

When this prisoner was called County Attorney Devlin said that on behalf of the Crown he asked that the prisoner be allowed to go on suspended sentence. Magistrate Jackson—"The prisoner is the youngest of the lot, and I have heard that he is a most exemplary young man, but one easily led astray. I earnestly comply with the request made on behalf of the Crown, and order that the prisoner be liberated on his own recognizances." (Applause.) This concluded the business of the Court.

CITY SCRIBE'S IMPRESSIONS

WORLD STAFF CORRESPONDENT AND LINDSAY COUNTERFEITERS.

Locates Weak Spot in Crown's Management of the Case.

Evening Post of July 27.
Mr. T. W. King, the Toronto World's Ottawa correspondent, spent Thursday and Friday in town, and reported the counterfeiting case for his paper. We take the following extract from his racy report:

It is not yet explained why the crown selected this particular day in January in drawing the information. It happens to be the day of the last provincial general elections. No other reason can be assigned, as the crown must have known from the statements of Burke and Logie that this was not the date which they would swear to.

Miller's case disposed of, Burke was called for sentence. The press reports may have given one the impression of a rollicking, devil-may-care Irishman, presumably red-haired, frisky-faced and blue-eyed, with legs impatient to dance a jig, and a round face dimpling with laughter. In fact, Burke is a lank, lean French Canadian, apparently with a trace of Indian blood in his veins, dark and sulky, self-contained and seemingly reticent. Those who know him say that he is fond of disputation, and views that border on socialism. He greatly shocked the resident senators by declaring that it was no worse to steal $2500 from the postoffice than it was for a Dominion senator to draw his $2500 indemnity. People now also recall that he was arrested to defend smuggling upon the ground that if the customs officers did get the money some grafter would get it away from them.

Neither Mr. Burke's peculiar views spring from his occupation as a counterfeiter or whether he adopted his profession of counterfeiting as the result of his views, must remain a mystery. At any rate he has been looked upon as a dangerous radical, and by common consent, was "acquired" by the ringleader of the gang when the counterfeiting were arrested, and picked upon for the awful example. It was known that his sentence would be severe.

He might have gotten fourteen years, but Magistrate Jackson made it three.

LOGIE AND THE REST

Next came Logie. He is said to be 50 years old—a man of medium size, of florid complexion, dark hair, and sandy moustache, straked with grey. He has a narrow intelligent face, with bright eyes, rather shifty. There is an unquietness in Logie's life, which borders upon a romance, and which in part explains his comparative poverty after years of labor. He was mixed up with Burke and counterfeiting as far back as 1905, and then again in 1907. Magistrate Moore, however, found him less guilty than Burke, and gave him two years in the penitentiary.

Bouyea and Wynn came next. Bouyea has a good, earnest face, wears spectacles and a grey moustache. He is the sort of man you might pick out as a cabinet maker or a locksmith. He was for years a messenger in the Bank of Montreal. Then his eyesight failed him, and now he is nearly blind. Until quite recently he was a night watchman. Wynn is a trembling old man with a thin black beard, approaching seventy. He dresses in corduroy, and "looks" like a man who is thoroughly broken in body and mind. If Wynn produced a genuine five dollar bill, he would find difficulty in passing it. For him and his half blind companion to be the 4th of July to "push" counterfeit money among people who shy at genuine money made in Canada, was a performance so closely bordering upon open fraud, that sympathy is mingled with amazement. Some young lawyer, speaking for Bouyea and Wynn, suggested a "suspended sentence." This was beyond the power of Magistrate Jackson, but he did the next best thing. Each man got 30 days in jail.

PLEASED THE PEOPLE
The last defendant to be called was Eveleigh. The crown moved for sentence and suggested that a remand would be satisfactory. He left the court room a free man, upon giving his own recognizance. He was the first man to be arrested and likely led to the capture of the others.

The crowd, which cheered the acquittal of Miller, was no less enthusiastic when Bouyea and Wynn were called with a nominal sentence, and Eveleigh with no sentence at all. Apparently the crowd would have cheered had Burke and Logie been released. An effort will be made to commute their sentences. Magistrate Jackson anticipated that a higher power might reduce the sentence of Burke and Logie's attorney applied for a certificate that his client had been used by the crown as a witness, thus indicating that he would apply for commutation.

A SCHOOL OF TELEGRAPHY

To be Opened by Mr. A. M. Paton, Late of the C. T. R.

If you are the father or mother of a family, perhaps the greatest problem you will be compelled to solve is what to do with the boys and girls. Professions of all kinds are over-crowded. Before taking action, think for a moment on the wide and varied opportunities a knowledge of Telegraphy—commercial or railway—presents. Some of the wealthiest men on the continent to-day owe their position in life to starting early on this line, and this at a time when there was not one opening to a thousand at the present.

The railroads of the country at the present time are faced to face with the task of securing thousands of telegraph operators. The law which limits the hours of labor for this branch of the service, together with the construction of new roads is responsible for this condition of things, and the opening up of our vast West, the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific from ocean to ocean, the continuous extension of the Canada Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways, together with the fact that there is not one railway in the United States knows where, or how it is going to get the additional force needed, emphasizes the great need for a School of Telegraphy.

In this connection, we are pleased to inform our readers, that Mr. A. M. Paton, of Lindsay, has secured the top flat, foot of Kent-st., in building recently vacated by The Post-Printing Co., and in a short time he will open up a School, to be known as The National School of Telegraphy. He will give the School his personal attention, and the pupils the benefit of many years of railway and commercial telegraphy.

Board in Lindsay is reasonable, and Mr. Paton informs us that a pupil here should graduate in from one to two months less time than in a city, on account of fewer attractions. For terms and all particulars, address National School of Telegraphy, Lindsay, Ont., A. M. Paton, Principal.

The school will be equipped and ready for pupils within ten days. In our opinion there is no better avenue open to young men and women, salaries, hours and chances for advancement considered, than Commercial and Railway Telegraphy. See advertisement in this issue.

The Saw Mill at Galt

Galt (Reformer).
Logs can be floated down MKK Creek to the new saw mill. The saw dust can be converted into a palatable breakfast food; the slabs can house the homeless thousands that walk Galt streets; the waste strips and ends can keep citizens from freezing to death in backward spring; the mill can be used as an Al. billboard. What a world of industry can centre around a saw mill!

Bound for Simcoe's Shores.

Terry's gasoline launch left Tuesday morning with a party on board on an extended water tour. The trip will take in the new popular Kirkfield lift lock, and proceeding along the canal to Lake Simcoe, where Beaver-ton, Jackson's Point, Orillia, and other points of interest will be visited. The party comprises Mrs. Mounce, of Cannington, and her mother, Mrs. Rehill, of Lumsden, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. Newton Smale; Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Murphy, Miss A. Ward, Miss L. Chapman, Mrs. T. Stinson, Ida Wickett, and others, of town.

Railway Notes.

—Superintendent W. R. Tiffin, of Allandale, was in town lately, and went east with Trainmaster J. Irwin to inspect certain improvements required in Peterboro.

—After over seven years' service with the G. T. R. as news agent on the run between Midland and Blackwater, Mr. Albert Birchard has retired from railway life and taken a position at the Canada Specialty Works.

—Wonderful to relate, the engine driver who ran the famous Rocket of George Stephenson, the first passenger locomotive to draw a passenger train in the world, is still alive, in good health, and celebrating his 92nd birthday a few weeks ago at his home in the States. Edward Eastwistle is the name of the man who has the unique claim to distinction.

—The Peterboro Examiner complains of low water in Stony Lake. The Examiner man should visit the end of the Kawartha chain if he would like to hear a better wash of the right brand. The water up this way has been falling for a month past without apparent reason as it is not being drawn off for the benefit of Peterboro power companies.

CAN YOU TAKE HOLD?

THESE BOOKS REQUIRE A MAN WHO IS FAMILIAR WITH MODERN METHODS

That's the question the employer asks.

Can you answer "Yes"?

It's a mighty different proposition to hold down a job in an office to-day to what it was a few years ago.

Business houses have installed special modernized accounting systems, designed individually for their own uses, and want men familiar with modern business methods, men who can step right in and take hold.

Are you prepared for that kind of a job?

Business Systems Commercial School will prepare you.

Where the ordinary "business" college educates mere bookkeepers, Business Systems Commercial School educates specialists in modern methods—the kind of men who use their brains to cut down clerical work, and who draw the highest salaries.

The courses in Business Systems Commercial School may be a little stiffer than in the ordinary business colleges; but they are more thorough. Students applying for admission, whose previous education does not come up to the required standard, are put through a special training course before being started at the real work, and no student is graduated who is not thoroughly capable.

Business Systems Commercial School teaches retail as well as wholesale business methods, and for those now occupying positions and who desire to improve themselves, there are special night courses.

By this it will be seen that Business Systems Commercial School in looking for its pupils does not want infants or the class of students whose parents send them to "business" college merely to "fill in" a year after they leave the public school.

Business Systems Commercial School wants bright, aggressive young men and women, who are determined to succeed; such students as the directors of the school feel they can consistently recommend on graduation to the best positions.

Do you belong to this class? If so, write for further particulars and booklet on the course. Fall term begins Tuesday, Sept. 3rd.

NO DAIRY SHOW THIS YEAR.

Decision Reached to Postpone the National Show Until the winter of 1908-9.

Breeders who have been written to in regard to the advisability of attempting to hold the proposed National Dairy Show next January, or of postponing it for one year, have replied in favor of postponing the exhibition. They desire, however, to see a joint meeting of the committees from the Breeders' Associations and of the local committees in Toronto, who are interested in the proposed show, held in Toronto at the time of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition. It is probable, therefore, that a large mass meeting of dairymen will be held in Toronto at that time. In such an event, officers for the show will be elected, and arrangements made immediately to interest the Dominion and the Provincial governments, and provincial dairymen's associations, in the holding of an immense show during the winter of 1908-09.

The Country Faith.

Here in the country's heart,
Where the grass is green,
Life is the same sweet life
As it e'er hath been.

Trust in God still lives.
And the bell of morn
Floats with a thought of God
O'er rising corn.

God comes down in the rain,
And the crops grow tall;
This is the country faith,
And the best of all.

Music at Toronto Exhibition.

The Canadian National Exhibition will this year be extra strong in the matter of music. Besides one of the finest of the British Military Bands, a large number of musical organizations belonging to Canada have been engaged, a number of which will play in a Tattoo following the spectacle every night in front of the Grand Stand. Among the bands favored with an engagement outside those of Toronto, are: The 57th Battalion Band, Peterborough; the 91st and 13th Bands of Hamilton; the 19th of St. Catharines; Preston Silver Band and the Band of the Waterloo Musical Society.

BIG BLAZE AT CONEY

New York's Pleasure Resort Suffers Severe Loss.

MILLION DOLLARS DAMAGE

Fireman Fatally Injured — Flames Spread With Alarming Rapidity — Twenty Small Hotels Wiped Out — Steeplechase Park Destroyed — Legless Wonder Rescued — Luna Park Had Close Call.

New York, July 29.—Coney Island, the playground of New York's millions, was visited by a disastrous fire early yesterday and seven blocks in the amusement zone were completely destroyed. Thyron's Steeplechase Park, and nearly 20 small hotels were wiped out, and for a time the flames threatened Luna Park and Dreamland and the scores of smaller places which fringe the water's edge for a mile.

A lucky shift of the wind to seaward aided the firemen and probably saved the whole picturesque area, but not until a million dollars' damage had been done.

Three persons were injured, one of them, Gottfried Messerli, a fireman, probably fatally.

Only the advance guard of the 300,000 people who flocked to Coney Island yesterday saw the fire, but the thrilling tales of the fearless rescue of San Donato, the armless and legless man, and the flight of Francesco, the fire eater, when the alarm was sounded, were told and retold along noisy Surf avenue and in the less particular Bowers.

Coney Island has had four big fires in the last ten years, the last previous one being in 1903, "The Steeplechase" on that occasion being swept out as it was yesterday.

The island, as New Yorkers familiarly call it, was just turning in for its early morning nap—the only sleep it ever gets—and the last thin line of Saturday night merry-makers were swinging gaily, it somewhat uncertainly up Surf avenue, when Geo. Frost, a watchman at Steeplechase Park, spied a wavering trail of smoke coming from the "Cave of the Winds," one of the many amusements in the park. Scarcely had Frost bestirred himself when a flash of flame shot out of the maw of the cave and lighted up the place with a weird glare. A patrolman heard the cry of "fire," for that shout at Coney Island is an ominous one—and alarm after alarm was rung in until the fourth had been sounded, bringing scores of engines and hose-carriers to fight the flames now borne along by the smart west wind.

The inflammable character-wood staff and papier mache of the constructive material of the many attractions, made fine food for the flames.

Fire Commissioner Lantry, seeing that nothing could be saved in the park, ordered that all efforts be concentrated on the east side of the burning blocks to keep the fire from reaching the flimsy buildings in the Bowers, and thus reaching Dreamland and Luna Park. The firemen were massed at the entrance of the Bowers and, although a Japanese skating rink, a small dance hall and a restaurant were destroyed there, the fire was checked.

DIVORCES MAY BE ILLEGAL.

British Columbia Has Raised Question of Provincial Powers.

Vancouver, July 29.—The Minister of Justice will be asked to take part in the question raised here as to the powers of the provincial court in matters of divorce. The point is whether the B.N.A. Act, which includes marriage and divorce among the exclusive powers of the Dominion Parliament, did not sweep away the rights of the courts in this province and Nova Scotia, which alone of the provinces have divorce courts.

Both have exercised this power until now unquestioned, since pre-confederation days, and British Columbia since 1877, when the then colony adopted this law of England.

Justice Clement, formerly of Toronto, raised the question in a local case. A stated case is likely to go to the Privy Council. If the two provinces have not this power, Ottawa would have to pass an enabling act to validate all the illegal divorce decrees of both provinces.

Suicides With Gas.

Stratford, July 29.—While brooding over his wife's death, William Donaldson, aged 44, committed suicide during Saturday night by inhaling gas. Yesterday morning he was sitting beside the gas range with a gas tube in his hand, and dead. For some months he had been carefully watched, as it was feared that in his state of mental derangement he would attempt his life. Deceased was for 28 years an employee of the Grand Trunk shops, and is survived by two children. This latter case makes four suicides in Stratford inside of three weeks.

TWENTY MET DEATH

Women and Children Perish in New York Tenement.

FIRE FOLLOWS EXPLOSION

One Hundred Inmates in Wild Panic — Many Mortally Wounded—House Front Fell Out—Victims Had No Chance to Escape—Beaten Back From Safety by Smoke and Flame—East Side Holocaust.

New York, July 30.—After an all-night search of the ruins of the six-story tenement at No. 222 Christie street, which was burned shortly after midnight, the police announced that there were twenty victims of the fire.

The bodies of the dead were found in all sorts of unexpected places, to which persons had fled after the fire broke out. Almost all of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, many to such an extent that it was impossible to distinguish the sex. A majority of the victims, the police believed, were women and children.

The third was one of those old-fashioned tenements common to the east side, with a store on the ground floor and the apartments upstairs crowded with tenants, mainly Italians.

The fire started in the store and swept through the building with such rapidity that a fifth of the 100 tenants in the place met a horrible death.

Another score, though the escaped with their lives were more or less burned or otherwise injured.

A passer-by was attracted by the explosion, which apparently occurred on the basement floor. As he turned toward the building the whole front, with its flimsy fire-escapes, fell into the street and from the sagging floors a score of half-awakened persons dropped into the street.

Many of these were badly hurt, but they proved to be the more fortunate of the tenants, for in another moment the building was wrapped in flames and the cries of the persons burning to death rent the air.

In the wild panic that followed many suffered mortal injury. The police and firemen, who soon reached the scene, attempted to take the imperiled tenants from the side and rear windows, but few who were free to act did not wait for assistance, but jumped into the street.

Several who sought escape by a rear stairway were driven back by choking smoke. Some of these made their way through the fire to other exits, but more fell, overcome in the hall, to be dragged out insensible.

Of the dead and dying the larger part were women and children. In the mad scramble for exit and safety, the stronger in most cases survived.

The flames were not controlled until the building was practically in ashes, when the search for the bodies began.

TORONTO JUNCTION MOURNED.

Victims of the Humber Bay Tragedy Laid to Rest.

Toronto Junction, July 30.—Places of business and industry were closed; heavy crepe draped the buildings on the principal streets, and flags hoisted at half-mast on the public buildings yesterday during the funerals of Frank Kyle, Leonard and Frank Daly, John Irving, Walter Dundin and Reginald Miller, six of the nine young men who were drowned in Humber Bay on Friday morning last.

A joint service was held in Victoria Presbyterian Church. The funeral was of public character, attended by representatives of the different municipal bodies, and hundreds followed the hearse, which conveyed the deceased from the homes of their parents to the church and thence to their last resting-place. The streets through which the solemn cortege wended its way were lined with people bowed in reverence as the procession passed.

NEW TREATY SIGNED

Russia and Japan Come to Amicable Agreement.

RECENT WAR FORGOTTEN

Last Traces of Contentment Wiped Out by Political Entente—Two Powers Agree to Apply the Most Favored Nation Clause—Kwantung Province Is Excluded From the Provisions—Fishing Rights.

St. Petersburg, July 30.—The signing yesterday at the Foreign Office here of the treaties of commerce, navigation and fisheries between Russia and Japan will be followed shortly by the publication of a political entente wiping out the last traces of the contentions and hostilities arising from the late war.

The Foreign Office yesterday confirmed the despatch to the Associated Press from Tokyo on this matter, and officially that a general political agreement between the two states was in course of preparation, that the Pacific was to this end had almost reached their conclusion, and that the signatures would be affixed to this document within a few days.

This entente is conceived along the same general lines as the recent similar agreement between France and Japan. Under its terms Russia and Japan will mutually guarantee their rights in the Far East.

The negotiations looking to this entente have been conducted with complete secrecy because of the Japanese dislike of publicity, but it was learned yesterday that Foreign Minister Iswolsky's desire to settle pending questions in the Far East and inaugurate a new policy of peaceful colonization and development in the Russian provinces bordering on the Pacific was met in a spirit of moderation and conciliation on the part of Japan which enabled satisfactory progress to be made, and assured a successful outcome. The relations between Russia and Japan are on such a satisfactory basis that the recent occurrences in Korea exercised no influence upon them.

New Commercial Treaty.

The countries is of a temporary nature. It expires in 1911. No provision is made for a tariff agreement, but the two powers agree mutually to apply the most favored nation clause. They stipulate further that the subjects of each shall enjoy equality under the law and equal commercial opportunity without hindrance or discrimination, and that neither shall be subject to special imposts. The most important feature of this convention consists of an article excluding Kwantung Province from the provisions of the treaty.

The fisheries convention is to last for twelve years. There has been much dissatisfaction over the question of fishing rights. The convention embraces the Okhotsk, Yellow Sea and Behring Strait areas. It includes all sea animals except the sea otter. Russia makes unusually liberal concessions to Japanese fishing on the Russian coast and the Amur River, and it is claimed that under these privileges Japan will dominate the fisheries of the Pacific.

The Japanese are to pay the same taxes as Russians, and the export of fish to Japan is declared to be free from all export duty. The Japanese concessionaires are allowed to employ Japanese laborers along the coast, except at the mouth of the Amur River, where they are obliged to employ Russians.

In view of the cheap price of coolie labor it is believed that the Japanese will be able to become possessed of nearly all the fishing concessions.

Plotters Must Die.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, July 30.—A court-martial has sentenced 15 soldiers implicated in the recent political plot against the President of the republic, Gen. Alfaro, to death by shooting.

Eight of the men were executed in this city yesterday morning and the remainder probably will be shot this afternoon.

Nine other soldiers have been sentenced to penal servitude for life on the same charge.

The Government has discovered a new conspiracy at Quito and the leaders of this movement, fleeing from the capital, have arrived here.

Actress, Despondent, Suicides.

Colorado Springs, Col., July 30.—The body of Miss Laura Matthews of New York City was found lying in a lane near Ivy Wild yesterday with a bullet in her head. Developments indicate suicide. Miss Matthews was a well-known musical comedy actress, 19 years of age.

It is said she was engaged to a wealthy Chicagoan and was despondent because of his failure to fulfill his promise of marriage.

The Deadly Auto.

North Attleboro, Mass., July 30.—An automobile owned by Louis D. Barrows, and containing also Mrs. Florence Murray, Dr. Thomas Ford, and Mrs. Howard Black, crashed into an iron bridge last Saturday night, instantly killing Mrs. Murray and seriously injuring Ford.

Galt, July 30.—A serious accident happened yesterday morning at Cowan & Co.'s works. William Miller was engaged in working on a scaffold putting a belt on a pulley when he over-balanced and fell headlong, a distance of 20 feet, striking the side of his head on a ceiling, sustaining very severe injuries.

Trapped Himself.

Binks Siding, July 29.—While rifling the trunk of J. M. McCully, secret service man with the T. & N. O. engineering staff here, Alex. Garnier, a French-Canadian cook, found a pair of handcuffs, tried them on and promptly handcuffed himself.

Sir Charles at the Ranges.

Ottawa, July 29.—Sir Charles Ross was at Rockcliffe ranges on Saturday. He shot over the 900 yards range and made 49 out of a possible 50 with a Ross rifle. A gale was blowing.

FIRE ON STEAMBOAT

Women and Children Lose Their Lives on Cayuga Lake.

CREW'S GALLANT CONDUCT

Male Passengers Made Rush for Boats — Fire Started in Engine-Room, While in Mid-Lake — Victims Thought to Have Leaped Overboard—Bodies Have All Been Recovered Near the Shore.

Auburn, N.Y., July 29.—The steamboat Frontenac was burned and beached opposite Farley's Point, on Lake Cayuga, yesterday, and nine lives were lost. The unfortunate were women and children passengers, and all were drowned. Several other passengers were severely burned before the boat could be beached. She lies burned and blackened in seven feet of water. The bodies of the victims have been recovered, and the injured are being cared for at the homes of persons near the scene of the wreck.

The steamer Frontenac, an old side-wheeler, double-deck craft, which had plied between Ithaca and Cayuga, on Lake Cayuga, for the past 23 years, left the former place yesterday afternoon for the upper lake points, carrying 50 passengers and a crew of 12 men.

In mid-lake fire broke out in the engine-room. Fanned by a stiff north-east wind, it spread quickly to the after section of the boat. The crew behaved bravely and fought the flames at first. Then seeing that nothing could save the boat, they turned all their attention to the passengers. Life-preservers were put on everyone who could be found in the short time given, but despite their efforts nine women and children perished. Captain Brown directed the work, and was the last to leave the burning boat.

The strong contrast with the coolness and courage of the crew was the panic, and, in some instances, cowardice, of many of the men passengers. In their efforts to save themselves, they seriously impeded the work of the crew and endangered the lives of everyone on the steamer. This is according to the statements of the crew. It is not known how the nine women and children were thrown into the water. It is thought, however, that in terror they either jumped into the water as the boat neared the shore, or were forced overboard in the rush to get into the boats that put off. The bodies were recovered near shore.

TRACK TAMPERED WITH.

Attempt Made to Wreck the Canadian Northern Express.

Port Arthur, July 30.—An attempt was made Sunday to wreck the Canadian Northern express.

When a freight train, west bound, reached the forty-three-mile post, it was noticed that the track had been tampered with, and the train was stopped.

At the curve the fishplates and spikes had been withdrawn, and there was nothing holding the rails.

The place where it had evidently been decided to wreck the train is one of the most dangerous on the road. It is at the bottom of a hill, and there is a sharp curve.

The train would have been hurled some distance into the river, and very few would have escaped.

Detectives have been sent out to investigate the affair.

Gas Company Wins.

New York, July 30.—The application of Attorney-General Jackson for permission to bring an action to annul the corporate existence of the Consolidated Gas Co. on the ground that the merger of the various gas companies with the parent company has created a monopoly, was denied yesterday by Supreme Court Justice McCall.

London, July 30.—The White Star Line announces that a new principle will be adopted in the new 14,000 ton steamship, which is being built by Harland & Wolff for that company's Dominion service to Canada—a combination of turbines with reciprocating engines.

Long Beach, N.Y., July 30.—Eight hundred guests of the Long Beach Hotel, one of the largest seashore hotels on the Atlantic coast, had to flee for their lives early yesterday when the hotel was burned to the sands. There was no loss of life, and no one was injured. Loss $300,000.

The Matter Explained.

A Lindsay correspondent writes to the Toronto World: In a small stream a short distance from here the fish (perch, bullheads and sunfish) have all died and are strewn along the shore. There doesn't seem to be any fish in the stream. The water is in the usual clear condition. Can you tell me what is the cause? The World says it is probably where the hired man washed his feet.

BASEBALL

SYLVESTERS 4, ORIENTALS 3

The Orientals were forced to take their first sip of the bitter cup of defeat last Monday before Ernie Wetherup's "braves." It was not without a hard struggle, however, and they still call the T. B. L.

The evening was a gloomy one, and a slight rainstorm deterred many from being present. It was at a late time when the game started, and five innings were played, the "shades of evening" falling fast as the last stanza was finished.

The class of ball played was fully up to the now high standard furnished regularly by the league. The game was a close one, the two teams being tied at the last. It made the pitchers' work no simple task. Gray had the better of the argument in this line owing to superior speed and better control. Suggitt has some artful baseball, however, and a nice drop ball. Gray struck out nine men and "Vic" Suggitt five.

The personnel of the Sylvester team was completely changed, and they played snappy base ball, and broke into the game once more, and contributed his full share to the securing of the victory. Fred Martin and Ernie Sharpe "fod" faces.

The Orientals must have left their home collars and "bats" far behind them last Monday. They played their usual speedy brand of ball, but could not touch Gray at opportune moments.

VICTORS 1, QUAKERS 0

The Quakers gave the Victors a run for their money last week, the league leaders just pulling out one run to the good. Six innings of fast ball were played. Several times the Quakers looked like scoring, but the Victors succeeded in whitewashing them. Stewart pitched a good game for the losers, using a steady ball to the victors. He received fair support. John Spratt had his usual assortment of sniffs, and had fine support. C. Paton and D. Spratt showed up at opportune time for the winners, while McMahon, Hickinbottom and Connell were silver spots on the Quaker line-up.

WIDENAWAKES 3, SYLVESTERS 1

The Widenawakes took a fall out of the Sylvesters last week—the second this year—and are tied for top cellar position with Ernie Wetherup's braves. The latter fought hard last evening, but failed to connect with Hopkins' assortment of "bats." The long slab artist pitched a master of a game and fielded his position well. He worked the "quick delivery" ball to advantage.

The game was, as is now customary in Town League ball, close and well-contested. Five innings were played and even then it was getting dark at the close. Hopkins' worth opened up in the box for the Foundryites and Gray pitched the last two innings.

The Foundryites had Perkins on first, once more and "Pete" Beteau, of Beekey fame, and hailing from the Caspian village, straggled up to the center garden. Gray played second and George Little third. The Widenawakes filled up with McIntyre in left field, Moyes on second, and Westcott short. "Black" Seaton, whom everybody knows, played in center field.

The Widenawakes started in with a vim and secured one run in the first. Ryan scored in the second on a ball that went soaring over Perkins' head, and House brought in the next on a nice drive which carried him to third, and with two out, Hopkins threw wild to third in an attempt to catch Gray off the bag.

The game was interesting from a spectator's standpoint. The rapidly approaching end of the season makes the fight for the first place all the more keen. The Orientals have a long lead, but they have been beaten once, and the other teams think they can duplicate the trick.

Peterboro has four games to play, two against Cobourg in Peterboro, one against Cobourg at Cobourg, and one against Port Hope at Port Hope. Peterboro press think Peterboro have got the league "snapped."

EXPRESS NINE 6, QUAKERS 2

The Express Nine bumped the Quakers good and hard on Thursday, and as a result, they forced the latter to the bottom of the league. The winners played a snappy game throughout, and aided by the losers' many errors, easily won. The Quakers seemed to lose all their ginger after their defeat of the previous evening. Stewart was wild and ineffective.

A UNIQUE DECISION

Catcher Frank Roth, of the Milwaukee Club, tells a story of how an umpire sent him back to bat after making a "tie" call.

"Speaking of funny umpires," says Roth, "the funniest I ever met of, I met in a small town in Illinois, where the team I was with was batting. A couple of years ago, I was at bat, and bunted the ball. I ran my hardest trying to beat the throw to first with the umpire racing after me. I crossed the bag and the umpire gave his decision. When I asked him what he meant, he said, 'Go back and bat over again!'"

"I protested, but it was no use. 'It's a tie, I tell you,' repeated the umpire, and you get another chance.' It was no use and I went back to the plate and struck out."

PETERBORO BEATEN

Cobourg won from Peterboro 6-2 on Saturday last, and the Portage City team are down in third place. The Peterboro team played in their own back yard, 100, but that didn't make any difference to Cobourg, who hit Quinlan for eight safeties. Batters: Peterboro—Quinlan and Burdidge; Cobourg—Leo Downs and Floyd.

IT WAS A RUMOR

The rumor around town that the Y.M.C.A. has dropped out of the league is altogether untrue, as they will be stronger than ever for Wednesday night against the Express Nine.

MAY PLAY IN COLLINGWOOD

Arrangements are being made for the signing of a ball team from Lindsay to Collingwood on August 12th. The W. O. W. run an excursion from Lindsay there that day, and the Sylvester band will compete in a band tournament. Mr. R. Butler has received a letter from the manager of the Collingwood ball team, and a picked team from town will probably be sent.

THE PITCHERS' STANDING

Following is the standing of the pitchers up till the 3rd schedule:

BILL MAKES GOOD

Bill Cinnamon, who is playing ball with Dauphin, Manitoba, has made good with that team, and writes that fast ball is being played in the league. Dauphin is in, Bill not only catches, but has pitched a couple of games. Since his arrival Dauphin has not lost a game. The town is about half Lindsay's size, and pays a total salary of $1000 a month to the players.

A picture post card of the team, received by Mr. R. Butler, contains also the picture of Mr. A. Parkin, formerly of town, who is one of the backers of the Dauphin team.

FOR THE FANS

Capt. Schaffly, of the Maple Leafs, is now batting .300.

It's a neck and neck race between Toronto and Buffalo.

Port Perry may be seen here next week in an exhibition game.

A game might be arranged for Toronto's Civic holiday in town.

The young ladies enjoyed the game as well as the stronger sex.

One more schedule to play, and the Town League will be finished for the season.

Thoney leads the Eastern League batters, with an average of .345 for 68 games.

"Del" Mason, the renowned twirler of the Cincinnati Club, will probably pitch for Toronto.

Ochawa was thrown out of the Midland League for having defaulted a game with Cobourg.

The Peterboro Examiner and Review staffs will play a game of ball of August 12th at 10:15 W.Y.D.

McIntyre, the C. L. S. first baseman, left today for his home in London. The C. L. S. will miss him.

The ball furnished this year has been of the xxx brand. The support from the town citizens has been excellent, also.

Some Cincinnati player is to get a gold watch when he reaches his one hundredth hit. It's a warm race among Mitchell, Lobert and Gansel.

A Baltimore ball scribe roasts the Express Nine, and hints that they are a poor bunch. Are the troubles of the poor baseball referee ever to end?

Pitcher Jacobson, of Boston, is Toronto's latest acquisition. While playing with the Americans he won seven and lost eight games. He gave 35 bases on balls, allowed 153 hits, and his percentage was .467. He fielded .900 and batted .159. He was taken out five times and he relieved five times also.

At Buffalo—Buffalo and Muggsy McGraw's New York National League team played a rip-roaring eleven inning game recently, each side getting one run. The contest was called to allow Buffalo to get to Montreal and New York to Cincinnati. Eastern League ball showed up well along side that of the major league article. Kissinger pitched for Buffalo.

As can be seen, the teams are evenly balanced, and any team has a chance to win out before the season closes.

It looks as though Billy Stalker has dropped out of the game for good and all. Burke has for years kept a check on the youngsters and given his mind with workmanlike Miller, Manzie, McGill and Clonmmon, he was one of the pillars of the Lindsay team when they won the Midland League pennant. As an umpire there was a time when Stalker couldn't be beat in the Midland district. As a catcher he was the candy, and his cheerful "heads up" could be heard all over the field. He had his arm badly hurt recently and will probably give up the game for good.

HAIL TO OZAR CAMERON

Hail to Ozar Cameron of the C. L. A. His action in the Young Toronto protest against Baverston, as revealed at the meeting of the C. L. A. to receive, certainly qualifies him for the title.

Young Toronto protested Baverston because the Checkers played "Mary" Curran, an Orlin boy, who went as far as Vancouver with Jack Miller's tourists, and then returned to the C. L. A. rules are as plain as day on the point. It is plain to anybody the least little bit of intelligence, that by C. L. A. law any player who plays even exhibition games with another club after May 30, "May" played in all the games the tourists played in Canada.

What was to be done? President Cameron of the C. L. A. is a loyal son of Baverston. Something had to be done.

Ozar Cameron obligingly assured Baverston that the Young Toronto protest was irregular. Nobody knows why, and he told the Checkers that they didn't need to put in any defence, or to put up the necessary $25 deposit.

Wasn't that nice of him? But happily for the cause of that blue goddess, Justice, the C. L. A. Executive did not see eye-to-eye with the Ozar, and, therefore, Baverston has a couple of weeks in which to prepare a defence.

And defence seems impossible. Why did Baverston play Curran? Let Baverston suffer for her sin—Toronto Star.

OWEN SOUND FOR PAT

Sporting life was too strenuous in Peterboro for Paddy McDonough, the big home lacrosse player. Pat didn't take any two toll to the trimmings of the Checkers of Niagara, administered to the Electric City, and he has jumped his job with its $300 per. and betaken himself to the wilds of Owen Sound. Life must seem a burden to Pat.

Now that the Tecumsehs went under to the Irishmen by 3-1. Ald. Tom O'Connell, of Montreal, is in the seventh heaven of bliss.

RUNNING

At Burn, the Calgary runner, who won the five-mile championship of Manitoba, at Winnipeg, recently, covered the distance in 27.30 and the track was heavy.

Bonhag, who beat Longboat for a short distance on an indoor track last winter, does not seem particularly anxious to meet the Indian again.

Alfred Shrub, the champion English distance runner, has issued a challenge to Billy Sherring, of Marathon fame, for a race at ten miles or farther. Sherring will not likely meet the Englishman, however, as he promised when he returned from Athens that he would not compete again.

TROTTING

RILEY GRANNAN BROKE

The fate of the race track plunger has come upon Riley Grannan whose meteoric career as the king pin of the betting ring on New York tracks several years ago made him a wonder of the turf world. He is clean broke after a determined effort to renew his shattered fortunes. The zeiry young bookmaker who set the racing men against prior to the great Henry of Navarre-Dominio match race at Gravesend by handing nearly $200,000 on that race alone, when he lost the game from all ends—from making a book to betting from the green and owing and having an interest in horses, but couldn't make the money hold. His conclusion is the conclusion so often stated by men of his class—that this race can't be beaten.

COLF.

For the first time in its history the open golf championship of the British Isles, which has been won by the French champion, won the title one month ago, with a score of 312 strokes for four rounds. His nearest opponent was J. H. Taylor, an ex-champion, with a score of 314. The third place was won by George Burdett, who tied for third place with 317 strokes. The contest was played under adverse weather conditions, and Misses' game was the most reliable of all the competitors. The grand aggregate of Alex. Smith, the American champion, was 333 strokes. He finished twenty-fourth. Smith says that the game in England is harder than in the United States, owing to the difference in the balls used. The winner on on the basis, there can be no possible doubt about that. He is a brilliant player, more brilliant than almost anybody believed him to be, and he has played at the top of

Who Is the "Man Behind" Lindsay Counterfeiters? Asks The Toronto World.

(To-day's "Toronto World" contains the following criticism of the recent trial of counterfeiters conducted here, combined with an enumeration of salient points likely to prove of interest to our readers:

Lindsay, July 28.—(Special).—The Lindsay counterfeiters case bids fair to rival the recent case of Orangeville as a shining example how not to do it. There are many things about it that invite enquiry, and the kind of enquiry that leads to criticism.

In the first place it is evident that the counterfeit bills were not made by Burke and Logie, as alleged. It has been said that they were crude affairs, which could deceive nobody. But so far from this being true, the fact is that some of the bills are exceedingly good. A World correspondent examined one of the lot. It is a trifle greasy to the touch; otherwise it is perfect, so far as any layman can observe.

True, this particular note was selected from several hundred specimens, but a man can afford to throw away any number of counterfeit bills, and if he could make one like this he could make others. That such a counterfeit could be made by a couple of farmers in a woodshed by the light of a lantern and the aid of a letter press seems ridiculous. Indeed, Burke and Logie now admit that the "Graders" Bank bills were made in Toronto.

Who made them? Who is the man behind—the directing intelligence?

Burke's occupation in life has been operating a sawmill. He is uneducated and without any knowledge of engraving. It is suggested that these counterfeit bank bills came from some one else, and that Burke was merely one of many agents for their distribution.

If his incredible story be true, that he bought the paper, ink, press, etc., and manufactured the stuff, then it is not fair to enquire "Where is the press? Where did he get the paper? Whom was he dealing with?"

It is given out that three years ago the Dominion police traced counterfeit bills to Lindsay. There was an investigation, but influence was brought to save some persons from arrest. Apparently nothing was done towards destroying the press, plates and other outfit. If any, in fact, were to be found in Lindsay.

There seems to have been a carnival of blunders all along the line. Men were arrested with a flourish of trumpets who could not, and would not, run away. The publicity gave the smooth and dangerous criminal a week's start. These men who could not escape were arrested, brought before magistrates, and their cases disposed of practically without any examination.

The method taken in Miller's case is typical. He was confronted with Burke and Logie, who had neither him of complicity. Instead of causing the three men, the accusers and accused, to talk it out, a detective read to Miller from a book what purported to be the statements of Burke and Logie, and he was asked if the charges were true.

When the provincial government sent down an assistant to the local crown attorney, who was selected, DuVernet? Shepley? E. E. Johnston? Some expert in the art of criminal litigation? No, a very capable, estimable, legal gentleman from office of the attorney-general was selected, but one with little experience as a trial lawyer.

Without commenting upon organizing color to mere rumors, the situation is not unfairly summed up as follows:

1. Three years ago Lindsay was found to be the head-quarters of counterfeiters and the matter was dropped.

2. After three years the police again find counterfeiters at Lindsay. A few poor men plead guilty, but the plates and press they pretend to have operated with are not produced.

3. The trials were not made use of to probe deep. The Dominion government had no counsel nor can it be learned that the banks employ ed any, to advise the crown, nor did the provincial government bring out anything beyond the uncontradicted confessions of the accused containing such absurdly impossible statements as the making of first-class counterfeit bills with no press but a letter press.

4. The place of trial was chosen at the locality most favorable to the accused, who were brought before magistrates who had known them personally for years and surrounded by a community openly sympathetic.

It will now be of interest to see whether the powerful influence heretofore so effective will be able to shorten the terms of Burke and Logie in the penitentiary. If not, will they have something more to say?

Meanwhile it might be well to find and destroy the presses and presses used by Burke and Logie.

But did they ever use any? If not, who did?

The Dominion police state that two or three years ago they discovered that counterfeit bills were being put out at Lindsay. At that time there was an investigation, and several persons were threatened with arrest. It is generally believed that the matter was hushed up through some influence at that time, but it is now evident from the statements of the authorities and from the testimony of Burke, Logie and others, that some of them at least, were putting out counterfeit money at Lindsay in 1905, who were recently arrested and prosecuted for the same crime in 1907.

The Watchman and Warder, Lindsay, it is true, eulogizes Mr. Bayley, as follows:

"If Mr. Edward Bayley be a fair sample of the class of men that the present Ontario Government purposes sending out to assist in crown cases, it would appear as if both the government and the dignity of the law would gain materially in public estimation. In the minds of most people there is a certain ideal as to what a crown prosecutor should be. There is a feeling that the whole force of the crown should not necessarily be to secure a conviction at any cost, but rather that the first and largest consideration should be the furtherance of the ends of justice."

But does the record justify any great amount of congratulation? Seven men were arrested, of whom five pleaded guilty on the go off. Of the seven, two received substantial punishment; two got a nominal sentence of a month in jail apiece; the other three got off. That is to say the crown convicted some of the men who pleaded guilty.

Many of the accused, as soon as arrested, began to confess. Their statements were taken down and apparently believed without investigation and acted upon by the crown. The story put up by the defence was in substance this:

That the counterfeit money was made in a barn or woodshed belonging to Logie, from a plate furnished by Burke; that the work was done mainly after night by the light of a lantern, and that the press used was an ordinary letter press. There was little or no effort to learn who manufactured the plate, Burke merely stating that he got it from a man whose name he had never known. There was no effort upon cross-examination to show whether Burke or Logie or either of them possessed the knowledge or skill to manufacture any counterfeit money. Both are entirely uneducated men, and it was evident from Logie's testimony that he thought the entire manufacture consisted of rubbing a paraffin candle on bills already prepared.

The impression had been given out that the counterfeiters were so crude as to deceive nobody, and that they were about the kind of bills a farmer could make with a hatchet. This is entirely erroneous. Some of the bills would deceive an ordinary layman.

Another curious thing is this. If these farmers had some plant for making counterfeit money, where is it? No press or plate was ever produced in court, nor, so far as anyone here knows, were any such paraphernalia ever destroyed. People are asking, "Is the press still running?"

It is, therefore, apparent that the authorities had a good thing in their favor to look to a boy, who was found by the police in their possession a few weeks ago at Montreal. The only person to be arrested not named by Eydeigh was Miller. There was testimony against him given by Burke and Logie, but it was so conflicting and inconsistent that it was not taken from the bench as "tainted." The question now being asked by Mr. Miller and his friends is this: "Who was screened by Burke and Logie, and what influences, if any, were brought to bear upon them?"

It is form all through the competition, being perfectly steady and consistent all the time. There is really no pronounced peculiarity about the winner's play. It is simply fine golf, and what golf ought to be.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

WONDERFUL PEAT

London Referee: Stupendous is the only word which can adequately describe the performance of Selwyn Francis Edge on the new motor track at Brooklands, near Weybridge. Mr. Edge made it known that he intended to travel round the track for twenty-four hours at an average speed of sixty miles an hour. The total distance to be traversed being 1440 miles. Not only did Mr. Edge do this, but when "time was up" it was found that Mr. Edge's six-cylinder Napier had compassed a distance of 1,581 miles, 1310 yards, at an average speed of 24 hours of 35 miles, 1,594 yards.

Lindsay's Civic holiday is on the 8th of August.

AGED RESIDENT OF SOMERVILLE ATTACKED BY ENRAGED BULL.

On Monday afternoon last Mr. Edward Hopkins, of Somerville, one of the best known and most popular residents of the township, narrowly escaped fatal injury by being trampled and tossed by an infuriated bull. His escape was due to the bravery of his daughter.

Mr. Hopkins essayed to drive the animal from a field near the barn to one adjoining. The bull turned on him without warning, knocked him down, and had already trampled him before the daughter became aware of her father's dangerous position. With true filial devotion and remarkable self-possession she ran to her father's aid with a heavy club, with which she labored the bull until he turned and ran away.

Mr. Hopkins escaped with a broken rib and a number of painful bruises.

General Says Procedure in Countering Case Was Wrong.

In view of the refusal of one of the counsel at the recent trial of Lindsay counterfeiters to allow his client to take his stand in the dock, when giving evidence, in which refusal he was sustained by the magistrates trying the case, it is interesting to note a memorandum from the Department of the Attorney-General for Ontario calling attention to the "uncertainty" regarding the cases in which defendants when on trial must stand in the dock, and suggests that it is "desirable that the practice should be definitely settled." In Archbold's Criminal Pleading, 23rd ed., p. 188, the rule is thus expressed: "No trial for felony can be had except in the presence of the defendant, and he must, it is said, stand in the dock to be tried," citing Regina v. St. George, 9 C. & P. 483; Regina v. Zulutis, 1 C. & K. 215; 1 Cox. 20. In Roscoe's Criminal Evidence, 12th ed., page 171, it is said: "In all cases of felony the prisoner must take his place within the dock." As under the Criminal Code, cases are no longer divided into felonies and misdemeanors, it is suggested that the reasonable course would be to hold that the rule as to the prisoner standing in the dock should apply in all cases where, on conviction, the punishment may be as much as five years' imprisonment. It is not pointed out in the departmental memorandum, but it is the fact, that the present Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and the late Mr. Justice Ross adopted the rule now suggested immediately after the coming into force of the Criminal Code.

SHE SUES FOR $10,000.

Action Entered by Manvers Lady Against Lindsay Business Firm.

Peterboro Review: A writ has been issued in the High Court by Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon, of this city, acting at the instance of Mrs. Mary Gremes, of Manvers township, against the Ryder-Kitchener Company, Limited, vendor manufacturers of Lindsay, claiming $10,000 on account of the death of her husband. It appears that some months ago he fell into a vat of boiling water, and was so severely scalded that he died a few hours afterwards.

The weak woman can depend upon it that her blood is out of order, for if her blood is rich and pure she will be strong, healthy and happy. Bad blood is the cause of nearly all the aches and pains from which women suffer. Keep the blood rich and red by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and suffering will not exist. Mrs. James R. Kratz, of Jordan Station, Ont., has tested the value of these Pills, and strongly advises other women to use them. She says: "For more than a year I was a great sufferer from weakness. I was completely worn out. I lost flesh, could not rest at night, and in the morning I arose more tired than on going to

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUG. 2nd, '07

THE LESSON FROM LINDSAY.

(From To-day's Toronto World.)

The Gaoler at Lindsay (brings us face to face with a grave danger, and it brings the government of this country face to face with a great responsibility.

Our people accept the federal notes and the notes of the chartered banks as and for money. They cheerfully take them to full requisit for merchandise and labor. They accept them, not because they know much about banking or finance, but because they feel that the Dominion government is behind them and that they are protected by the Banking Act and the Dominion departments of justice and finance. People will not use paper money unless it is protected from counterfeiting. To be in anxiety and doubt respecting the genuineness of every bank note received in the course of business and in the transactions of daily life, is a condition that is intolerable. The public can not afford it; they will not submit to it, even though they be driven to a coin circulation. The Dominion government can not afford such a condition; neither can the chartered banks.

Yet, if counterfeiters caught pushing out spurious money are to be released with suspended sentences, and to some pass with sentences no more severe than those daily imposed upon "common drunkards," if it is freely stated that certain men were saved from arrest by "influence" and that others were prosecuted without sufficient evidence, while the real criminals made their escape; if our baneful efforts are put forth to get the whole affair and the trials are hurried through before local magistrates with natural sympathy for the persons accused; if, finally, the press and the plates used by the counterfeiters are neither looked for nor destroyed; can it be wondered at if counterfeiting becomes more common?

It is recognized in the United States—where, as a rule, criminal laws are not so well enforced as they might be—that the temptation to counterfeit paper currency is so great and the profits are so enormous that unceasing vigilance is required. A permanent secret service force in that country is maintained by the federal government and all bank bills are printed by that government. When a counterfeit is caught, he is not tried by a local magistrate, but by a United States judge and jury at the capital or chief city of the State.

To counterfeit money is the most insidious and dangerous offense against civil government. To treat it as a mere misdemeanor is wrong. To let a notorious case of extensive counterfeiting go without full investigation is intolerable. The Dominion government must afford it and allow every case of counterfeiting to the end. The provincial authorities must do the same. Can the banks afford to do less?

A WAVE OF TEMPERANCE.

The man who said, "There is good whiskey, and better whiskey, but no bad whiskey," had more than half of the population of Kentucky at his back not long ago, and in most of the Southern States drinking was a very general habit until recently. The prohibitionist was the exception. But now Kentucky has "gone dry," disappointing most of the prophets, and an unprecedented wave of temperance sentiment, and legislation is sweeping over a vast area of country where formerly a majority of the male population had a weakness for whiskey. Kentucky is perhaps the most striking example of the new order of things, for the Blue Grass state was long the most famous in the union for its brands of "red liquor." Yet to-day ninety out of 119 Kentucky counties are "no license."

Moreover, as Edward Lissner explains in Harper's Weekly, the whole State of Tennessee, as well, is dry, save for the cities of Memphis, Nashville and Chattanooga. In the dry portions no alcoholic beverages may be bought—not even a glass of beer or claret with dinner. The State of Texas, according to reliable information, contains ninety counties that have abolished saloons; North Carolina, Mississippi and other states of the South tell the same story; and one may travel up and down the rural parts of Kentucky and Tennessee without finding one bar or cross-roads saloon. As a result, says Mr. Lissner, politicians in the South have come to a realization that the prohibition movement in their region is one which must be taken with the utmost seriousness. "The politico-temperance crusade," he remarks, "with its new life and energy, constitutes the most startling development in Southern politics to-day." The politicians will give the people all sorts of temperance legislation if they discover that it is the way to get votes and hold on to office. Whether or not temperance legislation will mean temperance must depend upon the will of the people themselves. If a great majority of the population in a large and populous territory should prove that they are determined to get along without saloons, licensed or unlicensed, there should be little or no demand for whiskey. But if temperance legislation means merely a political move to gratify the temperance element and the laws are not enforced because they have an overwhelming public sentiment behind them, the South will not be any more sober than it was before. The movement in the South is being watched with keen interest throughout the United States. As a rule a whole nation of a nation does not change its habits in one year or ten. Its laws are another matter.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Montreal Star is shocking the conservative elders by speaking of the grafting and grabbing of the party.

Toronto bakers and dealers convicted of selling short-weight bread have paid $275 in fines, bakers paying $25 apiece, and dealers $5. An effort will be made to have the law amended to enable municipalities to fix a standard weight of loaf.

The Toronto Street Railway Company and its men have signed a two-year agreement, the net result of which is to add $84,000 a year to the wage bill, the men getting an advance of 2 cents an hour. An excellent spirit seems to have prevailed on both sides.

It is a good sign, says the Ottawa Free Press, when the Canadian oil-polluters in convention assembled, decide not to pass any bills of an immoral character, and bind themselves to fine any member who violates such an agreement. That is the kind of a combine which Canada needs.

The Presbyterian says that the speech of Mayor Coatsworth on the Twelfth of July was disgraceful. After its treatment of Police Magistrate Wooddyatt, surely the Whitney government will not allow a man guilty of "disgraceful" language in public to become one of its candidates in a Toronto hive, remarks the Kingston Whig.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that there has been a depreciation of New York State's farming lands to the amount of $170,000,000, and that 12,000 farms have been abandoned, through no fault of the soil, but from a disposition of the young population to seek the cities, and when the old people die the farm is left to itself. The department proposes to send lecturers through the country to explain to the farmers, and especially to their children, how more money can be made out of the farm. The secretary thinks that the system of keeping the hired men all year round would improve matters. And that is something Canadian farmers would do well to think about.

Chicago Weekly American: As an example of the marvelous rapidity of development in the Canadian West, the new city of Calgary, Alberta, may be cited. But a few years ago it was not known even as a name. Now it is going through all the motions of a real city. Last month a thorough police census of the place was entered upon, the results of which were made known on July 18. By this it appears that the population of Calgary is twenty-one thousand and forty, of which three thousand and three hundred and forty-one are children under fourteen years. This is a remarkable showing, but it is typical of the new towns that have sprung up as if by magic among the golden grain fields of Western Canada.

In a report to the Washington Bureau of Manufactures Mr. Geo. N. Liff, the United States consul at Ann Arbor, says that high-priced meat has greatly increased the consumption of horse and dog flesh throughout the German Empire, especially in the densely populated industrial centres. During 1906 12,922 horses and 8,736 dogs were slaughtered for food in the Kingdom of Saxony; this is an increase of 224 horses and 313 dogs over 1905. In all Germany, during 1906, 182,000 horses were slaughtered for food, an increase of about 20,000 over 1905, and of about 47,000 over 1904. While we are often told about the poverty in Britain, which our Tory friends attribute to the want of protection to make food dearer, we never heard of them eating either horse or dog flesh, nor partaking of a puppy stew. That delicacy appears to be reserved for the highly protected workman on the continent.

Peterboro Examiner: It cannot be urged that the sentences imposed upon the Lindsay counterfeiters are unduly severe. In view of the interests affected, many persons think they are unduly lenient. We must have our money, like Caesar's wife, above suspicion. We may stand water and embalm in fluid in our milk, and in our sugar, and other forms of spuriousness, but our money must be sound, and worth its face value.

A few days ago we had a lurid story from San Francisco about the arrest of a Japanese caught sketching the (refugee) details at Fort Rosecrans. He was said to have a load of plans and photographs, and to have made desperate efforts to escape. Now it is learned that there was a Japanese arrested on suspicion, but that he turned out to be a restaurant waiter; that he did not know the why of his being detained, and that nothing more incriminating was found upon him than a common blank memorandum pad used in his everyday work. The effort made to create by falsehood a bitter feeling between Japan and the United States is a disgrace to an intelligent people. And some New York papers and press agencies are just as guilty as the San Francisco gutter press.

Peterboro Examiner, Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, has been doing everything in his power to bring back Quebec into line. It must have been discouraging to him to have Mr. Sam Hughes declaring in the House that "French priests were a curse to Canada." His efforts, however, have not met with great success. The triumphal progress of Laurier, necessarily, through Quebec, shows that that province is still true to Laurier. For this there is good reason, aside from the negative reasons implied in the violent language of Mr. Sam Hughes, and the sweeping statement of Mr. Sproule, to the effect that the whole Quebec parliamentary delegation is venal and corrupt. With such lieutenants, high up in the party, taking such attitudes, and others equally high showing restiveness, to put it most mildly, under Mr. Borden's leadership, makes his task rather a difficult and discouraging one.

THE ALLANDALE PARROT.

Bird Known to Many Travellers Dies of Old Age.

Many travellers over the Northern Division of the Grand Trunk will remember the late Ed. Meeking, who, ten years ago, was the jovial and rotund proprietor of the refreshment rooms at Allandale station. Mr. Meeking had a parrot, which only recently died of old age, and this sagacious bird was the hero of a little incident over which the citizens of Barrie and its railway suburb still chuckle when they recall it. The parrot was a great talker, and was quick at picking up and rehearsing the many sounds of a busy railway junction.

One summer morning as the engineer of a northbound train waited in his cab for the order to pull out, he heard the familiar call of "All aboard for North Bay" followed by the command, "All right, Mike; go ahead." He unhesitatingly obeyed, only to discover when he reached Barrie, a mile away, that the conductor was not on hand, but that Polly had assumed his proxy.

The train had to run back to Allandale for the conductor, and thereafter engine drivers were careful not to start their trains without making certain that their orders proceeded were given by the proper official.

A TRIP WORTH TAKING

Party of Young Men Enjoyed a Delightful Cruise.

A vacation in the city, or on a farm can be thoroughly enjoyable, but a water trip in a gasoline yacht—especially if that yacht is the Arrow—a real jolly vacation can't be beaten. So think Messrs. Fred G. Perria, of Oakwood; Ivan Tompkins, of Sarnia; Alvin G. Gould, of Fenelon Falls; and Neil McFadden, Dick Butler, Bill Moggridge and Jack Gray, of Lindsay. In the latter's trim little gasoline launch the party completed the tour of the Kawartha Lakes in this vicinity, going from Lindsay to Pigeon Lake, thence back to Rosedale and through the Kirkfield lift-locks to Beaverton and Ojibwa, and return. They got back Saturday evening.

Break Up Your Old Meadows.

Minden Echo: Farmers will, this year, see the need of breaking up their old meadows, perhaps more than ever, as the hay crop is very light where the meadows have been allowed to stand year after year. New meadows are showing in most places, splendid crops, clearly demonstrating the fact that it does not pay to neglect the fields. Grain crops are also much better where the land has been kept in a good state of cultivation. It pays to fertilize and plow frequently, as many farmers have proved by good crops on land that would scarcely yield decent thistles under the one plowing system.

GAOLER AT LINDSAY FOR FORTY YEARS

What an Evening Post Reporter Cleaned as a Result of a Brief Visit to Victoria County's Stone Home of Detention—Diet of Prisoners—Gaoler Jackson's Reminiscences.

Evening Post of July 21

A gaol, by the average person, is looked upon as a place of irksome confinement, iron bars and bread and water diet. From the castle prisons of the French Bastille and the Tower of London to the American Sing Sing prison, all are regarded with a feeling akin to dread—by the outsider.

The Lindsay gaol, with its iron-barred windows and high stone walls, has the appearance from the exterior of a very unpromising dwelling place. When inside, however, the awesome feeling is not so strong—one becomes used to massive oak doors with ponderous locks, iron-railed bedrooms and corridors, and other evidences of security.

Last evening a Post reporter was taken the rounds of the gaol by the affable gaoler, Mr. Andrew Jackson. In view of its recent connection with the counterfeiting case, a description will be interesting.

HOPE LEFT BEHIND.

A feeling of complete separation from the outer world pervades one on first hearing the entrance door close behind him. Turning to the right, and going down a short flight of stairs into the basement, a commodious kitchen gives everything a more home-like aspect. Here Gaoler Jackson pointed out a prisoner busy with needle and thread, making suits of the prison garb, one leg being of dark cloth and other of dull yellow in color. "Our tailor," said Mr. Jackson with an explanatory laugh, "turning once more to the left, the scene was led into an open yard—or rather a lawn—enclosed with high brick walls. This yard is used by the inmates of the gaol for recreation and exercising purposes. A doorway in the north wall communicates with another yard of small dimensions, previously used by juvenile inmates of the gaol. The door between the yards has been removed to prevent prisoners from escaping by climbing up on the door and scaling the walls. Two Richardson brothers, awaiting trial for grand larceny. Mr. Jackson informed the reporter, escaped in this way years ago, but were recaptured later. A third yard, to the north, is the wood yard, and here the prisoners are sometimes employed.

PRISONERS' QUARTERS.

Entering the gaol from the rear, the Post man was shown the corridors and cells in which the prisoners are confined. To the north Gaoler Jackson opened a corridor—the one in which Bouyer and Wynne are confined. The prisoners were inside and appeared light-hearted, laughing and chatting with their gaoler. The corridor is of considerable size, enabling the inmates to move around. On one side sleeping cells, or bunks, are arranged. The prisoners go to bed in the summer time at eight, and at seven in winter. The beds are not uncomfortable, being composed of a mattress on a spring wire netting, with suitable bed clothes. The iron doors of the sleeping rooms are locked at night.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER.

THE DROONIN' O' THE CAT.

My mistress has a fine black cat
That might have been a chief.
'Twas big an' bonnie, sleek an' fat,
But just as awful thief.
The maister likt plenty game—
Grouse, patricks, pheasants fine;
So did the cat, Nick was his name,
On fowl who aft did dine.

"Noo, if ye'll tak' that revin' cat,"
My mistress said, and droon
I'll give either a new hat
Or else a half a croon.
I'm free to own that scarce weel hats,
And as for half a croon,
I'd wilit be to bag six cats
For sic a prize and droon.

I put him in a pillow-slip Aside a weelby chair;
On street car took canalward trip,
Sich row he did upkirk!
But he was in a basket pent,
While lauched at me the folk;
Of course ilk yin o' them weel kent
What was within the poke.

To leave the ear I was right glad,
Syne hadna far to gang,
'Til soon be rid of you, my iad,
To live ye havna lang.
I lookt round so very quick;
But nae yin could I see.
The basket opened, out popt Nick—
A splash and doon went he.

I joist had time to look around
And shut the basket lid,
I heard a voice and almost swooned
Fie! what a yell he did!
A hand upon my shoulder lay—
"Police-man's tait and stout—
"What's that ye've done," I heard him say.

"What hae ye been aboot?"
A lightnin' thocht flashed through my mind.
"He'll mak' o' this a case—
Afore the court mysel' I'll find;
I'll hae a charge to face."
He askt me with searchin' sneer
"What's that ye threw in there?
I doot it's something queer
That gars ye that way stare."

"Hae mercy on me an' I'll tell!"
I feel sae doolily sick—
But presently I was gey weel,
For out crawled dear, black Nick.
"That's what I threw in the can—
A lang three miles I came;
Gude night to you, police-man tait,
I think I'll noo gang hame!"

The mistress was as gude's her word;
Giv' me weel woa half croon;
Next morn the deevil's maw, she heard—
He's crossed ower half the town.

A dark room for incorrigible prisoners was the next place inspected, and caged cold chicks to run down the cat's back. The room is seldom occupied, its very presence having a salutary effect on too lively prisoners. The corridor on the first floor facing the south was the one occupied by Chas. Burke and Robert Logan, now in penitentiary. It is almost identical with the other corridors, but the bedrooms are a little larger. Ordinarily the bedrooms are little larger than the bed. "So they won't fall out," remarked the gaoler.

Higher up in the gaol, facing the south and fitted with narrow graded windows, is the corridor, occupied by Miller and Gostlin, who were acquitted. In the remotest story is a corridor in which old people and sick prisoners are confined. A stove here makes the corridor more comfortable looking.

With its six corridors, twenty-four prisoners can be accommodated in the gaol. In each corridor the prisoners are together, and can chat or in other ways while away the time.

THE BILL-OF-FARE.

Meals are served regularly, and two kinds are served—one for hard labor and the other for ordinary confinement. The ordinary course is:

Breakfast—One pint gruel of oatmeal or Indian corn, eight ounces of bread with syrup.

Dinner—Four ounces cooked meat, eight ounces bread, eight ounces of potatoes, one pint of gruel or vegetables.

Supper—One pint of gruel, eight ounces of bread, syrup and pea cake.

With hard labor, eight ounces of meat are served for dinner, instead of four ounces. On Sunday extra dainties are served.

GAOLER FOR 40 YEARS.

The universally respected gaoler, Mr. Jackson, has been some 40 years in charge of the local gaol. During that period many criminals have been under his jurisdiction, and his reminiscences are varied and interesting. Of murders he can recall Jack Kearney, who some years ago killed an old man named Agnew; a man named Finnegan, who ran a tavern in this vicinity, and killed a relative. Another murderer named English was also confined there, and a date, "1873," painted on the wall in the central yard, is pointed out by the gaoler to inquisitive visitors. At the spot where a noted murderer was hanged, Mr. Jackson also distinctly remembers rowdy Bill Montgomery, whose ruffianly acts terrorized the entire district some years ago. To see and similar recollections made conversation with the Governor at Lindsay gaol—or "Castle Jackson" as it is humorously termed—something to be relished and remembered.

Turnkey Mort Andrews, Gaoler Jackson's efficient assistant, has been in charge of the gaol while the gaoler was holidaying among the Thousand Islands. He has had considerable experience and is a thoroughly reliable man.

With two such capable men, the gaol is kept in ideal condition. The lawns and trees surrounding the gaol bear testimony to the fact.

"That's shairly Nick come back again,"
I tellt very quick—
"In the canal he sank like stone, Weel-watched wi' a brick."

He ne'er got in the hoose agin,
Chased him yin aye awa;
Tho' 'twas in his weel was fain;
He had to bide the law.
He never stole another bird,
Fave pantry coors—the loon!
And monie yin frac me he's heard
The tale o' the half-croon.

BUCCY VERSUS CANOE.

Some people say the proper place
To win your girl and woo
Is 'neath the moon upon the lake
In your little cuts canoe.

But I've a better scheme than that—
I'll tell that scheme to you—
A stylish horse and buggy; don't
That beat your cuts canoe?

I'll wash my buggy up to-night,
To make it shine I'll strive;
To-morrow Sunday—I will take
My sweetheart for a drive.

The fairest girl in Tattletown,
The dearest girl alive;
We've got so now we never miss
Our Sunday evening drive.

Along the quiet country roads
My darling doth connive
To take this reins—there's nothing like
A Sunday evening drive!

I put my arm around her waist—
I could not well drive Myself of rights belonging to
Our Sunday evening drive.

(You couldn't put your arm around
Her waist—you know it's true—
You've got to just behave yourself
When you're out in a canoe.

Besides, there is resemblance
'Twixt a girl and a canoe;
They're both of them uppittin'
Sometimes—ah, me, how true!

The God of Love would fain be He'd know not what to do,
If the only weapon that he had
Was a liddy-wink canoe.

To-morrow's Sunday—day of late—
May my soul revive!
I'll hop the question when ye tak'
Our Sunday evening drive.

Rathbun Branch at Bancroft.

The Bancroft Times says: We have it on good authority that the Rathbun Company, of Deseronto, are contemplating the erection of a big factory—one of the biggest of its kind in Ontario—in this village. They have not yet decided on a site, but it will be either near the dam, or close to the sawmill. They intend to close up their business in Deseronto and move all the machinery away.

Telegraphy Opens the Way

TO A SUCCESSFUL LIFE

Several thousand Telegraph Operators will be required by the various Railway companies within the next nine months.

ON AUGUST 1st, I will open a School in Lindsay, to be known as the

National School of Telegraphy

Board here is reasonable, and all ordinary students should graduate here within six months. Write or see me for terms. The greatest and most successful managers of to-day have, with rare exception, risen from the ranks of the operators.

Salaries of operators run from $50 to $80 per month, according to the importance of the position. Operators who are Agents, make from $60 to $100 per month, and are always eligible for promotion. Lady operators for commercial work are in great demand.

Qualifications necessary are few but absolutely essential, viz: a common school education, strict sobriety, honesty, industry and carefulness.

Sir William C. Van Horne, of C.P.R. fame, began his railway career as an operator, so did J. W. Leonard, C. W. Spencer, Geo. C. Jones, and scores of others, all now holding high positions.

Address NATIONAL SCHOOL OF TELEGRAPHY, Lindsay, Ontario.

BIG LEGAL FIGHT ON

Struggle Between Dominion Coal and Steel.

VAN HORNE WAS SUSPICIOUS

Says He Mistrusted President Ross—Was the Steel Company Justified in Refusing Coal and Was the Coal Company Justified in Breaking Contract?—The Main Issues—Sir William on the Stand.

Sydney, N. S., July 31.—The legal struggle between the two great corporations—the Dominion Steel and the Dominion Coal—to decide whether the Steel Company was justified in breaking its contract with the Coal Company, began yesterday. There was a large attendance in court, Judge Longley is presiding. Hon. Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., of Toronto, is leading counsel for the Steel Company, and H. A. Lovitt, K.C., of Halifax, for the Coal interests.

The feature of yesterday's evidence was that given by Sir William Van Horne, who, in telling of his connection with the companies, acknowledged that he distrusted President Ross (head of both companies).

"My feeling against Mr. Ross was caused by an old business transaction. Superficially we have been on friendly terms. I felt I had been cheated by Mr. Ross. The merits were all on my side," said Sir William. Trouble between them dated back eight years.

"I have been heart and soul with the Coal Company. My trouble with Mr. Ross made me feel I could not trust the Coal Company to the mercies of Mr. Ross."

"I was with the Steel people because I believe they were in the right. Before the contract we made enquiries as to the quality of the coal necessary for the making of steel."

W. F. White, general manager of the National Trust, declared that consent had never been given to either of the contending companies for the cancellation of the contract.

F. P. Jones, general manager of the Steel Company since 1901, said that just prior to October, 1903, the date of the contract, there were five collieries on the Phelan seam. So long as the Steel Company was getting coal from the Coal Company there were no other mines known to be on the Phelan seam. The greater portion of the coal supplied before the contract came from these five. There was no official notice given to designate any particular seam. The coal at first was fairly well adapted for steel purposes. In the autumn of 1904, they sent coal which he refused because it was slack. About 30 cars were rejected and the Coal Company took them all back. Some coal that came designated as No. 2 run of mine, was not run of mine at all, but slack.

Elections in Philippines.

Manila, July 31.—The independence factions that united in the campaign under the name of the Nationalists, appear to have won the general election held throughout the islands yesterday.

No Bail for Pettibone.

Boise, Idaho, July 31.—Formal application was made in the District Court yesterday to have George A. Pettibone admitted to bail. The motion was submitted without argument, and was promptly denied by Judge Wood. It was announced that bond for Charles H. Meyer would be ready by noon. It is in course of preparation, and will be signed by Timothy Reagan, president of the First National Bank of Boise. The bond is guaranteed by $25,000 cash on deposit by the Bate, Mont., local of the Western Federation of Miners.

Prohibition Bill Adopted.

Atlanta, Ga., July 31.—The Hardman-Covington prohibition bill passed by the Senate some days ago, was adopted by the House last night by a vote of 139 to 39.

Two amendments made yesterday permit the sale of alcohol by wholesale druggists on the prescription of a reputable physician, and also allows wholesale druggists to carry pure alcohol in stock for sale to retailers only.

The new law is to become effective Jan. 1, 1908.

Guide to Mariners.

Kingston, July 31.—The Government has established a steel cylindrical gas buoy, painted red and surmounted by a pyramidal steel frame, supporting a lantern on the southern side of the Northport shoal, in the Bay of Quinte.

Schmitz Still Mayor.

San Francisco, July 31.—Eugene Schmitz, the convicted mayor, has made appointments to fill the vacancies created by the forced resignations of fourteen members of the board of supervisors.

He was seen to run along the top of the train with his clothing ablaze until he was blinded and exhausted. Then he fell between two of the cars and was crushed.

Buffalo, N.Y., July 31.—Invitations have been extended by the committee in charge of Canadian Day (Sept. 4) of the Buffalo old home week, to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Mayor of Toronto and the Mayor of Hamilton to deliver addresses and review those Canadian troops which may take part in the program arranged for this day.

Invasion of Anglers. A jovial bunch of a dozen anglers from Pennsylvania are quartered at the Iroquois. They hail from Greenburg and Lutzrobe, and their destination is Kawartha Lakes district. "We are getting the habit more and more on the west side of the line, striking for somewhere, in Ontario, for our fishing jaunts," one of the party remarked last night. "A few years ago we used to think we'd get it to go away from home, but we are becoming educated to the fact that the real angler's paradise is further up north."

Interesting Paragraphs. "Children," says Professor Star, of Congo exploration fame, who is lecturing in Chicago, "Should wear no clothes until ten years old." Evidently the Professor never went canoeing up the Saugoy river, else he would be aware that in this part of Ontario, at least, his theory is being improved on to the extent that men, as well as boys, disport themselves every evening on the river bank without clothing, and unashamed.

A question has arisen as to the qualification of chauffeurs. A locomotive engineer, before he can run an engine, must serve years of apprenticeship as a fireman and pass an examination as to his eyesight. Even a stationary engineer requires certain qualifications before he can legally run an engine. The chauffeur, however, a few weeks picking up pointers and learning how to run an auto, or up on top of a truck, or on narrow streets and the highways and byways and send the machine flying at a pace that beats even the express trains.

(Cleveland Leader.) "Let me kiss those tears away!" he begged tenderly. She fell for it, and he was busy for the next fifteen minutes. And yet the tears flowed on. "Can nothing stop them?" he asked, desperately. "Nope," she murmured. "It's his fever, you know, but go on with the treatment."

Limiting the Spending.

The bill limiting the expenses of candidates in New York state for public office is now a law. No man may now, as one did last fall, spend a quarter of a million dollars in the endeavor to purchase the chief executive office of the state. Candidates for the governorship are limited to $10,000 in expenses; for other state officials to $6,000; for Congress or presidential elector, $4,000; for state senator, $2,000; for assemblyman, $1,000. A sliding scale of expenses based on the number of voters applies to candidates for county, city town or village places. Violation of this act is made a misdemeanor by the code.

BAD ACCIDENT IN MARIPOSA.

TWO MEN INJURED WHILE RIGGING A HAY-FORK.

Scaffold Cave Way and They Fell Thirty-Five Feet.

A few minutes after 1 o'clock on Wednesday a serious accident occurred at the farm of Mr. John Sluggert, north of Graham's church, on the north-western boundary, as a result of which Mr. A. Switzer, of Cameron, and Mr. Henry Sluggert, sustained severe injuries.

The two men had been engaged by Mr. Wes. Brethour, implement agent, of this town, to erect a track for a new hay fork in Mr. Sluggert's barn, and while at work up near the peak of the roof the scaffold on which they were standing, gave way, precipitating them to the barn floor below—a distance of 35 feet. Sluggert suffered serious injuries to his head and back; Switzer's left leg was broken at the ankle, both bones being fractured, head and face were cut, and his back injured.

Dr. White, of town, was apprized of the accident by telephone and made a quick run to the Sluggert home in his auto through a driving rainstorm, covering the distance of about five miles in 20 minutes. Switzer was removed to Ross Hospital, town, during the afternoon. Just how badly the men are injured was not known at time of going to press with this issue.

C.P.R. OFFICIALS WERE HERE.

President Shaughnessy and Party on a Visit of Inspection.

The distinguished party of C.P.R. officials, on their annual visit of inspection, arrived in Lindsay last night about six o'clock. There were on board Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the C.P.R.; J. W. Leonard, (formerly of Lindsay), general manager of the road; J. R. Osborne, general superintendent; J. R. Nelson, division superintendent; R. Carmichael, trainmaster of the division; D. J. McDonald, roadmaster; R. B. Angus and W. D. Matthews, directors of the road. There were at the station to meet the distinguished visitors, Mayor Veoman, Ald. Rea and Messrs. Stewart, Elyle, Carew, D. Ray and others, representing the Town Council and the Board of Trade. The visitors were escorted to backs in waiting and were driven around the town. Sir Thomas and others were shown through the Ross Hospital, and many complimentary remarks were made concerning that excellent building.

The train pulled out for Bobaygeon at 6:40, and the party spent the night there, passing through this morning at 6:55 on their return trip to Montreal.

SPLENDIDLY EQUIPPED TRAIN.

The special was splendidly equipped in every conceivable way. There were five cars composed to the train—a sleeper, the General Superintendent's private car, and the palatial "Killarney," the private car of the President. This latter is the finest on the road, and is a magnificent coach. Grandly equipped, and of magnificent proportions, it is an ideal car. The train carried a full complement of clerks, servants, and even a negro valet. The conductor was Mr. F. Tabas.

A very pretty feature of the visit was the presentation of bouquets of flowers to President Shaughnessy and Little Miss Stewart, whose father is an engineer on the line, presented the President with a bouquet of sweet peas, and Miss Mary Anderson, the station agent's little niece, handed Mr. Osborne a pretty bouquet. Both received the cordial thanks of the distinguished men.

Many are engaged inspecting the new lines of the C.P.R., and arrived here from Detroit.

PULP AND PULPWOOD.

The Toronto Globe is putting up a lot of evidence which goes to show that it is the duty of the Dominion government to prevent the export of Canadian pulpwood or pulp, by means of a prohibitive export duty, or by some other plan, remarks the Hamilton Spectator. Among those who have contributed to The Globe's interesting story is Sir William Van Horne, who handles the whole question in a manner which makes it quite evident that he has given the subject much and careful study. We here reproduce a portion of Sir William's statement:

To make clear what we have to gain, I may say that at present prices a cord of pulpwood, exported as such, yields to Canada and all Canadian interests for cutting, handling, stumping, transportation, etc., something less than $6 at the output. This same cord of pulpwood converted into pulp would yield at the output $19. The same cord converted into sulphite fiber would yield $24, and the same cord converted into paper would yield $37.80; in other words, Canada would get more than six times as much out of her resources in spruce wood by converting it into paper at home, instead of letting it go to foreign paper mills. But Canada is letting her spruce wood go abroad without hindrance, and day by day one of her most valuable assets is being depleted, leaving little more than tree stumps to show it.

The paper production of Canada largely exceeds the home consumption. The Laurentide Paper Co. at Grand Mere alone produces nearly twice as much newspaper as is consumed in the entire Dominion, but this is not the case with all the paper companies. The Laurentide Paper Co. is the largest in the country, there are many other extensive Canadian mills more or less dependent upon foreign markets, and since our paper is excluded from the United States by heavy duties, the only markets open to the Canadian paper makers are those of Great Britain, Australia, and South Africa. These are, likewise, open to the mills of the United States, which, although finding an enormous and usually sufficient market at home, have occasionally every few years to dump a large surplus upon our only available markets.

The United States get pulpwood in Canada as cheaply as we can. Their only disadvantage is in the difference in the freight they have to pay on this pulpwood from Canada to their mills, but they have advantages which more than offset this. They have a large advantage in the cost of coal, in the supply of skilled labor, in a usually adequate home market for their products, in lower ocean rates and lower marine insurance on their exports, and in many other things. They have, moreover, an advantage in the first cost of their machinery, in the cost of repairs and maintenance of machinery, and in the cost of their mill supplies, for nearly all of these things we are obliged to import from the United States and pay a heavy duty on them.

THE BAND'S NEW UNIFORMS

Council Made a Grant of $200 Additional Saturday Night.

Limited time had our town fathers at the Saturday evening session for profound pondering and lengthy discussion of the question on hand—that of granting the Sylvester Band a supplementary sum of $200 for new uniforms, making $500 in all this year. Every argument was cut short, and speeches were few and brief. The delegation present to press the Band's claim carried the vote by a large majority, and the Council voted the necessary sum within a few minutes' talk.

The cause of the unusual haste is easily explained. The Mayor and several of the aldermen wanted to spend Sunday in quiet at Lindsay's delightful summer resort, Sturgeon Point.

There were present when the Council met at 7:30 Mayor Vrooman, Reeve Beggs, and Aldermen Weiden, Eyres, McLean and W. Jordan; later Ald. Devitt came in. A delegation of citizens, comprising Messrs Wm. Wm. Flavell, J. Boxall and J. Carey was present to urge the making of the grant. Bandmaster Roenigk was also present.

THE DEPUTATION HEARD.

Mr. W. Flavell was first heard. He presented the proposition endorsed by leading citizens and Mr. Sylvester—that a supplementary grant of $200 be made for the purchase of new uniforms. The proposition was carried by a large majority, and the Council voted the necessary sum within a few minutes' talk.

THESE ARE TRUE

Five Thousand Facts About Canada, the Young Nation.

MILITIA AND DEFENCE

Canada has a militia force of 46,000.

Permanent force, 2,267. Europe has 3,800,000 soldiers. Europe spends 1 1/4 billions annually on war equipment.

Britain has standing army of 220,000 soldiers, and 127,000 sailors. Canada's force can be expanded to a war strength of 100,000 as at first line of defence.

Canada has 300 rifle associations, with 22,000 members. Canada has 684 mounted policemen, costing a million.

They patrol an area as large as Europe. Canada sent 8,372 men to South Africa during the Boer war. Out of this number 234 died and 252 were wounded.

Canada has provided a memorial for every Canadian's grave in South Africa; there are 4,000 of other countries yet unmarked. Strathcona L. is numbered 597. A permanent Strathcona Horse will be established.

Canada expended $2,830,000 in sending the 8,372 men to South Africa. Canada's militia department costs 2 1/2 millions a year.

Canada will hereafter maintain forces at Halifax and Esquimaux. This will cost Canada an additional millions a year.

MARITIME PROVINCES

Maritime Provinces are nearly as large as England and Wales. Population, 893,953. Sea coast line from Bay of Fundy to Straits of Belle Isle 5,600 miles—more than double that of the United Kingdom.

Deep sea fisheries received $130,000 bounty in 1905, or $3,000,000 in 1906. Value of fishery yield, 1870-1905, totals 400 millions.

SIMON MARSHALL LOCATED

Sent to Barrie Gaol Last Friday—Believed to be Insane.

Evening Post of July 27. (This afternoon The Post learned upon good authority that yesterday afternoon a man, apparently demented, was taken in charge by the Orillia police. He gave his name as John McDonald, but papers in his possession led the officers to suspect that the real name of the man is Simon Marshall, who is wanted by the Lindsay police in connection with the recent fair smugling case here.)

It is thought that Marshall, who has been seen in town several times within the last two weeks, must have suffered a sunstroke. He was conveyed to Barrie gaol for safe keeping.

An Inmate of Barrie Hospital—Has Pneumonia, It is Said.

Evening Post of July 29.

The statement which appeared in Saturday's Evening Post concerning Simon Marshall was slightly inaccurate. When taken in charge on suspicion of being demented Marshall gave his name as Peter McDonald—not John, as stated.

Marshall, we are informed, was taken to Barrie Hospital, a medical examination having disclosed that in addition to mental trouble, he was likewise suffering from a slight attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Marshall, who this morning took leave of her husband.

March sun wassetting on the moor of La Riviere, in the pleasant vale of Touraine—Touraine the fittest of so many noble chateaux, the vale of so many of the proudest traditions and the most inspiring memories of the romance of love and chivalry in the history of France.

André was standing in the churchyard, and he had not known that a landscape that he knew so well as he was looking, nor even up the slope beyond, where the great chateau of Beau Sejour shot its towers and sent turrets through its encircling main of wood. Ten leagues away in plain distance lay Nerac, the poverty-stricken home from which he took his title, and the meagre patrimony numbered with the deeds of his fathers and his own barely sufficed to provide a living for the widowed mother to whom that morning he had said good-bye and whom the English in the Low Countries might decide he could never see again.

André was not of his mother that he had been thinking of the enchantment of the forest whose identity he had discovered—one Mademoiselle Etioilles she had proved to be, "La Petite d'Etioilles," as that gay Lothario Duc de Richelieu called her, the daughter of a Farmer-General, a bourgeois, and she had been his friend, and her friendship with the wife need he had forgotten the rose-pink intimacy in the azure phæton entirely. He was striving to pluck up courage to face Denise and receive her anor his old, that Beau Sejour yonder so near the King so far as in their lay had determined that the very name and memory of the ancient house should be blotted out for ever. But blot out the chateau they could not. There it stood haughty as of old, to tell to all what had once been, and the curious could still read here and there in its storied walls the arms and emblems, the scrolls and shields and crests which had given nine Marshals to France, and in whose veins royal blood had flowed. What did that matter now? To-day it belonged to Denise, once poor as he was, and destined to see his bride before this sudden swoop upward on the ruins of another to the high places of France.

André turned and fro in the dusk and the ghostly memories thickened. Twenty years ago as a boy he had ridden with his father to that chateau. He remembered but two things, but he remembered them as vividly as yesterday. Over the chief gateway a splendid coat of arms had caught his boyish fancy and he had asked what the motto to it might mean. "Might mean," his father then it is long since he had cried, for in the noble hall, above the famous sculptured chimney-piece, the first thing that caught the boy's eye was the scroll with those three words "Dieu Le Vengeur." And the second memory was of a little girl playing with a huge wolf-bound in the dancing freight under that motto, a little girl with blue eyes and fair hair, innocent

A 'CROSS COUNTER TALK

Customer: "How do you know the colors in Sherwin-Williams Paint, Prepared, are durable?"
Dealer: "The colors in S.W.P. are durable and lasting because of the high qualities of raw materials used, the care taken in manufacture and the skill employed in mixing and grinding. The S.W.P. Co. has its own dry color plant and produces dry colors second to none for brilliancy and strength; operates its own lined oil mill and manufactures all pure linseed oil for S.W.P. Products; has its own lead and zinc mines, and employs a large staff of chemists to maintain the standard of all raw materials and finished products."
"With materials of such quality, combined with the thorough assimilating they receive in mixing and grinding, is insured the most permanent and durable colors it is possible to manufacture. S.W.P. wears as long as any paint can wear and retains its brilliancy and freshness for the greatest possible time."

SYMPATHY BLOCKS JUSTICE. BUSY AT McCRAE'S FOUNDRY.

Interesting Paper Read Before a Convention of Police Chiefs.

According to the Mail and Empire, the following paper was read at yesterday's session of the Chief Constables' Association, now meeting in Montreal:

Inspector Stark, of Toronto, read an interesting paper on "Trial by the People," in which he enumerated the difficulties which under interference by the public causes the police authorities in their efforts to suppress crime.

"Moral passion and punishment," said he, "are the two methods of dealing with criminals. Educationists and philanthropists must deal with the first method, while the police authorities have to use the second. The difficulties thrown in the way of punishing criminals by means of public sentiment, aroused by capable criminal lawyers, have always proved a serious stumbling block to the efforts of the police. A criminal is arrested and a criminal lawyer is secured to defend him. If the criminal has a friend at all, that friend seeks the influence of political people, whether municipal, provincial or federal. An effort is made to obtain bail privately. If the judge and clerk of the Court are what is known as 'dead easy' a rash trial is put up out of the fruits of 'the crime, and the criminal disappears, never to be seen again in that neighborhood."

CRIMINAL GETS OFF.
If, however, the magistrate experienced, the application for bail is renewed in open court, with the usual grand stand play, denunciation of police methods, and an appeal to the public uttered all the time with a judicious eye on the press stand. Then the public gets in, the criminal at last believes himself to be a victim, a martyr, railroaded to conviction by perjured police officers, aided by a prejudiced judge and jury. Even if a conviction is secured a petition is circulated. Petitions of a high and low degree, ministers of religion and other reputable citizens injudiciously sign these petitions, and a terrible pressure, supported often by sensational papers, is brought to bear on the Ministers of the Crown and frequently a criminal is let loose.

The trouble with these petitions is that, being prepared in private, they set up facts that are altogether incorrect, and suppress others that are most pertinent. Political pressure is brought to bear from all sides, and it is a strong man indeed who can resist the combination."

They Couldn't Understand.
Conington Cleeves Lindsay has always been a money making town. We never had any idea how it was done until the detectives commenced operations.

EXPERIENCES OF THE TOGOS.

THE SHADOWS ON BURNT RIVER AND A TRIP TO COBOCONK.

Mosquitoes Circumvented at Last—Arrivals at Moy Villa.

Evening Post of July 25.

More pleasures, more sorrows, for the Togos, but the pleasures were like Bryans' silver bill—16 to 1. Tuesday morning we took in the Burnt River trip, and Ike and Siders were taken by storm, not knowing that such beauty spots were hidden all over this Canada of ours. As Ike exclaimed, "The Lakes of Killarney ain't in it with this." The morning was very calm and the reflection unusually fine. Fishing. Nothing doing—we are more of a tourist party just now, as our guests leave for Pittsburg on Friday night, and we wish them to cover as much ground and water as possible. In the afternoon we took the Cobocconk route, and it was there we ran into a bunch of wet. It was a beautiful day—everything lovely until we hit Delamere's Island, where a cloud no bigger than your hat appeared in the west and immediately got busy. It poured down upon us until we fled up at Cobocconk. When we landed we picked to the Patti house and hugged the big range in the kitchen and steamed up right away. We dropped in to see Albert Welsh—nothing doing—and had a pool tournament lasting 11 minutes. The ball home was a beauty—so good that we forgot the soak on the trip up. "Pinky," the only fisherman on the job, has just landed four fine bass. We were to have visited Glenora and Kirkfield to-day (Wednesday), but at this writing the weather is not "wild" as yet. Last night was the only sleep we have had up to date as the skeeters had us beat, but we beat them to a finish last night, and everything is hunky-dorey.

A pair of eggs left under the table was roughly handled by 32 cows anxious to get at the brain the eggs were packed in, but the Chief reports only 13 eggs short. The boys' appetite and drinkable are fine, and they all say they are having a good time—and they look it. Vincent Hank is having good luck with the rod, and has got the Indian trap on him all right.

Mr. Percy Doughty, of Peterboro, landed here yesterday for a two weeks' stay with his uncle, Mr. Wm. McIntosh of Moy Villa. The Villa is filled to overflowing, Mrs. McIntosh having to refuse requests every day.

Mrs. Arkwright gave a delightful "hop" and birthday party last night in honor of her boy and girl, whose birthdays come pretty close together.

Mrs. James M. Hamilton and her charming daughter, Vera, of Toronto, are at present at the delightful cottage, "Hym-be-he," Mr. Jimmy and Miss Lizzie will arrive August 1st.

MORE ANON.

How About Lindsay.
Bellville Intelligence: The Peterboro Examiner deplores the apparent fact that Peterboro is growing wicker every day. Our contemporary says that, judging by present appearance, there will be over 300 more police court cases there this year than there were last. It must be sad to live in such a wicked place as Peterboro.

Many Pilgrims at St. Anne's.
Evening Post of July 26

Many citizens from Lindsay and vicinity are at present at the shrine of St. Anne de Beupre. In view of this the following figures as to the number who have gone on pilgrimages, so far this year will be of interest. The visitors have been greater than ever before recorded, and the shrine grows in popularity every year.

The Grand Trunk claims as increase of thirty per cent. in the number carried. Last year the number of pilgrims to the village shrine on the banks of the St. Lawrence numbered nearly 200,000. It is believed that the total this year will approach a quarter of a million.

The Canadian Pacific gives as the full number carried over their system to the shrine, 14,000. Between 5,000 and 6,000 were from the City of Montreal. It is expected that before the close of the season that total will aggregate 22,000.

From Police Force to Bank.
Toronto Star: Policeman William J. Fowler, attached to No. 1 Division, has forwarded his resignation to the Board of Police Commissioners. Fowler is entering the service of the Bank of Commerce at Cobalt as a messenger, at a salary of $1,200 a year. Mr. Fowler is the son of Mr. John Fowler, 47 Sussex-st.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER

FORGET ME NOT.
Oh, thou pale, blue wandering flower,
Child of the forest's mighty gloom,
Tell me your name, that I may know thee,
Breathe of your sweetness, love your bloom,
Living alone in hidden splendor,
Kissed by sunlight in your cot,
Whisper your name, oh, dainty blossom—
Hush! For it speaks; "Forget-me-not."

Nothing has changed amid the forest,
Even though the years have come and gone;
Still live alone the pale blue flower,
On flows the streamlet, ever on.
Know ye the name, O ancient wanderer?
Know ye that flower? Hast forgot?
No, for the lofty pines forever Whisper in awe, "Forget-me-not!"
—E. De Roy Koch.

OLD TIMES, OLD FRIENDS, OLD LOVE.
There are no days like the good old days,
The days when we were youthful
When humankind were pure of mind,
And speech and truth were truthful
Before a love of sordid gold Became man's ruling passion,
And before each dame and maid became Slave to the tyrant fashion!

There is no love like the good old love,
Against the world I'd stake 'em!
As buxom and smart and clean of heart
As the Lord knew how to make 'em!
They were rich in spirit and common sense,
And plenty all supportin';
They could bake and brew, and had taught school, too
And they made such likely courtin'!

There are no boys like the good old boys,
When we were boys together!
When the grass was sweet to the brown bare feet
(That dimpled the laughing heath-er;
When the pewee sang to the summer dawn
Of the bee in the willow clover, Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will Echoed its night song o'er.

There is no love like the good old love—
(The love that mother gave us!
We are old, old men, yet we pine again
For the precious grace—God save us!

So we dream and dream of the good old times,
And our hearts grow tenderer, fonder,
As those dear old dreams bring soothing gleams
Of heaven away off yonder.
—Eugene Field.

ON THE HIDDEN TRAIL

It is night upon the mountain, and my camp fire slowly dying,
Sets a host of phantom shadows dancing eerily round;
Far upon the distant crag a Spanish whippoorwill is crying,
And the sleepy camp dog grumbles at the melancholy sound.

From the dark and silent mesa, like a soul in agony waiting,
Comes the broken cackling of the lone coyote's howl;
High upon yon broken cedar, where the moonlight fast is falling,
Hoots his sullen dark philosophy, the solitary owl.

This is as Jehovah made it. Breathes the forest full of sweetness, Breath of balsam and of cedar and the burden of the sacred;
This is the wondrous nature, in its glorious completeness—
For the killer's fire and steel not yet have found the hidden way.

Sings the mountain brook below me, through the brake and alder stealing,
Fed by living springs of water from the fastness on high;
Singing as Jehovah taught it, of the op and of healing—
But the killer soon may come and wither all the fountains dry.

Hoots the owl upon the cedar, "Soon will come the killer wending
Through the hidden treasure-chamber, marching pitiless and dread,
Leaving blackened desolation and the smoke of death ascending, O'er the ashes of the mighty and the corpses of the dead!"

"Soon will come the fiery besom sweeping all the smiling mountain, Leaving charred black arms up-lifted to the smoke-enshrouded sky;
Gone the mountain brooks of water and the ever-springing fountains,
For whoso the killer passes every living thing must die!"

It is night upon the mountain. Soft the gentle moonlight falling,
Seems a silent benediction flung across the canyon floor;
Low around me myriad voices, forest voices ever calling,
"Keep our beauty from the killer—Mother Nature, turn him back!"

"Turn him back, O Mother Nature! Lift your walls of rock before him; Lover, drop your plant branches o'er the glade, oh, giant pine! Let the angry wild bee threaten and the thorn bush hold and scorch him.
And across the trail forever mat the clinging forest vine!"
—Lowell Otus Raess, in Leslies Weekly.

MONARCH OF ALL HE SURVEYS.

Now let us gaze with fascinated joy
Upon that graceful bird, the Office Boy.

Oh the Office Boy is a perfect plum,
His nerve is quite sublime.
He chews incessantly pepin gum
And simply dotes on crime.
He reads the tale of the Pirate bold
Till his eyes bung out and his back gets cold.
And he dreams all day of hidden gold
And a cask of Jamaica rum.

He goes on a message just half a mile,
On a bicycle he rides.
You want him back in a little while,
Your wishes he derides.
He starts out merrily all alive,
But wanders off for a swim and dive,
And doesn't get back until half-past five.
And laughs to split his sides.

'Course an office boy is so hard to find,
To these failings you submit.
He knows the scarcity. He's not blind,
Not the slightest bit.
So he censes at once to dust your room,
Forgets the use of the office broom,
And you wish he was laid in the silent tomb,
Or deep in a gravel pit.

He simply dotes on a cigarette,
And smokes the livelong day.
He buys the cheapest ones he can get,
And drives your friends away.
And if you kick, he says: "Ah go on."
And whistles aloud the song, "Poor John."
And smokes in your office when you are gone
In a most offensive way.

When Dad Keeps House.
(By F. T. B.)
When Mamma has to go away,
And Dad keeps house,
The little children romp all day,
No lessons interfere with play,
And things begin to come their way.
When Dad keeps house.
We have the nicest things to eat,
When Dad keeps house;
He buys us cakes and cookies sweet,
And every day a special treat;
But oh how lonely 'tis at night,
When he keeps house.
We needn't stop to put things right,
When Dad keeps house,
The nursery is a perfect sight,
Our Daddy doesn't care a mite—
But oh how lonely 'tis at night,
When Dad keeps house!

The Miracle of the Growing Corn.
(The Weekly Sun.)

It is up level with the fence to-day. A few days more and the posts and wires will be out of sight. A fortnight hence a man and horse could be hidden in its dense masses. Stalks there are even now with the size and strength of young saplings, and the waving leaves are as an army with banners appearing over the distant hill top.

There is a delicate beauty in the luxuriance of the clematis, and fragrance is in the breath of the rose, but nowhere does Nature show such stupendous power as in the miracle of the growing corn.

Some Remarks on Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

Those of us who travel to and fro, either on boat or train, cannot but have come across what might be termed the "travelling hog"—if we are not one of them ourselves—the genus is never very far away. On a boat, he or she, (for, sad to relate, they are not confined to one sex), pick out the best chair and the best position, and not content with that, they want a chair for their feet, no matter how man and wife are standing. On the train they want two full seats, and without the slightest regard fill up one with their trunk, and sprawl all over the other. These seem to be very little, if any, of the milk of human kindness in them, for they will sit there with as unconcerned a look on them as if there were stacks of room and see people pass them, looking longingly at the vacant seats and never stir a move to let them have one, until some one with more nerve than the rest, takes it almost by force. The look they get, however, is sometimes intended to squelch them, but it does not faze on those people who know enough to get their own. It does not seem to us to be right that any one should have to ask if he or she can have this or that seat. It would be them enough to take a full seat if they are vacant when the train moves off, and not when the people are crowding in at a large station. We have always thought it a bright and shining example of the way some parts of the earth have been exploited by those who came first. It would almost look, at times, as if those first comers would keep all four seats if they could, but they can't.

The first comers to a coal mine, or a corner lot, or a natural monopoly, hang on like grim death, and with all have the law on their side, although all that makes their concessions have any value, is the people who come after. If they never came, it would soon give up and move on themselves, but if the people come and stay, they immediately give the concessions value, and the more that come and stay, the greater the value given them, and it is thus that we have those who neither lost nor won, and yet Solomon in all his glory was not a patch to some of them, either in the height of their splendor or the depth of their folly. This hoggeness displayed in travelling, is just an evidence of bad breeding and shows a lack of the grace of usefulness, which is a gift that requires very careful nurturing in most of us. It is akin to the atrocious brutality we display in a crowd trying to get on a crowded excursion train or boat if we fear we will be left, when we trample and shove aside in defenceless women and children in order to get a good place for ourselves. One who can not be a gentleman, under such circumstances, is pretty well trained, and it is the desideratum we all should aim at and train our children accordingly.

It is refreshing to run across people occasionally, who are really and selfish, although one wonders how it works out to their benefit. We remember being on a crowded transcontinental train some years ago when the medical fraternity were taking a trip to the Coast. One very eminent doctor of Toronto was being pined and commended, and having a sort of medical midshipman with him, because the former had opportunities of getting his meals on the dining car in order that the ladies might have a chance. We heard the other doctors saying it was a shame, but we do not recollect to have heard any say they were going to give up their place to him at the next meal. We only travelled with them a day, and did not see what happened next day, but this we know, that his selfishness did not do him any harm. That was twenty years ago, and to-day he easily tops us as a professional in Toronto and is by no means an old man yet—just an instance of good home training, natural gentleness, and a thorough control of his own inner man.

Not long ago we had the pleasure of reading the life of Booker Washington. If there are any of our readers who have not read this biography, we can assure them there is a great treat in store for them. It is a book that should be read by everyone to read it. Those of our readers who have read the book will remember the lessons in "thoroughness" hegot from the Yankee "marina" he was fortunate enough to have over him when a boy, so that when he went to apply for entrance to a school for "niggers" it stood him in good stead. This will be a good story when he arrived at the school it was full, and he offered to do any kind of work, only that they would give him an education. The principal told him to go and dust a certain room, which he immediately proceeded to do. He went into every corner and crevice, and the mistress was so long in coming back that she had gone over the work three times when she did arrive. She rubbed her hand over the ledges, and her trained eye showed her that she had no ordinary boy to deal with. As we all know, Booker Washington is one of the foremost citizens of the U. S. to-day, and although many would like to consign him to history, or some other place where they do not shovel snow, he is person gratified with Roosevelt, Carnegie, Rockefeller and other representative Americans. At Tuskegee he has schools and colleges, technical and otherwise, by the dozen, where he is turning out an educated negro that is no disgrace to the country in which he has to live.

We would like to see some of the methods in "thoroughness" that made Booker Washington what he is, adopted by both our parents and teachers right in this town of Lindsay. We don't know which is more to blame in the matter, presumably the parents, out whichever it is, our children are growing up with habits of carelessness about them that will be hard to shake off when they want to do so. It has been our lot to have two boys a year for the past two years, start in as boys and pass on up. We do not think we are exaggerating when we state that only one out of the lot swept a floor up such as we would call clean and continued to do so without constant pressure. We have seen a third year Collegiate boy sweep, and it looked as if, instead of trying to gather the dirt, he was trying to lose it on its way to the door. It would have made Booker's Yankee "marina" weep to see it after that. Of course all these boys that have gone through our hands have taken their eye from those of their father, who is a man of all such work around a factory, as so much wasted time—a very unnecessary waste to look at it.

It has always appeared to us that a man's office, or warehouse, or factory, ought to be as cleanly kept as his house. His office, especially, ought to be as comfortable and bright and airy as a room in his home. How many offices in this town approach that ideal? Probably Mr. John Carrow is the only one, and it is warped, having a Tory bias. Why should a man who has to spend two-thirds of his waking moments there, be contented with cobwebs and dirt overhead and around, and all kinds of croaky undertones? Is it "thorough" in anything, when they have their master's idea always thus before them? Like master, like man, and when the man becomes master, either in workshop or home, he is apt to lack "thoroughness."

The experimental grounds at Acton Grange, near Warrington, cover 450 acres. Outside the Washington Bureau of plant industry, they are the largest in the world. Botanists from all parts of the globe agree that Acton Grange represents the model of scientific methods.

The government of the United States holds the assistance of the farmer to be one of its first functions. The British agricultural department has not got to that level yet. It has refused an offer to transfer Acton Grange experiments to a government, because the offer was without a precedent! How could it have a precedent?

MADE AUTHORITIES.

To begin with Mr. Garton exploded the notion, which all the writers on botany had accepted as gospel, that cereals, grasses, clovers, etc., are naturally cross-fertilized by the pollen of one plant being blown on the ripened ovules of another. He wanted to improve the wheat crops of England, which suffered from rust and were weak in the straw. He relied upon natural cross-fertilizing to get new combinations. Nothing happened. Setting about to bottom the bottom the causes of failure, his microscope showed him that the reproductive organs of every plant are enclosed together in a sac called the flower. The authorities he had been operating on plants already fertilized.

So he threw authorities to the winds, and became an authority for himself. In fact from his first discovery it was easy to conclude that if natural cross-fertilization existed there would be such an endless production of "sports" and hybrids that agriculture would be impossible. Self-fertilization is nature's way of preserving established types.

But self-fertilization means inbreeding and therefore degeneracy, and though selection and treatment in ordinary agriculture to some extent checks the process, the tendency is still there. In plant life as in animal life variety, within its limits, is vigor.

Mr. Garton therefore tried artificial cross-fertilization. The work called for delicacy and dexterity. It was to be done on growing plants with the help of the microscope. A few minutes was the longest interval during which at the critical juncture the ripened pollen from one plant could be transferred to the ripened ovules of another, and many careful observations of the process of growth taken with the microscope were necessary before the investigator could get even this far.

The results, however, were astonishing. From the cross-fertilized seeds Mr. Garton raised breeds of wheat which gave yields up to 50 per cent. and were much higher and stronger than the parent plants. On the other hand no two seeds thus dealt with produced plants quite alike. Nature was making her own experiments. Taking three of the finest plants out of every hundred raised from the seed of the new hybrids in the second season, Mr. Garton again crossed them artificially. In this way he made his discovery of the power to blend selected qualities. He also found that in proportion to the tendency to "sport" exhausted itself the new type became fixed.

IMPROVEMENT OF SEEDS.

From what he went on to experimenting and observing for twenty-seven years. The results are just as great. The number of seasons needed to ensure fixity varies with different plants. Having assured himself of that point, the discoverer began to distribute his new breeds among farmers.

Then from all parts of the world he imported, regardless of cost, over 500 wild and cultivated varieties of food plants and crossed them with the kindred types grown in Great Britain. The experiments ran into thousands. It was then found that should new breed fixity in yield under ordinary cultivation owing to inbreeding, it can be stimulated and kept up to the first standard by fresh crossings. Abundance therefore is no longer a matter of chance and locality. This ranks among the world's greatest discoveries.

Take some of the outstanding achievements. The British and other European breeds of wheat hold the grain tightly in the chaff the farmer, where the area to be harvested is large, suffers a serious loss of his best grain by "shedding". On the other hand, spelt wheat, native to southern China, holds the grain so tenaciously that it cannot be threshed out. By crossing a blend of the best European breeds of wheat with the grain tightly in the chaff the farmer, where the area to be harvested is large, suffers a serious loss of his best grain by "shedding". On the other hand, spelt wheat, native to southern China, holds the grain so tenaciously that it cannot be threshed out. By crossing a blend of the best European breeds of wheat with the grain tightly in the chaff the farmer, where the area to be harvested is large, suffers a serious loss of his best grain by "shedding".

Native to China is a miniature oat grass which has the peculiarity of bearing a huskless seed. This Mr. Garton imported, crossing it with the native regenerated oat fixed a variety in which the seed is readily separable from the chaff by the process of threshing. In preparing this new oat the chaff is not necessary, as in the case of ordinary varieties partially to cook it on the kiln in order to remove the objectionable hairy husk. To say nothing of its expense, the kiln treatment seriously reduces the food value of the grain. (The new oat, too, retains the feature of its Chinese parent in bearing from 15 to 19 seeds on each spikelet instead of the usual three or four.)

A later crossing, however, of this fine type with a beardless barley, native to Nepal, India, has given a beardless six-row type, looser in the chaff than the beardless varieties, quality absolutely uniform. Being harder than the ordinary variety it can be sown earlier.

Dealing with clover Mr. Garton found an important discovery—and a point originally personal to him—under cultivation a seed-bearing, but that in proportion as it develops, the seed-bearing habit it tends to become annual. This is the explanation of "clover sickness". A perennial clover in which no seed could be obtained. Relieved from this adversity under cultivation, the plant while changing from root production loses the thick, bushy growth of its wild state. But its growers of foliage crops this bushy growth is most valuable and such growers will appreciate the value of a cross, which, giving a plant as large and succulent as the old cultivated stock in as bushy as the parent wild stock. The new plant, besides, remains strictly perennial. Not only does it yield a heavy crop at midsummer, but it provides in the fall a second growth which affords abundant sustenance for live stock. At Acton Grange the growth is as vigorous in the sixth season after sowing as it was in the first.

COMMUNICATIONS

PUNISHMENT SHOULD FOLLOW.

(To the Editor of The Post.)

Dear Sir,—If you will permit me to take up a small bit of space in your paper, I would like to enter a protest against such scenes as took place in this fair village on Saturday evening, the 20th inst. Two "immigrant" women who live with their husbands at a nearby place, came to the village in the afternoon, each with a small child, and accompanied by the husband of one of the women. During the afternoon and evening the people loitered around one of the so-called hotels of the place and were sold liquor until they became so intoxicated that the women were unable to take care of their babies and finally rejected them entirely and entered into a regular drunken fight, using language unfit for decent people to listen to, and tearing each other's clothes almost off their backs.

Now, I understood there is a law to prevent hotelmen selling liquor to people who are already drunk. If this is so, it is time something was done here to have this law enforced. So far as I am able to learn, it is the custom here to fine the man who gets drunk, and let the hotelkeeper do as he pleases, but when a hotelman becomes so regardless of common decency as to dish out his accursed stuff to women—especially to women and children in their care—until they are unable to stand up, it is surely time for the respectable citizens of the place to take a hand and see what can be done to stop it. Some people may say that the women did not have to buy the liquor, which is quite true, but in my opinion people who are addicted to such a habit are to be pitied, and are deserving of sympathy rather than censure. The hotelkeeper, however, who is in the business for the dollars he makes out of it, can surely be made to keep a decent house and adhere to the law, if the law is as I have been informed—Yours, etc., A CITIZEN.

THE DOMINION WHEEL CO.

New Industry to Be Operated in Lindsay by a Local Concern.
Evening Post of July 26

A Post reporter called at the premises of the Dominion Wheel Co. last evening, now undergoing formation, whose factory will be located in the shops formerly occupied by the Hamilton Carriage Works. The place is undergoing extensive repairs. (Three large kilns have been built and three carloads of felloes and two of spokes are ordered. A meeting to form the company will be held today or to-morrow. The capital is $40,000, and many of our leading citizens are interested.)

Hot Weather Wisdom.

If people are not careful there is always danger of sunstroke or heat prostration in oppressively hot and humid weather. If given a chance, the healthy body regulates its own heat. The principal means to such an end is skin evaporation. It we perspire freely we take the first step. To keep the skin clear, clean, transparent and alertly responsive to changes is of prime importance. Light outer garments, cool bathing, fanning breezes, shady streets, cold, bland drinks and light foods all help to maintain the equilibrium between the inside and outside body. These seem simple enough on general principles, but how few think of applying them properly, remarks the N. Y. Herald. The thoughtless one will let his internal furnace with the same fuel he uses in the coldest weather and open his flaps the wider, that it may burn the more fiercely. What he should do is to keep his flaps closed. With overloaded stomach, necessary embarrassed digestion, weakened heart, brain overstimulated with alcohol and with the general debility that follows in the train, he is in the worst possible condition to resist high temperature in any shape. When men and women learn to take pains to assist the body in accommodating itself to extreme heat there will be fewer sufferers from its effects.

The Wild Call.

Most of our song birds have three notes, expressive of love, alarm and fellowship. The latter call seems to keep them in touch with one another. I might perhaps add to this list the scream of distress which most birds utter when caught by a cat or a hawk—the voice of uncontrolled terror and pain which is nearly the same in all species—dissonant and piercing. The other notes and calls are characteristic, but this last is the simple scream of common terror—Country life.

One of the most notable meetings of the Seattle Christian Endeavor Convention was that of the Japanese Endeavorers on July 14. Hundreds of Japanese assembled to hear addresses in their own tongue on the program of religious songs in Japanese, and to listen to the welcomes extended by American speakers. Secretary William Shaw told the Japanese that the Christian Endeavor Society plans to hold its convention in Japan in a few years. Friendly relations between Japan and the United States are emphasized.

The Rev. Dr. Ritzsch, president of the General Conference of the Methodist Church of Australia, addressing the conference in London recently, said the adherent of every religion has something distinctive in its appearance, adding:

"If I dropped from a balloon into a gathering of Baptists I could tell their sect by the way their hair is cut. If I fell into an Anglican synod I could tell by their collars. If I dropped into an assemblage of Me-

A CRY IN THE MARKET PLACE.
I cry, O God, for refuge and for rest. I cannot pray; there is no time to kneel.

Can the spoke stop the whizzing of the wheel?
Can the east cool in the red forge of protest?

I cry, by my dead fathers of the West,
Who, in their dire travail, yet could feel

The wild, clean pulse of Nature in the peal
Of storm upon the lordly mountain-

I cry, by night of my forgotten song,
For respite, for some slaking of the pace,
Some quiet in this rage of life that stuns

The soul for slaughter in the Market Place,
I cry, in pity for the little ones,
Whose shriveled shoulders must bear on the Race.

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST.

Sermons Delivered From the Different Pulpits Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Younger, of Reabrook, filled the Baptist church pulpit last evening, and delivered a striking sermon on the text, "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts, and be always ready to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear." The word "Hope," contained in the text, was the subject of his remarks. This word is one of the most precious in the English language. It is a balm for many a wound, and a solace for grief. An incident in the career of King Bruce of Scotland furnishes a striking example for the inspiration of hope. A hopeful soul is a brave soul, eyes in unshameful. If our hopes are anchored in God, we will be enabled to endure the storms. There should, however, be a reason for such a hope. King Bruce relied in the bravery and loyalty of his subjects, and he was not disappointed. Jesus Christ will give us power to overcome all trials if we place our trust in him.

Peter expected that these men should have the question contained in the text put to them. How were they to answer it? "The man who sold me my horse in Haliburton," said the minister, "told me just last night of an animal that was, and he was not a professing Christian. Many who profess Christianity would secretly be as honest."

The Christian laboring man who works well when he is not watched answers this question. The Christian merchant, as he deals out 16 ounces to the pound, is answering the question. Christians who are inconsistent bring only ridicule upon themselves. "If I were a merchant, and could not be honest, I would get out of the business. Those who are unconvinced do not base their trust in God will be undermined by the storm of God's wrath; those who trust in him will forever endure."

STURGEON POINT JOTTINGS.

Happenings of Note at Lindsay's Popular Summer Resort.

Evening Post of July 27
Very few lunge have been caught during the past week owing to the boisterous and unsettled weather.

The Rev. C. H. Marsh will conduct divine service in the Union church, Sturgeon Point, to-morrow, (Sunday) at 3.15 p.m.

Dr. Ryerson has recently purchased a McDowell cottage adjoining his own, and facing the upper wharf. It has just been painted inside and out, and presents a fine appearance. It will be occupied in the near future by a Toronto family.

The worshippers at the Union church have cause to feel grateful to Mr. James Hamilton, who recently settled the seating problem for some time to come, by presenting fifty-five fine benches, with comfortable backs, for the use of the congregation.

Everybody is talking about the coming regatta and the likely winners of the various races and contests. There will be lots of competitors, as a large attendance from all Kawartha Lakes' points is assured, and in addition the busy secretary, Mr. F. Holmes Hopkins, has left for Galt, Kingston, Toronto, Peterborough, Oshawa and Barrie, in which they promise to send strong delegations to Sturgeon Point on Aug. 3th.

Stop it, then. And why not? Falling hair is a disease, a regular disease, and your own doctor will tell you the remedy. He knows that your Hair Vigor, new improved formula, quickly stops falling hair, cures dandruff, and makes the hair grow. Just ask him. We publish the formula of all our preparations.

J. A. Billingsley, Glenelg-st., domestic service.

Moved by Mayor Vrooman, seconded by Mr. T. Brady, that the above be passed.—Carried.

The South Victoria Agricultural Society had a grievance from a supposed overcharge. Supt. Hammond explained to the Commissioners that a leak had occurred, which the Society had now fixed, which caused the overcharge.

The Melbourne-st. extension is to cost more than was anticipated owing to high wages, bad weather, and the fact that the extension would be longer than expected. The Wellington-st. extension was left at the secretary's discretion.

Wooden pipe, the Commissioners decided would be impracticable for Lindsay owing to the fact that to prevent rotting the pipe has to be completely immersed in water.

The meeting then adjourned.

TROUBLE AT THE LOCKS

Supt. McClelland, of the Trent Canal, in the Thick of It.

Evening Post of July 25.
The sad inadequacy of Lindsay lock basin to accommodate the traffic centering here was no doubt made fully apparent to Mr. J. C. McClelland, Superintendent of the Trent Canal, between 8 and 8.30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. McClelland soon after 8 boarded the government steamer Sovereign, a tug on the canal way, just as one of the frequent blockades of navigation occurred. The Str. Beaver had passed through the lock, leaving four or five deeply laden cribs in the basin. Then the hoarse whistle of the Esturgeon, which leaves Sturgeon Point at 10.30, was heard, and Wellington bridge was swung.

The big steamer got half-way through before the tail end of the last crib blocked her progress. Passengers for the C. P. R. train scrambled off and climbed the bridge railing with the skill of circus acrobats, all the while muttering their breath.

Then the Str. Kathleen, also from Sturgeon Point, pulled up below the bridge with a large part of cottagers on board, and they were forced to flounder over a rough bit of ground and carry bundles and parcels a quarter of a mile farther than usual.

Then Supt. McClelland got busy. Hitching the Sovereign to the heavy cribs, he managed to make room, in the course of half an hour, for the Esturgeon and Manitoba to approach the lock. "That's not going to do me any good," remarked Capt. Fee, "how in thunder am I going to turn 100 feet of boat in 30 feet of space?" The problem was left unanswered as the Manitoba was then about due. The Sovereign shipped away due north, leaving the tangled tangle untangled.

We are informed that there is no truth in the report that the Sovereign is to be stationed here to help keep the river clear. Sam McGill will have to do it with his little pike pole.

Collapse of Brilliant Musician.

Evening Post of July 25.

Miss Eva Horton, M. L. A., only daughter of Rev. G. Horton, Napawa, is quite low. She has not been in very good health for a time, but in June she attended the Jubilee exercises at Albert College, Belleville, from which institution she graduated before she went to attend the Toronto Conservatory of Music with first class honors, and won the Governor-General's medal, awarded for general proficiency, first class honors, highest standing in the Province. Upon her return home, after attending the exercises mentioned, she suddenly collapsed. Several doctors held a consultation, and they secured the opinion of a specialist. Her brothers, Messrs. Maitland and Floyd Horton, Toronto, came home, and her other brother, Mr. B. B. Horton, who went East not long ago, after Medical College closed, to spend the summer at the Coast, is also expected home in a couple of days. We hope for her recovery, and that it may be soon.

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Armsden—McMahon.

On Monday, July 22nd, at the parsonage, Charlotte's Rebecca, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McMahon, of Kilmount, and William Edward Armsden, were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Marsh, pastor of St. Paul's church.

The wedding was a quiet one. Mr. Chas Collett was the best man, and Miss Ruby McMahon, of Ewan, attended the bride.

After the ceremony the young couple left for the home of the bride's parents. From thence they will take a trip over the Kawartha lakes.

Mr. Armsden is well known in town, being employed in Mr. Chas. Reeves' billiard parlor. The many friends of the young couple proffer their congratulations.

Brown—Watson.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place Wednesday, July 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Watson, Glenelg-st., Lindsay, when their youngest daughter, Miss Pearl, was united in marriage to Mr. Henry Arthur Brown. Rev. J. W. Wallace performed the ceremony in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives. The floral decorations were carefree and Mar- guerites. The ceremony was performed under a ball of the latter. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her father and was exquisitely gowned in white Persian lawn and carried white bride's roses.

After the wedding breakfast the young couple left on the evening train amid a shower of rice and confetti for Toronto and other western points.

The going away gown was of leather and wool taffeta accented with pleated skirt, Juniper waist over white embroidered blouse, shoes, gloves and hat en suite.

On their return they will reside in Lindsay, and will be at home to their friends at 15 Glenelg-st. after September 15th.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more capability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, exhausting, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a popular prescription is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds, strengthens, it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong hearts—strong digestion, strengthen these nervous—re-establish them as needed, with

"ALL DEALERS"

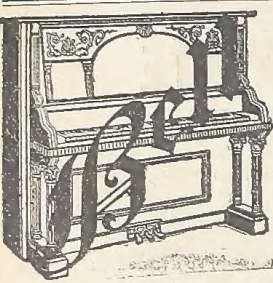

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Culled From Our Many Exchanges.
It is worthy of note, says the Lethbridge Herald, that forty years ago, when Confederation took place, there was only one newspaper between the Pacific Coast and Lake Superior, and that was the Northwest, of Winnipeg. To-day there are over fifty newspapers in Alberta alone.

After punishing ex-Mayor Selmitz for having accepted bribes from restaurant keepers, San Francisco is restrained to be told that his successor, Dr. Baxton, the temporary mayor, is also a self-confessed boodler, having accepted $5,000 from a telephone company to vote against a rival granting of a franchise to rival concern. When will honesty prevail?

The Empress of Germany, who is noted for her pluck on horseback, apparently is not so courageous while in an automobile. She intended to visit Königsberg, Saturday, in her touring car, and when within three miles of her destination, loud and repeated explosions in the motor led her to believe that her life was in danger. Assurances by her chauffeur that there was not the least danger were of no avail, and no other vehicle being available, the Empress proceeded in a wagon to the railway station near by.

We feel that the good-will and unanimity that have existed have been due to the interest you have manifested in our personal welfare. As a token of our esteem we beg you will accept this watch, and as you consult it from time to time trust you will be reminded of the many friends who have in the Northwest branch, who wish you all the good things that life can bring. Respectfully, A. J. Graham, W. F. Parker, J. J. Cookill, A. E. Sillery, Jas. Fowler, W. H. Reid.

CAMP TOGO, BALSAM LAKE.

Members Are Having the Time of Their Lives—Yachting Trips.

Evening Post of July 30
Everything is fine and dandy with the Togos on Balsam Lake.

We miss two of our most valued members in Mr. Ike Mills and his son Elwyn, who left us on Friday for their home in Pittsburg. They enjoyed the trip immensely, and wonder greatly why so few visit Rosedale and its pretty surroundings.

No trouble to catch fish—Dorbert has only to call for a fish dealer and Pinky and his aid his faithful few soon have the required quantity.

Friday and Saturday were very rough days on both Cameron and Balsam Lakes, and very few small boats were seen on the water.

Togo had to go to Fenelon Saturday p.m. to meet Mr. Seldon Mehan and Frank Lee, who came down on the 8 p.m. train and Perry made the trip from Rosedale back to the dock in 40 minutes, which is nearly a record, but it was rolling a "wee o' you" may be said.

Charlie Bunney makes his regular trips to Cobourg, and we appreciate them very much. Cobourg is not too bad a place to put in a quiet hour to break up the monotony.

Judge Lee (Frank) and Mr. "Hira" Mehan visited our camp over Sunday. Seldon enjoys the fresh, keen air, but prefers the south shore for reasons better known to himself. Ask him.

M. Lee assumed the responsibility of acting as monologuist, and his services were much appreciated. Come again, Judge, we miss you.

Great excitement was caused by the lowering of the lake. It was due to a Frank drinking from a rubber tube on the yacht Togo, while out for a pleasant jaunt.

We expect to make the trip to Kirkfield and through to Beaverbrook on Wednesday, July 31st.

ROSEDALE NOTES.
Miss Hamilton, daughter of Mr. James Hamilton, joined her mother and daughter Saturday evening, and will be here till Sept. 1st. She is just as bright and winsome as ever, and will help keep things moving around pretty Rosedale.

A number will go to Beaverton on Wednesday with the Oddfellows' excursion from Fenelon Falls.

Mr. R. J. Menzies and wife arrived back at noon Monday. Mrs. M. will sleep under the hospitable roof of Mrs. Sutherland, but will enjoy her meals at the pine table at Camp Togo.

Stafford O'Neill, of the Dundas & Flavelle store, came up Monday, and will be a Togo until camp breaks.

FLIES AS DISEASE BEARERS.

The Common House Variety Are a Menace to Health.

The United States Department of Agriculture has started a crusade against the common house fly and is carrying on extensive experiments as to the best way of banishing it from the abodes of man. The fly has been found to be not only a nuisance, but a menace to man's health. Its hairy body carries both disease and death. Many epidemics which sweep over communities in the hot season have been traced to the fly. Having its origin in filth, it brings with it the bacteria which breed in filth. And as it moves about, now crawling over refuse, now over the food on the table, dying from the lips of the sick to the lips of the healthy; it is said to be more dangerous to modern society than were the wild beasts to primitive man.

The high mortality among the children in the congested districts of a city, where families are always closely crowded together, where refuse accumulates fast, where food is often kept in living rooms, is due to a large degree, so scientists now say, to the fly. Infant diseases chiefly prevail in the hot season, when the flies abound. Dr. J. T. C. Nash, in the Journal of the Royal Sanitary Institute, giving his experience as an English health officer, says that the fly is responsible for the death of many children because of polluting the milk which they drink.

"It is a matter that has been long overlooked," said Dr. C. O. Robt, recently, "but we now know that the common house fly is an agent of importance in carrying the germs of typhoid fever. It was formerly believed that the germs were only carried in water, milk or other liquid food. Flies both breed and feed in places where the germs are to be found, and then, flying into our houses, no doubt often carry the germs and deposit them on our food."

Hope for Him, Too.

He—"Are you a vegetarian?"
She—"Oh, no! I love good beef."
He—"Ah! I wish I were beef."
She—"Well, I like veal also."

LIVELY DOINGS LAST NIGHT

Englishman and His Spouse engaged in quarrel Assisted by Dogs.

Evening Post of July 30

Nearing the hour of midnight last night Kent-st. citizens were aroused by a hubbub on the corner of Kent and William-sts. The barking of dogs, a man's curses and a woman's screams, aroused considerable excitement. Passersby hurried to the spot, where an Englishman and his wife, residents of the south ward, were engaged in a tussle. The husband was ill-treating the woman, who till lately had been engaged in a local hotel, but is now out of work. The man is said to be an idle fellow. Material assistance was given to the woman, and the man treated to a shaking. The big yellow mongrel which frequents the police court, and is a pet of the constables, then mixed up with another dog, and the excitement was increased. A man who tried to put the beasts under control, when the row had subsided it was found that the man and woman were heading down William-st. Night Constable Short followed them for a short distance, but they walked along coolly. It is said the woman is half-starved and constantly ill-treated.

Supper was served from 6 till 8.30, and large crowds tasted of the dainty viands with which the tables were laden. Crowds were present from Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and London, and thoroughly enjoyed the occasion. Much credit is due the ladies of the congregation for the success of the evening. After supper was served, and the program was read in all her glory the following program was rendered: Chorus by the choir; song, by Miss Wright; recitation, by Mr. E. Walters, entitled "Charge of the Light Brigade," read by the Misses Wright; made quartette, "Hymn to the Flag," song by Mr. N. A Sure, Quick Disposal.

Be wise. Be quick. Be early. We're just on the verge of Store-Remodeling and we can't keep stock in the store while the work of tearing down and pulling up goes on.

The last days of the Big Sale has sharpened the price cutting. We have no time for "whys" and "wherefores," or for price lists or particulars. Thousands of dollars worth still awaits quick buyers and everything must go, certain. Come in and look through, no matter if you don't buy. Read the skeleton prices in the windows and the abbreviated price tickets all over the store. Lots of things selling at less than the maker's cost. (From the Canadian Courier)

During a brief ocean voyage near the coast of Newfoundland, one of the passengers was so seriously disturbed that he was sure his death was approaching. He was so much choly in his grim assurance on the subject that another passenger said to him, half-facetiously:

"Well, have you any wishes to him, half facetiously?"

"I don't believe," he said, faintly, "that there's going to be any remains."

Wiffulness Indulged Frequently Sows Seeds of Criminality.

At the recent convention of Chief Constables of Canada, held in Montreal, several excellent papers were read by various officers on crime, the treatment of criminals, and the duties of police officers. One by Mr. Archibald, Dominion parole officer, was of more than ordinary public interest from the fact that it dealt with what he called the "germ of confirmed criminality." "Children," he said, "that are controlled by early and coaxing are subject to these early germs. It is of first importance that parents should realize that the most potent factor in the character and destiny of their children is the lesson of self-control and obedience." And he did not say this without reason, for, he says, "Time and again I have heard from the lips of prisoners the pathetic confession of a wayward and disobedient childhood, of passions indulged, and of habits formed, without efficient guidance or restraint, hence the moral wreck." "These are words which every parent of young children should ponder over," remarks a writer in an exchange. "How is it with their children? Are they sowing the seeds of criminality in their children by yielding to their childish whims? Does the child say to its father or mother, 'No, I won't' when it is asked to do anything? And does the parent allow it to talk and act thus abscondently? If such is the case with your child, Mr. Archibald tells you parents that you are your child's worst enemy, that you are planting in it seeds of disobedience, of self-will, that will in future years lead it steps toward the penitentiary to become a jail-bird and outcast from society. How do you like the picture? The child whom you love and cherish, and for whom you would gladly die, if need be, being trained to a life of criminality by your own foolish weakness. Heaven help you, if that is the case, and pray that it may, not yet be too late to undo the great wrong being done to your child.

Mother's Anxiety.

The summer months are a time of anxiety for mothers because they are the most dangerous months in the year for babies and young children. Stomach and bowel troubles come quickly during the hot weather and almost before the mother realizes that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets will prevent summer complaint if given occasionally because they keep the stomach and bowels free from offending matter. And the tablets will cure these troubles if they come suddenly. The wise mother should keep these Tablets always at hand and give them occasionally to her children. The Tablets can be given with equal success to the newborn babe or the well grown child. They always do good—they cannot possibly do harm, and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opium or harmful drug. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. The symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart and kidneys as well have their controlling or inside nerves. Weak these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's restorative has made its fame. Acting upon the decision of Council last night, Chas. Vincent (this morning visiting the building owned by the Dominion Wheel Co. which is being built irregularly with the fire by-law, and ordered that the work on it be stopped and that it be torn down. Pending the arrival of the Company's solicitor, active measures will not be taken. Previously it had been a roof, and recently it had been sheathed with lumber. It is on the spot where a configuration began a few years ago. Mr. Hamilton said the building would be taken down and be replaced with iron. It will be used for the storage of felled logs for wheels.

FOUND A HUMAN SKELETON.

Excoavators Unearth Remains of a Man—May Be a Murderer.

Port Henry is all excitement at present over the recent finding of a skeleton of a man who disappeared some thirty years ago. The skull of the skeleton was found in a hole in the ground, and was found in the foundations of the former Grand hotel when they came upon the ghostly remains. As the story is told by an old resident, the skeleton is supposed to be that of a rich Jew who resided in the neighborhood. One day this individual was missed, his horse and rig were found at a distance from the spot. No trace of his whereabouts could be found, and the incident remained shrouded in mystery. Suspensions were made at the time but no one was implicated. The skeleton unearthed may or may not be that of the supposed murderer, but the find is creating a good deal of interest in that little hamlet.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Now that the Trenton voters' list case has been brought to the knowledge of the Attorney-General's department, will it be investigated? Or will it be glossed over?

The Attorney-General's department rules that a medical health officer has the power to place any person attacked by scarlet fever under isolation, if not too ill. In isolating or removing a patient to be isolated, due regard to his safety must be had.

Two important Young People's Conferences have been meeting on the Pacific slope. The Baptist Union People's Union gathered in Spokane and the International Y. P. S. C. E. held its biennial meeting in Seattle. General Secretary Shaw reported that the Society now numbers 3,456,500 members in 69,128 societies, a gain of 2,366 societies in two years.

The Standard, a leading Baptist weekly, published in Chicago, hopes to gather in some "copy" during the holiday season by instituting an enquiry as to how much churches spend for music and how much they ought to spend. A partial enquiry made in Chicago showed that, on an average, about 14 per cent. of the total annual expenses of the churches went for music.

Hamilton Times: When the Tory press gets done with the work of piling laurels to fill vacancies in the cabinet, perhaps it will find time to tell the people what sort of timber Borden would use were he called upon to form a ministry. Of course, the utter improbability of such a contingency has kept them from discussing the subject, but it would be interesting to know what his selections would be.

Stratford Beacon: The Toronto World hints that the forams of the Lindsay counterfeiting gang, alleged to be a Toronto man, is being shielded. It thinks it strange that the plates and presses used in making the bills were not recovered by the detectives. It would be a great miscarriage of justice to permit the escape of the ringleader whilst the dupes of farmers are being punished.

A writer to the Stratford Beacon says:

The Beacon has had its annual excursion to Niagara, and the Herald has had one to Detroit. Do the proprietors of these journals fully realize the good they are doing? In an inland city we do not know very much about the work being done along our great waterways. What an eye-opener Niagara is, and a visit from Sarnia to Detroit is delightful. It is a loss to us that we are so far from the many pleasant resorts to be found in Ontario, where the Government has spent and is spending vast sums in improving these places. Next year the Beacon might give us a chance to see the great Niagara Falls and the great locks at Peterboro and the Herald might take us down through the Thousand Islands or up to Lake Simcoe or the Georgian Bay. THE TOGOS LEAVE CAMP.

CLOSE OF A DELIGHTFUL TWO WEEKS UNDER CANVAS

Rosedale the Most Charming Spot on the Kewarinas.

Friday, Aug. 2nd.
The Togos are on the go—they have divided down to dive under canvas and two under the shingled roof, and negroes are many that two weeks only contain 14 days. The hours (at this, the best of all spots on the Kewarinas) should be one hundred minutes each. But all are very thankful that two weeks are allotted for rest and recreation out of the 52.

The life-saving and wrecking crew of the Togos done good service yesterday—a prominent gentleman of Lindsay, while making his way from Cobocook to this bang in his gasoline launch, lost his wheel when out in mid-lake. The Manito, brought the gow to Dorcy, and he motored away to the stranded yacht, landed it at the stationary boom at Rosedale, jacked it up, and in less than 30 minutes had the repairer yacht on its way to Lindsay. Mr. MacNeil, on the end of a monkey wrench, was the sandy boy in the right spot.

Mr. Ames landed a dandy lunge just before breakfast this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey and young daughter, of Toronto; Mrs. Fisher and Melville and baby Mary; and Mrs. Robinson, of Lindsay, will occupy the canvas vacated by the Togos, going into camp Monday.

SOME NOTES.

The Rosedale post office has been removed from the Reynolds' property to May Villa, a neat and substantial building being erected for the purpose. Miss Viola McIntosh is postmistress, and is always pleasing and accommodating.

It is not necessary to bring a lot of vegetables to Rosedale as Mr. Tom Reynolds has almost every kind of green goods (barring the Lindsay make) that grows, and you get them from the dirt as you need them.

Mr. Jos Carroll, wife and company, came up on the Manito on Thursday and lunched at Rosedale, awaiting the return of the boat from Cobocook. Joe carries a fine brand of smokes when out for an outing—we know, because we sampled a few of them.

Mr. McCraw, of the G.T.R., Lindsay, and family, and Mrs. Billingsley and family, were visitors at the Dale Thursday, and had a run in the Togo around the lake.

Mr. Frank Scott and wife, Lindsay, were guests at Camp Togo on Thursday, and made a lucky catch of three bass while waiting for the return of the boat.

Three cheers for the finals of the best outing the Togos have had as yet. Next season they contemplate doubling the size of the camp and having a first-class chef. do the catering—yes, and possibly have a new Togo No. 3 of larger size than Togo No. 2.

Evening Post of Aug. 1.

Gasoline launch owners are getting their grates in shape for the regular run on August 8th. They are being rubbed down and repainted and fitted with speed wheels and the newest things in carburetors, and some surprises are promised.

Master Willie Parkin, who is stopping with his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Parkin, is a promising young fisherman. Tuesday morning he caught a magnificent goodly dimensions, but it disappeared from under his very nose as he was holding it up to the admiring gaze of his grandfather, who was rowing the craft. It was a truly disconcerting exhibition of fishy athletics, but things evened up next day, when another nice one was landed and found its way into the frying pan in due season.

Mrs. E. A. Maley, and Miss Arnot, nurses in the Manhattan hospital, New York, are holidaying with Mrs. J. L. Brown.

The cottagers are divided in opinion as to the relative beauties of the two handsome cottages erected this season by Mr. J. W. Phyllis, of Toronto, and Dr. Robt. Allan, of California. The former is of the pavilion type and its shingled pillars, wide verandas, and rustic tinted to produce a truly splendid effect. Dr. Allan's building is a dainty creation, the color scheme a dark green with white trimmings, and it looks so inviting that passers-by involuntarily exclaim, "Wouldn't it be nice to live there?"

A garden party at the west end, the proceeds to be devoted to the proper protection of the Spring, is being talked up. An "ad" should give the scheme their support.

Mr. Jack Dixon is a busy man these days. His boarding house is completely filled with guests, and for further accommodation he has rented a couple of cottages.

with infinite regret, because you are young, you will not return to the chateau, for I am going to kill you, unless

"Unless?" The Chevalier slowly swung off the table.

"Unless you will give me your word of honor now that you will leave France to-morrow and never return."

The young man reflectively put back one of his dainty lips. "Ah, my dear Vicomte," he answered, "I say it too with infinite regret, but that I cannot promise. So you must kill me I fear. Alas!" he added with dilatory decision, "alas! what have I done?"

"Very good!"—Andre fastened his cloak—"in three days we will meet in Paris."

"In Paris? Why not kill me here?"

"—Because," Andre stared at him in astonishment.

"Here and at once." He walked to the door. "Two torches," he called, "two torches."

When he had lit them the Chevalier marched out. "This way," he said politely, "permit me to show you, with infinite regret, where you can kill me."

Half expecting a trick or foul play Andre followed him cautiously until he stopped in a deserted stable yard, paved and clean, and completely shut in by high walls. The young man gravely placed one torch in a ring on the north wall and the other on the wall opposite.

"That," he said, in the pleasantest manner possible, "will make the lights fair. You—point to the west—"

"Will stand there, or here, if you prefer, to the east. You will agree, doubtless, that to a man who is to be killed it is a trifle where he stands."

The torches flared smokily in the April dusk. He was mad, this boyish fool, stark, raving mad. But how prettily and elegantly he played the part.

"See," the Chevalier said lightly, "there is no one to interrupt—the murderer. Toinette knows neither my name nor yours; she will hold her tongue for money and in half an hour you will be gone—and I—"

he shrugged his shoulders—"well, it is clean lying here cleaner than under the grass in that dirty churchyard."

"You mean it?" Andre asked slowly.

The Chevalier took off his saucy hat and fine coat, hung them upon one of the rusty rings in the wall, and turned back his lace ruffles. A flash—his sword had cut a rainbow through the dusk across the yellow flare of the torches.

"I am at your service, Vicomte," he said with a low bow. "And I shall return to the chateau when and how I please, and I shall be welcome, eh?"

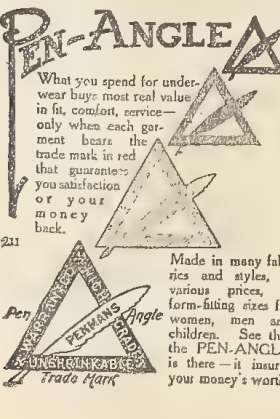

"By God!" Andre ripped out. "By God! I will kill you."

He too had flung off his coat and cloak and took the position by the east wall. A strange duel this, assuredly not the first in which the Vicomte de Nerac had fought for a woman's sake, but the strangest, maddest, that man's wit or a boy's folly could have devised. Andre was as cold as ice now, and he calmly surveyed his opponent as he tried the steel of his blade. How young and supple and insolently gay the beardless popinjay was; but he had the fencer's figure, and the handling of his weapon revealed to the trained eye that this would be no affair of six passes and a couple of minutes. Yes, never did Andre feel so calmly confident of his own famed skill and rich experience. No, he would not kill him, but he would teach him a lesson that he would not forget.

For a brief minute both scanned the ground carefully, testing it with their feet, and marking the falling of the lights from those smoking torches, the flickering of the shadows in the raw chill of eve. All around was deathly still. Not so much as the cluck of a hen to break the misty silence.

"On guard!"

The Chevalier was about eight paces off. He now came slowly forward, eagerly to engage. A swift movement as a strong spring uncoiled—a flash—and steel clashed on steel. Yes, the young man clenched the fencer's sword. The true swordsman's wrist could be felt in his blade, the swordsman's eye in his point, and his passes came with the ease of that mastery of style, swiftness, and precision that the fencer can feel but not describe.

strangest accident lying in the damp, matted grass that sprawled over the tombstone of the little Marquise Marie. Yes, at that bitter moment he could have shed tears of shame as he recalled the defeat and the humiliation inflicted on him by that beardless boy, on him, a Capitaine-Lieutenant of the Chevaliers de la Garde, on him who had never been vanquished yet. And he had sworn to win Denise! Why was he not lying under the sod, forgotten and dead to the pain of the world, like little Marie?

A figure was creeping past him in the dark—a woman.

"Who is that?" he cried sharply, glancing at her hood.

"Monsieur, it is me—me, Monsieur."

"Yvonne!" He let the hood go as if he had been stung.

"But yes, Monsieur, Yvonne, of the Spotted Cow." She kissed his hand, humbly.

"Yvonne," he gasped. "What do you here?"

"I was born in this village," she answered, "my mother, she lives here. She is old, my mother."

"You—your here?"

"Surely, Monsieur. It is the truth."

Andre shivered. Half an hour ago how near his mother, who was old too, had been to praying for the soul of her only son. And she had been spared that pain by the courtesy of a beardless chevalier.

And what do you now in the churchyard?" he asked.

"I come to say my prayers for the little Marquise Marie. She is in the bosom of the good God, is our little Marquise, but I say a prayer for her soul when I am happy."

"And why do you pray for the Marquise Marie?" he asked.

"Because surely she is our Marquise. That other," she waved a hand at the twinkling lights of the noble chateau—"the King gave to us, but there is only one Marquise for us here, the little lady Marie, who is dead. Dieu Le Vengeur! Dieu Le Vengeur!" she whispered softly below her breath.

"Peace, girl, peace," he said, half smiling, half angry.

"Monsieur," Yvonne whispered, "Monsieur loves the Marquise Denise."

"Who told you that?" he demanded so fiercely that Yvonne shrank back.

"It was the wise woman," she answered, "the wise woman of The Cock with the Spurs of Gold, who knows everything. Ah! if Monsieur would go to the wise woman she would tell him how he might win the Marquise Denise. Did she not give me back my lover, did she not tell me to find again my spotted cow, did she not tell me that Monsieur would be here to-day?"

"She told you that?" he gasped.

"Yes, Monsieur."

Andre sat down on the tombstone in the supreme amazement and confusion. What did it, could it mean?

"I will pray," Yvonne went on in her innocent, soft voice, "to our little Marquise that Monsieur may marry the Marquise Denise."

"Why?" Andre asked.

"Because then Monsieur will be our lord and we will be his serfs."

"You would like to be my serf, Yvonne?" he demanded, putting his hand on her shoulder, and he could feel her tremble.

"Surely, surely," she answered.

"Then you shall—some day you shall. I swear it."

A gust of hot passion swept over him. She was not pretty, this peasant woman, but she had a noble figure, and the comfort of a woman's caress in that hour of abasement appealed with an irresistible sweetness to his wounded spirit. Something, however, checked him—as if Yvonne herself by a mystic power paralyzed his passion. Yet she made no effort to escape, and under his hand on her plump shoulder he could feel that she, too, was in the grip of strong emotion.

His arm dropped to his side.

"Monsieur will go to the wise woman."

He stared at her, yet feeling so sure.

"I am not going to the chateau," the Chevalier added quietly. "I too, am going to the war with my master and yours, the King. If it will satisfy you, I will promise not to speak to Mademoiselle the Marquise de Beau Sejour until we both return."

"You can do as you please with regard to Mademoiselle la Marquise," Andre said sharply.

"And will you do me a favor?" the young man pleaded. "I beg you that for the future you will not speak of our meeting here to any one."

"Why?"

"Simply because I regret now that I prevented myself from being killed by a low trick. Life to the young is sweet to my sole excuse to a better swordsman than myself."

"Very well," Andre answered, touched to the quick by the faintest delicacy with which the compliment was paid.

"I thank you. Perhaps now you will give me your hand?"

"With the greatest pleasure."

The Chevalier had for the moment stormed his heart with the same superb grace that he had robbed him of his sword.

"Adieu!"

And then in the forest dudgeon Andre strode out in search of his sword. To his surprise the wall of the court where they had fought backed on to the churchyard, and a few minutes' probing revealed his sword by the scourer's hand. "She said very quietly, 'for she can help him better than any peasant woman.'"

And then Andre laughed. The gaiety of yesterday had suddenly remastered him. He forgot the shamed sword, the Chevalier, and that infernal court with its smoking torches. Denise should yet be his, and his strange girl his serf.

"Why, then, I will seek this wise woman," he answered lightly, "before I go to the war. I promise, Yvonne."

And so he left her to her prayers at the tomb of the child who should have been her lord. But she did not pray very long. Indeed, had Andre cared he might have seen her wrapped in her course cloak walking swiftly towards the twinkling lights of the great chateau, and she sang as she sang on the back of her spotted cow.

CHAPTER VI.

It was a strangely superstitious age this age of Louis XV., strangely superstitious and strangely enlightened.

On the one side the illuminated philosophers of the rising school of Voltaire, on the other a society ready to be gulled by every charlatan, quack, or sorcerer clever enough to exploit the depths of human credulity. You shall read in the fascinating memoirs of that century how the male and female adventurers tricked to their immense profit the polished, gullible, cynical, and light-headed nobles which made the glory of the Court. And Andre was a true child of his age. Yvonne's mystifying remarks had stirred all the superstition and awe lurking behind his hollow homage to the established religion, and human curiosity whetted the stimulus of superstition. He scented, in fact, an agreeable adventure in a visit to this mysterious woman.

But first he consulted his friend Henri, Comte de St. Benoit, like himself a Chevalier of the Garde, and like himself notorious for his skill with the sword and for his countless gallantries. Was it not St. Benoit who had taken his place in rousing the jealousy of the Comte des Forges and who had also been obliged to give the hot-headed husband of the aristocratic and beautiful woman. Was she not the talk of the bel monde?

"She won't see you," he said. "She only prophesies to women, and very few of them. I tried to bring her to book, but her girl, a devilish saucy grissette, with a roving eye and a skittish pout, shut the door in my face, by Madame's orders, if you please."

"And she won't away?"

"No, indeed, I put my knee against the door and said that as I couldn't pay Madame I must pay her. Not the first time the hussy has been kissed, and it won't be the last. You, too, will discover the jade hasn't the dislike to men that her mistress has."

"What will you wager she will not see me—the mistress?"

"A kiss from my Diane of the ballet. I'll bet, too, Madame is not at home at all, for she comes and goes like a will-o'-the-wisp. But if you do see her she'll tell you something curiously disagreeable. She frightened the poor Des Forges, your comrade, into his boots, into his boots, and his voice, she warned the Duchesse de Chateauroux she had only three weeks to live—and it was all the poor thing had. Don't go to her, my dear Andre; she'll see you in her crystal globe, face upwards in a heap of dead with an English sword in your gus."

Needless to say, perhaps, that afternoon saw Andre at the tavern called "The Cock with the Spurs of Gold," which, save for a brand-new sign-board, had all the appearance of a farmhouse, hastily turned into an inn. Buried in the woods between Paris and Versailles it was exactly suited for a rendezvous to which all might repair without the world being any the wiser. Andre had carefully disguised himself, and as he rapped on the door his appearance suggested rather the comfortable bourgeois than the noble Capitaine-Lieutenant des Chevaliers de la Garde. To his surprise he was met by a woman with greater ease than he had dreamed.

The saucy grissette, whose demure demeanor could not conceal the shifty falseness of her roving eyes, took to her mistress the name he gave, the "Sieur de Coutances," and then, to his joy, speedily ushered him with no little ogling into an empty, low-beamed parlor, which was simply the apartment of a woman who could indulge her love of luxury.

Inside there were no traces unless he counted for such an enormous black cat with the most atrocious whiskers, who arched his back on Andre's entrance and glared at him with diabolical yellow eyes—a cat to make the flesh creep and bristle as did his whiskers.

"Welcome, Vicomte, welcome!"

Andre found himself staring in the dim light with intense surprise, not at a wizened hag, but at a young woman scarcely more than five-and-twenty, dressed in flowing black draperies which made her wealth of fair hair, blue eyes, and dazzling skin all the more startling. Her dress was wide open at the throat and on her breast flashed an exquisite diamond cross.

And what a figure! Those flowing draperies, that step forward revealed a woman perfectly shaped in every limb. It was therefore a shame that above her upper lip there was the suggestion of a dark moustache, the dark added in the most extraordinary way to the world effect of her appearance.

"Welcome, Vicomte, welcome!" she repeated, but she offered him no salute save a wave of her finely shaped hand towards a chair.

"I am not a vicomte," Andre answered doggedly.

"Then when did the Vicomte de Nerac lose his rank?" she asked quickly, and laughed at his obvious embarrassment.

"Ah, Vicomte, if I were not able to divine who my visitor was I should not have a trick like this—she waved her diamond cross, stooped and lifted the huge cat and stroked it gently with her chin.

"And what can I do for you?" she demanded, coming closer.

"My faith, but I do not know," he answered. The faint perfume of her person was puzzling him sorely. But in truth he was familiar with the perfume of so many women that it was hopeless to expect an answer to the question.

"Nor do I," the woman answered, still laughing, and her laugh was like the purr of her cat. "In any case, Monsieur le Vicomte must wait. A lady is already here to see me. No, it is not necessary to retire. In spite of what I have said, you are a gentleman, therefore you shall listen while she and I talk."

She pointed to a large screen and Andre, now burning with curiosity, glazed screen himself behind it. The woman with the cat still in her arms promptly flung herself on to a long sofa and rang her handbell.

"Introduce Madame," she said to the girl. "Madame's fille de chambre must wait without."

The visitor, Andre decided was young. Her trim figure, the comely pose of her head, the graceful dignity of her carriage filled him with the liveliest regret that he could not see her face, which was thickly veiled. She came to an abrupt halt in the centre of the room—for the woman on the sofa never stirred. Clearly she, too, had expected something very different.

"Your name, Madame?" asked the sorceress abruptly.

"Mademoiselle, if it please you," the visitor corrected, "Mademoiselle Lucie Marie Villefranche."

Andre was listening now with all his ears. Where before had he heard that crisp, alluring voice?

"Bien, Madame."

"Mademoiselle—" persisted the visitor, nettled.

"Then why does Mademoiselle wear a wedding ring?"

The visitor made an impatient movement, bit her lip, and petulantly drew off her glove. On the hand she triumphantly held out there was no sign of a wedding-ring.

"It is in Madame's pocket," the sorceress said calmly. "But it is of as little importance as is Madame's husband to her."

The visitor checked an indignant reply and simply glared through her veil.

Excellent fun, thought Andre, when you set one woman against another—and such women!

"Give me your hand," the sorceress proceeded, and she inspected it with the greatest care, the owner watching her with concealed anxiety. "I see a crown in the palm which I cannot understand," she said slowly, a "crown reversed." A beautiful hand," she murmured, "beautiful and strong. The hand of a morceau de roi."

Madame Villefranche uttered a sharp cry, almost of triumph. "Morceau de roi," she repeated. "Morceau de roi. That is strange. You have heard perhaps that long ago another soothsayer also said the same."

"I must consult the orb," the other replied as if she did not hear, and she gazed long and silently at the crystal globe which she produced from its resting-place beside the diamond cross.

"Yes, it is quite clear now."

"What do you see?" was the eager question.

"A great gallery—it is I think the Salon d'Hercule at Versailles—there are many men and women in it, finely dressed—I see a lady in a rose-colored satin in their centre—it is her favorite color—they pay court to her—"

"Ah!" Madame Villefranche had stood up. Her hand went involuntarily to her heart.

"One enters with his hat on!"—the sorceress jerked out slowly—"he keeps it on as he advances as they bow—he takes his hat off—it is the King—he kisses the hand of the woman in rose-colored satin—she salutes—"

"Mon Dieu!" Madame Villefranche suddenly knelt beside her. Andre, as excited as she was, crawled forward so as not to lose a word.

"I see her again!"—the woman proceeded after a pause—"she gives orders to ministers—she makes generals—she tramples on all who oppose her—the King is her slave—ah! the crystal is disturbed—no—no—there is much unhappiness—the land is poor—there are jealousies, strifes, quarrels, wars—starring men and women cry out against the King and his mistress—but the woman in the rose-colored satin still wears her jewels—she does not hear them. What is this?—yes, it is—a house being Versailles for Paris—the King looks out of the window above on to the Place d'Armes—he shrugs his shoulders—I do not see the woman in the rose-colored satin any more—I think surely she is dead and no one cares—ah! the crystal has become dim." She put it down and closed her eyes.

Dead silence, but Andre could hear the deep-drawn breaths of Madame Villefranche. Her hands were twisted in supreme emotion.

"And the face—the face of the woman, did you see that?" she asked with dry lips.

The sorceress opened her eyes. "Oh, yes," she said slowly. "It is the face of Madame d'Elleilles, born Jeanne, an tonette Poisson—your face, Madame," she added as she flung her visitor's veil swiftly back. The cat leaped from her arms. Madame Villefranche sprang to her feet; the two women were confronting each other, each drawn to her full height.

Andre too had risen. Hat! At last he understood. The visitor was no other than the fair huntress of the woods who had driven to see the King, in an azure phaeton, herself clad in rose-colored satin.

"Ah!" exclaimed Madame d'Elleilles, stretching her arms. "Ah!" Then she turned on the sorceress furiously. "My woman has betrayed me," she cried.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as set forth by the writings of leading medical authorities, and as used in all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This is a positive and true remedy, and will be ready to prove to your satisfaction.

If you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

PETERBORO CHEESE BOARD

CHEESE DID NOT REACH ELEVEN CENTS AT RECENT SALE

10 13-16 Cents was Best Price Offered—Registration was 4,595 Boxes.

Evening Post of Aug. 2.

Peterboro Review: Both the amount of cheese registered and the price paid at Wednesday's meeting of the Peterboro Cheese Board were below those at the last meeting two weeks ago. Eleven buyers were in attendance, however, and they seemed to be keen after cheese, but the best they would pay was 10 13-16c, with 10 3-4c as the second figure. The total registration was 4,595 boxes, as compared with an even 5,000 two weeks ago, when 11 5-16c was the ruling price. Cheese has been going down the slide, however, since the last meeting of the board, and it was not expected that over 11c would be paid to-day. It is likely that the registration of two weeks ago, 5,000 boxes, will be the highest for the season, as the flow of milk is now decreasing. June is the factory man's big month. The board will meet again in two weeks.

CHEESE BIDDING.

The bidding opened with an offer of 10c from Mr. Wrighton. This was raised to 10 1-16c by Mr. Whitson and then Mr. Wrighton offered 10 1-4c. Mr. Squires raised the bid to 10 5-16c and two or three intermediate bids were made until Mr. Gillespie offered 10 11-16c. This was raised to 10 3-4c by Mr. Cook, Mr. Whitson made it 10 13-16c and had the first call, taking the following: Cavanville, Ormiston, Kilgus, Norwood, Brickley and Lane.

Westwood and Keene refused this offer.

The next call went to Mr. Gillespie at 10 13-16c and the following called: Buckhorn, Westwood, Vilius, and Otonabee Union.

Mr. Clark offered 10 13-16c for the next lot and the following called: Bensford, Shearer, Trovorn, Pine Grove, Lakefield, Myrie, Fraserdy, Crown, entrail Smith, Selway, Westmister and Warsaw.

Mr. Weir also offered 10 13-16c and the following factories called: Oakdale, Keene, Indian River, and Young's Point. Mr. Weir offered 10 3-4c for further, but Mr. Squires offered 10 3-4c for the board and the latter bid took precedence. The following called: Godardale, Mount Pleasant, Oak Leaf, South Burleigh, and Hope.

Maple Leaf, North Dunsmuir, East Emily, and Fleetwood refused this offer and also the same figure from Mr. Weir. They were the only factories that did not sell.

A total of 35 factories boarded 4,595 boxes. The following buyers were present: Messrs. Wrighton, Cook, Squires, Gillespie, Grant, Weir, Whitson, Brentnall, Jones and Cienies.

Entertained Her Friends.

The home of Miss Mabel Bryans, north ward, was the scene of a jolly gathering of young people last week when about twenty or more of her friends were entertained on the lawn. The grounds were prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and the party adjourned to the house, where cake and ice cream was served, after which games and music were indulged in.

At 7 o'clock the popular young hostess for the pleasant evening, the happy crowd dispersed to their homes in the wee small hours of the morning.

Members Are Having the Time of Their Lives—Yachting Trips

Evening Post of Aug. 1.

We are pretty near the finals to-day (Wednesday), and we believe we will win out as having beaten all previous attempts at a good time. Weather, a.k.a. but a trifle windy—think we will have a kite-flying contest, as it is no trouble getting a breeze at any time.

Bert, Harry, Percy and Stafford O'Neill left at 6:30 this a.m. for Kirkfield, and will look through with the Manilla, which is going to Beaverton, with the Oddfellows' excursion from the Falls, passing Rosedale at 8 a.m. Mrs. R. J. M. and Nellie Blye will catch the boat and will make their first trip to Beaverton.

Arahie Wardrobe and his companion, Leo Koyl, from Kingston, have been delightfully entertained at Togo with a high-class musical on his elegant phonograph, and has given us lots of variety, having 600 records to choose from.

Pinky and Norman are putting in a good time—most of it spent in the company of the young girls of the burg.

Mrs. and R. J. M. Harry and the Irish comedian, Barney O'Neill, had a fine trip to Cobocook on Tuesday night on the Kawartha, guests of the accommodating captain, Cass Burgoyne. (The sail was a bit rough on the trip, but after a splendid supper at the Falls house, the return trip was untroubled.)

We made the Rural River trip on Tuesday morning, brought our tin cups and heaped them up with the red and black juicy raspas, but they are scarce as yet and very small. It is just like fishing—stay with it and you get them.

May Villa, where Mrs. McIntosh puts up such appetizing meals, is still closed to overflows, applications being refused every mail.

The government are now building a lighthouse on the wharf that, when finished, will be located and placed at the red buoy, just west of the bridge. Six men are on the job, the foreman being Mr. Geo. Littleton of Fenelon Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ames, Miss Ames, and Miss Bowman, of Buffalo, are guests with Mrs. Arkwright; Mr. Ames is deep after the denizens of the deep.

Mr. and Mrs. Metzger and family, of Pittsburg, are doing the lakes in their well equipped yacht, the Elsie, and it is a beauty, costing $900 at Peterboro two months ago.

Mr. and Miss Geary, of Hamilton, passed through Rosedale Tuesday on a canoeing trip to Lakefield, Sparrow Lake, and touching at Orillia and Barrie.

The Terry-Stinson-Hamilton party passed up to Lake Simcoe on the yacht formerly owned by Mr. Hogg. They apparently were out for a good time.

MORE ANON.

Evening Post of Aug. 2.

Thursday morning at 6 o'clock, the members were sporting themselves in the lake and kicking up dirt; 9 a.m., 37,000 logs (belonging to the lumber king, J. Carey, of Lindsay, were making their way through the bridge all the lumber jacks hustling.

They were assisted by Percy and Pink, who are running the log like mid-time river driven. It we can make our way through the bunch of timber, will sit with Mr. Alex. Jamieson, Mill View Farm, Glenora, for dinner.

Mrs. R. J. and Nellie Blye had a fine trip to Beaverton Wednesday, and are thoroughly enjoying themselves and putting on flesh.

Mr. Metzger and family break camp to-day, and will put up again at Beaverton for vicinity for a short stay. They will tour the lakes until Oct. 1st—then home to Pittsburg.

Grey, Barney and Harry went to the Falls last night and caught the late train for Lindsay, and Harry, no doubt, is at his desk at the G.T.R. offices this morning.

The Oddfellows' excursion from Fenelon Falls to Beaverton yesterday was a large one, the Manilla being loaded to her full capacity. Spilled their passengers at the Falls at 9 p.m.

Burt, Barney, Percy and Harry, made Kirkfield on Wednesday in two hours and were hospitably entertained by Mr. Jack Walker, manager of the Standard bank and were back in the beauty spot, Rosedale, at 4:30 p.m.

Dozens of rigs passed through the burg this morning, all heading for the heavy patches on Chemung Island, two miles from Cobocook. They say the riggers are very fine, and lots of them in that district.

Mr. Bert Downlay, of Fenelon Falls, passed through this morning on a business trip to Cobocook and Norland.

An Amicable Arrangement Between the Two Great Powers.

While the continental press has been assuming negotiations between Great Britain and Russia for the settlement of all questions, especially those of Asiatic boundaries, and spheres of influence, events have been quietly maturing in another direction. The signing at St. Petersburg of a treaty settling all outstanding differences between Russia and Japan is an event of the utmost promise. From the hints given in the despatch, Japan would seem to have scored some very satisfactory advantages. Very important among these is that the yellow pigmies, as Prince Ukhomsky called them just before the late unpleasantness, are to enjoy on Russian territory, as are Russian subjects in Japan, equality before the law and equal commercial opportunity. What gives importance to this is the fact that the United States and Australia, not having gone beyond the yellow pigmy stage of intelligence with regard to them, are busy devising, possibly to their own hurt, all sorts of disabilities against men of Asiatic race. At all events, if the story of the treaty is truly told, Russia, which was the hindmost of nations in all matters of modernity and fraternity, has, under pressure of circumstances, stepped to the front in this frank acceptance of the principle of human equality. It will now be for the rest of the world to win in the development of eastern Asia. It will be a notable race. Russia will bend what energies she has toward developing that empire in the valley of the Amur, while, on the other hand, Japanese enterprise will swarm all over the coasts. If the Russians have the greater energy and commercial ability, the meeting of these two human currents will be chiefly to their advantage. If the Japanese excel in these qualities, it will be their race that will dominate.

A second important concession that seems to have been gained by Japan is the continued exclusion of the Kwangtung peninsula from all arrangements with regard to Manchuria. Both parties have always in their negotiations treated Manchuria as belonging to China, whose integrity in the matter was to be held sacred by both. As a matter of fact Japan is still at Mukden and Russia is still at Harbin, and there is no saying when either will leave. Japan has definitely possessed herself of the little Kwangtung peninsula, which contains the quondam Russian strongholds of Yrt, Anshan, and Dalny; and she certainly, judging from some recent utterances of Japanese magnates, regards southern Manchuria as a sphere of influence in time to be peopled and dominated by the overflow of the Japanese race. Korea is, of course, recognized as definitely Japanese. The fisheries along the Pacific coasts will fall practically to Japan, whose fishermen are the most pushing and most daring in the world. In the British Columbian fisheries the Japanese are, in rough weather, a great deal further out to sea than any white fishermen dare go. The Japanese are under the treaty to be on a par with Russians in Russian waters, they will pay the same license as the Chinese subjects, and they will go free to export their fish without the check of any export duty. The term fisheries covers the taking of all sea animals except the otter. Except at the mouth of the Amur the Japanese may employ Japanese, or in other words they may act altogether as though the coast was theirs own, except for the policing, which will be in the hands of Russia.

NO CLOSE SEASON.

This is What a Leading Fisherman Believes In.

G. W. Gauthier, one of the most prominent of Canadian fishermen, and one of the foremost authorities on fish, told the Canadian Fish Commission, in session lately, that there should be no close season for any kind of fish. Government hatcheries would rapidly re-establish stock in the great lakes. Salmon trout should not be protected because they eat the eggs of whitefish and do not seem to be decreased in number by the annual catch. Discussing the report, he said almost the entire number of fish caught by Canadians went to the American shores. Mr. Gauthier said that his exportation were prevented by the government. It would kill the fishing industry along the Great Lakes. Government hatcheries were the only remedy for the present condition. The people of Canada, he said, would receive the same supply of fish that the Americans received from Canadian fishermen if they were willing to pay the same price. Gauthier outlined a plan to have the government establish hatcheries along the shores of the northern lakes and supply canned fish to the people at an estimated cost of about six cents a pound.

STRONG REASONING.

A considerable amount of canvassing has already been done, and the promoters have met with great success that they have decided to make a start at construction in the very near future, running from Burnt River to Burnt Green, in which section the wide-awake farmers have subscribed liberally, and from there up to the Falls, unless—and here is where our business men must wake up—unless the farmers and business men in the direction of Boboageon make a stronger bid for it than do the people in this village and vicinity. A Burnt River man was at the Falls recently in the interests of the enterprise, and said that, while he received considerable encouragement, the people here did not appear to be fully alive to the importance of the situation. Look here, business men of Fenelon Falls, the business of the north country, or a part of it, will follow that telephone line. A telephone line is not an expensive affair; a railway, but it is almost as important to a community. And an independent line is worth two or three Bell lines, for it is run solely for the convenience and profit of its subscribers.

SYSTEM WILL EXTEND.

Another point: This is just the beginning of rural telephony in this section. It is a safe prediction that within ten years or less, there will not be a square mile of the country north, east and west, to which the system will not reach, if it remains independent. Will these lines centre in Fenelon Falls or will they not? Is it worth ten or twenty dollars a year for a merchant or other business man to be next door to all his customers? It will not do to go back and say the line will come here anyway. It won't. It will go where the people put it. An organization is to be held in the near future, and the line will likely be in operation before the snow flies. What are you going to do about it?—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

PRESENTATION AT MINDEN.

Rev. Archbold and Bride Welcomed at the Clergy House.

On Tuesday evening last the Clergy House, Minden, was filled to overflowing with a highly delighted crowd representing the congregation of St. Paul's church, Minden, who, with visitors from Haliburton and Lochlin, had assembled to greet Rev. Rural Dean Archbold and his bride, on their home coming. The assembly was headed by the church warden, who, on behalf of the congregation, presented Mr. and Mrs. Archbold with a very handsome parlor couch upholstered in red velvet plush, accompanied by an address of welcome and good wishes, which was read by the clergyman's warden, Mr. H. E. G. Soward, and the presentation was made by Mr. D. J. Harte, people's warden. Rural Dean Archbold replied in most feeling and fitting terms, after which the company enjoyed an exceedingly pleasant time, during which light refreshments were served to the company, and the meeting concluded with hearty personal congratulations from the visitors for the future welfare of the newly married couple.

The following is the address: Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Archbold.

On behalf of the members of the congregation of St. Paul's church I am requested by them to perform a very pleasant duty, at this time, in asking Mrs. Archbold and yourself to accept a small token of our esteem and love towards you, of our deep appreciation of your labors on our behalf, and of our warmest wishes for the future of your marriage. It is my feeling you still further, it may inspire you still further, it may remain and labor amongst us, even when parishes of more importance and larger stipends are open to you. And may the pleasant relations that have existed during the past year, continue between us. With this tangible form of our esteem, we wish Mrs. Archbold and yourself, on the occasion of your marriage, all joy and happiness and felicity, and may God our Heavenly Father, bless you with every good gift through life's journey.—Signed on behalf of the members of St. Paul's.

Evening Post of Aug. 2.

For some time past a number of the more progressive business men and farmers between here and Kimble have been endeavoring to get the Bell Telephone Co. to extend its line from either the Falls or Cobocook into that section; but as last big company is unable to dig down any business where from fifty to a hundred per cent. profit in advance is not forthcoming, it couldn't see its way clear to put in the line, though if the people who wanted the service would build the line and present it to the big company, the said big company would have much pleasure in operating it at the expense of the builders, plus one of the profits mentioned above. So the north country people, tired of trying to make satisfactory arrangements with the Bell company, have decided that they can build and operate a line of their own, as is being done in many and an ever increasing number of places similarly situated.

By "THE STROLLER."

There was an item of news recently that struck us as being rather peculiar. It was the fact that all butts and pieces where liquor could be procured, were to be closed during the strike at Cobalt. The thought just struck us—why, if this liquor business is a respectable, legitimate business, should such an order be that go out, and why should it be out when there is any appearance of trouble? Surely if it is right and correct to sell liquor at one time, it is right and correct at another time, either that or it is wrong all the time. Should there happen to be a catastrophe, such as a great fire in a place about the first thing the Mayor does is to order the closing of the saloons. When San Francisco was visited last year with its terrible earthquake and fire, the first order that went out was to close every saloon, with the result that the crime seemed almost to stop. Now it does seem to be good logic, that if crime would be stopped in one case by the closing of saloons, it would be stopped in the ordinary running of a town by closing them. How would it do for us to try it in Lindsay? San Francisco is generally conceded to be the worst city for the continent. It is the jumping-off place, and the dress of both men and women wind up in it, as they can't get any farther away. But during the time the saloons were closed crime practically ceased.

We very often see the speakeasy made, mostly by Haverston, K.C., that the saloon-keepers are just as anxious to keep the law as anybody. We have knocked around quite a bit, and must confess that our experience is to the contrary. Either through good-heartedness, or love of gain, they will sell drink at any and every time—not all of them, but the great majority of them. Take Cobalt. There is no license in Cobalt, and yet there are probably a dozen places where a man can get a drink. These people who sell know they are breaking the law, and if they are willing to break one law how many more will they not break if convenient? We often wonder if the railway and express companies, and the wholesale merchants who sell them, think they are innocent of any law-breaking. In this unfortunate case of counterfeiting money, we see that the authorities rope in everybody in any way connected with it—the engraver, the printer, the issuer, and the man who above all, why shouldn't the same rule apply to him who sells the same rule apply to him who sells? Any wholesale man who gets an order from Cobalt, knows that it has no right to go there, but no doubt argues—especially if the cash accompanies the order—that it is none of his business, and slips it as vinegar on tomato sauce or something else, but what it is, thus deluding his eyes, as well as breaking the liquor license act. I can only say, his traveler probably calls there regularly, so that it is no new thing to him.

Then the express or the railway companies are not by any means guiltless. Of course the stuff they carry is not billed as beer or whiskey. It goes out as vinegar or soda, or something else, but they know it is not either of them and we suppose that a conscientious agent who undertook to do the straight thing, would get well wrapped over the knuckles from his superiors and told to mind his own business. It is wonderful what we will all do, even the best of us, for a few extra cents. It would not surprise us one bit to see some of these fellows, after all, in the Socialist's plea that if you once eliminate the profit, you will stop the harm. It is worth thinking over very seriously. There has got to be a cure found.

Victoria Road Hotel Rumpus. In last week's issue of our weekly appeared a letter from a prominent citizen of Victoria Road, in which he complained bitterly about certain disorderly proceedings at a local hotel the Saturday evening previous. License Inspector Thornbury, of this town, took the matter up, the hotel in question being within his jurisdiction, and the affair culminated Friday in Mr. Chipman, the hotelman in question, paying our town a visit, and being assessed $15 and costs by Magistrate Moore.

It is only fair to Mr. Chipman—who is known to keep an orderly house—to explain that he was absent from home on the day the rumpus occurred, and that he expressed his disapproval of the disorderliness by promptly discharging the bartender who had encouraged and permitted it.

Just Like Lindsay in the Eighties. Port Hope Guide: Last evening's Council meeting was the merriest for 1907, and some hard knocks were handed out by the members. It was carried out together too far, and the only movement of the evening which didn't meet with opposition was the resolution to adjourn. It took just three hours and ten minutes to do thirty minutes business. The meeting upon the eighth month of the year, and it is time the City Fathers settled down to business. It might be well in the future if the angry passions of the members should rise, for the City Fathership to adjourn the meeting. Nothing is gained in such burlesques.

WOMAN CHASED BY BEAR

WHILE OUT BERRY PICKING NEAR JANETVILLE

Villagers Organize a Posse to Hunt the Animal to His Death.

The following, taken from yesterday's Peterboro Examiner, reads as follows, but so far we have been unable to verify the tale:

The village of Janetville was greatly excited yesterday afternoon and evening over the appearance of a big, real live bear in a berry patch about half a mile outside the village. A woman and two children were in the patch picking raspberries when suddenly the woman heard a peculiar noise a little distance away. She turned around and beheld a big bear approaching. She alarmed the two youngsters, and the three dropped their pails and made a wild run for safety. It was the only thing they could do, as they were unarmed, and no assistance was at hand. They were badly scared and covered the ground at a rapid gait, with the bear close behind. They reached a house not far away, and the animal which is so fond of putting its arms around one, made off again.

Word was sent to the village and like wild fire, spread among the residents. Mr. J. R. Burns, one of the merchants organized a posse, which started out for the berry patch. All were well armed and they formed a circle around the supposed hiding place, but ruin had been done.

The sight of a bear in the berry patches will put fear into the hearts of women and children, and it will be a hard job getting pickers for the balance of the season.

WESTERN vs. ONTARIO FLOUR.

The Latter is a Favorite in the Maritime Provinces.

Only by wisely adopting new discoveries can the farmers of this Province compete on even terms with the West, whose specialty is wheat. Western wheat has invaded Ontario, and the decline in the demand for Ontario wheat is to-day a fact only too evident to farmers. Ontario agriculturists, in many instances, buy Western flour, raise little or no wheat, and for what they do raise, are not receiving a price commensurate with their labor—all largely because they will not use the flour made from wheat that they grow themselves, owing to a mistaken opinion that the Western flour is better. In addition to this loss of market, the cost of food is too high to enable stockmen and dairymen to replace the profit which, under proper conditions, ought to be assured.

It will be somewhat of a surprise for most farmers, to learn that Ontario flour is a favorite in the Eastern provinces; and that in the face of strong competition, it has for several years been preferred in the Maritime Provinces, to the best Western brands. The discovery of flour-blending has done much to re-open the demand for Ontario wheat; and this ought to attract the attention of Ontario farmers to a question of vital importance to the agricultural interests of the Province. Blended flour is simply the best of Ontario's finely-flavored product to which a small proportion of Western wheat is added to bring up the percentage of gluten or strength. Blended flour, from the best Western brands, is the best for baking and milling, it means both strength and flavor in the daily loaf. Viewed economically, it means an increased market for an Ontario-grown product which has won the unprejudiced favor of the East.

Whether this will prove true of Ontario, and whether such a demand will be created that the price of wheat will advance and the cost of bread and shorts become lower, depends upon the individual farmer. Buying Western flour means a negative answer to the query; if, however, the Ontario farmer is alive to the situation, he cannot financially afford to neglect the latest discovery in practical economics, and will insist on buying only the flour milled in Ontario.

MORAL TONE.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.) The outcome of the counterfeiting case at Lindsay is one that indicates a rather peculiar state of public opinion and one that does not bode well for the moral fibre of the community. Briefly it means that a number of men engaged in a dishonest enterprise, appeal so sympathetically, not merely to their personal friends, but to the general public, that they are tried, not for the crime, but for having given the snap away. The crime of counterfeiting bills is a serious one, among a people who place its importance on honesty. It is one that of necessity, for the protection of financial security must be treated with the greatest severity in order to prevent unprincipled and unscrupulous men from attempting any dishonest tampering with public confidence. When criminals are caught, it is not these individuals that are to be considered, but the public mind, and the object of the penalty is not so much punishment to the individual criminal, as a warning to prevent other criminals, disposed persons from attempting the same thing. Of course law is nothing more than the opinion of the community as a whole, and if the community is ready to approve of counterfeiting bank bills, there will be no legal objection to anyone engaging in the business who wishes. It is not a healthy state of society when criminals receive public sympathy. It is very evident that the moral tone needs bracing with an iron tonic. It is becoming daily degenerated, possibly by indulgence in closely contested elections, horse racing, book gambling, and baseball. There are other places where similar degeneracy prevails, and it is a common thing to find public sympathy in favor of the criminal, rather than for honesty, and good principled conduct.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

Kingston Whig: John R. Webster, a grain merchant, of Chicago, who was visiting in Kingston during this week, was asked by the Whig about the crops in the States. He said that the crop of wheat was not an excessive one, but that the quality, so far, is rather good.

The outlook for good prices for the producers of wheat and the manufacturers of flour during the current harvest year may be regarded as very encouraging.

Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, is making arrangements to install at one or two representative cheese factories septic tanks and any other appliances found necessary for the disposal of sewage. The subject has heretofore received very little attention from a scientific standing, and the necessity for better provision for the disposal of sewage is becoming more and more apparent. In fact, many of the factories will be required to make better provision for keeping the plant and surroundings in a more sanitary condition, and this can only be done by installing suitable equipment. The cost for this will not be great, and it is expected that the Department of Agriculture in conjunction with the Provincial Board of Health will be prepared later in the season to make some definite recommendations as to the most suitable methods for the disposal of factory sewage.

"Is the oats crop in the province of Ontario deteriorating, and to what extent?" asks the Toronto Globe. These questions have been furnishing followers to the grain market analysts for discussion during the past week, and, judging from reports that have been arriving daily, the condition of the crop is becoming very serious. The damage is accentuated by contrast with the uniformly favorable outlook during the few previous weeks, when farmers and grain dealers were in the habit of predicting a splendid harvest. Now, however, the situation has shown a radical change, and the pessimistic ones are in some cases allowing oats but half a crop. Whether these gloomy views of conditions are warranted are extremely doubtful, but it will be a waste to two yet before an estimate of the damage, at all approaching accuracy, can be made. From many parts of York county come reports of the great injury which is being done to the crop by the presence of the "aphids" or oat house, the ravages of which are becoming more and more marked every day. Where a week ago its presence was unknown, or the withered appearance of the crop attributed to other causes, no doubt now remains as to the reasons; and reports from other counties describe conditions similar to those ruling in York. A member of the grain section of the Board of Trade, whose firm has correspondents in all sections of the province, corroborates the above report. "All other grains appear to be growing well," he remarked; "but, judging from the despatches I have had from different points, the outlook for oats is discouraging, and the crop is going backward every day. Fields here and there seem to have escaped damage, but the general condition is much below average."

R. H. Little, of Pine Grove cheese factory, Peterboro county, is a prosperous cheese maker, and believes in giving his patrons practical advice. He keeps only one cow, but she is leader in the Pine Grove Testing Association. She is a grade Holstein, and during May gave 1,112 lbs. of milk, testing 6.1, yielding 67.8 lbs. of butter fat, while for June she yielded 1,830 lbs. milk, testing 5.5, yielding 73.15 lbs. of butter-fat.

C. Earl Gray, expert in dairy manufactures, of the dairy division of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, has recently invented an apparatus for determining the water contents of butter. The apparatus is simple and so accurate that it is likely to come promptly into general use. This is another important step in the mastery of dairy problems.

PROF. HICKS' AUGUST FORECASTS

A Bunch of Storms Predicted to Match July.

As July passes out a storm period is in progress, beginning on the 29th, and extending two days into August. A Mercury period is near its centre at this time and will prolong and intensify storm conditions at this period. Cloudiness with a degree of threatening conditions will remain for several days. A reactionary storm period is central on the 5th, 6th and 7th, on and about which days may be expected a return of storm conditions. The warmth will increase, the barometer will fall and cloudiness will grow into decided areas of storminess and precipitation. A regular storm period extends from the 10th to the 14th. It is central on the 12th and will come to a crisis, centrally between east and west extremes of the country, on Tuesday and Wednesday, the 13th and 14th. If you are far west you will get your storm a day or two earlier; you who are far to the east will read of the storms before they reach you.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 17th, 18th and 19th. As this period begins it will grow much warmer, first in the west the barometer will fall and reactionary storms of rain, wind and thunder will pass eastwardly across the country, reaching their culminating stages on and about the 18th and 19th. A regular storm period covers the period, extending from the 21st to the 26th. During this period the moon passes in perigee on the 21st, full on the 23rd, and the celestial equator which is central in September, will also affect storm and weather conditions at this period. This period may also be put down as a decided "season" period, centering on the 23rd and covering the whole period. The telegraph will report seismic shocks widely different parts of our planet. The barometer will also give timely indications of active inland storms between the 22nd and 26th. In case of low barometric conditions in the south, northerly winds and high barometer will follow inland storms from the northwest, making frosts more than a possibility in northern sections during the last week in August.

CAS FROM CORN COBS.

Believed that the Lightning Problem Has Been Solved.

Beatrice, Neb., July 27.—A commercial grade of illuminating gas made from corn stalks, corn cobs, hay and other vegetable matter is being used in Beatrice for fuel and lights, and has superseded the coal gas which was formerly used in this city. The cost of the new gas is $1.10 per thousand, the lowest price at which gas is sold in any city in Nebraska. In quality it is as good as the coal or oil gas. John D. Rockefeller is said to be back of the company, which is furnishing the gas, and the franchise for the plant is in the name of the Rev. Charles Eaton, of Cleveland, Rockefeller's pastor. The company has completed a $160,000 plant here, and makes all its gas from corn stalks, cobs, etc. It is the first plant in the world in which gas is produced in this manner.

Launch Owners, Beware!

The recent disaster in Toronto, when nine young men lost their lives through the upsetting of a gasoline launch, should be a salutary warning to local owners of launches. Carelessness is often very evident in the operation of these crafts. A dangerous feature is the overloading of a yacht. An 18-foot launch will be overloaded if more than six persons are carried, and lives endangered. Like poles and paddles are also a necessity on board, as no one can tell when the engine is going to stop. If the engine stops in a gale, and no means of locomotion are at hand, the launch is extremely liable to fall into the trough of the waves and upset.

INDIANS RESPECT THE LAW

Red Men from Lake Sougog Fish in Sturgeon Lake.

Evening Post of August 5.
Dave Elliott, a Sougog lake Indian, and a number of his tribesmen, passed through town this morning to join Chief Johnson at Pleasant Point. There a large number of Sougog lake Indians have congregated and are engaged in fishing operations. The law forbids fishing in Sougog lake or river above the locks, and the red men respect the law.

Elliott was the dusky tribesman who recently was in search of some scientific instrument which could locate buried gold. A legend of the Sougog lake tribe tells of the chest of treasure captured from the Americans during the war of 1812, over which a civil war was fought, the tribe being almost annihilated. The survivors, so the tale relates, buried the chest to prevent further dissensions. Like the hunters of Captain Kidd's lost treasure, the copper-skinned aborigines think they will come across the chest some day.

Pithy Phrases.

College boys are apt to coin pithy phrases. One such was quoted by a speaker recently. "When I was at Harvard," he said in concluding a brief address, "the boys had a fine little epigram with which they used to warn speakers not to be too pithy. 'You know, professor,' they would say, 'the longer the spoke, the greater the tire.'"

One Minute Interviews.

(From the Holton Recorder.)
John Shobenay, a well known Pottawatomie Indian, is not as artless as he looks. Recently he was engaged in the risky business of bootlegging in Oklahoma. As a consequence he landed in jail, and had no funds to pay his fine. In his fiery extremity he evolved a plan which he thought would work out his liberation. He sent the following message to his stepfather, Kack, Kack: "I am dead. Send me $10 to bury myself." The appeal was too strong for Kack Kack to resist, and this money was forthcoming.

Tributes to Mark Twain.

(A few among the scores of telegrams received by Mr. Mark Twain in England.)
King Leopold wires: "Too busy to write. Hope you are and always will be."

Algernon Ashtown wires: "Deeply interested in your remarks on your funeral. When it comes off may I have some better rights in tombs?"

Sir Henry, Campbell Bannerman wires: "I never say enough of Twain."

Mr. A. J. Balfour writes: "I have no philosophical doubt as to the merits of 'Huckleberry Finn.'"

Mr. Eustace Miles writes: "Much interested in your remarks about your funeral. Why not live on in Plasmor and dentils, and postpore it indefinitely?"

Mr. Bernard Shaw wires: "Heartiest congratulations on seeing us so soon after landing."

"Z" (of "Blackwood's Magazine") wires: "Deeply sympathize with you, had luck in meeting Shaw, at station. Awful thing to happen after a tiring railway journey."

Winston Churchill wires: "I and the country welcome you."—From "The Books of To-day and the Books of To-morrow."

SIMON MARSHALL IN TOWN.

Appeared Before County Magistrate Moore—$1,000 Bail Furnished.

Evening Post of August 5.
Simon Marshall, the alleged far smuggler, was brought to town on Saturday night and taken before County Magistrate Moore.

Bail in $1000 was furnished, and Marshall was released. The securities were given as follows: $250 by Mr. A. Marshall, $250 by Mr. R. Naylor, $500 by the prisoner.

An Advertising Pointer.

One of the largest soap-making establishments of the United States was started not many years ago with a capital of $1,200, of which nearly $700 was put into newspaper advertising to force the income began to exceed the outgo. But when the tide turned it turned with a rush, and at the end of the first year's business it was found that the advertising had paid for itself ten times over. Publicity is sometimes an uphill gone, but if it is played intelligently by the who has pluck and perseverance cannot lose at it. Advertising publicly necessarily implies the use of a medium which will make every shot count. There is no other so certain in its aim as the influential home newspaper.

Tall Shooting in West Virginia.

(From the Staunton Spectator.)
There is an old Confederate soldier now visiting some friends in Greenbrier county, W. Va., who was a ferocious in battle. He was a shot from 'way back. He came to the reunion at Richmond and stopped off. Among his feats of marksmanship the following simple exploits, we are told, are performed. He can suspend a bottle, shoot and end the string, and then break the bottle with another shot before it hits the ground. With a small calibre gun and a large lead pencil he can knock the lead out when the pencil is thrown into the air, and not injure the wood covering. A favorite pastime with him was to start a barrel rolling down hill and put a bullet through the lung-hole every time the barrel turns over. We call this good shooting.

A Ventilation Test.

(Youth's Companions.)
It is very hard to make an impression on those people who demand their possessions on all occasions. A woman was explaining to a visitor the many advantages of concrete hollow block construction, which the walls of her new home were built.

"The air spaces in the walls afford insulation against heat

THE LONDON TRAGEDY.

Coroner's Jury Say Building Collapsed Owing to Alterations Made.

London, Ont., Aug. 23.—That the said Wm. Thomas Tambling came to his death in the City of London in Brewster's store on the 16th day of July, 1907, by the east wall of what was known as the Crystal Hall building falling eastward on the said Brewster store, and destroying it, thus causing the death of said Wm. T. Tambling.

"And we further find from the evidence that the collapse of the said Crystal Hall building was caused by a portion of the middle wall of the ground floor of the said building giving way as a result of certain alterations that had recently been made in the said wall on the floor above."

The above was the verdict rendered by the jury enquiring into the cause of the recent disaster.

Wm. Murray, the architect who had charge of the changes, was recalled and gave evidence as to the strength and carrying power of the pillars which were placed in the building.

Mr. Murray stated that it would have taken a weight of 300 tons to break down the columns. They were ten feet four inches long, five inches in diameter and of three quarter inch cast iron metal. They supported the double girders and were tied where they crossed.

IN DEATH STRUGGLE.

Fierce Fighting Between Japanese and Koreans at Seoul.

Seoul, Aug. 3.—Thursday a battalion of Korea soldiers, resenting disarmament, at a given signal attacked three mounted Japanese officers, who had arrived at Little West Gate Barracks to demand the surrender of their munitions.

Two of the Japanese officers escaped on horseback. The third one fell from his horse and escaped afoot when the firing began, and the Koreans saluted out of Little West Gate into the street, but were forced to retire under a Japanese fire from the tower gate.

Gen. Ozaki ordered out reinforcements, and the barracks and adjacent buildings were invested. There was continuous sniping and also fire from the Japanese machine guns.

The entrance to the Japanese section of the city have been under a heavy guard ofgendarmes since midnight, and troops and machine guns are stationed in all the streets.

Gen. Ozaki believes that he has ample troops to control the situation. The other three Korean garrisons have not submitted.

The invested quarter is adjacent to the corvate quarter, which is protected by a strong cordon of Japanese troops.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

What is Occurring in the Town and District, and Sporting Circles Generally.

BASEBALL

SYLVESTER'S 3, ORIENTALS 2

After all the Orientals are but human, and as much liable to defeat as the other collections of sports that compose the Town League. They bumped into their Joseph last Tuesday, and took their defeat gracefully.

The Sylvester team—so disorganized and listless in the preceding game—were re-energized by the reappearance of Pony Workman. Pony cheered their drooping spirits by getting into the box and playing havoc with the Oddsfellows' batting averages. They all went after his high mishots with vigor, much to their discomfort.

In the cool and dusky last innings they commenced their usual heavy, breaking garrison finish. The leather was swatted hard, and a couple of errors besides Louie Calder's, which he stretched into two runs, three strikes, brought in two runs, further than that they could not go in spite of desperate efforts, and they left the field with their second defeat of the season.

The Iron Man started in early and bunched. The full team had a crack at him, and three runs were scored. This was just enough to take the heart out of the leaders, and the green and reds had the kibosh on them. But that did not stop them. The heart-breaking moment? One hardly dare breathe while the two teams struggled for the laurels so dear to all. That lovely drive of Calder's and Anderson's tally raised the hopes of the Oriental following only to dash them to earth again when "Toto" Beaton came along and exactly cut Thompson out a two-bagger by a neat catch of a high fly. The rest was easy.

PETERBORO JUNIORS WON

The Maybes, of the Lindsay Junior League, suffered a bad defeat in Peterboro Thursday at the hands of the Lillies, of the Peterboro intermediate league. The game was played on the Oval, a beautiful athletic grounds on the outskirts of the city. The diamond is very grassy, but fairly fast. The score was 15-7. The visitors appeared to have stage fright and badly mishandled the ball on occasions. The Peterboro team was composed of husky youngsters, evidently the pick of the intermediates. They played fair ball and got away to a good start, easily retaining their lead throughout the game. "Dooley" Starr, for Lindsay, was easily the pick of the pitchers, although "Curly" Bellingham pitched a good game.

A BASERUNNING FEAT

Hendon tells of a case of baserunning by McGraw and Keeler in the old Oriole days which must have been a wonder. With McGraw on first, Keeler hit a liner to left, which went to the fielder on the bound. McGraw never stopped at second, keeping right on to third. Bill Joyce was playing that bag, and by the time he had dug the ball out of the dirt and swung around for McGraw, the latter was on his way home. He reached the plate while the ball did, knocked the ball out of McGraw's mitt, and before McGraw could recover it, Keeler, too, was over the plate.

FROM PETERBORO'S SIDE

Regarding the recent Lillie-Maybe game in Peterboro the Examiner has the following to say: The home team was strengthened by Bellegem of the Excelsiors, and Curtis, Kandy and Wilson of the Strathcons. They deserved their victory. Starr, who pitched for the Maybes, put up some fast ones and had five strike-outs to his credit, while Bellegem made six of the Maybes to hit nothing but air. Anderson, the Lindsay catcher, played a steady game throughout, but the battery's support on bases was not up to the standard. Fee, on the initial rack, was one of the best of the visitors.

BLOOMFIELD BEATEN

Pictorial Times. On Thursday last Wellington trimmed Bloomfield on the latter's by the score of 3-2 in a league game. The contest was fast from start to finish, and very exciting all through. The two pitchers were in good form and mixed up their offerings. Quinlan was steady when Kieley and had the Lillie sign on the bloomfield batters all the way. He has shown rare form, is very heady, and cool in tight places, and from what we have seen in the last two games that he has pitched and won for us, soon should be in the Western League.

FOR THE FANS

The Barris baseball team have written for a game here.

Yorag "Bantam" Anderson and "Dooley" Starr compose a clever battery.

Big Cy Young, of the Boston Americans, has won more games this year than any other pitcher.

"Corney" Burns heads the batting list among the Peterboro players. "Corney" hits at a 390 clip.

Harold Anderson, Norman Starr, J. Fee, W. Gray, S. Touchburn, Clement Cunningham, Ed. Hopkins, T. Fleury and O. Stewart composed the baseball team that journeyed to Peterboro Thursday. "Peggy" Murphy and "Peggy" Rohn were the mangers, and kept everybody cheery. The latter did several buck and wing dances, to the amusement of the crowd.

The Wilsnakes have secured a new man, in the person of W. Anderson, who formerly played with Mount Pleasant. He gives promise of being a corner.

In a junior league game the Maybes (named the Quakers 14-7 on Wednesday night) defeated the "Sims" and Anderson; Quakers—McMahon and Council.

The Galt baseball enthusiasts were treated to a sample of Eastern League ball on Wednesday when Toronto and Duffin played in that town. The Leafs winning by the score 8-5, and delighting the hearts of the Canucke Peterboro Examiner: The Toronto papers, with a hollow cheer, are making merry over the story throwing and hounding in Quebec. A Rochester ball team, which was walloped to the tune of a dark egg to a dozen, did not escape being mobbed and stoned by a gang of hoodlums, the mature product of what a Toronto citizen does not see the worst children in creation.

LACROSSE.

MILLER'S TEAM WON

At Adelaide on Aug. 3rd All Canadians defeated the All Australian team 6-3 before 9,000 people. The tour has been shortened to allow All Canadians to leave Australia by Sept. 2, in order that students may reach the university. Captain Bill Hanley complains of the size of Australian grounds, and asks that they be reduced from 150 yards to 115 yards.

It's nice to be president of the C. L. A. and live outside of Toronto—awfully, says Harry Cameron.

The All-Canadians have won another game in Australia. South Australia were the victims this time, and the score was 7-2.

The famous Tecumsehs, Toronto's star lacrosse team, play a game with the Cheekers in Beaverton Wednesday of next week.

The Tecumsehs will in all probability go on a tour to the Pacific Coast and take part in the lacrosse tournament at the Provincial Exhibition Sept. 28 to Oct. 5.

Toronto News: From all appearances the actions of President Harry Cameron will lead to some pretty warm scraps between certain teams and before long the public will have a pretty sure line on the players receiving the big chunks of coin for their daily labors digging sugar out of a barrel in all the country villages.

THE TURF.

Owing to the filing of a protest it is possible that the $10,000 Empire State purse won by Sonoma Girl at the Kildworth track on Tuesday last, will be tied up until the meeting of the board of review of the National Trotting Association in December.

Peterboro Examiner: Mr. Jas Collins, of the Norwood Road, has purchased the two-year-old stallion, King Keswick, one of the great Keswick family, for breeding purposes. The sum paid, it is understood, was $1,100. King Keswick is a very handsome stallion and his pedigree is great spread from both dam and sire, and he has style, as well.

Buffalo, N. Y., August 7.—The fastest mile paced this year was made Sunday by Angus Pointer in the first of all at Kildworth Park. The track was lightning fast and Angus Pointer covered the oval in 2:08 1-4. Angus Pointer was maly favorite, only three horses facing the wire. Baron Gratian, went to a break at the quarter, and after regaining his feet broke again and was distanced.

RUNNING.

An effort is being made to match Shubb, the English long-distance professional runner, and Loughboat, the Canadian champion, at the annual games of the New York Caledonia Club, at Mespeth, L. I., on Labor Day, Monday, September 2nd. Five mile races, and a special inducement will be offered to the Indian runner to compete against the Englishman.

Alfred Shubb, the famous English distance runner, stride too long and distance runners stride too long and expand their energy on form. Shubb is in a position to know what he is talking about, because he is the supreme distance runner of the time, and, for that matter, is the best man from one to twelve miles that ever wore a spiked shoe.

He holds all the amateur and professional records from one to twelve miles, and to-day, after eight years of competition, can give any competitor a start and beat him handily. Shubb points out that America has no top men above the mile because American runners believe a long stride is the best means of getting over the ground rapidly.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

And THAT'S GOING SOME Fargo, N. D., July 30.—Barney Oldfield, at the Fargo Inter-State Fair Monday, broke two world's automobile records on a half-mile track, going the first mile of a three-mile race in 1:15 1-2, and the three miles in 3:51. The mile record beat that made by himself at St. Paul on June 25, by four and a half seconds, and his three-mile record was 18 seconds faster than that of his Winnipeg record.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER.

DON'T FORGET TO SMILE.

"I'm a proponent of a doctrine," said an old shoemaker said, "A doctrine of religion good for living, not for dead, 'A doctrine I've lived up to for many many years; It is smiling, smiling, smiling, with no time for tears."

"Trouble comes to everybody somewhere on the weary way, An' it's my experience there's little time for you to pray; When you've done yer job o' prayin', there's nothing else to say. Just rise up an' smile spitefully, watch yer troubles slip away."

"Oh, it's smiling, smiling, smiling, that will lift the weary load, Smooth out all the roughened places, take all pebbles off yer road; You kin travel on in comfort, ev'rything will seem worth while, if you's only keep a grin, friend, and don't forget to smile."

"I've gone away at this old bench fifty years, an' more, An' I've never yet found out the use o' broodin' trouble over; All the broodin', broodin', broodin' does yer soul an' turns things dark, An' just as like as not'll set ye in the backward track."

"You can't afford to be a cynic, wearin' that Salome grin, Good Saint Peter will disown you, nor let you enter in; There's no room in heaven for cynics nor for those who spew and grin, It's the one who smile like a sun an' that will wear the golden crown."

Trouble hits my wagon often, but I just keep grin on—A-s-m-i-l-i-n', smilin', smilin' an' a singin' o' a song, An' I know just where I'm goin', knowed it for this good long while. You kin go there, too, my dear one, if you don't forget to smile."

FISHING.

Do you know the charm of fishing on the lake, With a rod that's like and fairer, In the shadow of tall timber, And the pools of gloom that satiny suns forsake?

Do you know the hush of trolling for the pike, Through the waters softly gliding And in peace and hope abiding—The tinge that foretells with a strike?

Do you know the fret of feeling for big trout, In deep caverns dark and hollow, Till you feel the sudden wallow Of the monster as he strikes and goes about?

Do you know the pride of landing twenty pounds—The moments tense with feeling As you slowly keep on reeling, And the mind foretells the story that astounds?

Do you know the wistful waiting for a bite, Till the sun grows low and mellow, And at last, above the yellow, You perceive a limpid lantern of the night?

Do you know the spell that fishing really weaves, Is the pause it gives to thinking, And the way it takes of linking The soul of man to water, clouds and leaves?

Have you heard the shore-born breezes as they break Into lapsing soft and winning, Like far distant mandolins, Drifting down the rippling reaches of the lake?

Has the thought of crowded cities pressed your mind, Where the tired ones are panting, While the sunset gleams are slanting, Down behind you solemn hills so cool and kind?

Then thank God for Isaak Walton and his book—For to him first came the vision, In this vale of indecision, How to solve this life's equation with a hook.

—Alfred L. Donaldson, in The Outlook.

IT WAS A MISTAKE.

Town Bell Rang at 11 O'clock Friday Instead of 12—The Reason.

Evening Post, of Aug. 5. Clang! Clang! Clang! talled out the market bell this morning about 11 o'clock, and at once everyone within hearing distance, thinking it was a fire alarm, gathered to see the blaze. The firemen, coats off and arms bare, as they left work hurriedly, came up on the run to catch the fire alarm. At the hall, however, everything was peace and quietness, and no signs of an alarm was evident. The explanation of the occurrence is that Caretaker Wilson's chronometer took a crazy fling—heat, probably and was fully an hour fast. Glancing at the incorrect timepiece which told him it was twelve o'clock, he hurried to ring the bell, with the above results. A jeweller is now diagnosing the trouble.

BOARD OF HEALTH TALKED BUSINESS.

Cost of Smallpox Outbreak—M.H.O. Thinks Town Should Foot All Bills—Sanitary Inspector Douglas Taken to Task—Rumors of Kent-St. Plumbing Belig Defective—Other Matters.

Evening Post of Aug. 7. The recent outbreak of smallpox, and the subsequent long list of expenses, was the important feature of the Board of Health meeting last evening in the Council chamber. The communication from the town Council, complaining of Sanitary Inspector Douglas' unsatisfactory work, and the amplying reports of samples of a couple of town works, also received the Board's attention. There were present Mr. A. Horn, chairman, Mayor (Vrooman), and Messrs. J. Keith and Geo. Mills—barely a quorum. Health Officer Dr. McAlpine and Sanitary Inspector Douglas were also present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COUNCIL COMPLAINS.

Clerk Knowlton read a communication from the town Council, complaining of the condition of the lanes and yards behind Kent-st., stores. Mayor Vrooman explained the Council's attitude, and the probability of fire from such a source.

Sanitary Inspector Douglas said that paper and inflammable material did not come under his jurisdiction. The Fire Warden has to deal with such accumulations.

"At the same time," said the Mayor, "many yards were in an unsanitary condition in the spring."

"Where all the wells cleaned out before July 1st, as the by-law provides?" broke in Mr. Keith.

Mr. Douglas said he had put out notices twice, and was now going to prosecute those who had failed to comply with the regulations.

Mr. Mills advanced the theory that scavengers should make regular calls and garbage barrels be located at certain points.

WILL INSPECT PLUMBING.

"Do you inspect the plumbing, Mr. Douglas?" inquired Mayor Vrooman. Mr. Douglas said all plumbing was inspected when it was being put in, but not after.

The Mayor said he had heard rumors of Kent-st. closets being in a disgraceful condition. He then moved, seconded by Mr. Keith, that the Sanitary Inspector be instructed to visit all stores and places of business where employees worked, and inspect the closets.—Carried.

A CURIOUS CASE.

The case of Mrs. Jackson, the east ward woman who had been keeping a dead cow in her cellar, was next brought up. She had not been seen to the House of Refuge as ordered by the Board.

"The most curious case I ever met," said Dr. Vrooman, "She actually strangles on dirt." The Mayor went on to explain that the old woman had been sent to the House of Refuge, but the change in the conditions of life, and the pure air and food nearly proved fatal to her. She was taken back home and is now thriving in health and perfectly happy. She will be left alone in future.

A communication from Inspector Douglas, relative to paying of Miss Davey, one of the smallpox patients, $5 for reimbursement for quilts, pillows, etc., used, aroused considerable discussion as to whether the town should pay for such things or not. Mayor Vrooman said the town was not forced to pay for any expenses incurred in this way. Only charity cases should be financially assisted. (The town had been "robbed" in times past on this plea, merely because cases had been isolated. It seems truly absurd, added the Mayor, that we should have to pay everything, even to the doctor's bills.)

Dr. McAlpine favored the payment of all expenses in such cases by the town. It was for the town's benefit, he said, and we should go further and pay the patients' salaries. A motion was put to pay the amount, but no second could be got, so the matter will stand.

CHEMICAL POLLUTION.

Samples of water from wells belonging to Mr. Gunzle and Mr. Westcott had been sent to the Provincial Board of Health analyses, Toronto. Their report was far from satisfactory. The analyst says that "both samples show considerable chemical pollution. They are infected with bacteria of intestinal origin, and the water should be previously boiled before using. These wells had been cleaned out since the samples were submitted, and later samples had been sent in. Moved by Mayor Vrooman, seconded by Mr. Keith, that in the event of the water again proving unsatisfactory, that the wells be closed.—Carried.

INSPECTOR DOUGLAS' REPORT. The report of Sanitary Inspector Douglas was then read. One case of diphtheria and three of smallpox had taken place within the last two months. All the patients were better now, and the isolation tents had been pulled down and fumigated. The notices for the cleaning out of wells had been put up. A ditch at the corner of Williams and Pottinger-st. was in bad condition and should be repaired. In the south ward a ditch along Durham and Albert-sts. was in an unsanitary condition. This has since been remedied. The house of one Pietro, on Wellington-st., behind Skitch's wagon works had been examined, and found to be uninhabitable.

The report was taken up clause by clause. Moved by Mr. Keith, seconded by Mr. Mills, that the attention of the Council be drawn to the condition of the ditch at the corner of Williams and Pottinger-sts.—Carried. The condition of the man Pietro's residence was said to be disgraceful. It was unsanitary and altogether unfit for human residence. Moved by Mayor Vrooman, seconded by Mr. Keith, that this Board condemn the house for habitation.—Carried.

A big batch of accounts were then read, principally connected with the recent smallpox case. An account from H. Pugh, one of the patients, for coat, vest and other clothes, $10.85, was not entertained: J. Kerr, carting $ 7.50 McGahey, carting 1.25 H. McDonald, carting50 J. G. Edwards, wire 2.38 Victoria Meat Market 2.58 W. Copp, rent for bath90 W. Menahan, carting30 W. R. Keys 4.26 B. Guazile, baggage 1.00 W. E. Stewart, milk 3.10 W. J. Tompkins, work done 3.25 Mrs. W. J. Tompkins, milk 3.52 Dr. W. C. Jeffers 47.50 Geo. Foster 95.00 A. Hazinbroth 37.00 McLaughlin & Co. 4.81 F. Armstrong 1.25 J. Carey 15.05 W. M. Robson 36.12

These accounts, with a few exceptions which were not certified, were passed. Chairman Horn was then, on motion, re-imbursed for $3 disbursements in the purchasing of tents. The Board then adjourned.

The Old Log Cabin.

"Honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long on the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

Forget not the days when our fathers were ringing Their chorus of axes, through woods rich and rare; Remember the cabins where others were singing, With hope in their hearts and their hands full of care.

Like incomes, the voices of old sons and daughters Arose with the smoke, for the clearing to him, Whose Garden of Apples, bore the sweet waters, He gave us, and blessed our rich cup to the brim.

The forest of homes was a set in the wild wood; No palace nor castle in Eldon or France Could ever compare with the beauty of childhood— Now its shadow aches like an exquisite trance.

At "barns," or at "corners," hey met their good neighbors; They talked of old lands in a trembling voice; And they gallantly shared with their oxen the labors, Of hewing out homes in the land of their choice.

A shot from the door, brought a buck to the table. A spear thrust in water tied "hunks" to the fire. Wild pheasants in millions of o'ed were no fable. And Nimrod found here a heart's rapid desire.

Say, Memory, where are thy "Johnny-cakes" dishes? Give back the molasses o'w apples distilled; With panache of buckwheat and such divine dishes, That kings, to obtain them, gazed on would build!

What tongue has the power told of their sorrows? What pen has recorded the woes gone before? Their father to-day, and the seeking to-morrow? And joys in that sacred heritage of yore?

The noble old stock in their graves now lie thicker, And children don't where their grandfathers die; The forest and cabins fade farther and quicker— Oh, let not their virtues in us ever die.

Young Canada sports his white buff and high collars, But grandfathers spun all his father had worn; Remember, you boys, set with diamonds and dollars, That in the dear old log cabins our nation was born.

O, forest-bred children, wild Nature's house-keepers, Give you the hard bone, and the brown, and the brain; Her sanctuaries' most secret recesses Were found to Log Temple by God's golden chain.

NEW DOCKS ON TRENT CANAL

Improvements of Benefit to the City—Traffic is Increasing.

Peterboro Review: The dredge Emmons has completed, or nearly so, the work at Gore's Landing. Both outside and inside the dock, the channel has been dredged to a depth of nine feet, making this one of the best docks on the Trent Canal. Boats can go in behind the dock and load with grain and hogs, no matter how severe a storm may be raging, and there is a great quantity of grain and large numbers of hogs shipped from Northumberland county to Peterboro. The dredge will next couple up the river to Smithson dock and dredge a small harbor, making it better for the boats to load. The material taken out will be thrown on the bank for the purpose of widening the approach to the dock, so that farmers can bring down their grain without any trouble. As soon as this work is done the dredge will return to Dandefield, where it has been cutting a new channel for the purpose of straightening out the river and making navigation easier and safer.

The new dock at Hall's Landing, the end of the Bensford road, will be finished early next week. It is fifty feet long and the farmers of South Monaghan will soon be using it for shipping grain and hogs to the city market. The new dock at Hale's bridge, started last week, will be ready for use early next week.

The new dock at Indian Village on Chemung lake has been finished. All these new docks are of benefit to the city of Peterboro. The better the shipping facilities are on the Trent Canal the more produce will be sent here instead of being sold to outside buyers and shipped to other centers. Every year the Trent Canal is of greater benefit to this city and the amount of traffic upon it is rapidly increasing. This fall promises to be a record breaker.

The Post has no desire to be impertunate, but we would suggest that a new wharf at Sturgeon Point, at which steamers could land in all weathers without danger, would be greatly appreciated. Then, to revert to an old grievance, we would like to see some effort made to remove the stunted logs from the river channel, and we are permitted to suggest that if we might have the use of the lodge—it doesn't seem to be badly needed down below—we might have a few corners cut off the ponds of the tortuous Scugog, and so add to the comfort and safety of a huge traffic. Of course, if these demands interfere with the arrangements for the carriage of produce to Peterboro market, we'll wait a few years longer.

TO CRUISE THE KAWARTHAS.

Evening Post, of Aug. 12. Mr. Fred Robson, of Toronto, son of Mr. Wm. Robson, town, spent yesterday under the parental roof, having with him Mr. Ralph W. Ashcroft, of New York, a well known fisherman, and a bosom friend of Mr. Gwain, the great humorist.

The latter was invited by a party of Buffalo literary gentlemen to join them in a two weeks' tour of the Kawartha Lakes on a houseboat, the most important business engagement, interfering, he asked and received permission to send Mr. Ashcroft as his deputy. The other members of the party arrived in town this morning, and a couple of hours later all went on board a Stony Lake houseboat, rented from Mr. R. B. Rogers, former superintendent of the Trent Canal and left for Coboonk in tow of a yacht.

Cranes as Well as Lift Looks Needed

Weekly Sun, Toronto: Almost coincident with the report of the opening of the Trent Valley canal to Lake Simcoe, there comes the statement that a portion of the waterway, long since opened, is no longer safe for navigation even by the smallest boats. Not only has there been filling in by sand, but sunken logs from which the knots have not been removed are threatening danger to the hulls of the ships that pass either by day or by night. The recently opened Kirkfield lift lock is all very well in its way, but what appears to be called for is a succession of cranes, placed at convenient points, to lift canal steamers over the obstructions that have been created—that is, at least, when the dew fall is not heavy enough to raise the canal level to high water mark.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 16th.

BANK LOANS ABROAD.

Complaints have been pretty general in Ontario of the restrictions put upon business loans by the Canadian banks as a result of the tightening of the money markets, but they have been nowhere so pronounced as in Manitoba and other North western provinces, though the East has for several years been steadily bled for money to develop the West. The disposition has been to blame the banks for investing largely deposits in foreign loans, hence the following from a recent issue of the Winnipeg Free Press dealing with the foreign loans of the banks will be of interest.

It is quite natural that many people should just now show a disposition to criticize the banks for the policy they pursue. These who have been disappointed in their expectations of getting the credits they need for carrying on their business in the manner they wish, and these who want to see this Western country provided with the funds it requires to effect the maximum of development, both find the stringency exceedingly irksome. It is plain that there is an considerable element which is not convinced that the banks are doing what they can to relieve the situation. Those forming the party cannot and themselves of the idea that the present trouble is due, in part at least, to the desire of the "big banking interests in the East" to regulate or check the expansion of the West in so far as it requires the use of money.

One circumstance having much to do with the prevalence of this idea is the showing of the bank statement in regard to loans outside Canada. On June 30 last, cash and current loans elsewhere than in Canada amounted to $78,687,152. And, considering these items by themselves without thinking of the other items of the foreign business, or of the purpose the foreign loans have to serve, one might easily conclude that, if the banks were a mere in their protestations that they are doing what they can to take care of Canadian commerce and industry, they might bring home some of the money loaned in New York, Chicago, etc., and lend it to Canadian borrowers.

It is thus worth while to investigate the whole matter of the foreign position of the banks. A clear view of how they stand and what they have been doing can never be obtained by merely looking at one or two items. To get at the real position, seven headings in the bank statement have got to be considered. Four of them represent investments abroad, three represent liabilities, and the two left are detailed and the difference found will show the net investment abroad.

By way of illustration the foreign position of the banks, as at September 30, 1906, was as follows:

Foreign Investments.
Balance due by banks in U.S.	$10,060,722
Balance due by banks elsewhere	18,304,524
Call loans elsewhere	63,771,628
Current loans elsewhere	35,774,470

Foreign Liabilities.
Balance due to banks in U.S.	$7,532,724
Balance due to banks elsewhere	1,904,536
Deposits elsewhere	55,287,913
Deposits elsewhere	64,788,272

Net investment abroad $63,115,371. Among the securities also are some foreign bonds, but as there is no way of arriving at the amount they cannot be taken in.

Next taking the figures in this way for each month since September, the following result is obtained:

Net Investment Abroad.
September 30, 1906	$63,115,371
October 31, 1906	58,862,480
November 30, 1906	55,042,701
December 31, 1906	4,674,441
January 31, 1907	38,116,714
February 28, 1907	34,758,804
March 31, 1907	23,562,225
April 30, 1907	18,417,263
May 31, 1907	23,321,434
June 30, 1907	26,480,955

After figures show pretty conclusively that the banks have been doing their best to cure for Canadian trade. In the seven months up to April 30, they had reduced their foreign investment by $45,000,000, chiefly because of the strong demand for credits at home. It is well known that Winnipeg and the West are not their share of this money. As a matter of fact some anxiety was caused by the fall of the foreign investments to such low levels. This has been partly relieved by the moderate gain shown in May and June. A remarkable feature of these balances was shown at the time of the Ontario bank collapse. The bankers did not know then what was going to happen with their depositors. Run away thought likely. They started to reduce themselves by selling home three millions of so in gold from New York. At that time they had a net sum of sixty millions abroad. It furnished a pretty satisfactory guarantee to Canadian borrowers, that they would not be called on summarily to repay their bank advances because of an upset in the financial centres—Stratford Beacon.

FOUR DEATHS A DAY.

In the Province of Ontario during last June there was 143 deaths from tuberculosis. If the disease were a snake the people would be in a state of panic says the Toronto News. Yet consumption is a contagious disease like smallpox. It is generally just as dangerous. But because it is slower in development and because it has been an ever-present ill, public attention is not directed towards its ravages. Yet if the disease can be recognized and fought in its incipient stages, many persons can be saved to their friends and to the State. In all the counties, sanatoria were erected where patients could be isolated and where they could follow the hygienic rules laid down by medical science for convalescence in the treatment of the disease, the death record could be materially reduced. The only obstacle is the cost, and it is time people ceased wondering whether or not it is wise to spend money in order to save life. A forward step may possibly be taken by the Education Department in arranging for medical inspection of pupils in all the primary and secondary schools. By this means young persons who have unknowingly contracted consumption, or whose whose physical condition is at a low level, could be warned of their danger, and possibly might be saved from untimely graves. The official toll of over four lives a day is mainly due to ignorance and public indifference.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

C. Hanson and A. Bell, the two "whiskey spotters" of the Ontario Government, who have been making trouble for hotelmen at Ottawa, Almonte and other places, are under bail to appear before Police Magistrate Beckett, of Beckett's Landing, on Aug. 20, on charges of being drunk and disorderly.

In 1895-97 it cost the Conservative Government $591,320 to collect a revenue of $9,040,401. In 1906 it cost the Liberal Government $837,138 to collect a revenue of $16,032,907. The revenue under the Liberals more than doubled, and the expenses increased only about 42 per cent.

For the half year ending June 30, the British total imports amounted to £125,075,000 as against £200,549,562 for the corresponding period of last year, then the record year, while the total exports for the first half of this year showed an enormous increase of £328,854,327, the totals being £257,566,729, against £225,012,295. The immense increase in the importation of raw materials from the chief feature of these latest returns, amounting to £131,966,674, as compared with £105,237,607 in 1906—an increase of close on £27,000,000, or nearly 135,000,000. Here we find the experimental evidence that refutes the doctrine of the Chamberlains.

Stratford Beacon: Few houses by the hundred are going up in Stratford again this year, but the great majority are of the larger and more expensive class. Is this wise building? Is not the supply of $20 to $25 per month rental houses getting a little in excess of the demand, and would it not be better for builders to get down to lower priced grade? Small cottages, or houses, with modern conveniences, carrying a rental of $12 to $15 per month, are in urgent demand by workmen. Why not supply this want? The man who can afford to pay $20 to $25 per month can afford to build his own habitation. Not so the average workman. He is always a sure tenant, and if the city needs him, it should be good business as well as good policy to have his needs supplied.

Victoria Road Hotel Affairs.

The Victoria Road Hotel, recently owned by W. McNaney, who lost his liquor selling license, is now being operated by Mr. A. Raymond, formerly of Woodville. Raymond's license was taken from him at Woodville because the population of that village was not large enough to legally allow two hotels. Mr. Raymond has secured a 20-day license for selling liquor at Victoria Road pending a meeting of the License Commissioners.

THE FUR SMUGGLING ENQUIRY

The Trial of Simon Marshall before Magistrate Moore Tuesday.

Evening Post of Aug. 14. The enquiry into the recent alleged case of beaver skin smuggling from Algonquin Park was commenced this morning before County Magistrate Moore. Simon Marshall, being charged with the offence, Mr. G. H. Hopkins defended the prisoner, and Mr. A. P. Devlin acted for the prosecution. The witnesses for the Crown are Theodore McIlhenny, John Jones, John O'Keefe, Joe Dwyer, R. Yarnold and Jas. Mitchell.

This morning's proceedings were attended by a full court room. McIlhenny, O'Keefe and Mitchell were examined, and the Magistrate was far from satisfied with the evidence given by McIlhenny and Mitchell. He asked numerous questions, and Mr. Hopkins objected, saying that Mr. Moore should not conduct the prosecution. Magistrate Moore said he was determined to find out the whole truth.

McIlhenny was the first witness. He said he was express messenger on the Hamilton to Lindsay train. On or about June 20th this case of wool was smuggled from Kilmourie by someone whom he did not know. He thought the assistant, Bolech, put it in the car. It was addressed as a box of wool to John Brown, Lindsay. He took it to the wool and gave it to Barnett, the Lindsay express messenger driver, who left it in Express room. No one but Barnett had a right to use the room. He (the witness) did not know whether it was looked up or not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hopkins, witness said, "No, it was not Marshall who put in the bale at Kilmourie—it was Bolech."

Magistrate Moore was annoyed at the witness' manner of answering queries, and said he was not telling all he knew.

John O'Keefe, the G.T.R. baggage-man, testified that Mr. Jones, on or about June 20th, had told him to keep the bale safely in the baggage room. He agreed and went to do some work. Later he noticed the trunk missing, and saw Jones, Mitchell and Marshall in conversation over the bale on the north platform of the north platform of the station. Jones had told him he was a constable; he asked him (O'Keefe) why he did not look it up. Then O'Keefe and Mitchell carried it over and put it in the baggage room. Marshall came along and asked him if it was going to be examined there and O'Keefe answered that he didn't know. The bale was not taken to the G.T.R. depot until it was expressed and turned it over to the Express Co's keeping. Barnett looking the bale up in the express room and Jas. Mitchell keeping the key for safety. Because O'Keefe had told him the boy Barnett might get into trouble. It was looked up about 9.30. About 11 o'clock Barnett came and told him the door was open and the bale was in the baggage room. He did not know. In the meantime he had been away from the station for 10 or 15 minutes and he had seen Mitchell yell after Mitchell and climb in the rig. The express room door was probably pried open, the floor was it had been looked. He explained to Jones next morning.

Mr. Mitchell said he remembered the date and helped to put the bale in the baggage room. He didn't know. Marshall then, but before the prisoner ran after him and asked him for the key of the express room. Mitchell said "No." I handed the key to McIlhenny about 11 o'clock. He told Mr. Widdess or Mr. Wate he had it. It was in his possession for nearly an hour. He didn't know whether Barnett looked the door or not, and did not know what trouble was. He couldn't account for the door being open. "Did you receive money in connection with the affair?" asked Crown Attorney Devlin. "No, sir," said the witness. The case was then adjourned until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

More Evidence Taken Tuesday—Adjourned until August 23rd.

Evening Post of Aug. 14. Further evidence was taken yesterday afternoon in the supposed fur smuggling affair; the case was then adjourned until Friday, Aug. 23rd, the Crown having more witnesses to subpoena.

Robert Yarnold and Jas. Dwyer, call boys at the G.T.R. station and roundhouse, gave evidence.

Yarnold said he remembered the time when the bale was brought in. He knew Simon Marshall, and saw him that morning standing between the express and baggage room at about nine or ten o'clock. Marshall had a key on his shoelace. Dwyer said the only other person he had noticed around. He told the story to the Chief of Police.

Joe Dwyer was the next witness. He recalled seeing Marshall on a certain occasion. He was walking from the east of the station to the west, and spoke to a man on the tracks. He said, "I've got it, but it cost me a dollar."

Cross-examined by Mr. Hopkins, Dwyer said he did not recognize the man who had been spoken to, but he was sure Marshall said the above words.

To Mr. Devlin, Dwyer said the day the Chief of Police was talking to him was the same day, on which he had seen Marshall.

The Crown Attorney then asked for a two weeks' adjournment, and after some objection by the prosecution lawyer, the case was adjourned until August 23rd.

Tried the Experiment.

William, said the boy's mother, who was preparing to go out, "You must not take me in the pantry while I am gone. It will make you sick."

Three hours later when she returned, William said, "You didn't know what you were talking about, mamma. That cake didn't make me sick at all."

LINDSAY CITIZENS VISIT COLLINGWOOD.

The Woodman of the World and Sylvester Band Excursion Well Patronized—Band and Baseball Team Victorious—Notes on Trip.

The Sylvester Band, of Lindsay, won the band tournament at Collingwood by 54 points.

The Lindsay baseball team defeated the Collingwood nine by 7-2.

Evening Post of Aug. 13. Joy, pure and unconfined, reigned supreme in Lindsay last night, and the great old town was at its gayest. The citizens turned out en masse, when the above results were noted, to welcome their victorious boys home from Collingwood, where they had swept everything in line.

At midnight the procession was held, and the band were escorted to their rooms amid the loud cheers and hurrahs of the admiring crowd.

THE CELEBRATION.

With its mammoth steel ship yards employing hundreds of workmen, its dry docks and manufacturing establishments, with the picturesque Blue Mountains, the ever enchanting waves, and a delightful stretch of Georgian Bay water close by, the pretty little town of Collingwood is an ideal spot for an excursion.

The Collingwood Woodmen of the World lodge is an enterprising one, and yesterday (Collingwood's Civic holiday) was chosen as the date on which to hold a celebration. The success of the day reflects considerable credit on the lodge. The excursions from outside points, however, were a great aid in completing the success of the celebration. Merford, Niagara Falls, Barrie, Lindsay and other places each contributed contingents to swell the crowds, and everywhere the W. O. W. emblem was noticeable.

THE EXCURSION.

July 350 citizens were on board the train when it pulled out of the G.T.R. station here. The Sylvester band and the Lindsay ball team were present to compete for honors in the Georgian Bay town. At 7.55 the train pulled out and the trip commenced. The journey was a long one, but good time was made, the jovial conductor, Tommy Ringland, getting his train through with all possible despatch. Driver Hutchinson got all that was possible out of his engine. The train took the excursionists through Beaverton, skirted the bluish-green waters of Lake Simcoe, through Orillia and Barrie, and through to Collingwood on Nottawasaga bay.

The train was due in Collingwood at 12.05, but was delayed a little by a freight car that was off the track, and reached its destination about 20 minutes late. The number of the train was greatly augmented at towns enroute, and 500 visitors landed in the town. The majority of the Lindsay crowd appeared to the Globe hotel, where Mine Host John F. Scholes had a bountiful spread in readiness, and dignified a "fun."

THE PARADE.

When the waltz of the "funner man" had been met, the parade to the Town Park was begun. In front rode the marshal, then the Merford band, then the crack Niagara degree team, the Sylvester band and the Lindsay baseball team. Crowds thronged the spacious main street, Hurontario, which is exactly the same width as Kent-st. (100 feet wide) and witnessed the parade. When the park was reached the athletic sports commenced and were witnessed by a huge crowd. Secretary E. J. Bellman, of the Collingwood W. O. W., had a splendid program arranged, and all went off smoothly save in minor details.

THE ATHLETICS.

The lacrosse match Collingwood vs. Barrie, came off first, the latter winning the game 4-0. The grounds was a poor one for the game, and the crowd could not be kept back. Seraps were frequent and the spectators mixed it up merrily with themselves and the players. "Connie" Meakin, of hockey fame, played for Barrie and took heaps of abuse. After an hour of monotonous lacrosse the score stood as above and the game was over. The Barriettes were the cleverer team. The 3-mile bicycle race for a $10 camera was interesting. Meakin, of Barrie, won it easily. Stutenburg's chain slipping off. The one mile race was also between the two, and Stutenburg, of Collingwood, showed his class by easily timing Meakin. Lindsayites enjoyed this race immensely.

THE WOODMEN.

The Niagara Falls degree team were the feature of the Woodmen parade. The team was composed of stalwart young men, and their drill was perfect. In full regalia they marched to the park, and also gave a public initiation in the evening. Mr. C. C. Hodgins, M. P. for North Middlesex, Head Consul Commander, and Mr. D. Cinnamon, M. P. for Ontario, were among the W. O. W. officers present. Lindsay Court was well represented.

LINDSAY 7—COLLINGWOOD 2. Then came the long-expected ball game, and everybody gathered to watch its progress. The Lindsayites in grey and red, looked a good deal more youthful than the Georgian Bay boys, but were "there with the goods" and showed superior ability.

Dick Butler, the crack Lindsay umpire, was on duty, and had his troubles. Both teams were perfectly satisfied with the deal they got, out of some of the crowd were unruly and created trouble. They lined the diamond and began with abusive epithets. They were all stout, bulky chaps, and evidently wanted fight. At last one of them interfered with Butler and they got what they wanted and "heap plenty" of it. The local boys went there to play ball and the game would have been clean but for the interference of these "Indians." As it was, three of them went for Umpire Butler, but they failed to knock on Tony and the others, besides sundry rooters. The game ended in the fifth innings in a melee that would have done credit to a Donnybrook fair. The policemen were around, somewhere, but were useless. The score was then 7-2.

The Lindsayites were all good stickmen and fielders and Dick Gray got going in the box. "Tony" Workman on second was a tower of strength. Ross, the Collingwood catcher, was the best man on his team, and played a pretty game.

THE RETURN HOME.

The return trip was far from uneventful. First, the boys were given a rousing send-off. Happy as kings, they cheered every station at which the train stopped. A delay occurred near Orillia owing to a conflagration at Atherton which burned a freight shed and six cars of lumber. The journey was continued by another truck, and all went well.

As the hours progressed weariness was evident, and the majority curled themselves up in their seats and fell asleep, but when Lindsay or T. R. station was reached everybody was wide awake. A burst of cheers greeted the incoming train, and a "tube" band contributed selections. A torchlight procession followed, the Sylvester band playing the "Cock of the North" while being escorted down the streets.

When the last light went out, the last tinkle of a cowbell heard, and the instruments stored away, the weary ones sought the refreshment of a sound sleep, and dreamt of the pleasures of the day that had passed.

THE BAND TOURNAMENT.

There were two entries in the tournament, Lindsay and Merford. Evidently the surrounding towns were too well aware of the excellence of the Lindsay aggregation of musicians under this skilled leader, W. H. Roenick, and did not care to risk an encounter. However, the Merford band with its twenty members were no mean opponents. These latter played first and then the Sylvester band played the following list:

- "Danube Wavcs," a waltz.
 - "Maritana," a selection.
 - "Tintern Abbey," a march.
- The rendering was spirited and the music took well with the crowd. The judge was a well known Waterloo musician and gave the score as 233 points for Lindsay, and 170 for Merford out of a total of 300. His mail some flattering comments on the skill of the locals. Needless to say, the result was greeted with applause.

EXCURSION NOTES.

Victory is ours.
Both band and ball team.
A grand celebration for the W. O. W.

The Sylvester foundry was shut down yesterday.

The "tube band" which welcomed the boys home was a triumph of invention.

Two victories for the band. They have yet to be defeated.

Three excursionists were left behind at Orillia. They arrived home safely this morning.

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Landridge—McFarland. The home of Mr. Geo. McFarland, at Glendown, south of Cobourg, was the scene of a quiet wedding on Wednesday, Aug. 7th, at high noon, when his daughter, Jennie, was united in marriage to Mr. George Landridge, of Toronto.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. John McFarland, and was becomingly gowned in a travelling suit of blue Panama cloth with blouse of pink d'esprie over taffeta. She was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie, who wore a pretty champagne jumper dress. Mr. Bert Barker, Toronto, supported the groom. Rev. J. Ross, of the Kilmount Presbyterian church, officiated, and after the ceremony a sumptuous dejeuner was served.

At 3 o'clock the bridal party was met at Cobourg by the steamer Kilmount, and after a delightful stop down the lakes to Penelon Falls, they took the evening train to Toronto amid showers of rice. Mr. and Mrs. Landridge will reside in Toronto.

The Auto Saved a Life.

Mr. Ross Leggett, formerly of this town, found R. Hedges, a younger man of Clonestown, lying unconscious on the road, and in a dying condition. Mr. Leggett put the man in his automobile and rushed to Port Credit. No doctor could be found there, and Leggett pointed his machine at Cobourg on the high road, and gear up and smashed all the speed laws in the neighborhood. It was a record trip, but the injured young man probably owes his life to the automobile. Mark down one for the dust-makers.

TOO MUCH FIREWATER DISAGREED WITH THE RED MEN

Indians Created a Riot on Board Str. Esturion Returning From the Stony Lake Regatta—Charges of Assault and Disorderly Conduct Against the Indians—Where Did They Secure Liquor?

Eight or nine Indians, filled with a stiff fight and prevented the men running amok of the women and children. One prominent young fellow threw several of the Indians bodily down the stairs. The fight kept up all the way from Burlington to Backham, where three of the redskins were put off. The others then quieted down and the rest of the trip was made without incident.

During the battle the war whoops and the shouting was terrific. Many men who had never before seen red men under the influence of liquor, say they never went through such an experience before. The ladies and children were badly scared, and it will be a long time before they will care to go on another excursion.

It is reported on the best of authority that the Indians were seen drinking at the bar by several prominent Peterboro people. One man stated this morning that if such conduct is permitted in the north-country, it is time the commissioners made a thorough investigation and force more respect for the laws of the country. Information has been led against the Indians, and an effort will be made to prove a case against the hotel or hotels where the fellows got their liquor—Peterboro Examiner, Tuesday.

WHERE IS FORDIE KENNY?

South Ward Lad Missing Since Tuesday, Not Yet Located.

Evening Post of Aug. 14. Tall for his nine years, fair hair, blueish gray eyes like blue, black trousers with a blue peaked cap, describes Fordie Kenny, the southward boy who has been missing since Tuesday morning of last week. When last seen on the Ops bridge at Mr. Jas. Robertson's, he was about 10 o'clock, and may have gone to some friends of the family in the country. As yet a trace of him can be found. Keep a sharp lookout for a lad answering to the above description.

Tough Fare.

In a New Zealand town one of the municipal candidates, a pronounced Scotsman, had received a present of a huge Scotch histle, which at the moment happened to be lying on the table of his committee room. A friend, entering, withdrew suddenly, with the remark: "I beg your pardon. I didn't know you were at home."

A BAD RUNAWAY.

A spiral column of dust whirling along the road spared Adams Bros. delivery horse while it was standing in front of Mr. Jas. Peet's at the west end of Kent-st. Tuesday, when the driver, Angus Campbell, was in the house. The animal bolted down Kent-st. at a lively gait and dashed into Colvin's yard, where Robert's store. There it was captured unharmed. The rig was badly smashed and the harness needed a few repairs.

VACATION TIME.

'Almost every self-supporting girl,' writes Mrs. Anna Stease Richards, in the August number of the Woman's Home Companion, 'when asked what her idea of a vacation is, will reply, 'A time when I can sleep in the morning, when I can sleep in the morning, when there are no hours for me to observe, no rules for me to follow.' And when you figure with the average woman wage-earner on fifty weeks of work and two of vacation, you can hardly pronounce her definition narrow or selfish. In reality, however, her vacation means much more than this, and in the end she is not satisfied with these privileges alone. The habit of loafing is strong and after the first reaction, which comes with release from daily toil, she finds that the right to do just as she pleases pulls upon her. So the girl accustomed to a daily routine of office, store or factory duty, finds that the condition of having nothing to do becomes irksome. She is cloyed with the sweetness of relaxation. Ninety girls out of every hundred, returning to business after a vacation, honestly admit that they are glad to get back in harness. Once rested, they miss the regular routine. They could not settle down to doing nothing gracefully. Within bounds, this is a normal, healthy sign, but when the worker finds every minute she is away from her post it means that her nerves are badly strained, and she is unfit for business. If you do not feel rested at the end of a fortnight's vacation, if you feel that business is hateful to you, and all buoyancy has left you, then something is wrong. Either you need more rest, more relaxation to recuperate your nerves, or you are just meant to be a business girl. The rest, dried-in-the-wood business girl, who, after a vacation, goes to her work as a born housewife goes to her minister to the physical welfare of her family.

THE BOURASSA INCIDENT.

The unkind reception meted out to Mrs. Bourassa by some hot-heads on the occasion of his attempt to address a meeting in St. Roch, Que., (part of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's constituency), has aroused some excitement, and some of the fiery papers seek to convey the impression that the Premier was in some way responsible for the harsh treatment met with by the Government critic. Such insinuations deserve only to be ignored. Friend Bourassa must have realized the risk he ran in invading the constituency of Sir Wilfrid with words of censure on his lips before the excitement caused by the Premier's triumphant and patriotic homecoming had died away. He probably got just what he had figured on—the opportunity to pose as an injunctive hero.

The following remarks of the Toronto Star are undoubtedly representative of the views of all Liberals with respect to the incident:

No one would attempt to defend the conduct of this mob in breaking up the Bourassa meeting and storming the speakers. But it is not enough to condemn the violence of the mob. It is necessary, in this country to emphasize the advantages of free speech and full discussion on all occasions. If Mr. Bourassa is right, he ought to be heard. If he is wrong he ought to be heard. It is by patiently hearing and considering opinions of all kinds that the people can exercise the rights which they nominally possess under our free institutions. An elector who casts his vote without knowing all that is to be said on the questions of the day is not a free man. He is no better off than his ancestors were under Downing street rule.

Under the best of conditions there is too little of that sort of discussion which informs and broadens the mind. There are short periods of excitement in politics and long periods of apathy, and one is as unfavorable as the other to the right understanding of political questions. If the people are really to govern themselves they must have the great questions of the day steadily and constantly before them; and they must hear both sides and all sides. Politicians complain that the newspapers pay less attention to politics than they formerly did. How many politicians, members of Parliament, candidates and others, do their own duty in keeping the elections, informed on the questions of the day, and presenting them with the materials for forming judgment?

In taking the elections into his confidence, Mr. Bourassa deserves credit. He does not insult them, as his opponents said in Quebec; he pays a compliment to them as intelligent men. It is alleged that his motives are selfish, and that he is trying to get into the limelight. If that is true, the best way to meet him is to follow his example. It ought not to be a singular thing for a member of Parliament to address the electors, it ought to be the regular practice, to be followed whether an election is at hand or not. Violence is the natural outcome of repression, and of neglect of the duty of educating the people.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Australia grants Britain a tariff preference of 5 per cent. But she may do better by and by.

The evicted Irish tenants' bill passed its second reading in the House of Lords, denounced only by Lord Clonricarde, the most hated landlord in Ireland.

That this is Canada's century is no longer questioned. From one end of the land to the other reports come of ripening crops, increased bank returns, expanding commerce, rapid railway construction, and best of all, genuine contentment. With bad administration all this would have been impossible, with good Government all things tending to material good are possible.

The London Free Press severely condemns the practice of "making terms with criminals," which it seems to think is a too common in the Ontario administration of justice. It is not in the interest of society that the offender should bargain as to his punishment, and Hon. Mr. Roy will do well to put a stop to the abuse and restore the dignity of the courts.

Chicago Weekly American: The haughtiness of Newport is evidently determined to qualify for affiliation with the ancient order of anathoroids. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont last week had a chimpanzee as guest of honor at a dinner to her friends. It seems quite certain that if the ape genus shall ever evolve into the human class it will be by a natural transition through the medium of Newport society.

Hamilton Times. Canadians need more discipline and self-control. People who felt public speakers like Bourassa, felt baseball umpires, felt street cars when there are strikes, felt calf-wrestlers when they fail to satisfy, and in so many ways violate good order an attempt to avenge what they regard as wrongs, are in danger of straying from the tested and sound principles of the Government of free peoples.

MANY COWS KEPT AT A LOSS

REPORT OF BOBCACEON COW-TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

Furnishes Food for Thought on Part of Farmers Interested.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)
The first test for the Bobcaygeon Cow Association was made on July 25th, by Mr. D. E. MacKenzie, of Beaverton, who has charge of this district, and he kindly furnishes the following results and pointed remarks:

At your Cow Testing Association I found the highest milk yield to be 1120 lbs. with a test of 3.7 per cent better fat or equaling in butter 43.4 lbs. The highest test was 4.3 p.c. Thus we see that the cow giving the largest flow of milk does not as a rule have the milk testing highest in butter fat.

The lowest milk yield was 250 lbs. with a test of 2.9 or equaling in butter fat only 8.4 lbs.

Note the difference in the amount of butter fat these two cows produced. 43.4 and 8.4, a difference of 35 lbs. or valuing butter fat at 20c a lb., $6.60 difference in return to the owner for the thirty days ending July 24th. The lowest test was 2.5.

Here again we see that lowest amount of milk does not mean that it does not necessarily together. Do not these results from our own district appeal to every thoughtful dairyman? In this one testing association a difference in amount produced to a dairy farmer of over $6 in one month. Does this not show the great necessity for the work? From a business point of view each dairy cow may be regarded as a separate department of an undertaking, and it is a principle of sound business to find out that each department pays, that is, that each individual cow gives a return large enough to pay for food, labor, etc., and leave a margin for profit. Guessing at the total yield will not avail. Memory is too treacherous. The total production of the milking period must be calculated so as to strike a balance with the total cost of the two months feed and to ascertain the margin, if any.

The records of the Cow-testing Associations are showing that many cows on our dairy farms are not even paying for their keep. Every dairy farmer should find out three things regarding his cows: 1. How much milk does she give? 2. How much fat does it contain? 3. What does it cost to produce. Such questions are readily answered if some simple record system is adopted. The members of the Cow Testing Association which are being organized agree to weigh the milk night and morning every ten days through the milking period, at the same time taking a sample for testing. The time occupied is not more than three minutes per cow per month. The composite sample is tested free by the department every month, and a farmer receives report of milk produced, test of same and amount of butter fat, and thus knows every month just what each cow is doing for him.

Milk is dear and sold at a loss if produced in too small a quantity by the cow. It is not always the cow that starts off in the season, and a large flow that is the heaviest producer. The fact that she gave a couple of pails at a milking through June does not say that she gave 5000 lbs. in the year. She may decrease in flow much more rapidly than the cow that starts off in the season, and a large flow that is the heaviest producer. "Oh, no, Madame—she was thin as a queen—not your woman but the crystal and yourself."

The other threw up her head incredulously. "If you reveal," she said harshly, "that I have visited you, I will never reveal you to my visitors again. I was the quiet answer, 'I always reveal myself.' She sat down in indignation, but there was almost insolent provocation in the simple grace of the movement."

Madame d'Etioles turned away. "And your pay?" she demanded sharply.

"As Madame pleases," came the indifferent answer from the sofa. The visitor placed five pieces on the table, replaced her veil, and walked towards the door. "Adieu!" she said over her shoulder, but Andre could see she stepped as one intoxicated by a sublime vision.

"And will Madame remember the wise woman," the sorceress pleaded in her soft voice, "if the crystal be found to speak the truth?"

"Yes," she had wheeled sharply, a merciless freezing vengeance glinted in her eyes and stealed her voice. "I will have you burned for an insolent witch. I promise not to forget."

"My thanks, Madame," she rang the hand-bell, and Madame was unceremoniously ushered out. The sorceress sat reflecting and then placed the crystal in her bosom and took away the screen.

"It is the turn of Monsieur le Vicomte," she remarked pleasantly. "It is a pity I did not ask the lady to stay and hear."

"No, I thank you," Andre answered. "I am satisfied, and so was she."

"Monsieur le Vicomte," the sorceress said, fixing a penetrating gaze on him, "he fears his fate."

"Oh, no," was the quick reply. "My fate lies in my sword and my head. I am ready to face it without fear or reproach when and as it comes. But I will not know beforehand, not even for a crown reversed."

For a brief second her eyes rested on him with approval, and indeed she looked very handsome and noble at that moment.

"But Monsieur will permit me," she said gently, and before he could refuse she had taken his hand, "I will not speak unless he wishes."

While she studied it he studied her. What a subtle pathos seemed to lie in those blue eyes, those smiling lips, that dainty hand almost touching him, a pathos like her perfume ascending into the brain. And how enchanting was that diamond cross rising and falling on that dazzling breast.

"What is it?" he asked, for she had dropped his hand with a faint sigh, and sat staring mysteriously at something far away.

"I am forbidden to speak," she answered, averting her eyes, and she picked up her cat, and walked away.

"You shall tell me," Andre said impetuously.

But she only laughed over the cat's body, stroking it softly with her chin. "All this purr echoed through the room."

"Confess, confess," he said, "I will know."

"The hand of Monsieur le Vicomte," she answered, smiling mischievously, "is full of interesting revelations, dreams which come and go—but there is one dream that is always there—the dream of love. Women," she added, "women, women everywhere in Monsieur's life; as in the years that were past, so in the years to come. Let the Vicomte de Nerac be on his guard against all women—and against one woman in particular."

Andre failed to suppress an exclamation. Had this beautiful witch divined that secret too?

"Her name," she paused to bury her face in the cat's fur, "is—Yvonne—Yvonne," she repeated, "of the Spot-Bees Ankles."

"Yvonne!" he laughed heartily.

"Yes, Yvonne. Sometimes there is more in a peasant girl, to tempt and ruin than in a Comtesse des Forges, or a marquise—it was her turn to laugh."

"Ah! the Vicomte is a gallant and reckless lover. He thinks as the noblesse think, that women are necessary to him. But it is not so. It is he who is necessary to them."

"And your fee for this advice, madame?"

"I have no fee," she said, "but I will undertake to win another. I will bet that it will not be de Nesles, but a bourgeoisie that the King will select."

"Impossible!" both St. Benoit and Madame cried, genuinely shocked. "A bourgeoisie at Versailles! It would be a scandal, unheard of, monstrous, not to be tolerated."

But Andre only smiled, and pressed him as they might he refused to say more.

"Well," said the Comtesse, "if you will go tonight, my dear de Nerac, to the ball at the Hotel-de-Ville you will learn whether I am not right. And after Andre had taken his leave she turned to St. Benoit, with genuine concern. "England," she said, "has demoralized our dear friend. The English have made him incredibly vulgar. As if the King of France would so far forget himself or be so impertinent to us as to introduce into our Versailles a bourgeoisie. There would be a revolution."

"I can see you, Madame," he answered, "giving the lady her footstool. He kneeled mockingly at her feet. "God bless my soul! you might as well expect me to kiss the hand of your fille de chambre. Andre was frowning; he knew if the King were to bring her to court she would not stay a week."

"A week!" Madame threw up her no-bis hand. "Not twenty-four hours."

But Andre, who had heard the crystal's story, had his good reasons. Already fertile schemes were fermenting in his brain; his ambition, too, was daily soaring upwards, and he dimly guessed that this strange thing of Fortune's wheel the opportunity for which he thirsted would at last come. And so like the rest of the gay world he went that night to the grand ball given by the municipality of Paris at the Hotel-de-Ville in honor of the marriage of the Dauphin; for the King had promised to be present, and it was to be one of those rare occasions when the noblesse had consented to rub shoulders with the middle class in doing honor to the royal bride and bridegroom. Coming events were in the air. Andre felt, though why he could not say, that tonight would somehow prove a decisive turning-point in the history of himself and France.

For one purpose, or dancing, the court of the Hotel-de-Ville had been converted into a ballroom, superbly festooned and illuminated, and the crowd that had gathered was immense. Nobles of the realm, great ladies, peers, peeresses, and the Court here joined in the wildest confusion with the gentlemen of the robe, with aldermen, shopkeepers, and even flower girls and the daineses of the royal ballet. The company was supposed to be masked, but many had already discarded the flimsy covering; and for all who still wore it the disguise was the merest affectation. Most of the ladies of the middle class had donned fancy attire, but the noblesse for the most part showed their quality by refusing to imitate the canaille. Andre of course was content with his uniform of the Chevaliers de la Garde, that beautiful and famous livery of scarlet with white facings, silver buttons, spurs of gold, and hat with white plumes which in itself conferred an enviable distinction, and about his neck, more proudly still, he carried that crozier de St. Louis, whose possession sufficed to make any soldier happy.

For a few minutes he stood gazing at the brilliant spectacle presented by the moving throng,—one vast arena of human beings in which the uniforms, the stars and ribbons, the jewels, the bright eyes, and the fair shoulders were blended into a magic and inspiring panorama, over which floated the tender music of harp, violin, and flute.

And as he moved slowly forward kissing the hands, receiving gentle congratulations, or looking into eyes to which in past days he had whispered devotion in the Oeil de Boeuf or beneath the balmy fragrance of a fete champetre at Rambouillet his ambition soared still higher. But dance he would not; he had come to watch, to teach, and to learn. The Chevalier for his joy was not here; he had been despatched, Andre discovered with grim satisfaction, on special business of the King. But yonder was Denise, holding a miniature court. As Andre edged his way towards her, her glance fell on the familiar uniform, and it plainly said: "Here at least let us forget the past—I have forgiven you—come let us be friends as we were before."

Andre replied to her graceful reverence with his stiffest bow, as he had deliberately come to do, and then moved slowly off, but not before he had marked with a lover's joy the painful surprise in Denise's eyes, the angry flush that colored her cheek. But the lesson must be completed. A partner must be found and at once. He paused—looked at him—started.

"You, Madame!" he ejaculated, checking his astonishment, for Denise was watching him.

"I, Monsieur le Vicomte," was the serene reply. "This is more fun than spelling the truth from a crystal," and she laughed wickedly.

Yes, it was indeed the wise woman from "The Cock with the Spurs of Gold," wearing her diamond cross and dressed in adorably pale blue satin, just such a color as her eyes covered by the pale blue mask. Stranger of all, Andre felt at that moment, there was no woman in all this throng who carried herself with more of the true air of the noblesse than did this young sorceress, who plied a charlatan's trade for hire.

"The Vicomte looks to-night as the Vicomte de Nerac should," she remarked quietly. "It is his presence here—now it is his. That is all!"

"What?" He stopped in sheer amazement. "You are that—that woman?"

"Certainly. The same, only a trifle disguised. In London I was dark, in Paris I am fair, because," she shrugged her shoulders, "I love change and I hate being recognized unless I choose. You will not betray my secret, will you?"

"No. But why are you in Paris?"

"Women like myself," she answered cynically, "are always dying of ennui, and I was born a Parisienne. Can a Parisienne live without Paris? Well, I cannot. London, mon Dieu! Those suffocating English! They make love as they eat beef and drink beer. Their women are prudish, their men heavy as bull-dogs made of lead. London is a ville de province—no wit, no ideas, no life. Here," she pointed with her fan, "it is far different. Where will you find the like of that for gaiety of heart, and sparkle of the soul? It is the city of breeding, of philosophers, of poets, of chivalry, and of lovers. Why, that Englishman of genius, that Englishman of genius, when even the lovers who make love with ardour and in couplets that slug of themselves become annoying I go elsewhere."

Andre listened with a puzzled delight. It was not the perfume—it was the mystery that enveloped her which kept him silent. Something in her voice, "do you not recognize a friend, perhaps a partner? Is she not charming—conquering and to conquer?"

"Name of a dog!" he ejaculated.

Away at the other end of the ballroom was a raised dais on which was gathered a bevy of the fairest of the bourgeoisie. One of them, escorted by three or four gentlemen, was descending the stairs into the throng—a woman of the rank of Diana, clad in the airiest, gauziest, purest white, with a silver bow in her hand and a quiver on her shoulder and a jewelled half-moon in her powdered hair. It was—yes, it was—the fair huntress of the woods of Versailles, to-night a matchless spectacle of majestic beauty which rippled over into the gayest, most provocative coquetry imaginable—Juno and Venus and Diana in one and defying you to say which was the more divine. And that cunningly arranged, rosy, glittering white, with its artful jewels to suggest every curve and line, was just what witchery would have chosen to be the foil to the laughter of her eyes and the subtle sheen of her skin. What other woman could have worn it? But for the one who dared, it was the homage of a woman's art to the triumph of nature's womanhood.

Andre watched her with absorbing interest. Fate had ordained that this woman's ambitions should be bound up with his. But how? how?

"She has a mind," his companion was saying, "as well as incomparable beauty. That Abbe at her elbow is Monsieur de Bernis, a poverty-stricken poet who writes her love-letters for her, and who will make great some day, perhaps, and the Monsi- de Voltaire cared as much for balls as for the muses, he, too, would be staring his honeyed venom in her ear. She can act and dance and sing. She will not always be Madame d'Etioles."

The plans of years were sweeping through Andre's brain. What if the crystal—the thought was cut short by a stately flourish of trumpets and the loud hum of applause.

"See," the sorceress whispered, "the King has arrived."

Men and women pressed to the entrance and then fell back—on all sides the lowliest reverences. The King, the master of France, had entered and was facing the crowd. And a truly royal figure he was in his splendid dress, for Louis XV. knew how to present himself as a worthy grandson of the Sun God who had created Versailles and made monarchy in Europe sublime: the pose of his handsome head, the dignity of his carriage, the matchless air of command that could only be long to one whose wish since boyhood was law, whose words were orders, whose will was the inspiration of a nation. And when you marked that faint mysterious smile, those blue eyes delicately dull, was he not just like his grandfather, indefinable and impene- trable? What was the real man concealed behind that regal presence? What were the real thoughts masked by that gaze, slightly bored yet en- thusiastic and sweet?

"You do not like the King?" Andre asked quickly, for he had caught behind the pale blue mask a swift glance which sent a shiver down his spine.

"I love him," she answered, "as all women do. But I was thinking of the day when I am to be burnt for a witch."

It was not the truth and Andre knew it. A woman's jealousy, he thought, but that, too, he knew it was not.

"My friend," she said, "go you and salute Madame d'Etioles. Perhaps you will see something later on to amuse you, and as if to assist him she glided from him and was lost in the crowd."

She divined his mind again. To speak with the fair huntress was the resolve that had mastered him. And to his satisfaction Madame was no longer recognized him than she beckoned with her fan, smiling a shy and intoxicating welcome.

Andre kissed her hand, looking into her eyes, imperial eyes in which slumbered imperial ambitions, such wonderful eyes, now blue, now grey, now softly dark as the violet, now glittering with the lightest mockery. "Mon cousin de roi," he muttered. "Yes, by God! a moreau de roi!"

"Conduct me to yonder pillar," she said presently, "we can talk better there."

But that was not her reason, for to reach the pillar they must pass near the King. Clearly Madame d'Etioles was bent on playing to-night the same to one woods at other quarters. Andre as he escorted her now felt that all eyes, including Denise's, were on him, but he enjoyed it, walking slowly on the giddy tips of bravado. In front of Louis, he paused to make his reverence. Madame paused too, and as she unsling her quiver to curtsy with more graceful ease Andre could feel her tremble. The King's roaming gaze rested on them both. Andre's salute he acknowledged with a smile, a word or two of kind greeting, but it was on the jewels on the breast of the huntress that his bored eyes lingered.

"Fair archeress," he said, "surely the shafts you loose are mortal."

Madame d'Etioles flushed with pleasure, curtsied again, and promptly passed on, without attempting to reply.

"Mon Dieu! what a figure! Who the devil is she?" Andre heard one of the gentlemen of the Chamber mutter.

You did that to perfection," his partner whispered by the pillar. "You are a man who understands women, and they are so rare. And now we will dance if you please."

The sorceress was right. Madame d'Etioles danced divinely. She had been taught by the best masters, but it was only art that she owed to their science. The rest was her own.

"Will you please do what I tell you?" she whispered as the violins tripped out a stately minuet. "And trust me."

"Rely on me, Madame," he answered.

Imperceptibly Madame d'Etioles in her minuet drew nearer and nearer to the King, who began to observe them closely. A gleam of animation crept into his face and the courtiers parted a little to permit His Majesty a better view of this dainty dancer. Covert whispers, knowing looks, commenced to run through the group. Yes, the King was distinctly interested. But the fair Diana paid no heed. She had only eyes for the superb officer in the scarlet and white of the Chevaliers de la Garde, who was dancing as he had never danced before.

"Throw your handkerchief," came the soft command.

Completely puzzled Andre obeyed as in a dream. His partner caught the handkerchief dexterously on her fan and was rewarded by a ripple of delighted laughter from the spectators.

"A forfeit, Vicomte," she said loud enough for all to hear, "I give you tit for tat," and she pressed her own to her lips, and tossed it back to him.

But it was not intended to reach him. The huntress had calculated carefully and the handkerchief lightly hit the King.

A flush shot into Louis's face: Madame colored over neck and shoulders, she dropped her eyes, after one swift glance at His Majesty. Silence, save for the dying lullaby of the music. Andre's heart was not so fast surely as was beating that ambitious heart of the huntress prisoned in its jewels and white satin.

What would the King do? Would he resent or accept the challenge?

Gentlemen and ladies, nobles and bourgeois alike, drew a deep breath. Ah! the King had picked up the handkerchief—a second's pause, the pause in which a nation's destiny may be decided—and then the King smilingly threw the handkerchief back, fair and true, at the audacious dancer.

A pent-up cry arose, hands were clapped. "The King has thrown the handkerchief," the King has thrown the handkerchief," was the ringing sentence on the lips of all.

Madame caught the royal gift and melted into an enchanting reverence. One alluring side-glance under demure eyelashes, a glance of challenge and of submission, and she had taken Andre's arm and glided swiftly back to the dais.

"The King has thrown the handkerchief," still rang round the crowded room. But where was the dancer? She was gone—yes, actually gone without waiting to follow up her victory. And of the expectant, excited throng Andre alone recognized how unerring was her tact. The huntress had accomplished her object. Henceforward it would not be she who must hunt, for defiance to royal hunters can be more triumphant than obedience.

Andre was over to Madame des Forges and St. Benoit. "You have lost again," he said, "and you will confess it now."

"It is infamous," replied the Comtesse, with fierce indignation. "Infamous! But that grisette has not won yet; the road from the Hotel-de-Ville to Versailles is long and difficult!"

"Ah, no," Andre answered, "not when you can travel in a royal cage. You will see what you will see when the campaign is over. The bourgeoisie before long will have the heel of her slipper on all our necks."

"And you believe," said the Comtesse, "that we will permit her to be forced on us. You are as mad as she is."

She promptly took St. Benoit's arm to mark her anger at the part Andre had played. But he only shrugged his shoulders in infinite amusement.

BABY'S FACE IN TERRIBLE STATE

Awful Humor Was Eating Away Face and Ears—Body Mass of Sores—Three Doctors Tried to Help Little Sufferer But She Grew Worse—After Spending Many Dollars On Doctors and Medicine

CUTICURA CURES IN TWO WEEKS AT COST OF 75c.

"I feel it my duty to parents of other poor suffering babies to tell you what Cuticura has done for my little daughter. She broke out all over her body with a humor, and we used everything recommended, but without results. I called in three doctors, they all claimed they could cure her, but she continued to grow worse. Her body was a mass of sores, and her little face was being eaten away. Her ears looked as if they would drop off. Neighbors advised me to get Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and before I had used half of the cake of Soap and Box of Ointment the sores had all healed, and my little one's face and body were clear as a new-born babe's. I would not be without it again. It cost five dollars, instead of seventy-five cents, which is all it cost us to cure our baby, after spending many dollars on doctors and medicine. I can't say enough for Cuticura. Mrs. George St. Louis, 741 Auburn St., Akron, Ohio, Aug. 30, 1905."

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weakness and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening medicine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains no drop of alcohol, or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy, or expose your health to the risk of a bad cure, or make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take—candy.

STURGEON POINT REGATTA

Most Successful Aquatic Event Ever Held Under the Auspices of Cottagers' Association.

WEATHER CONDITIONS WERE PERFECT.

Events Witnessed by Fully 2500 Visitors from Lindsay and all Points on the Kawartha Lakes.

EVERY RACE WELL CONTESTED

Great Assemblage of Pleasure Launches—Chemong and Stony Lake Associations Well Represented.

Evening Post of Aug. 9
The sense of satisfaction induced by the knowledge of duty well and faithfully performed is today the heritage of every member of the executive who had in charge the management of the annual Sturgeon Point Regatta, held yesterday. True, the success of the affair was greatly aided by the magnificent weather conditions, the day being perhaps the finest of the summer. The heat in the mid-afternoon was somewhat oppressive, and was felt especially by spectators gathered in unsheltered spots in the vicinity of the judges stand—the finishing point for all the races.

The accessibility of Sturgeon Point, and the suitability of beautiful Sturgeon Lake for aquatic events, must have been well impressed on the mind of every visitor who viewed for a first time the grand sheet of water, with its background of charming shore line, majestic oaks, towering pines, and picturesque summer cottages and boat-houses, and even the semi-resident cottagers, who spend part of three months' at the Point every season, were able to discover new beauties yesterday under the spell of the radiant sunlight shimmering on the placid waters and new color tones visible on every hand. Although the first race was announced for 1:30 p.m., people from the country roundabout began to gather in at an early hour—before many of the cottagers had awakened at their porridge. Early astir on the farms, they probably rushed the morning's work in order to enjoy a long and pleasant day by the lakeside. Next the banners along the shores made their appearance, floating with athletic young men who had made an early start and paddled, or rowed from Lindsay or Fenelon Falls. About 9 o'clock gasoline and steam launches, with joyous parties on board, began to awaken the echoes and proclaim to all and sundry that if they were not the speediest of their kind they could at least make as much noise as the best of 'em. At 10 o'clock the first steamer—the Kathleen—arrived with a full load from Lindsay, and was to await at about 11 o'clock by the Esturgeon, the flagship of the Trent Valley Navigation Co., with about 350 on board. Both boats made a second trip, and returned with their full legal complement. In the interval the Ogemah of the F. V. N. Co., arrived from Chemong with 200 people on board—members of Chemong Cottagers' Association, and leading citizens of Peterborough, and the Maunula of the same line, pulled in from Bobcaygeon with a party of 125. Half-a-dozen steam yachts, one having on board a delegation representing the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association—indeed, any party to swell the throng of pleasure seekers, the Kawartha bringing about fifty from Fenelon Falls.

VISITORS WELCOMED.
Cottagers took advantage of the opportunity to extend the right hand of fellowship to friends and acquaintances, and many sought a welcome and hospitable fire in the one hundred or so homes of Point dwellers. The majority of the visitors, however, came provided with well-filled bumpers, the contents of which were sampled under the grateful shade of the greenwood trees. Bachelors and other "lonelies" were provided for at Dickson's boarding house and Mrs. Walker's restaurant, where meals and lunches were served to hundreds of hungry callers. In connection with this "feasting of the multitude," the officers of the Association have it in their power to effect an improvement next season that will be largely appreciated by son's boat leading to the first buoy, but owing to an unfortunate accident it was disabled and was not able to finish the race. Mr. Dickson's launch rounded the home buoy first, with Perrin's launch in a close second. The six horse power and under handicapped gasoline launch race had four entries—Wilson boys' "18", Perrin's new launch, Clary's launch, Clannam's "Amble", Wilson's "11" crossed the line 1st and Perrin's launch 2nd.

The three-horse power gasoline launch race had eight entries and was a pretty event. Chas. Squire's "Pea Pod", Needler's launch, Taylor's "Nymph", Wm. Flavell's launch, Davidson's "Tomboy", Hopkins' "Viking", Rogers' launch, Squire's "Pea Pod" was first to cross the line, and was the smallest on the course. It played the part of the dark horse—it was its maiden trip, and it developed remarkable speed for its size. The Hopkins' launch came in a good second.

The open sailing had six entries—Harris, Curry, G. Beal, R. A. Shaw, and Hopkins brothers. Harris, a visitor, crossed the line first, and Hopkins second. The canoe obstacle race had three entries. The first place was taken by E. Perrin, 2nd R. Allan, Bruce Hopkins was the third entry. The upset race was an amusing event. Bruce Hopkins took 1st, V. Gladman was the other contestant. The tilting tournament was a most interesting and ludicrous spectacle, and excited much merriment. There were three teams contesting—B. Hopkins and B. Wilson, N. Gladman and G. Warner, C. Warner and W. Knowlson. The first team were the victors, and the last the 2nd prize winners.

Mixed tandem canoe race—1st, Miss Grace Knowlson and W. Knowlson; 2nd Miss Jean Flavell and Gerald Warner. The other contestants were Miss Laura Ryerson and B. Hopkins, Miss Carol Beal and C. Montizambert. Three in a canoe—1st Eastwood, Wray and Mims; 2nd Perrin brothers and Wood. The other contestants were J. and C. Warner and W. Knowlson, C. and V. Gladman and A. Simpson. Crab race—1st B. Hopkins. The other contestants were Wildford Knowlson, Merritt Knowlson, H. McLaughlin, Carlton Warner and R. Allan. Single canoe—1st Sam Nott, 2nd Jas. Conway, R. Perrin was the other contestant. Girls' tandem—1st Misses Ryerson and Armstrong; 2nd Misses Donnie Mims. Boys' tandem—1st Calton Warner and W. Knowlson; 2nd M. Knowlson and Ellsworth Flavell. The other contestants were A. Perrin and R. Woods. Swimming race—1st W. E. V. Shaw, 2nd E. Perrin. The other contestants were A. Perrin and Ray Woods. TIMED SWIMMER "FLUNKED." The steam launch race did not fill as well as was anticipated. Only Mr. Jas. Brown's "Rotta" and Simpson's "May" missed the starting point, and the race was a comfortable walkover for the Rotta. The steam yacht owners are evidently afraid of the "Rotta". While several of them indulge in a little "blowing" when there is no prospect of anything doing when it comes down to clearing their decks and preparing for action, Commodore Brown is never able to find them.

THE RACES AND WINNERS
Contests were interesting and in the Main Well Contested. The first race put on was one for gasoline power boats, which included all classes. There were four entries—J. Dickson's handsome covered launch, Jesse Perrin's new 30 ft. launch, which made its maiden run; Mr. J. W. Flavell's Swannsea; and the Wilson boys' "11". This race was very closely contested, the Wilson's boat leading to the first buoy, but owing to an unfortunate accident it was disabled and was not able to finish the race. Mr. Dickson's launch rounded the home buoy first, with Perrin's launch in a close second. The six horse power and under handicapped gasoline launch race had four entries—Wilson boys' "18", Perrin's new launch, Clary's launch, Clannam's "Amble", Wilson's "11" crossed the line 1st and Perrin's launch 2nd.

MISFORTUNE BROUGHT LUCK.
When in Trouble Remember this Peculiar Incident.
New York, July 24.—The man who fell in a sewer and came out immaculate, carrying a bouquet of roses, will have to take a back seat to Frank H. Moorehead, of Fairfield, N.J.
Moorehead went fishing recently in his canoe. About noon he accidentally caught his foot under the canoe seat and fell heavily, spraining his ankle and upsetting the canoe. He lost all the fish he had caught and, handicapped by his sprained ankle, was almost drowned. Crawling ashore half dead, Moorehead painfully hobbled towards his home, taking a short cut. This brought him to a cottage, which burned four years ago. Stopping there to rest his aching ankle, he fell into the cellar, tearing his clothes and getting painfully cut and bruised.
Moorehead lay in a heap of wreckage, saying (and the unkind things about himself that he could think of, in the hush and most forceful language at his command, he saw a silver snuff bowl nearby. Moorehead forgot his aches and pains and looked further. His search disclosed more silver, including bags and little pieces, and in a crevice near by was a black box, containing watches and a number of rings, some of them set with diamonds.
The goods found are valued at from $2,500 to $3,000, and are supposed to have been hidden by some thieves.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES
IMPROVING THE SMALLER GRAINS
The Work as Conducted by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association.

Extract from the last annual report of the secretary of the Association; During the past year the work in improving the smaller grains as conducted under this Association has made a steady and very material advance. Not only has the number of operators increased, but, what is of perhaps greater importance, there has been a very decided advancement in the intelligent interest taken in the work, and much has been added to our knowledge as a result. It is gratifying to note the degree in which many of the growers have caught the spirit of the work and have become sensible of the fundamental principles involved. With the increased interest in the improvement of strains there has come a greater tendency on the part of the growers to conduct trials with a few leading varieties of the crop or crops under consideration, and as a result many unsuitable varieties have had to give way to others more desirable as foundation stock. The improvement and maintenance of these superior varieties and strains seems to offer great advantages. The degree to which many of our best varieties have become mixed with other less desirable sorts is noteworthy. This intermixture is largely due to carelessness on the part of the grower and to the use of improperly cleaned itinerant thrashing machines. Some of these unwelcome kinds mature earlier than does the regular crop, and as a result they multiply with great rapidity. As an example of this we find the vagrant variety of wheat known as the Assiniboia Red, which contaminates many of the wheat fields of the West, maturing somewhat earlier and shelling more freely than does its host, and hence establishing itself more firmly as time passes.

Then again we find the different diseases to which these smaller grains are heir, very difficult to keep under control in large areas. As a result of these things it is almost impossible to secure with certainty strong, healthy, pure and uniform seed of high quality in the ordinary manner. This fact explains the growing popularity of the special seed plot of limited area as a place where high class seed may be produced. The use of only the best obtainable seed on clean and well-tilled soil, allowing the crop to thoroughly ripen, making it possible to select seed by hand from standing plants of desirable types and in sufficient quantities to perpetuate the same, and threshing and storing separately from other kinds are the main claims that this system has established in agricultural practice.

While the ultimate aim of the grower is to establish a strain which will yield more bushels of good quality per acre under his conditions than did the original, yet the factors in true breeding are overshadowed by the question of resistance. In Canada, as in all other countries, there are numerous adverse conditions such as rust, smut, weakness of straw, drought, impoverished soil, etc., which go to influence the yield and must be carefully considered in the work. The selecting of plants which have outstripped their neighbors enjoying equal opportunities has proven the utility of the system within the past year.

While every crop of any considerable consequence is receiving attention, yet the work that is being done in Canada with wheat is of special importance, in that it is being carried on with all others as might be expected. The difficulties which are naturally associated with an extensive system of farming are met with most in the great wheat-growing districts of the West. It is the sound, full fertility of the land, the congenial climate, and the intensity of the scale upon which farming operations are carried on are potent factors in promoting the growth and spread of noxious weeds, insects, rusts, and fungous diseases. This fact and what it means is already well known to the western grower, and the seriousness with which it is being looked upon is evidenced by the increasing number who are welcoming a system which will enable them to keep these things under control.

Many varieties and strains of oats and barley are also being worked upon, and excellent results are being achieved, while such crops as beans, peas, clover and millet are also receiving the advantage from the lessons taught by the response of our leading crops to selections therefrom of seed from the most coveted plants for seed purposes. The advantages of this system of maintaining a high standard in crop raising should appeal to every grower.

ABOUT SCHOOL BOOK PRICES.
Reduction Which Now Applies to the Various Readers.
Mr. C. W. James, acting deputy minister of education, has given out the following statement to the press: "Owing to the report of the textbook commission having been only recently received, and the fact that several text-books on one subject are on the authorized list, the difficulties consequently connected with agreements and copyrights, and the necessity for giving due notice to the trade, the department has not yet been able to secure what it would consider sufficiently adequate reductions in the prices of the books now authorized for the high schools and public schools, except, as has been announced, in the case of the Ontario readers. These are now obtainable at the new prices, as follows: For the first reader, part 1, 15 cents; for the first reader, part 2, 15 cents; for the second reader, 15 cents; for the third reader, 15 cents; for the fourth reader, 15 cents.
"The publisher selling to any purchaser for use in Ontario shall allow the following discounts:
"(a) On one or more copies of any book, 25 per cent. off the prescribed retail price.
"(b) On quantities of the value of $350 and upwards at retail prices (the said quantities being made of any quantity of any one of the said books and in any proportion the publisher may desire), 25 per cent. off the prescribed retail price, and an extra ten per cent. thereon.
"Early in October next the contents and prices of the list of books now in use in the schools will be revised and arrangements made for the publication of such text-books as may be required."

Slueth From the Fishery and Came Dept. After Fur Smugglers.
Evening Post of Aug. 7.
A detective from the department of Game and Fisheries of Canada is engaged on the alleged fur smuggling case, and the affair will be sifted to the bottom.
Ugly rumors were flying last fall concerning certain gamekeepers in Algonquin Park, and these will be looked into. It is the opinion of many that a wholesale butcher of animals is supposed to be protected, and the smuggling of their furs has been going on.
At present the place where Mr. Shall was arrested is being kept secret, as is the name of the Government officer on the trail, but it is admitted that the place was some seventy miles from town.

Some Remarks on Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

There are but faint traces on these days over the dismissal of Grit office-holders here and there by the Whitney government. We don't know whether or anyone would suspect from our writings that we are of Grit persuasion, but to remove any doubts any one may have on the subject, we may say that we are decidedly Grit—near Grit. Admitting this, we may say that, as far as we have read the evidence in several of the latest cases, such as the Brantford police magistracy, the Toronto police magistracy, and others, we have a very high opinion of Mr. Whitney's not been far wrong in removing some of these people. There are cases, of course, in which he was utterly wrong. The Toronto license inspectors were one in which he seemingly had not the shadow of an excuse. If the license board he first appointed could not be trusted to carry the Act out properly as Whitney professed he wanted it carried out, nobody could, and from the way the change was made, it certainly had a very fishy look and we could only suppose that they were carrying out his instructions too literally to suit the Tory "boys." (There are other similar cases, all though not as extreme. On the other hand there have been some removals that apparently were justified. It is useless for Liberals, or Tories for that matter, to go blindly forward, laboring under the impression that because one of their kind may have an office that he has some sort of divine right to it, whether he is holding it down successfully or not.

The day has gone by, we hope, when we, as the people to be served, shall be expected to humbly put up with any sort of service by a man in public office, whether he be a bridge-tender or a judge, and it is just as well that all public officials in the pay of the public, should take that fact to heart and make a mental note of it. In the case of the Toronto jailer it was very clearly brought out that things were not running just as they should be in an institution of that kind, and supposing, just for argument's sake, that there was hardly enough justification to warrant the jailer's dismissal, but rather to give him another chance, would that not be running too great a risk? The jail is not there for the benefit of the man—the man is put there for the benefit of the jail and its inmates, and if it was not being run properly, the time certainly had arrived to try a new man who could manage things as they should be.

In the Brantford police magistracy case, which is the last one to the front, we think the evidence is clearly in favor of the change. The Grit party will make no capital out of this speaking of, in trying to hold such examples up as specimens of ship. (Make our own Ontario officials in Lindsay as examples—we feel safe in saying that if those in the rest of the province acted as impartially and uprightly as ours do, there would be very few changes, except by natural selection. The man at Brantford did not seem to have any of the gentleman about him at all. He evidently thought he owned the town and the people that were in it. It appears that he called a Methodist minister a liar, a perjurer, a disgrace to the ministry, and (quite) said he would not believe him under oath—expressions, all will admit, hardly compatible with a judicial temperament. We do not know the ministerial gentleman thus described, but it would be safe to say that he was not a gentleman. Another ministerial gentleman who came in for some of this man's wrath was Dr. Shener. We happen to be well acquainted with the doctor and he is saying that he would do nothing, nor would he ask any magistracy to do anything, that he had not a perfect right to do on to Grit. (There will be blood on the old land during some parties of this kind.)

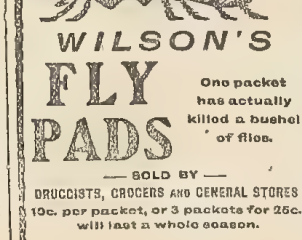

Occasionally a man goes to the races and picks a winner in spite of his judgment. A girl of 16 pretends to know a lot more about men than a woman of 30 will admit she knows. The average woman seems to think that all her husband's good qualities are due to her influence.

You may have noticed that one girl no sooner breaks a man's heart than another comes along and bandages it up. When a man begins to get up at six o'clock on Sunday morning he may as well admit that he is growing old.

Up to the time of going to press the Standard Oil Company had not paid the $20,240,000 fine imposed by Judge Landis of Chicago.

Five Swiss Alpinists have conquered the hitherto unclimbed peak of Parnon (Cavagnolo), in Sicily, which is 9,000 feet high. Many previous attempts failed owing to the treacherousness of the peak, which resembles the Matterhorn. It will be recalled that the latter defied climbers for generations.

The Socialist colors are now being worn by some of the strikers around the streets of Cobalt. While Organizer O'Brien was giving a short address, glowing on Haywood's record, an already plentiful supply of our. Meanwhile the air here had been broken off the helmet of the diver, who perished by suffocation. Evidently there is need either for a new kind of signal or for an understanding that the one now in use shall be taken as a request on the part of the diver to be drawn up to the surface.

up the question of the powers of that house, but rather to analyze the composition of the other house—known as the House of Lords. (The House of Lords is composed of Lords spiritual and Lords temporal, the latter being peers of the realm, the former being all bishops of the Anglican church and six simply by right of being bishops of that persuasion. It is about this branch of the business that most of the kicking is done. Our idea of a nation is, that to be great, it must be a God-fearing nation, and knowledge of God and His laws in everything they do, but why the bishops of one particular church, and that church in the majority, should be privileged to sit in parliament by right of their office, is more than we can clearly see, and does not conduce to the God-fearing policy by any means. There have been some excuse away back in the days when the church held most of the knowledge in its mit, but that time has changed long ago. When the Irish church was dis-established, some years ago they lost their representatives in the Upper House, and we suppose, when the Welsh and English churches are dis-established, which they will be before long, the whole law-learned fraternity will disappear from parliament.

As is well known, the Anglican church in Ireland is composed of a very small portion of the people. In Wales it is of larger proportions, but still a minority, and in England it does not contain 50 per cent of the people, although many people are apt to think it does. The State Church of Scotland is Presbyterian, but they have no representation in parliament. Thus we have a church in England and Wales that only represents about 40 per cent of the people, and sending representatives to parliament to legislate for the three kingdoms, as well as the whole Empire. (The arrangement does not smack of that British fair play that we are all so proud of boasting about. A prominent British M.P., who has recently been visiting Canada, has been handling the bishops without gloves, as has Mr. Birrell, the late Minister of Education. Their remarks were very apt to the point. We have very strong views about the mixing of religion and politics. We hold that each is supreme in its own sphere, and ought to be entirely separate in physical matters. We believe that every man should carry his religion, but not his politics or his business, or his fun, but not his politics. All his actions should be guided by his conscience towards God, but he should not be appointed to office by either government or people because he happens to belong to a certain sect. In forming a government we believe in picking out the best men, irrespective of how they worship, providing they are God-fearing men, and if they should happen to be Jew or Adventist, or even Orangemen—although that would be impossible—we would favor them, but this idea of picking out so many of this church, and so many of the other, is all wrong. The dignitaries of any church should have no right to sit and vote on laws, for people whom, in no way possible, do they or can they represent. We do not wonder at John Bull scratching his head over the question.

We have discussed the up-bringing of children in this column more than once lately, through several incidents that have occurred throughout the continent. There was one that happened the other day in Toronto that must have brought a shock to many people who read it. It was where a 14-year-old boy and a girl were arrested at 2.30 on a Sunday morning, in a barn, playing craps. Now, we do not know what a game of craps is, further than that it is played, mostly by negroes, newboys and bootblacks, and that it is against the law. In this particular case these boys were playing by candle light in an old barn, at an hour when they should have been sleeping soundly in their beds. What puzzles us is, how do the parents of these boys come thinking about, knowing that they were not in the home when they should have been. Another puzzle is, how do they get such a craving for anything that would put them to the discomfort of trying to play any kind of game at that hour of the night. No doubt the boys are not of the most intelligent kind, but even so, the most of us imagine that sleeping on the soft side of a pine board would be preferable to a sleep of craps by candle light. It certainly shows a woeful lack of training, when you come to think of it, and it would seem to us that the law ought to be able to reach out to the parents of those boys and make them sweat for their stupidity, and worse.

We often see what is termed "break" legislation introduced in some of the states across the line, and we are apt to laugh at it in our superior kind of way, but it almost looks as if some of it were going to be necessary. One of the proposed measures that looks up serenely every once in a while, as one to prevent marriages until both parties to it pass a medical examination as to their fitness, of both mind and body. When you think the matter over carefully, why should we not have such a law? Of course it would be almost impossible to carry out until we had enough institutions to house all the feeble-minded women in our midst. With them safely out of harm's way, we might surely assume that no sane girl would marry a feeble-minded man, if forbidden to do so. Were a law like this on our statute book, and rigidly enforced, there would be less likelihood of couples hitching up, that were incapable of bringing a family up in some decent kind of shape. As we have not got such a law, we must have to do the best we can without it.

We have said it so often in these columns, that we feel almost ashamed to put it down again, but as the prophet of old said, it was here a little and there a little, time upon time, precept upon precept, not once but a hundred times that people were taught, and our precept is that there is nothing so conducive to the downfall of children as this allowing them to run the streets after supper. There is more harm done to their morals in a week of street walking or running after dark than there would be in a year of day, night play, and so on. Yet, at night, light play, and so on, of children playing around at 8 and given 10 clock, who ought to be in bed. We don't know whether any parents who allow their children to roam the streets, read this column or not, but if they do, let us beseech them to stop it, before it is too late. The saloons, the gambling halls, the heavy houses, are resorted to by such children. It surely cannot be that you want any of yours to land there? Give us a properly brought up family, till they are 16 or 18, and we could prophesy to a dot, just what kind of citizens they were going to make.

Figures are wonderful things, and it is said a politician can prove almost anything he wants from them. Just at the present time everything seems to be bursting with figures, and yet we do not know of a period in our history when money—that all-necessary article—was so scarce as it is to-day. Probably the figures that astound and puzzle most people are those used to prove that protection, or free trade, is the proper thing for any country, especially as instanced by the U. S. on the one hand and G. B. on the other. We can all remember in the National Policy year how the protectionist speakers proved to their own satisfaction, if not to others, that a tariff fashioned after that of the U. S. would make us all rich, and proved from figures how they, the U. S., were exporting millions of dollars more than they imported, and were getting rich to that extent. On the other hand, the free trade speakers would point to the example of Great Britain, and prove by the figures how their imports exceeded their exports by millions, and the surplus was their gain. When you come to study the two systems it is really remarkable. Here on the one hand is the U. S. exporting some 450 millions a year more than its imports, and yet getting rich by leaps and bounds. On the other hand, Britain is importing that much, or more than its exports, and it is getting rich just as fast, in proportion to its population, as the U. S. Both the protectionist and the free trader have figures here to prove anything they want.

Other things Canada. We are a country similarly situated in almost every particular, as the U. S. and one would fancy that we would follow in their footsteps in the matter of trade, but we do not. In looking over some figures about Canada's foreign trade, we see that in nearly every year since Confederation Canada has imported more than she has exported, and the excess being in millions, yet no one doubts but that we are getting rich, in fact, figures show that, per capita, we are one of the richest nations on earth. How can these different sets of figures be made to tally? Some of the best minds on the two continents have worn themselves thin over trying to do it, and we are not going to attempt it, our friends tell us we are thick enough. Our humble opinion is that no one has arisen yet who can explain why both G. B. and the U. S. are growing rich by using diametrically opposite systems, and whilst one exports as much extra as the other imports extra. It would almost look as if these figures in either case had very little, if anything, to do with the question. In looking at our own wonderful increase in foreign trade, we are very apt to forget that, after all, our foreign trade is an almost infinitesimal part of our whole trade. Take the factories of our own town, how many of them export their product out of the country? Just running them over in our minds, we think we are well within the mark when we hazard the guess that not five per cent of our whole product goes outside the country. (The same statement is no doubt true of every other manufacturing centre.

Another feature we must not lose sight of is the fact that, even if we do import 100 millions of goods extra and pay cash for them—although we never do that—we get value for our money, the same as a private individual would. Then again, it would be interesting to analyze the excess of imports and follow them up and see where the money actually does go, for one thing is certain, that we do not pay it out in actual cash. Just at present we are gathering in an enormous number of immigrants, who are bringing in both goods and money. (That would have to come off the bill, for both stay here, and the goods go out of the country.) Then both Britain and the U. S. are investing millions here, some of it to stay permanently. Our readers can see that it is a very interesting subject and worthy of study.

NEWS OF THE CHURCHES

The Establishment of God's Kingdom on Earth—Articles Bearing on Church Work at Home and Abroad—Carefully Selected Contributions will be Received for Publication in this Column.

AT THE SET OF THE SUN
At the set of the sun,
When our work is done,
With all its tangled web,
When the clouds drift low,
And the stars are clear,
And life is in its glow.

As we near the goal,
When the golden bowl
Will be broken at its fount,
With what a thrill thought
Will the heart be fraught,
Not precious metal shall we count
Nor the flame of the sword,
Nor the wealth we have stored,
In perishable things of earth—
As the way we have trod
With the intrepid band,
Though that were of precious worth.

Nor the gun we achieved
Through the hearts we have pierced,
And left unhelped by the way,
Nor the laurel of fame,
When, for worldly acclaim,
We toiled in the heat and the fray.
Ah, not this nor these
Will give our hearts ease,
When life sinks low in the west,
But the passing sweet thought
Of the good we have wrought,
The saddened lives we have blest.

And the love we have won,
And the love beckoning on
From the islands far and dim;
Love out of the light,
Shining into the night,
The night which leads to Him.
—From Boston Transcript.

Rev. Fr. McColl, of Peterboro, gave an address at the unveiling of a monument at Jerome's College, Berlin, to its founder.

Dr. Sutherland, of Toronto, announced recently that there was an increase in the gifts of the Methodist church this year of $25,000 over all previous records.

Miss Mabel Curtis, who has been employed as cashier at Green & Son's store, Peterboro, was the recipient of a suit case recently from the other employees before her departure for British Columbia, where she will enter the missionary work at Hazelton, B. C.

There is many a man who would never tell a filthy story, but who, if the fact is prepared to listen to one. There are many people from these lips who never proceed to a foul jest, but who are quite ready to laugh at one. It is recorded of King Arthur's knights that they never spoke scandal, "no, not instructed to it."—Rev. J. H. Jewett.

Evidently the congregation of the First Methodist church, Victoria, believe that their pastor, Rev. J. J. Lee, last year's president of the Day of Quietude conference, was cruelly misjudged in connection with the Boston store picture post card incident, which led to the clergyman's withdrawal from pastoral work for a year. On Tuesday the congregation presented Rev. Lee with a purse of over $1000 as an evidence of their faith in him.

The Presbyterian: It is reported that on the day on which Mr. Rockefeller was informed that the Standard Oil Company had been fined $29,240,000 for accepting rebates from the Chicago and Alton railway, he counted his customary game of golf. But there is always something to be thankful for. The company was only found guilty on 1485 out of the 1495 indictments made against it. Had it been found guilty in the 1496th case, it would have been fined $29,240,000 more.

A Peterboro clergyman, in his sermon last Sunday evening, said that in the city there were more drunken men to be seen on the streets of the city than in Toronto, and there did not seem to be any determined effort being made to improve the conditions, which were appalling. It was his conviction, too, that if the dishonesty and general immorality existing in the city were made public it would be found that only a very small fraction of the violations against the laws of God were taken cognizance of by the laws of the land. These are strong words.

SERMONS DELIVERED AT THE CHURCHES LAST SUNDAY.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.
The congregations were small, owing to the extreme heat, probably. Rev. Jas. Wallace preached the morning sermon from the text, "The young lions do lack and suffer hunger, but they that seek the Lord shall not lack any good thing."—Matthew 13th verse. The minister intimated on his hearers the blessings of the rich man, perhaps not precisely in worldly goods, but in the true things of life. What is good is worthy of being pursued for its own sake. What a man can do for himself, and for his family, and for the world, is a good thing. That which seeks God, turning away from sin shall not lack any good thing.
In the morning Miss Blacklock, of Blackstock, who is the guest of Mr. McAlpine, rendered the solo, "In the Beautiful Land of the South." The soloist possesses a remarkably clear and pleasing voice, and the solo was much enjoyed.

IMPROVEMENTS ON TRENT CANAL

Steps Cut in Concrete Wall for Canoeists—Other Work in Progress.

The work on the Trent Canal, in the way of repairs and improvements, is going steadily on. In the immediate neighborhood of the city several points are in process, or have been completed, and the public, as well as the shipping interests, have been benefited. The dredge Emerson, which was making a new channel in the river near Danger Point, has for the past few days been engaged in deepening the harbor at Gore's Landing, so that the larger boats may enter and leave without the slightest interference.

Another force of men are engaged at Hall's Landing, putting in a new dock. Hall's Landing is situated on Lake, at the outlet of the canal that runs south from Beaufort to the lake.
For a long time the owners of canoes and skiffs have made complaints about the condition of the landing at the Peterboro lock. After the dam was built it was impossible to reach the canoe slide with any degree of safety, and the canoeists have waited a year against the canal officials ever since. The place was undoubtedly a dangerous one, but it has been somewhat improved. The end of the concrete wall at the south end of the locks has been cut away, forming steps up to the top, and a hand railing has been placed alongside. This enables the canoe men to come up the canal channel to the steps and thence land, and either carry the canoe over or tow it to the side. The improvement will be appreciated by the canoe men.—Peterboro Examiner.

MUSKRATS CARE OF YOUNG.

Swam the Otanabee with Offspring on Their Back.

Peterboro Examiner: Persons who happened to be in the vicinity of the Otanabee river where the low light land along the shore is being filled in near Rogers' house were spectators of a somewhat rare and interesting sight. At this point the river bank is covered with small willows which grow very thickly and it appears, provided a fine place for homes for muskrats, which are quite numerous along the stream in that locality.

When the teamsters commenced dumping loads of earth among the willows yesterday they disturbed the muskrats and an interesting scene was the result. The rats took to water, carrying their young with them. When they reached the water the young ones got on the old rats' back and were carried across the river to a place of safety on the other shore. It was a unique sight to see the old ones swimming with the little fellows on their backs and the workmen and others who were in the vicinity greatly enjoyed the spectacle. Every little while a rat would surface to the river and swim across, frightened from their usual haunts by the dumping of the earth and the voices of the workmen.

It is not likely that the rats will return to their old homes, as the willows are being covered up by the dumpings, and the low shore line built up.

Supplied County Coal.

The Carver Lumber Co. supplied the goal with 100 cords of maple for firewood recently. "The best maple in years," is Francis Jackson's opinion of the wood. At the present time wood is selling very fast, the buyers storing it for the winter.

Police Court Calendar.

—William Lorette was sent up for one week by Magistrate Jackson, on charge being drunk and disorderly.
—Richard Maxon, a vagrant, has apparently solved the problem, "How to live without work." It is now eleven months since he landed in Canada, and during that period he has "lived like a gentleman." Richard came before the Magistrate, who asked a few awkward questions and returned him for a week pending inquiries as to the wisdom of depriving Maxon as an undesirable immigrant.
—Bob Independent: A man named Sackett, working in the Alexander mine before George W. Taylor, J. P., on Friday night, and will probably remember the visit. Sackett and Joe Wellington, took for a evening's work at the Rockland in the evening, and after an afternoon Sackett struck Wellington in the eye with a pick. Wellington was taken to once, and as a result, which the constable secured, and to save any delay of the beat, the Magistrate held court forthwith. The charge was admitted and the constable imposed a fine of $10 and costs, a total of $20.

A BIG BLAZE AT COBOCONK

Presbyterian Church and Another Building Destroyed.

Evening Post of Aug. 19
At an early hour yesterday morning the citizens of Cobocoonk were aroused by the cry of "Fire!" and on looking into the street discovered that the Presbyterian church was in flames. A bucket brigade was immediately formed and tried to extinguish the fire, but it was confined to the church building and a frame store house owned by Mr. W. L. H. which contained a stock of goods.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed that it was caused by a candle's heat. There is an insurance of $2,500 on the church, but nothing on the store.

COMMUNICATIONS

BE TRUE

(To the Editor of The Post)
What the singer to sing of the "Red Flag," the Socialist anthem, was progressing in the Hamilton Army on Sunday night, on the model of the concluding sentence of "Some Remarks on Things in General" by "The Stranger" in "The Day's Issue of The Post." He wrote:
"It is wonderful what we will do, even the best of us, for a few extra cents. It would not surprise us one bit were there something after all in the Socialist's plan that if you on a minute's thought you will stop to harm. It is worth thinking over of very seriously. There has got to be a cure found."

They said, that the world which should claim the attention of every loyal citizen on this appropriate date, the Civic day at Lindsay.

Let us take stock, covering the past twelve months.
Can we boast of an improvement in the general welfare of the people? Has the moral making of dollars interfered with the production of men and women with heads for the count? Certainly the name of Lindsay has been remembered. Men are wanted now to administer justice, and they cannot be considered favorable thereto if their belief is "Each for himself." Each for all, and all for each, should be the guiding principle. This cannot be under present competitive individualism. Moral must be the basis of control must be the basis of control.

It is a many find that charity is not necessary when justice is done. Should not feel a tinge of shame that in a beautiful country such as this, it is necessary that the aged who have been hard workers when they were able to work, depend for their maintenance on the charity of their fellow citizens or on the charity of the community. Any man who has worked at his trade should be able to enjoy the fruits of the earth, but under the present system we find the workers, the producers of wealth, are poor, while some idlers are rich. We have henceforth Lindsay will take its place in the van of progress, striving for itself a name by the well-being of its inhabitants and an abundance of the hundreds of thousands of new comers pouring into the country. Yours, etc., NEIL LIND.

PORT HOPE AFTER GRAND TRUNK

Council Passed Strong Resolution to the Attorney General of Ontario.
Port Hope, Aug. 5.—At the regular meeting of the town Council, the following resolution was passed, after a little discussion, the majority of the members being in accord with the movement, which was carried unanimously:
"Whereas, as a recent decision of the railway commission, the Grand Trunk Railway has been ordered to supply the general public with a third class passage between Toronto and Port Hope at two cents per mile, as provided for in their charters;
"And whereas the people of this country contributed largely by subscription and otherwise in the construction of railways;
"And, whereas, by the enforcement of this order immediate relief will be afforded the poor;
"It is therefore moved by Bruce McClean, seconded by Deputy Mayor, that this Council humbly petition the Minister of Justice, Minister of Railways and the Attorney General of the Province of Ontario to compel the Grand Trunk Railway to observe the conditions of their charter, thereby affording a substantial relief to the people of this country, and that the clerk be instructed to forward a copy of this resolution to the above named Ministers."

The resolution in the first class return fare from Port Hope to Toronto to a three cent a mile basis, secured by the former order of the railway commission, saves the people of Port Hope 30 cents a trip.

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

Meeting on Wednesday—Mercy Davis Sent to Toronto.

A special meeting of the Children's Aid Society to consider the case of a 19 year old girl, Mercy Davis, was held on the Society's hall on some time, and who had proven to be badly lacking mentally and to be very ignorant, was held in the Council chamber Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Those present were Dr. White, president, Mr. Rogers, Dr. Harrison, Inspector Knight, Mr. W. McWatt, and the secretary, Mrs. E. E. Sharpe. A communication was read from Mr. J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of Homeless and Neglected Children for Ontario, offering to accept two charges of the girl and put her under proper supervision for a sum of $15. The general opinion was in favor of the proposition, the Society being burdened by the unmanageable.

Moved by Mr. Rogers, seconded by Mr. Knight, that this offer be accepted.—Carried.

The secretary was ordered to take her to Toronto on Friday.

CONDITIONS IN THE NORTH.
A communication regarding a family at Deer Lake named Chidge, was discussed. The family were in an extremely bad condition, and the children were growing up in ignorance.

A family named Peters—single minded people near the same place and others named Miller and Bowen, near Whitby, demanded attention.

It was moved by Dr. Harrison, seconded by Mr. Rogers, that the secretary be instructed to investigate and report on these cases.—Carried.

OTHER MATTERS.
The Society decided to take charge of a boy, the son of a blind man named Jordan, who is going to the House of Refuge, and decide what will be done with him.
A committee comprising the President, Dr. White, Mr. Rogers and Chief Vincent, was nominated to investigate into the conditions of the birth of an illegitimate son to an unfortunate girl, Olive Lee, and decide what is best to be done. The man who ruined the girl's life is supposed to be named Hawthorne, and was a former bandman here. The meeting then adjourned.

BURNED TO DEATH AT FENELON FALLS.

Shocking Fatality This Morning in the Northern Village.

Residence of Mr. Lane, Bricklayer, Consumed—His Bed-ridden Mother-in-law the Victim—Two Persons Injured.

Evening Post of Aug. 13

The village of Fenelon Falls was again visited by fire this morning, and, sad to relate, an aged bedridden woman lost her life in the flames.

Shortly after 1 o'clock a. m. the frame dwelling of Mr. Lane, bricklayer, situated about one hundred yards north of the Grand Trunk station, was discovered to be on fire. Mr. Lane was away from home, and Mrs. Lane barely had time to arouse her family of five or six children. One daughter who had to leap from an upstairs window sustained painful injuries. When she had gathered her children at a neighbor's she enquired as to the whereabouts of her mother. Mrs. McGinnis, an aged lady who had occupied a room on the ground floor. No one had seen her, and the huge crowd then present felt they were on the verge of a tragedy. By this time the dwelling was on fire in every part, yet this fact did not deter a young man named Warren from making a determined attempt through unsuccessful attempt to penetrate to the room pointed out. A few minutes later the roof fell in, and a shudder inspired by horror passed over the crowd at the thought of the dreadful fate of the aged inmate of the home.

In the meantime the flames spread to the brick house adjoining, occupied by Mr. Fred Scott, who had had time to remove the contents. The building was destroyed, but the energetic work of the crowd prevented the further spread of the flames.

Dr. Aldous, son of Hotelkeeper Aldous, while protecting the roof of a nearby grain warehouse by means of wet blankets, missed his footing and fell a distance of 15 or 20 feet, alighting on the railroad track. He was badly injured. Miss Lane, who leaped from an upper window, had her ankle broken or badly strained.

This morning the charred remains of the victim were found in the ruins. It is supposed she was suffocated by the smoke before the alarm was given.

Railway Notes.

The Grand Trunk Railway is building at Durand, the junction of the Grand Trunk Western and the Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee divisions, the second largest roundhouse on the system. It will accommodate forty engines, and will be built of cement. The only larger one is at Montreal, and has room for forty-eight engines.

Mr. Bryans took a more northerly route to Edmonton and has not returned as yet.

Greenhorns in a Canoe.

Two Englishmen, "well jagged," to use a slang expression, and a canoe, figured in an exciting mix-up on Saturday evening last, near the Wellington-st. bridge. Neither man had the faintest knowledge of the method of handling a canoe, and their inebricated condition made matters worse. The result was to be expected—the canoe "turned turtle," leaving its occupants struggling in the water, and spilling their supply of "grab" liquors and extra clothing. Fortunately the water was shallow, and the incident created more amusement among the onlookers than anything else. If the water had been deeper the occurrence might have had a more serious ending.

JOHN MCCLARY IS A GREAT CAPTAIN OF INDUSTRY.

Formerly Owner of a Small Tinshop, Now Head of the Largest Stove and Tinware Concern Under the British Flag.

To very few men is the privilege given of witnessing such a celebration as that of which Mr. John McClary, of London, was the centre during the week that ended on July 14. For during the week a series of splendid jubiliations marked what was the sixtieth anniversary of the McClary Manufacturing Company. To only a few men is it given to see their business grow to such immense success as that achieved by Mr. McClary, but fewer still are granted the happiness of enjoying, with undimmed keenness of intellect, the celebration of his sixtieth birthday. This was Mr. McClary's pleasant experience, and in his enjoyment of it he has had the felicitations of his great army of employees and of friends from ocean to ocean.

The sixtieth anniversary is noteworthy, not only because it relates to the largest concern of its kind under the British flag, but because it has thrust before the attention of the people of Canada a man whose achievements make him one of the very greatest captains of industry this country has yet produced. John McClary is a Napoleon, but unlike the destructive leader of France whose career brought but desolation, he is a Napoleon of the arts of peace, who has made homes grow and brought prosperity and comfort to thousands of people.

Mr. John McClary the past sixty years has meant a change from the control of a small tinshop to the possession of the largest establishment of its kind in Canada. The Company's plant in London now covers huge enormous blocks of land, while there are also important establishments in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Hamilton and St. John. Over 1,300 employees are on the company's pay rolls, of whom over seven hundred are married men, supporting homes. More than $600,000 is paid in wages annually. There are a few figures which will give

OBITUARY

Col. James Deacon, Lindsay.

News of the death of Lieut Col. James Deacon, which occurred at an early hour Sunday morning, was received by all classes of citizens with expressions of profound regret, the feeling being accentuated by the knowledge that, whilst the deceased had been ailing for some months, the end had been hastened by an on-ward occurrence.

The Colonel had recovered sufficiently to be able to walk about the house occasionally, and on Saturday evening, while out on the balcony of his bedroom for a few minutes, assailed by light his pipe without assistance. The breeze blew the flame against his dressing-gown, and before the embers of the lamp downstairs could reach him and smother the flames the Colonel had received a severe yet not necessarily fatal burn. In his impaired state of health, however, the shock proved too much, and the old veteran passed peacefully away at about 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Col. Deacon was a retired captain in the British army, being attached to the 41st Royal Siles, and served in the Crimean war at the battles of Alma, Balaclava, Inkerman and Sebastopol. He also served for many years in India. He came to Lindsay in the early Sixties, and about 1868 became Lieut. Colonel in the 45th Battalion, and at once became a prominent figure in organizing his several companies to a commendable state of efficiency. At the time of the Boer rebellion his soldierly qualities stood him in good stead, and his services were appreciated by the Government.

The Colonel held many medals for distinguished services rendered. Besides his career as a soldier he was a valuable citizen, and he served the town of Lindsay in many positions, having been a member of the School Board for years, and also Representative Mayor for successive terms. He was also Police Magistrate for the county of Victoria until recently failing health compelled him to relinquish the responsibilities of the office. The town flag was flying at half-mast as a deserved token of respect

New Coats for Women,

Misses and Girls.

A WHISPER OF FALL.

THE tide is running strongly to-ward Fall Merchandise, and already the first-comers in the world of new coats have made their appearance. From the best makes at home we've gathered the new coats, each full of style and snap.

Fashion says, to be in style, your new coat must be from 45 to 50 inches long; loose backs mostly, although some high class garments are shown in tight or semi-tight backs. The materials are of numerous and smart, dark Tweed patterns, or plain cloths with black in the lead.

We've bought liberally of these and as usual will show a really remarkable collection. Styles that are exclusive and hard to compare with the production of others—simply because we know they're unique, not to be found elsewhere in town.

Of course we add new lines as the season advances but there's wisdom in choosing early for we show now many exclusive styles that almost any woman of good taste will be glad to own.

Prices range from $7.50 to $25.00, with others between to suit any purse, and each price representing value unbeatable.

THIS YEAR'S CENTRAL FAIR.

Will be the 25th Under the Auspices of the Association

One short month and the Lindsay Central Fair will be in full swing. This year the officers and directors will celebrate a notable anniversary—that of a quarter century of progress—and the Fair will be the worthy of the occasion.

Victoria County being rich, fertile and well populated, might reasonably be expected to have a good annual fair, but it is an acknowledged fact that Lindsay Central in the past has been better than any other County Fair in the Province, if not in the Dominion, taking all the departments into the reckoning.

This year being the twenty-fifth birthday of the Fair, nothing will be left undone to have the big Fair break all records, both in point of attendance, excellence, great variety of exhibits, and novelty and interest of the special attractions. The managers expect that will reward the efforts of those in charge of the Fair depends upon the support given by the citizens of the town and county. This has never been known to fail, and in view of the special efforts being put forth, and the importance of the event, we may with confidence look forward to a great Fair in Lindsay on Sept. 19, 20 and 21.

ACCIDENT TO G.T.R. FLYER

Engine Struck Two Cows Near Markham, Killing Both.

Passengers on the G. T. R. Flyer, due here at 9.30, received a scare on Tuesday night. As the train was speeding along near Agincourt, a bright jar was felt and the train then stopped.

On investigation it was found that the engine had struck two cows, one of which was tossed high in the air, and thrown a distance of 25 feet, the other being ground to pulp beneath the wheels and jammed in two front trucks of the second car. The peculiar part of the accident was that the train was not derailed, and proceeded after only a brief delay. Among the passengers on board were Messrs. W. H. and George Simpson, town.

DROWNED MAN IDENTIFIED

Was English Immigrant—Had Been Minister and Lawyer.

Coroner Wood informs us that the man recently found drowned near Cameron village, has been identified as John Maw, an English immigrant from Yorkshire. He had been laboring on farms around Little Britain and Valentia, previous to the tragedy, and was identified by a Valentinian farmer, J. H. Stokes, by means of a locket the victim had received when working at his place. The poor fellow was well educated, being a minister and later a lawyer in England. He was about 35 years old.

KINDNESS LED TO TROUBLE

Fever in Vermilion District Causes Death of Lindsay Lady.

Winnipeg Free Press: A week ago Mrs. A. E. Pilkie, of Vermilion, Alberta, was brought into the hospital suffering from typhoid. This morning her brother-in-law, C. H. Pilkie, came in by the C. N. R. express, and was removed to the same hospital. The disease was contracted by the Pilkie family in a somewhat unusual way. The family of a neighbor was stricken with fever, and Mrs. Pilkie compassionately took one child to her home to nurse it, believing that if she took every precaution her own household would not contract the disease. The child is now well, but the fever has obtained a serious hold upon the Pilkie family. Mr. and Mrs. Pilkie moved to Vermilion a few months ago from Lindsay, Ont. As we go to press this (Thursday) morning we learn that Dr. F. A. Walters is in receipt of a message conveying information of the death of his sister, Mrs. A. E. Pilkie, in Edmononton hospital. The news will be feared with deep sorrow by many.

ALLEGED COAL COMBINE.

Movement on Foot to Indict Dealers at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—A movement has been engineered to have the coal merchants of Ottawa indicted before the grand jury at the Fall Assizes. Coal has risen during the last two weeks from $7.25 to $7.75 per ton, and a "coal combine" is alleged. The matter is now in legal hands and advice is awaited as to whether the advance made unanimously by the dealers comes within the scope of the charges of the criminal code prohibiting combinations in restraint of trade. If the legal opinion is that the law covers the case an indictment will be laid, but if there is any doubt on the matter it is proposed that a movement shall be inaugurated for the signing of a mammoth petition to Chief Justice Falconbridge, who will preside at the Fall Assizes, to ask him to mention, in his address to the grand jury, the undue increase in the price of a necessity of life in this latitude. It is understood by those who are "engineering" the movement that the traffic managers of the railways are ready to testify that there has been no increase in freight rates; in fact, the opposite is the case.

INSPECTOR BLOWN UP.

Herman Webber Shot Ten Feet Into Air at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 20.—At 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Robert Little, superintendent of the water-works, and Herman Webber, sewer and plumbing inspector, with an Italian laborer, went into a manhole of the trunk sewer at the corner of Simcoe street and Victoria avenue to make an examination. When at the bottom of the manhole, one of the trio lighted a match and an explosion from gas occurred, blowing Webber out through the manhole and 10 feet into the air. He was badly injured, one arm being broken and face and hands scorched. Mr. Little escaped with a few scratches, and the Italian was badly burned and bruised. The presence of gas in the sewer was unexpected, and not supposed to be regular sewer gas but had filled into the sewers from natural gas leakages.

KILLED THE SLANDERER.

Chicago Woman Shot Man Who Destroyed Her Home Life.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Because she believes he had caused her husband to leave her and broken up her home by circulating malicious stories, Mrs. Berget Anselino shot and killed Felipe Ferreo Sunday in an alley in the rear of her home. Mrs. Anselino escaped and has not been arrested. According to the stories told by neighbors, the woman acted in defence of her reputation, and it is their belief that she will not be punished.

CAPT. CALDER'S RAID.

Is Now Confirmed In Despatch to the Government.

London, Aug. 20.—The Foreign Office yesterday received confirmation of the raid made by Capt. Calder, at the head of a small frontier force, from British Gueans, into Venezuelan territory, and the seizure of a small quantity of balata (gum), alleged to have been collected in British territory. The action is attributed to the overzealousness of the frontier officers, and the Government will take steps to settle the matter diplomatically.

Haywood a "Comrade."

Stuttgart, Aug. 20.—Herr Babil, during the course of his references, at the opening of the International Socialist Congress here Sunday, to the Haywood murder trial in Boise, Idaho, which he stated "ended with the brilliant acquittal of our comrade," said:

"This trial has shown all the world that in the United States liberty, law and justice exist only on paper. It is to be hoped that these incidents will stir up the American working-men so that, like the English comrades, they will soon have a good number of representatives to Washington."

A series of immense mass meetings held Sunday afternoon were attended by 40,000 to 50,000 persons.

Praises Rockefeller.

New York, Aug. 20.—According to a despatch to The Tribune, from Cleveland, John D. Rockefeller was invited to contribute $1,000,000 to the cause of evangelism on Sunday. Shortly after hearing the invitation made by the pulpit of the Burdick Avenue Baptist Church by Rev. Courtland Myers of New York, Mr. Rockefeller gripped the preacher's hand cordially and invited him to Forest Hill to dinner.

Mr. Myers, in his sermon, attacked newspapers, charging them with responsibility for the impression that present day conditions, economic as well as sociological, are rapidly nearing a crisis which might cause revolution.

Incidentally he praised Mr. Rockefeller's recent utterance, which he pleaded for "fair play" for big corporations. Mr. Myers added his own appeal for a square deal, and predicted that "the present attitude of misrepresentation, misunderstanding and criticism cannot long be endured."

Tablet Unveiled.

Salisbury, Eng., Aug. 20.—In the ancient and beautiful Salisbury Cathedral Ambassador Whitelaw Reid yesterday afternoon unveiled a handsome tablet in memory of those killed in the terrible accident a year ago when, by the derailing of the American Line boat, 28 persons, mostly Americans, lost their lives.

Fortune Lost in Mail.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 21.—Three registered mail sacks, containing about a quarter of a million dollars, disappeared from the Burlington train between Denver and Oxford, Neb., Sunday night.

FRENCH LEAVING FEZ

Residents Fear Outbreak of Fanaticism There.

GREAT SLAUGHTER OF ARABS

Machine Guns Mowed Them Down by Hundreds — Kabyles Preparing to Attack Casablanca — Sultan Appoints Delegation to Obviate Holy War — Sultan's Brother Proclaimed—Morocco Excited.

Tangier, Aug. 21.—Five hundred sheikhs and troops, the best of the Sultan's army which usually are under the command of the Sultan's brother, have arrived here. It was originally the intention to send them to Casablanca to co-operate with the French-Spanish forces, but Marine Minister Gabbas now talks of sending them to Mazagan.

Abdel-Krim Ben Sliman, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, in a letter to the French commander, has reiterated the Moroccan Government's condolences as a result of the assassinations at Casablanca, and added an expression of the hope that the relations between Morocco and France would remain friendly.

The Spanish charge d'affaires is reported to be much disturbed by the attitude of Gen. Olalla during Sunday's fighting at Casablanca, when the Spanish commander, acting under a misunderstanding of his instructions, only used his troops in defending Casablanca, not taking part in the fighting outside the walls.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The correspondent of The Main at Casablanca speaks in loud praise of the 75-millimetre gun, fourteen rounds of which he says, put 1,500 Arabs to flight. In attacking the centre of the camp on the right the Arab horsemen galloped to within four hundred yards of the French positions, where two rapid-fire guns had been mounted on the roof of a farm building. These guns opened each with 500 shots per minute, swept the ground with a rain of lead and covered it with the dead and dying.

The spahis, the correspondent continues, were a brave sight as they rode back into camp. Men and horses were covered with blood. The faces of the men were blackened with powder.

The attacking tribes Sunday were the Zenata and Ziade, who are newcomers and were fighting for the first time.

Still Planning. It is announced that a number of Kabyles are marching from Mazagan to Casablanca with the intention of declaring a formidable attack shortly. The French correspondent of The Main telegraphs that, with the object of getting rid of the fanatical members of the Ulama, who favor a holy war, the Sultan has appointed them to a delegation that is to come to Tangier to discuss measures of pacification.

The French Government has received confirmation from Fez of the report that the Sultan has declared his intention to send a deputation of notable Moroccans to Tangier, but neither the object of their mission nor date of departure is known. The announcement is regarded as a "bluff" on the part of the Sultan to appease the anti-foreign sentiment of the fanatics. It was made during the excitement caused by the ceremonies commemorating the birth of the prophet, and even if the deputation comes to Tangier, it will be received by the diplomatic corps.

The Government has also been advised that the members of the French colony at Fez, fearing an explosion of fanaticism, especially against the French, are leaving for Tangier today. It is presumed that the French consul and the French military mission will not accompany them. The Moroccan Government has agreed to furnish an escort to the French, and the sheikhs have agreed to assist in protecting them, but, nevertheless, the five-day trip to the coast is considered dangerous. The Government has received confirmation of the report that Mulai Hafid, the Sultan's brother, has been proclaimed Sultan. The news is creating excitement, especially in the neighborhood of Morocco City.

Old Walls Fall. Kingston, Aug. 20.—The walls of the old stone mill at Kingston Mills, over a century old, fell on Saturday. A year ago a crack appeared, and grew wider as the months went by, and the wall fell with a final crash on Saturday. Half the building is gone.

The mill was used by the Government for the accommodation of the U. E. Loyalties. The mill in those days was used by farmers who drove one hundred miles.

Run to Death by Bloodhounds. Youngstown, O., Aug. 20.—A tramp who assaulted Alma Whitehead, the 19-year-old daughter of Rev. J. M. Whitehead of Turnersville, Pa., on Saturday night, was run down by bloodhounds from Warren, Ohio, and captured shortly after midnight on Sunday in a swamp near Wick, Ashland County. He was taken to the Meadville, Pa., jail.

Fell 2,000 Feet. Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 20.—The fate of three German tourists, who have been missing on the Jungfrau since last Thursday was cleared up yesterday, when guides discovered their dead bodies on a glacier below Reithal-Sattel. They had fallen, together, a distance of 2,000 feet.

Would Exclude Jews. St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—The union of Russian people recently sent an address to Emperor Nicholas, demanding the entire exclusion of Jews from the Donau in order to obtain a genuine Russian Donau. His Majesty wrote upon the margin of the document, "Read with pleasure."

ROAST BANK SYSTEM

Canadian Life Underwriters Hold Annual Convention.

INSURANCE BILL CRITICISED

W. J. Bell of Guelph Draws Startling Contrast — Banking System Needs Amendment — President Handles Draft Measure Rather Roughly — Life Insurance Business Has Increased — 700 Present.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—About 700 delegates assembled at a convention held yesterday afternoon at the first annual convention of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada. Many delegates and guests, all prominent insurance men, were present from the United States.

The annual address was delivered by President G. H. Allen of Montreal, who spoke in part as follows: "I am impelled to say something to you as to the investigation by the royal commission, which has had the one happy result of bringing us so close together."

"The details of the report of the commission and the draft bill have been so fully canvassed in the insurance press that I will not allude to them. Suffice it to say that, in spite of the thinly-disguised and even open hostility of the daily press, you, gentlemen, went undaunted into the fight for your companies and the right, with the result that over 200,000 additional people in this country were, through your efforts, convinced of the inestimable benefits of life insurance in 1906. That, gentlemen, is our answer to the royal commission."

Mr. Allen proceeded to deal with the insurance bill, clause by clause, severely criticizing some of them. "It would be disloyal to the common sense of the Canadian electorate to imagine for one moment that such a clause could become law," he said, in reference to that prohibiting rebate.

B. Hal Brown, general manager of the London and Lancashire Life, spoke on motives and ideals. They must be high and good or the insurance man could not succeed.

A. S. McGregor of London defended the dignity of life insurance, and A. H. Vipond defended the man in the field. He denounced "switching" policies. The agent get new insurance. The agents were thought too persistent, but more than once a widow had complained to an agent after her husband's death.

"You should have been more persistent and my husband would not have died without insurance and left his family unprotected."

W. J. Bell of Guelph created a mild sensation by contrasting the banks and the insurance companies. He held that the Banking Act stood in need of amendment far more than did the Insurance Act. Twelve banks, or 25 per cent., had failed since 1880, some of them as the result of criminality. No insurance company had failed in the meantime, and no insurance manager had gone to the penitentiary. The banks could invest where they pleased, and they were not inspected, but the insurance companies were compelled by the Government to invest in certain securities, and the Insurance Department saw to it that the assets were always on hand to protect the policyholder.

FLEAS SPREAD DISEASE.

Bubonic Plague Germ Traced to Parasites Infesting Rats.

Simla, Aug. 20.—The Indian Government announces that the plague commission, which has just finished the first stage of its enquiry, decided that the bubonic plague is spread by rats, that the vehicle of the contagion is the rat flea, and that the life of the plague germ on the soil, floors and walls is of short duration.

The Government recommends the destruction of rats, the improvement of the construction of houses and the reduction of the food supplies of rats by the protection of grain stores.

Grasshoppers Invade New York.

Brookville, Aug. 21.—The farmers of Northern New York have within the past few days been threatened with a serious situation as regards the pastures for their cattle. Owing to the continued drought the pastures and fields have been invaded by an army of grasshoppers, which are eating everything in sight.

Heavy Frost.

Dannamora, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Quite a sharp frost occurred throughout the Adirondacks Sunday night. At Lake Placid, Upper Chateaugay Lake, and other points the thermometer registered from 30 to 35 degrees above zero.

Child's Skull Found.

Brookville, Aug. 21.—A portion of a human skull, evidently that of a child, was found while a gang of men were at work at Thousand Island Park, where a baseball diamond was being laid out. Along with the skull there were other bones in a more or less fragmentary state. The bones were carefully collected in one corner of the field.

Determined to Die.

Hamilton, Aug. 21.—Hillard Culp, a butcher's assistant at Beamsville, made the second attempt on his life yesterday morning, making a big gash in his throat with a razor. Two years ago while in a camp at Orillia he tried to commit suicide. His friends do not know any good reason why he should try to make away with himself.

Japs' New Dreadnought.

Glasgow, Aug. 21.—The Japanese Government has placed an order for an 18,000-ton battleship with the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co. The new vessel will be one of the most formidable armed ships of war afloat. A feature of her construction will be the extreme width of beam.

FIRE ON CONSTABLES

Tussle With Indians on the Golden Lake Reserve.

POLICE HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Man Who Assaulted Woman Resistant — Arrest — Barricaded Himself in a House With Companions — Greeted Constables With Fusillade of Bullets—Heavily Armed Force Sent to Bring in the Party.

Pembroke, Aug. 21.—In attempting to arrest an Indian on the Golden Lake Reserve, two Pembroke constables were fired upon by a party of Indians, with the result that the constables had narrow escapes. Both were slightly wounded.

A special force of constables was despatched from here on the noon train yesterday to effect the arrest of the hostile Indians.

The constables are heavily armed. There are 100 Indians on the Golden Lake Reserve, and they have always been considered industrious and peaceable.

The quiet of the reserve was disturbed on Friday last, when an Indian named Serasan arrived on a visit. He tarried too long at the place and the firewater on Saturday, and this roused his savage nature to such a pitch that he made a violent assault on one of the Indian women, a Mrs. Seymour, lacerating her face and beating her badly.

Word was sent to Pembroke, and Constables Young and Dixon were sent out to arrest the Indian. When the constables arrived at the house Dixon called out to the inmates to open the door. They replied they would not, but would shoot any person who attempted to get in.

While Young was endeavoring to break open the door, Dixon tried to gain an entrance through the window. Almost immediately there was a fusillade of bullets, one of which tore Dixon's chest. Dixon fell to the ground.

When Young came to Dixon's assistance the firing started again and one bullet pierced the constable's hat, grazing his forehead.

As the house was occupied by a number of armed parties and Constable Dixon was wounded, the constables decided to return to Pembroke for assistance.

Methodist church, recently, during the course of his sermon. "I prefer to take the word of Jesus Christ himself, who says that sinners should be cast out into everlasting fire, where there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, in preference to anything, whether criticism or anyone else may tell me." said Mr. M. R. "Christ's own words are plain enough for me."

The boy stood on the burning duck with twenty other men, Nor did he for a moment reel. How great the risk was to his neck. A brave boy, aged ten.
His father called, he would not go. And his answer was as follows: "Father, I feel that the present is one of those occasions where you and I are called to differ. I am in the position race as well as the next man, and though with the disadvantage of immaturity, I think that the Ottawa party would do me as much harm as to 'in the front line' as the commander-in-chief chooses an aide."

WRECK AT NIAGARA

Four Cars Loaded With Meat
Plunge Into the Gorge.

AND THE TEAMMEN ESCAPE

Second Accident Within the Month—
Freight Train Left Rails on Steel Arch Bridge—Some of the Cars Smashed to Pieces—Others Sunk in the River—The Cause of the Accident Is Not Known.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 17.—A Grand Trunk freight train was wrecked early yesterday on the lower steel arch bridge over the Niagara Gorge.
The bridge was damaged and four cars dropped into the Whirlpool Rapids below. Traffic over the bridge was blocked until 11 a. m.

A heavy train of 35 loaded refrigerator cars was going from the G. T. E. yards on the Canadian side to the Lehigh Valley yards on the American side. There was an engine at each end of the train, as there is an upgrade from the bridge to the Lehigh Valley yards. About the middle of the train a car mounted the rails at the switch near the Canadian side.

The heavily loaded cars tore along lower the ties for a short distance, cutting them badly, and in fact, for probably 25 yards breaking them through between the two tracks. Four cars rolled to the north side of the bridge, land, leaving the tracks, shot into the water below. Three struck the water and disappeared instantly, the fourth struck on the rocks near the water and was smashed into kindling fired. The cars were all Swift's, loaded with fresh meat.

The front engine pulled away from the wreck with 13 cars attached, but left one disabled at the American side of the bridge. The local wrecking crew was at once called out for the Hamilton derrick was sent for.

It seems a very peculiar thing that three wrecks have occurred on this bridge within a few months, when it is remembered that the first that ever occurred was this spring. Only on Wednesday of this week was a new train put up to replace the sections carried away in the last wreck.

TO PRESERVE THE BUFFALO.

Shangers May Be Appointed to Protect Them From Poachers.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Inspector A. M.
Waris, who was sent north in June into the Mackenzie River country, reports that the destruction of bul-falo is done by poachers, who have headquarters at Smith Landing, about 400 miles north of Athabasca Landing, and recommends that the whole Mackenzie River district be patrolled in order to prevent this slaughter.

Col. Fred White is of opinion that the best method would be to set aside a reserve and employ trained rangers to gradually drive the buffalo from the north down into this reserve, where they could be easily protected.
The total number of buffalo in the district is estimated at 300. They are of the long-haired kind, known as wood buffalo, and their skins are very valuable, while a buffalo head is now worth upwards of $250.

PRESENT FOR THE KING.

General Botha Proposes to Purchase
Big Diamond as Gift.

Pretoria, Aug. 17.—Premier Botha yesterday announced that he would introduce a resolution in Parliament providing for the purchase by the Government of the Transvaal of the $1-100,000 Cullinan diamond, the largest in the world, as a present to King Edward in token of the loyalty and affection of the people of the Transvaal of the bestowal of a congratulation on the colony.

Wall Street Hit Hard.

New York, Aug. 16.—The loudest rumbling over the service furnished by the telegraph companies was heard in the financial district.

Produce Exchange operators, whose dealings are mostly with the telegraph companies, have been having much difficulty in getting telegrams through. The Western Union operators were at work on the floor of the exchange and two of the Postal bureaus were manned. Grain quotations from the floor of the Chicago Exchange were about the only dispatches which came through on time.

There were several impromptu strikes of messenger boys in various parts of the city. A dozen little stick-men from Harlem offices decided to march to the telegraphers' headquarters and apply for funds, although they had been "on strike" less than an hour. They made no less noise about it that they were dispersed by the police.

Don't Fear Spread.

Washington, Aug. 19.—Five cases of Spanish influenza, four of which have resulted in death, have been reported to the health department within the last week. The patients with one exception were of the poorer class of foreigners dwelling in the neighborhood of Chinatown.

The exception was a foreign sailor from a coastwise steamer. Prompt preventive measures were taken by city, state and federal officers, and a spread of the disease is not feared.

The infected steamer was ordered into quarantine with her passengers, and will remain secluded until released by the health department. The sailors were quarantined in the other shells inhabited by the other passengers. The bodies of two Mexicans, an Italian and a Russian Pole, who succumbed, were destroyed in quick lime.

DYNAMITE IN FIRE

Serious Explosion During Blaze
at Kingston, N. Y.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $200,000

Thousands of Lives Endangered—Fortunately Nobody Was Hurt — The Freight Office, Sheds and Forty Cars Destroyed—The Shock Was Felt From One End of the City to the Other.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The explosion of a car of dynamite endangered the lives of thousands of persons who were watching a fire here Saturday night, which destroyed the West Shore Railroad freight office, sheds and forty cars, causing a loss of over $200,000.

The shock of the explosion was felt from one end of the town to the other and windows were shattered within a radius of several blocks. The dynamite was enclosed in cases, most of which exploded separately, and to this is largely due, the firemen say, the escape of the spectators from serious injury.

So far as known, beyond a few bruises, no one was hurt.
Many of the cars contained oil, which, together with the frame sheds and the inflammable nature of the freight cars, made the fire unusually stubborn. It was four hours before the entire fire fighting force of Kingston, 15 companies, could subdue the blaze. During this time, all passenger and freight traffic was held up.

CONVICT'S PATHETIC APPEAL.

Hon. J. Bureau Promises to See What Can Be Done.

Montreal, Aug. 19.—"You are Minister of Justice. I know you are. You can do anything you want for me.
Just fix a limit to my imprisonment,
so that I can look forward to its end and know that I can die in liberty."

This pathetic appeal was made to Hon. Jacques Bureau, Solicitor-General, while he was making an official inspection of the cells of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

The man who spoke the words was ex-Convict Cowes of Quebec, who was condemned to imprisonment for life for having killed his wife during the winter of 1903.

The Solicitor-General was evidently touched by the appeal, for he turned to Warden Beauchamp and enquired as to the manner in which the convict had conducted himself since his arrival in the prison. The answer was to the effect that the prisoner's conduct had been ideal.

"We will see then," said the Solicitor-General, turning to the convict,
"if something can be done for you."

SCHOONER MAY BE LOST.

"Fleetwing" of Belleville Missing For Some Time.

Belleville, Aug. 19.—It is believed here that the schooner Fleetwing, which is owned in this city, has met with some mishap on Lake Ontario.
Three of her crew are Belleville men, namely, Captain Clark Taylor, William Babcock and John Gibson.

The Fleetwing left Charlotte Aug.
6, laden with coal for South Bay, and has not been heard of since. Though it is rumored that on Aug. 13 she was seen on the lower part of the lake under full canvas. There was a very heavy blow that night, and it is feared that, during the storm, the schooner either went ashore or foundered.

The Fleetwing is an old boat. Mrs.
Clark Taylor, wife of the captain, is making every effort to find the whereabouts of the vessel, but so far without success.

Committed for Bigamy.

Geolphi, Aug. 19.—In the Police Court Saturday David Cook, the alleged bigamist of Dryden, appeared before Magistrate Saunders on a charge of perjury preferred by Crown Attorney Peterson.

Cook was first arrested on a charge of bigamy, but this is being held over in the hope of hearing of his first wife, who he says, is dead, but who is believed to be living in Indiana.
Cook also appeared on this charge
Saturday morning before Magistrate Woodman of Dryden, but was re-mandered until to-day.

The charge of perjury arises out of the falsely sworn marriage license, which was issued in Elora and upon which he was married to a 17-year-old Barnardo Home girl. The statement by Cook was that he was 25 years of age, while he was really 38, and the girl was also younger than he swore. After the examination of some other witnesses Cook was committed for trial on the charge.

published announcement, Cecil Hon-gham, Reginald Lopez, Yarde-Buller, heir of Lord Churston, is married to Miss Denise Orme, an actress, prominent as a singer in light opera. The marriage is said to have taken place on April 24 last.

Little Girl Killed.

Fort William, Aug. 19.—A little girl, 13 years old, named Mazzoni, was instantly killed by a Canadian Northern switch engine in Westfort. She was playing on the tracks when the engine rounded a curve and struck her.
The curve at this point is very sharp and has no protection or any kind of signal. A coroner's jury is making an investigation.

Child Painfully Hurt.

Kingston, Aug. 19.—Robert Shaw, the 18 months old son of Chas. Shaw of King street, while playing with a small stick ball, the stick penetrating the roof of his mouth. The stick made a very nasty wound, the cut in the roof of his mouth being nearly half an inch deep and very jagged.

Sharper Given Sentence.

Belleville, Aug. 19.—William H.
Wilson, who was arrested in Toronto, charged with obtaining, by false pretences, $30 from an immigrant named Abild, in this city, was tried Saturday by Magistrate Manson and given 12 months in the Central Prison.

Telegraph Operators on the Roads Will Not Strike.

DID NOT RESPOND TO CALL

Union Now Accepts Services of Board of Arbitrators—Commissioner Neil Goes to New York—English Papers Call Charges Extortionate
—The Government Controls
Wires in the Old Country.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The union of the Telegraphers' Union late yesterday changed front on the proposition to arbitrate and announced that they would accept the offices of the general board of arbitrators of the American Federation of Labor in settling the differences. This board consists of John Mitchell of the Mine Workers, Daniel J. Keen of the Longshoremen, and Samuel Gompers. It was Mr.
Gompers who made the above announcement.

U. S. Labor Commissioner Neil left yesterday for Washington. Just before taking his train, he said that the telegraphers' strike could not be settled in Chicago, and that the only place where an adjustment could be reached was in New York.

At the conference held here Thursday night between President Small and Secretary Russell of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, and several other labor leaders, it was decided definitely that there should be no strike of the 47,000 railroad telegraphers of the United States. The operators will be called upon shortly to contribute a strike fund of $60,000.
Two of their general officers attended the conference.

Interest in England.

London, Aug. 17.—The strike of the American telegraphers dominates public interest in England, especially in the midlands, where it delays market reports. Englishmen find it difficult to understand why private corporations in America are permitted to own such vital public utilities as the telegraph and telephone systems, and to charge extortionate rates.

Here the Government owns the telegraph system and charges a moderate rate. It pays its operators good wages and pensions them when superannuated.

In Great Britain there is a flat rate of a cent a word, no matter what distance. This applies even on messages from Penance to Dundee, a distance of 100 miles. The newspapers pay 24 cents a hundred on press messages no matter what distance.

Telegrams by Mail.

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 17.—The effects of the telegraph operators' strike is felt very keenly in Northern Ontario by business men and others who rely on the telegraph for business. The Cobalt telegraph business goes over the G. N. W. wires the situation is embarrassing. The C. P. R. Telegraph Co. is taking messages for points reached by the G. N. W., subject to indefinite delay. Messages from G. N. W. points for delivery west of North Bay, formerly transferred to the C. P. R. company, are held up now, as the operators will not send a word of G. N. W. business.

Sudbury and other points west report C. P. R. operators as absolutely refusing to handle any G. N. W. business, and the company is not inviting trouble by insisting on the business being handled.
The North Bay office of the G. N. W. is sending Cobalt dispatches by mail.

Refuse to Go Out.
Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Delegates from the Telegraphers' Union from Montreal were in Ottawa yesterday to endeavor to bring about a strike of local operators, but they met with a very cold reception. They were informed that there was absolutely no chance of such occurring here; that there were no grievances to adjust;
and as the only reason for a strike would be "sympathy," the experience of the older hands in the strike of 1893 precluded all possibility of one now.

The Ottawa men struck in 1893 out of sympathy with United States operators; they were promised substantial remuneration all the time they were out, but did not receive a cent, and worse than that, were not even informed of the end of the strike when it had been declared over, with the result that the operators were working across the border for over a week while here they were still out.
To add to the discomfort, the Ottawa operators had agreed to bear the expense of the female operators, and this they had to do out of their own pockets.

So little interest was taken in the visit of the delegates yesterday that their names and credentials were not even asked.

Inquest on Dr. Gibbins.

London, Aug. 18.—(C. A. P.)—An open verdict was returned at the inquest on Dr. Gibbins' body. The railway officials stated all carriage doors were shut, but marks of blood, fringe of the train whereon the deceased apparently traveled. The doctor's father, said the son, had bad health and had been utterly disappointed in his work at Lenoxxville, but was unworried financially and quite cheerful.

Two Forts Threatened.

Toulon, Aug. 19.—Great forest fires are blazing on all sides of this place and two forts are threatened. Troops are making desperate efforts to control the fire, but thus far with little result owing to a high wind.

bubonic plague has broken out in South Manchuria and 16 deaths have been reported. Travelers proceeding into North Manchuria are being medically examined at Kungehling.

Earthquake Noticed.

San Juan, Aug. 19.—A perceptible earthquake was noticed here Saturday night. No damage, however, has been reported from any part of Porto Rico.

FOOLED TREASURY OFFICIALS

Secured Order For 60,855 Roubles—Got Money From Bank — 'Phoned
For Convey of Privates—Made Off With the Larger Part of the Cash While the Soldiers Guarded the Silver.

New York, Aug. 19.—The San correspondent at St. Petersburg sends the following cable dispatch: The fame of the cobbler of Koepenlock seems to have penetrated as far away as Harbin, Manchuria. A few days ago a man in an officer's uniform presented himself, armed with power of attorney, at the treasury of the Trans-Amur division and demanded 60,855 roubles, the estimated expenditure of the First Brigade for the month.

The papers were in perfect order and the supposed officer received a check on the Russo-Chinese Bank for the amount, which was duly paid. Part of the money was counted out in silver coin, which seemed to annoy the officer, but as the bank had a legal right to make part of its payments in silver he consented grudgingly to take the heavy stuff, but telephoned for a convey of three privates, who escorted him to the railway station.

There the supposed officer ordered the men to stand guard over the bags of silver and left, carrying off the rest of the money by himself. The guard kept watch for 24 hours without any relief coming and would probably still be there had not the garrison commander made inquiries from the staff of the First Brigade, where nothing was known about the officer, his mission or the money.

DRUNKARD'S DARING STUNT.

Pranced on Cornice of Hospital Building Three Storeys High.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 18.—An intoxicated man named George E. Wood pranced about on the cornice of the Macedonia Hospital, three storeys from the ground, while in a state of drunken frenzy. Wood has been under treatment in the hospital for quinsy, and having sufficiently recovered to go down town, was permitted to do so. While out of the hospital he imbibed too freely of intoxicants and returned to the infirmary the worse of liquor. He retired to bed peacefully enough, but soon awoke for air and freedom and went out on the cornice he paraded in brief costume like a sentinel on watch until he finally decided to urinate to an imaginary crowd below from the vantage position of the tower on the corner of the building.

All attempts to induce him to return to the hospital from his perilous position were vain till a bottle of whiskey was procured. When this was exhibited to his view he immediately retraced his steps, and when once inside was confined to the building till his senses were restored. The occurrence is remarkable, because it would be difficult for an experienced acrobat to make the same trip when sober that Wood did when under the influence of booze.

PAID OUT TOO MUCH.

Bank Teller's Mistake Leads to Arrest of an Italian.

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—The teller of the Bank of Montreal here paid out $500 too much one day last week, and as a result Sam Patrakos, a Greek, is under arrest, charged with having obtained the money. Patrakos presented a check for six hundred and fifty dollars, signed by M. J. Neville, local druggist. On discovery that the cash was five hundred short, Teller W. J. Rapsey claims that he positively remembered that he gave Patrakos ten one hundred dollar bills and thirty fives, thinking of hundreds. Patrakos denies that he had the extra money, and the bank placed him under arrest. Saturday in court Patrakos pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for eight days.

Suicide at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, Aug. 19.—When Edward Brennan and Frank Thom were walking along the river in Prospect Park, opposite the foot of Falls street, they saw a man sitting on the rocks close to the edge of the water. When they spoke to him he jumped up, glanced around and then plunged in to the rapids and was swept overboard.

Peter Landgrain of No. 470 Falls street, a forman in the Niagara Folding Box Co.'s factory, is missing, and it is believed the suicide was he.
Child's Escape From Death.
London, Aug. 19.—Losing her balance, as she leaned over a screen in the window of the third story of Mr.
Gilmour's house on Adelaide street,
Grace M. Ewan, seven years old, plunged head downwards and fell a distance of forty feet to the cement sidewalk below. She sustained a fractured leg and badly injured back.
Her escape from instant death was due to a miracle. Dr. John Wilson says she will recover.

Colored Youth Drowns.

Brockville, Aug. 17.—While bathing off the dock at Alexandria Bay, George Tompkins, a colored waiter at the T. I. House, aged 18, was drowned. Tompkins was the sole support of his parents. His father was formerly a slave on a southern plantation.

G. B. Shaw Has Close Call.

London, Aug. 17.—(C. A. P.)—According to The Daily Mail, George Bernard Shaw has had a narrow escape from drowning off Llanborth, Merionethshire, with a friend, when the current carried them away and prevented them from returning to the shore.

After a long time they were landed on a distant sand bank, whence they were rescued.
Mr. Shaw was utterly exhausted, and had given up hope of returning to the mainland alive.

He says he only kept swimming to postpone the unpleasantness of drowning as long as possible.

REBATES TO LARGE FIRMS.

Freight Manager Denies Preference
Before Beef Commission.

Winnipeg, Aug. 19.—On Saturday afternoon the Beef Commission sat for the purpose of hearing Mr. Mon-creiff's decision with regard to divulg-ing the name of the anonymous writer of a letter in The Tribune newspaper.

A. J. Andrews, B. L., by whom Mr.
Moncreiff had been consulted, stated that he had not had time to advise his client whether to answer the question or not, and asked for an adjournment until Tuesday. He also wished to address the commissioners.

On advice of their counsel, Mr. Hag-gart, the commissioners denied counsel had any locus standi and should not be heard. Mr. Moncreiff then stated that he could not answer until his lawyer had advised him, and he was given until Tuesday morning to finally decide.

P. W. Peters, assistant freight manager of the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, gave evidence as to the charges made to shippers by his company. He denied most emphatically there was any over what shown to large shippers, over what denied to the small men. He denied there were any rebates allowed to big firms and also said there were the same facilities for small as for large consignments. Stock was never delayed in transit where it could possibly be avoided.

AUTOMOBILE AND TRAIN.

Collision Cost Three Lives — Whole Family Nearly Wiped Out.

Great Barrington, Mass., Aug. 19.—
A large automobile containing a party of five persons from Bristol, Conn., collided with the New York-Pittsfield express at Ashley Falls crossing, six miles south of this village, yesterday, with the result that three of the motoring party are dead and the other two are suffering from injuries which may prove fatal.

The Dead.
Charles J. Root, an automobile manufacturer of Bristol, instantly killed.

Mrs. Root, his mother, who died from her injuries while being removed to Pittsfield by train.

Miss Roberts, sister of Mrs. Root, instantly killed.

The Injured.
Miss Mary Root, daughter of Chas.
J. Root, removed by train to the hospital at Pittsfield, where her condition was reported as critical.

Miss Katherine Root, aged 14, niece of Mrs. Root, brought to Great Barrington in an unconscious condition, with severe bruises and cuts about her face and body, and internal injuries of an uncertain nature.

FIRE ON STEAMER "UTICA."

Russian Sailor Burned to Death—
Others Badly Injured.

Buffalo, Aug. 19.—Five men were trapped in the forward hold of the steamer Utica Saturday evening and tragically burned. The fire started from an explosion.

John Roman, a Russian, was taken out of the hold dead.

Others burned were:
Michael Reilly, foreman, fatally burned.

Ignaz Wozniak, fatally burned.

Thomas Mahany, face and hands terribly burned.

Following a puff of flame which shot through a hatchway Mahany came scrambling up from below. His clothing was a mass of flames. He jumped into the harbor and was fish-eried out by the freight handlers. The other four men were too far from the hatchway and could not get out at the first alarm. The freight hoisting tackle was lowered into the hold, and the crew on deck cried out to the imprisoned men to get hold of it. Reilly and Krieger succeeded in doing so and were hauled on deck.

Wozniak and Roman were taken out after the compartment had been flooded with water.

Fire Spoils Game.
Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 19.—Fire swept the amusement grounds at Steeplechase Island yesterday, causing $60,000 damage and creating something of a panic upon the 20,000 visit-
ers. No one was seriously injured.

Six structures were burned, including the grandstand and bleachers on the baseball diamond, where 8,000 persons had gathered for the Chicago Bridgeport game. The greater part of the loss falls upon George C. Tilly, proprietor of the amusement grounds, whose steeplechase park at Coney Island was burned a few weeks ago.

Another Monster Fine.

New York, Aug. 19.—The San has received the following cable dispatch from its correspondent at Willemstad, Curacao: A despatch from Caracas, Venezuela, says that in the case of the Government against the New York & Bermudez Co., which is charged with assisting the Mates revolution, the Court of First Instance has adjudged that the defendants pay $4,178,638 in reimbursement of the expenses incurred by the Government in quelling the revolution, and also upward of 9,000,000 bolivars for other losses to the country from the revolution. The defendant will appeal.

Fight Among Sailors.

Quebec, Aug. 19.—There was a row yesterday morning amongst some of the crew belonging to the S. S. Empress of Britain, and one of the men, named Thomas Finerty, was so badly beaten that he is not expected to survive. He was removed in an ambulance to the Hotel Dieu Hospital.
The authorities are waiting for the autopsy report of the victim.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION

The idea of governing cities by commissions is spreading in the United States. The latest convert to follow Galveston and Houston is Des Moines, which has resolved, by a majority of over two thousand to try civic government by commission next spring. A campaign in favor of commission government has been in progress for two years. Recently the civic politicians submitted a plan to the Mayor, and the plan was adopted on that of Indianapolis, where the Mayor is all powerful. Prominent residents of Des Moines then organized a committee of three hundred citizens. Advocates of the Indianapolis plan and of a modified Galveston system held a public debate. The committee of 300 voted in favor of the commission.

The main feature of the Des Moines plan is that five men are elected to the office of commissioner by the electors at large. Of these five one is Mayor. The various departments are known as Public Affairs, Accounts and Finance, Public Safety, Streets and Improvements and Parks and Public Property. These five have absolute control of the city government. No other man is elected. The commissioners name them all: treasurers, engineers, auditors, assessors; there is no exception. No appointments are to be made unless of day officers, save upon merit, as shown by a civil service examination. The salary of the Mayor is fixed at $8,500, that of a commissioner at $3,000. The election of commissioners is to take place every two years. At a primary convention ten men receiving the highest votes are declared candidates for commissioner. At the election the citizens choose five out of the ten. The use of money or promises in any way is prohibited, with a sentence in the penitentiary as the penalty.

Strong provision is made for the protection of the public as to franchises and with regard to preventing secrecy. Every franchise must be voted upon by the people, and the Council is prohibited from granting privileges to the public service corporations. No ordinance or contract may be passed until it has been open to inspection for seven days. It cannot take effect until ten days after it has been finally passed. Commissioners are prohibited from being in any way interested in any contract or job in the city. If any city official or employee attempts to influence politically any other city official or attempt to influence or control appointments, he is subject to a fine of $300 or a term of imprisonment. Complete publicity is made compulsory. A statement of all receipts and expenditures must be published in the papers every month. An annual expert examination of accounts is provided for.

By means of the referendum citizens have the power to recall any commissioner who may have failed in his duty. If a petition signed by twenty-five per cent. of the voters is obtained the people must vote upon whether any commissioner is to remain in office or not. In the same way initiative in city enactments may be introduced. (The latter plan has been taken from Los Angeles.) The Des Moines idea of revived civic government apparently has been admirably planned and may work to the city's advantage.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Globe: Sir Mackenzie Bowell threw his hat into the air and cheered in rapturous delight. "Hurrah! Hurrah!" he said. "Charles Herbert! The man, may be my honored leader!"

Speaking at Halifax, Lord Strathbrooke, who accompanied the British military team, said that the motto of Canada should be "defence, not defiance," and that the Dominion should put every ounce of her energies into the development of her resources. This seems to be the sound doctrine. Canada can best serve the Empire by using its granary — its commissariat department — and supplying the windows of war represented by the elementary sustenance of the people at peace and the people at war.

The dangers of the "unwritten law" are illustrated daily in New York. Almost every day some man or boy is set upon by a mob and seriously injured because he is suspected of having spoken to a girl. A man in a linen, carrying his own child, was set upon by a mob and beaten as a kidnapper because the child cried.

Peterboro Examiner: "The British Government cannot very consistently refuse to contribute to the Ad-Hoc Line subsidy, which is intended to more closely unite the most important component parts of the Empire, when it subsidizes the Cunard Line, which goes from a British to a foreign port—from Liverpool to New York."

Far-minded journals will heartily endorse the plan of the Montreal Standard for the putting forward of the best men of both parties for parliamentary honors. "It is notorious," says the Standard, "that in our present parliament there are men who, in any other position in life, could not make half what they are now receiving out of the public treasury."

An exchange remarks: "We wonder if the self-appointed janters now assembled at Port William under the style of 'The Canadian Municipal Convention' think that the passage of that series of communalities in the form of a resolution compensates their municipalities for the money cost of their outing. They have probably had a pleasant trip, but how much wiser are the people for it?"

The Belleville Intelligencer attempts to disparage the meat inspection legislation to come into force in September. It says: "The public sentiment of Canada is not urgently concerned for the protection of foreign consumers of meat. What they buy and eat is their own concern. Nor did it appear that the meat packing interests were much troubled over the sensitiveness of overseas markets." Canada has a very immediate interest in maintaining the confidence of the foreign buyers in the quality of our meat export, and the public will approve of the action taken by Parliament. And something was due our own people too in this matter. Let the inspection be well and thoroughly made.

Globe: Once more Mr. Rittenhouse, a Canadian who has become wealthy in Chicago, appears before his former fellow-countrymen in a very praiseworthy attitude. Having donated to the locality of his boyhood a fine rural school building and an experimental farm, he has forestalled the Public Works Department of the Province by putting down at his own expense an excellent stone road to serve as a model for the whole surrounding district known as "Vineyard" and lying between Beamsville and St. Catharines, on the shore of Lake Ontario.

Why some resident of Victoria County doesn't take the notion to do something along the same line for this community. Goodness knows we need both good roads and road builders.

No event in ocean navigation has been awaited with such world-wide interest, since the introduction of steam power as the first performance of the giant turbine-driven Lusitania of the Cunard line. This is to be the great speed test of the turbine. The other turbine-driven ocean liners that are already in service were intended to be comparatively slow ships and were never designed to break records, so that their performance, while satisfactory, have been neither spectacular nor epoch making. But in the Lusitania, both built with the aid of the greatest Government subsidy ever paid, is embodied the resolve of Great Britain to win back from Germany the blue ribbon of the seas. Thus, to the greatest test yet made of the turbine-driven in this case of 70,000 horse power—there is added the element of a great international sporting event, involving commercial as well as national pride.

It has been reported that the giant turbines, the largest ships in the world, would not make their debut until next year, but it is now announced that the Lusitania will make her first trip to New York early in September and leave on her return voyage on September 23rd.

Not Afraid.

(Philadelphia Record)
Mrs. Danaway: "Yes, while we were in Egypt we visited the pyramids. They were literally covered with hieroglyphics."
Mrs. Norwich: "Ugh! Wasn't I afraid some of 'em would get on you."

Conductors and Ticket Collecting.

A short time ago Grand Trunk railway conductors were kept busy pressing how long they would hold their positions because of the action of some of their numbers who it was alleged, had not done their full duty to the company and were dismissed. Now they are somewhat stirred up, says a Toronto despatch, because of a proposition that will be introduced shortly which will take away from them the right to take up tickets. The new scheme is that auditors will travel on the trains and pick up all fares and tickets, the conductor's duty being simply to run the train. In other words, he will give the ticket to the man who is to take it. Many of the men resent this, while others say they are glad to be relieved of so much work.

AS TOLD IN THE POETS' CORNER.

THE FARMER IS KING.

Oh, the mines may be rich with deposits of ore,
With ingots of silver and nuggets of gold;
And iron and copper from shore unto shore,
From the depths of the earth may be constantly rolled;
But the wealth of the world is an atom compared With the millions of dollars that annually spring
In the trunk of the glow, and the trail of the rake,
And the path of the hoe, for the farmer is king.

His throne is a stalk of the sweet-smelling hay,
His crown is the gold of the corn and the corn,
His scepter a sheaf of the newly-cut wheat,
His audience chamber the meadow of morn;
The oats and the barley await his command
Their slender green spears from the darkness to bring;
The orchards drop apples of gold at his feet,
And all nature proclaims that the farmer is king.

A SAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

(Detroit Free Press)
Mother's at the sea shore,
Sister's gone away;
Brother Bill is catching perch
Out there on the bay.
Everyone is happy,
Having wondrous of fun;
'Cepting dad, who never will Get the dishes done.

Heaped up in the kitchen,
All the dishes stand;
All the common place,
All the Haviland,
Mother's been away a month,
Dad has used them all;
Now he's eating off the plates
(That decorate the wall).

Mother, mother, hurry,
Come back from the shore;
Dad can only find enough
Plates for two meals more.
He is up against it,
While you stay away;
Now he's eating breakfast food
From the large ash tray.

THE BIGGEST FISH.

From the New York Sun
Yew never heard me tell
About that monster? Well,
He was the biggest one
I ever seen. I swam
When I describe his size
I can't believe my eyes;
An' I don't 'spect that yew kin skurcly b'lieve it too.

Down Lizard Creek one day
I fished an' fished away,
An' here I waster state
I had the proper bait.
An' everything wuz clear,
My hand an' hands an' gear,
When I felt, nigh the bank,
A mos' tremendous yank.

My cork went nout o' sight,
My pole bent double quite;
The creek sh' biled an' biled,
An' got all rough an' riled.
I straightened like a bull,
An' fished a mighty pull,
An' would yew b'lieve it? Say,
He—well, he got away!

PICKIN' BERRIES.

Bill was a-late for school. Sauced in bed till eight,
N'er started till the quarter bell wuz ringin, sure as fate.
Now the holidays has come. Que
whizger! he hurries,
For he's gone out with dad—
Pickin' berries.

Wadin' through the shaler stream—
cint's his ripples philly?
Chimbin' fences, crossin' fields, Jid an' me an' Billy.
Standin' in the blazin' sun. Us it never worries—
Jolly times we allus has—
Pickin' berries.

Clouds come sudd'n cross the sky,
threatenin' an' black.
Never bother us a bit. Ketch us turnin back?
Suck here till our pairs is full,
Then through the mud we scurries.
Forkin' wet but cheerful still—
Pickin' berries.

Comin' home most awful tired. Way seems awful long.
Dad he wants to cheer us up. Starts singin a song.
Maw has supper wolly warm. Drives away our worries.
Tumble into bed dead tired—
Pickin' berries.

Many years have passed since then,
and we boys have grown.
Yet it seems that better times we have never known.
Since those summer holidays. Back any fancy hurries
To jolly days when we went out—
Pickin' berries.

HAGUE WILL DECIDE

Newfoundland Fisheries Dispute Goes to Conference.

MODUS VIVENDI TO CONTINUE

Compulsory Arbitration May Be Agreed Upon — Powers Favor Permanent Court—Germany Does Not Want World Treaty—Obligatory Only Upon Agreeing Powers — Question of Appeals.

London, Aug. 21.—The American Government, which has taken the lead at The Hague Peace Conference in endeavoring to promote arbitration, will be responsible for giving The Hague tribunal the most important case yet submitted to it, in the Newfoundland fisheries dispute, which undoubtedly will be taken there as a result of the negotiations conducted in London between the Foreign Office and the American ambassador, White-Land.

Both the Foreign Office and the embassy maintain diplomatic reserve, but it has been learned from unquestionable sources that the long correspondence made it seem that their contentions could not be harmonized and had reached an impasse.

Finally, the British Government proposed that for another year, while the matter was under arbitration, the fisheries should be conducted as they were last year, under the same modus vivendi.

There has been delay in concluding the arrangement. While the British Government has secured the assent of Sir Robert Bond, the Newfoundland Premier, to the agreement, Sir Robert, undoubtedly will be reluctant to accept the modus vivendi, which he opposed strongly last season. However, there is little doubt that the agreement will be entered into and that the fisheries, during the new season beginning next week, will be conducted on the same methods as the last.

Obligatory Arbitration.
The Hague, Aug. 21.—Nearly all of the Governments have sent instructions to their delegates to make an effort to bring about some kind of obligatory arbitration and also the establishment of a permanent court of arbitration in order to save the conference from failure.

The efforts of the delegates are now directed toward the arrangement of a treaty of obligatory arbitration acceptable to Germany, which country, although admitting the principle of compulsion, has so far opposed a world treaty, arguing that it would tend to minimize, rather than promote, obligatory arbitration. It is believed that it will only be possible to conclude a convention providing for obligatory arbitration among the powers which agree to it.

Service has presented a proposition aiming to make the awards of arbitration tribunals obligatory on the signatory powers after an appeal has resulted in the confirmation of the first judgment.

It is understood that all the Latin-American states will accept a permanent arbitration court, although making reserves regarding the allotment of judges if all the countries are to be represented.

Emigrants Not Deceived.

London, Aug. 21.—(C. A. P.)—In the House of Commons the Lord Advocate, replying to Mr. Cleland, stated that many complaints had been received from Scottish emigrants to Canada that promises of employment and wages, whereby they were induced to emigrate were unfulfilled. The Lord Advocate announced any offenders in this direction were liable to severe penalties.

Foresters Robbed.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Letters, cheques and express orders have been stolen from the letters of Court Royal Albert, Canadian Order of Foresters.

The name of G. W. Stacey, secretary of the Foresters, has been long, the cheques were endorsed and cashed at local banks and express orders. The thief is unknown, but the matter has been placed in the hands of Lieut.-Col. Sherwood of the Dominion police. The cheques are only for small sums.

Gen. French Coming.

London, Aug. 21.—The Canadian Associated Press learns that Gen. Sir John French, inspector-general of the forces, intends to visit Canada, and make an official examination of the state of the defensive service. No date is fixed, but it is likely to be early next year.

Lieut. Rogan states the Coldstream Guards' band hope shortly to again visit Canada.

Small Wreck at Guelph.

Killed by Dynamite.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—As a result of a premature dynamite explosion, which took place two miles north of Merrickville, Nicholas Caracogio, aged 40 years, and his son, Sam, aged 17 years, both of Young Street, Ottawa, lost their lives.

Steel-Coal Trial Over.

Sydney, N. S., Aug. 20.—The Steel-Coal trial, which has been the big event of the past two weeks in Sydney, was brought to a close at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Judge Longley's decision will probably be given within a month.

Convicted of Assault.

Bonnaville, Aug. 20.—A young man, Joseph Barber, was yesterday morning convicted before County Judge Carman, upon the charge of committing an assault upon a Polish girl, and was sentenced to four months in Central Prison.

BOTHA CRITICIZED.

Purchase of Diamond for King Not Altogether Disinterested.

London, Aug. 21.—The plan of Premier Botha of the Transvaal to present the Cullinan diamond to King Edward meets with much criticism both in England and the Transvaal. The finances of the colony are in bad condition, and many persons think that the expense of purchase ($1,000,000), is unnecessary. Moreover, the magnates of the Premier Diamond Mining Co. have found the Cullinan diamond to be a white elephant. There is no market for such huge stones. The Premier people are political supporters of Gen. Botha's party and critics say that if the stone belonged to the De Beers Co., which is an opponent of Gen. Botha, there would have been no thought of presenting the diamond to the King, adding that the Botha party wants to gain the credit for a patriotic act, while putting money from the treasury in the pockets of their friends at a time when the colony can ill afford such luxuries.

Mr. Asquith, replying in the House of Commons to the allegation that the Transvaal loan bill is an invidious form of colonial preference, said no communication had reached the Government from any responsible statesman through the Empire in protest, or even criticism, of the loan.

The truth was, the self-governing colonies regarded the matter entirely from the point of view as a Government guarantee.

The loan was inevitable through unforeseen consequences of the war, wherein they played so conspicuous and honorable a part, and as a necessary incident of the completion of the settlement, which settlement, as all know from the language of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been ratified by practically the unanimous sentiment of the self-governing colonies of the Empire. The second reading of the bill carried by a majority of 137.

LANDING OF JAPS.

Consul Denies Being In League With Immigration Company.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 21.—The British Columbia bar is looking for an interesting reply from Justice Clements to Sir Adolphe Caron's stinging open letter to the Ottawa press. Judge Clements is on a vacation.

Kikijiri Ishii of the Japanese Foreign Office, now in California investigating the situation, is expected next month to look into the local situation. A member of the Japanese employment agency, which landed 300 Japanese here Monday, and is bringing 1,700 more, re-asserts in an interview in Honolulu that Vancouver Japanese Consul Morikawa, is in partnership with the Tokio Immigration Co., which Morikawa stoutly denies.

C. P. R. Operators May Strike.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—It looks as if the C. P. R. operators would go out to-day. They had an interview yesterday with Vice-President McNicoll, but there were no results.

It is understood that the men will see Sir Thomas Shaughnessy this morning and failing to come to a satisfactory agreement they will stop work this afternoon.

New York, Aug. 21.—Officials of the two big telegraph companies stated yesterday that business is moving normally and that, as far as they are concerned, the strike is over. The strikers deny this statement. Harry Behnekin, an operator, became insane in the Western Union operating rooms, yesterday from overwork and was removed to Bellevue Hospital.

Farmer's Wife Murdered.

Camden, N. J., Aug. 21.—While Edward Horner, a farmer, was trying early yesterday to extinguish a fire thought to have been kindled in his barn for the apparent purpose of drawing him from his home, at Merchantville, a few miles from this city, someone entered the house and murdered his wife with an axe, and with the same weapon attacked Victoria Napoli, an Italian servant, who probably went to the rescue of her mistress. The servant died a short time later in a hospital in this city.

A negro named Charles Gibson was arrested on suspicion. He had two pawn tickets for watches, which, when located, were found to bear the name of "Horner."

Mysterious Death.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—A farmer named Thomas McTiernan, while driving home towards Bryson, Que., met an intoxicated man, John Matheson, who did not reply to his salutation. A few yards farther on he had to pull up as his rig could not pass. A dead body lay on the road. It was Hugh Matheson, brother of the first. There was blood on the face of the dead man. The brothers Matheson lived about two acres from the spot and had been drinking in Bryson.

Drove Horse to Death.

St. Catharines, Aug. 21.—A boy of about 17, who gave his name as Lavorn Adams, charged with stealing a horse and buggy from A. H. DePelt, fruit grower, of Winona, He stole the horse one night last week, and drove it so hard that it fell dead at Attlebridge. Then he sold the buggy and harness for $21, and proceeded to this city on foot.

Potatoes with potato in place of wood is the latest article "made in Germany." A company has been formed to exploit an invention which, instead of making use of the expensive cedar wood, substitutes a compact mass, the main ingredient of which is potatoes.

Leithbridge, (A.J.B.) Herald: J. J. Whitney brought into the office on Tuesday a sample of the strawberries he is raising on his farm. Several of the berries measured over seven inches in circumference. The berries taste as large as they measure. Leithbridge berries will set the standard.

Brainwork — as such — says an authority, never killed or harmed anybody. Brainwork in a stuffy room will kill you of tuberculosis; brainwork plus worry, has killed thousands; brainwork plus worry plus insomnia many thousands more; but if the brain-work had been omitted the impure air or the worry, would have had just the same result.

The San Francisco Olympic Club is erecting a $750,000 building on the plot on which its former building stood. It will have three stories below the level of the sidewalk and six above. In time three more will be added, making the total cost $1,250,000. The plot is 175x137 1/2 feet. The swimming tank is 450x100 feet and is 95x35 feet.

The number of cigarettes for consumption in the Government records to the first of July totalled according to the estimates of the Indian Revenue Department 331,973,137, which is almost a third more than the consumption of the preceding year. (The consumption of last year was 269,334,939.) The consumption of 1904 was 250,860,387. Ten years ago it was 93,798,060, from which it can be seen at a glance what tremendous strides the cigarette habit has taken in Canada during recent years.

The consumption of tobacco of all kinds last year was the largest on record, being estimated at 2,953 lbs. per head of population. The consumption of cigars was 194,813,575, compared with 193,827,342 in the year 1905, and 137,276,105 in 1904.

Of his ninety-two years, Sir James Gowan has spent seventy in public life. Which seems to prove that the career of state assist length of days by pushing the smaller, more personal and more wearing cares out.

Uncle Sam is worked up over a rumor that Great Britain is to build a 30,000 ton warship to have six turrets and eighteen 12-inch guns. The Dreadnaught is of 17,900 tons displacement, and carries ten 12-inch guns.

The wettest place in the world, according to the Russian Meteorological Journal, is abstracted in the "Revue Scientifique," is Cherrapunji, in the Indian province of Assam. From 1895 to 1903 the average annual rainfall was 11,228 metres, nearly thirty-seven feet.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post is making a study of conditions in the Hawaiian Islands. He tells of a Scotchman, cashier of a bank in Honolulu, whose wife is a San Francisco lady. Their little boy, going to school for the first time, was asked his nationality, and replied that he was "three-quarters Scotch and one-quarter white."

CANNOT FORGET OLD LINDSAY

Interesting Extract from a Letter Written by a Citizen of Long Ago.

In a letter enclosing this subscription (Mr. Robert Stevens, of Alpena, Mich., refers to old times in Lindsay, where he was born and bred. He now is a prosperous provision dealer in Alpena, and will in all probability return to the old town to spend the evening of his life when he has made his pile. He says:

"It's twenty-eight years since I left Lindsay. I would like awful well to visit the old town and meet old acquaintances. I used to work in the woods and on the river in the old times. If I had been told in those days that I would be in the active business I have been for the past twenty years, I would have said they were crazy. I am glad to come to this country—there are fine chances for good, honest men; if you try to help yourself the people are always ready to help.

"I was born and raised on the Sturgeon River below Lindsay, fifty-five years ago and used to know every stump and corner where Capt. W. F. Lee used to get hung up with the long raft of logs he used to tow with the old Mary Ellen long ago. I also know how to catch a big muskellunge where my line, I was so familiar with every spot on the old river. I can remember the old Woolman, owned by Capt. Grandville, and the old Ozemah, the first two boats that ran on the Sturgeon. Many the time my brothers and sisters and I went out in the boats with our little dux-out butternut canoe and I was a barefooted, ragged kid on the old river. I see by your paper that they are going to cut out all the old creeks and bends. I hope I can find time some day to drop in on you for a visit and see some of the old boys and girls. I have married a family of four children since I left Lindsay in the spring of 1899, the two boys were born in Lindsay and two girls here. I have worked hard and long hours to give them an education, which I never got, as I never went to school two years in my life. All I know I picked up myself, and I find my mind when I was a young man that at I ever raised a family I would try and do well for them. I have so far succeeded, as my oldest boy, W. F. Stevens, is selling agent for the American Express Co. in Detroit, is married and gets $125 per month; the second boy gets $125 per month in Great Falls, Mont.; my oldest daughter is married to a merchant and chess player in Milwaukee, Mich.; my youngest and baby girl of 23 years is a stenographer and shorthand writer and draws a salary of $25 per week in Chicago, so I think I ought to be thankful and proud of them.

"If you have a chance, drop in on Messrs. Spratt & Kellen and give them my regards—they can probably tell you more about me than I can myself, or John Barry, Chas. Drifton or Thos. Stewart, all old friends and whom I would particularly like to see.

"Send me the good old paper, I am always glad to read it." Yours, etc., ROBERT STEVENS.

Chief Dan Whelan, of Indian Village, Chomong Lake, is improving nicely. He has been suffering for the past seven weeks and was in Peterboro hospital for some time, and returned home on Saturday. —I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, the Heart, or the Kidneys. Troubles of the stomach, heart or kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart and kidneys as well have their controlling or inside nerves. Weakness these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's restorative has made its fame. No other remedy can claim the "treat the cause" policy. Also for blotting, blotting, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me to-day for sample and free book. Dr.

And tender and loving, but say! If your wife had her life to live over again.

Would she make you her husband to-day?

Toronto Star: The Empire should protest against Premier Bona's intention of presenting King Edward with the motor car that he has purchased. With that in his shirt front how could the King hope to travel incognito? Every hotel clerk in the world would have the stone spotted.

—The trap holiday of the brain-worker must not consist in replacing something by nothing, for Nature abhors a vacuum, and will fill it with worry. It must include the provision of a novel mental occupation in sufficient quantity, the essential character of that occupation being, not its novelty, but the fact that there is no worry associated with it — it is done for fun.

—It is reported that the Snowden house, Peterboro, has been purchased by Mrs. D. Fraser, of London. Mr. Wm. Snowden, the proprietor, is one of the oldest hotelmen in the Midland district, and like many others, got his start from lumbering in the early days of the business.

For many years prior to going to Peterboro he ran a hotel at Kilmory, and later at Bobaygon.

—"Parent" writes to the Peterboro Review demanding that a "commission" be appointed to enquire into conditions prevailing at the College Institute, in view of charges of unsatisfactory showing made by pupils in the recent departmental exams. The Examiner, in an editorial, advises careful consideration of all the facts before criticizing the staff too severely. Same here.

—Goderich has two of the best local papers in Canada, papers with many thousands of dollars invested to the best interests of the town.

And yet the Council has this year passed these papers by and "timed" over the printing of the voters' list to a job office, because of a trifling difference in price. One would hardly expect a town like Goderich to chafe because of a lack of good sense and indeed, in gratitude as well.

—I'll stop your pain free. To show you first — before you spend a penny — what my Pink Pain Tablets can do, I will mail you, free, a trial package of them — Dr. Shoop's headache tablets. Nostralgia, headache, toothache, period pains, etc., are all done by blood congestion. Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets simply kill pain by coaxing away the unnatural blood pressure. That is all. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Sold by all ers.

—The water in Lake Sturgeon is said to be lower than for many years past, and our fishermen are apprehensive that if a severe winter occurs the result will be another general freeze-out of fish. The people of Port Perry and the country roundabout, seem to have forgotten that the Trent Canal is supposed to extend to that village. They should have that in mind, and the government to maintain the level for navigation purposes.

—Get a free sample of Dr. Shoop's "Health Coffee" at our store. If real coffee disturbs your stomach, your heart or kidneys, then try this clever coffee imitation. Dr. Shoop has eliminated Old Java and Mocha coffees in flavor and taste, yet it is not a single grain of real coffee in it. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee imitation is made from pure toasted grains or cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Made in a minute. No tedious wait. You will surely like it. Sold by all dealers.

—Last Monday, while one of Mr. W. Goodwin's painters, Ed. McPhie, was varnishing the front of the Public Library, preparatory to placing a sign there, a lady walked up the grand staircase and receded him with, "Is Chas. Vincent in?"

Ed. McPhie claimed the "lady" was not enough to inform the lady that the police station was next door east, and that the building was the malignancy was the Lindsay Public Library, of which our citizens are exceedingly proud.

—How sweet it is to love a girl! And airy tales to tell her. But oh, how bitter, at the girl Prefers another feller.

—Mr. Duncan Walker, inspector of public schools in Peterboro for the past few years, has resigned to take a position on the teaching staff of one of the Normal Schools, with a possibility of becoming a principal.

—Pending the analysis of samples of the Grange well water, submitted to the Health Department, Toronto, all access to the well has been forbidden. If the samples show impurities, the well will be permanently closed.

—Lindsay's advancement is best gauged when you consider the many "cant places" built up, and were lots made beautiful, by care and cultivation. Take Mr. Ben Cook's lot on Mill-st. for instance — the best it would do before he took hold was to raise a prolific crop of mulleins, rag-weed and other objectionable weeds — now it is a garden and grows healthy vegetables instead of pests to pollute the lawns of the neighborhood. We are told that Mr. Cook has received several offers for the property.

—Lindsay is cursed with an innumerable number of stray, half-wild canines that roam the streets day and night, and cause extreme annoyance to citizens. Not only have they been about about dogs biting children, but adults have been attacked by these savage and hairy-stampeded brutes. That something should be done, and that immediately, to thin their numbers, is evident to all but the owners, who lie to the assessors rather than pay a dollar for the cur they allow to hang around their premises.

—Peterboro citizens are not not suffering much from low water in the river. The Examiner of yesterday, referring to an excursion, says: (The steamer, left on her return for about 8 o'clock, and the journey home was somewhat slow on account of the condition of the water, which is about six inches below its normal height.) Just fancy! Here the Scutog has dwindled to a shallow creek, and citizens of high principle feel a sensation of guilt when they have occasion to dip out, pull or two (that is because they realize the water may be needed for Peterboro's industries.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Great interest is centred in the coming race across the Atlantic from Queenstown to Liverpool between the Lucania and the new turbine steamer Lusitania. The Lucania holds the present record, which is five days, seven hours and twenty-three minutes.

A novelty which has been submitted to the police prefecture of Berlin for approval is an automobile hearse. It is of the approved type, differing only from the ordinary funeral vehicle in not being horse-drawn. The hearse created much curiosity as it made its test pilgrimage through the city.

Even bricklaying is no longer a handcraft. A Farnham man has patented a bricklaying machine which only weighs 60 lb., and does the work of seven men at much less than half the cost. (The bricks are fed by hand, a lever presses them into place, and rollers keep a line on the work, and other rollers press the brick down on the mortar. One man can lay some 3,000 bricks a day with one of these machines.)

The Crime of Perjury. (London Free Press.)

The police at Hamilton have charged a group of six young men with charges of perjury. It is alleged that the defendants swore falsely in a Sunday crap game. As to the merits of the case, these have yet to be determined.

The important feature is that the town officers have made a move toward wiping out the foul crime of perjury. In this they will have the endorsement of every good citizen.

Perjury has operated tremendously against the even flow of justice in this country. It is met with in every court in the land. Its blighting effect is seen in the failures upon failures to bring the guilty to punishment.

To such an extent has perjury developed in the country there is no compunction shown by surprisingly large numbers of people in giving false testimony, where their evidence in any way affects the position, honor of themselves or their friends.

Would it not be well if presiding judges, magistrates and jurors exercised a greater freedom of judgment in cases coming before them? Too often more attention is paid to the sworn testimony of a witness than to circumstantial evidence.

The magistrate in the Hamilton case marked at the trial that some one was not telling the truth. It is quite possible that a magistrate of keen discernment could have placed his finger upon the truth and the lie had not been to the notion prevailing in legal minds that one oath must be accepted at the expense of another. To deviate from such a course might in instances be dangerous, and result in the punishment of the innocent. It remains true, however, that Solomon was able to divine as between two mothers. All that is needed, then, to wipe out the blot of perjury, are a few more Solomons.

LACK OF WHIPPING POSTS

Magistrate Says Child's Alleged Assault is Not Good Enough for Jail.

New York, Aug. 19.—Magistrate House, in the Harlem Court, lamented that the whipping post had been gone away with.

"For the two years I was in the Legislature," said the Magistrate, "I stood for abuse because I wanted the whipping post re-established. People said that I was a brute and was going back to the dark ages of barbarism. But I wanted it for just such brutes as this man. Here's a man seven feet tall, weighing 225 pounds, and this little girl is his accuser. Jail is too good for man like this. They don't mind it. They get three square meals a day and if they become ill they are taken to a self-hospital than you or I have."

"A man beats his wife, and if he is sent to jail his wife comes around in a few days and tries to get him out. Jail is no punishment for that kind of man. But if we had a good whipping post, and a good strong man and a cut-throat knife, and if each strike go deep into the flesh and draw the blood, you would not see so many of these cases. Such a situation might do even this man some good."

The Dufferin Park Races.

A large number from Lindsay and vicinity attended the Dufferin Park August meet, at Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr. W. H. Simpson's fast racer, Joe Allen, won third money in the 222 class. Among those who were at the races from Lindsay were Mr. Geo. Curtis, Mr. G. H. Simpson, Mr. W. H. Simpson, Mr. Ashmore and others.

The Peterboro enthusiasts who passed through town were Messrs. "Bob" Redmond, Geo. Lytle, A. Rountree, Martin Connors and Dr. Johnson and wife. Mr. Geo. Miller, of Uxbridge, was also there.

Rod and Gun for August.

The delights of camping with an automobile is the latest experience open to sportsmen and the August number of "Rod and Gun and More Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont., tells all about it.

The diary of a big game hunting expedition in the north of British Columbia, and the successes achieved by the party, form an interesting reading. Fishermen will find their requirements well looked after, and several stories on the favorite topic should give them some pleasant half hours, while hunters are far from forgotten. A settler's view of the dog hunting controversy should be read by all, inasmuch as it is not often this point of view is given, while a further novel is the description by Mr. James Knox of how some hunters find as much enjoyment from their fishing and hunting experiences in a well fitted up camp in Old Ontario as do those who go further afield and do pioneer work in a new country. With many other good things the August number is a budget an sportsman can find to welcome.

COURSE OF NEW AGRICULTURAL CLASSES

Regulations Governing the New Studies to be Taken Up at Lindsay and other Collegiate Institutes and High School.

A draft copy of the regulations and courses of study arranged for the agricultural departments of the High School at Essex, and the Collegiate Institutes at Galt, Collingwood, Lindsay, Perth and Morrisburg, was submitted to the Ontario Education Board at a Council meeting held the other day. The regulations will no doubt prove interesting reading to many in town and country, Lindsay Collegiate Institute being one of those selected by the Ontario government for the initiation of the new course of study. The admission requirements are:

1. Pupils who take the regular two years' special course in Agriculture or a partial course therein in a High School, shall be admitted in accordance with the regulations that govern the admission of other High School pupils. For 1907 to 1908, however, other pupils shall be admitted who, in the opinion of the Principal of the school and the Public School Inspector, are competent to take up the work. All such pupils shall be regarded as regularly enrolled.

2. No course held throughout the county, such as that of the regular or a partial course in Agriculture, shall be taken up by pupils of the school, or of other High Schools. A list thereof, and their reported attendance shall be kept by the Principal of the school; but it shall not be enrolled as regular High School pupils unless they have been admitted to a High School as provided above.

PETERBORO CHEESE BOARD

11 5-16c. Was the Highest Price Paid—Offerings Smaller.

Review, Wednesday: The highest price paid for cheese at Wednesday's meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was 11 5-16c. About 500 boxes were sold at this figure, and the remainder went at 11 1-4c. The offering amounted to 2,995 boxes, as compared with 4,595 boxes two weeks ago, when the highest price paid was only 10 13-16c. Ten days make of cheese was sold, and the bidding was fairly brisk. Some of the salesmen were of the opinion that 11 1-4c was not enough, but all sold out their factories. (The makes of cheese is low on the decline, and the expectation on the Board will be for a smaller until the close of the season.)

When bids were asked, Mr. Fitzgerald offered 10 3-4c, which was taken at 10 13-16c. by Mr. Cook. Mr. Cline made it 11 1-8c. Then Mr. Squires came in and offered 11 1-4c, and secured the first call, and took the following factories: Ormiston, Millarney, Daisy D., Oakdale, Warran, Brickley, Indian River and Oak Leaf.

The next went to Mr. Whiton at 11 1-16c, and the following factories sold: Canaville, Westwood, V. B. Lang and Shearer.

At the same price Mr. Wein took the next lot as follows: Central Smith, Selwyn, Young's Point, Pine Grove, Lakeland, Cedarvale and Oshawa Union.

Three buyers then offered 11 1-4c, simultaneously, and a decision was made as to who should get the call. Mr. Wrighton settled the matter by offering 11 5-16c, and took the following: Warran, Maple Leaf, Bensfort, Treverton and East Emily.

Mr. Wrighton offered 11 1-4c for further factories, but Mr. Cook outbid him with 11 1-4c, for the balance of the Board, and took the following: Crown, Keene, Myrtle, Pittsville, North Dummer, Fleetwood and Buckhorn.

Mount Pleasant, South Burlington and Hope refused this offer.

The buyers present were Messrs. Fitzgerald, Whiton, Gillespie, Morrison, Squires, Grant, Wrighton, Weir, and Cook.

The board adjourned for three weeks.

Everyone Glad to See Him.

Peterborough Review, Wednesday: After an absence of nearly two years, Mr. George Fitzgerald, appeared on the Peterborough Cheese Board today, and was warmly welcomed by buyers and sellers alike. Mr. Fitzgerald was, before his illness, one of the best buyers on the Board, and his appearance today was made the occasion of a few words of welcome by President Tiddell. He was given everybody was glad to see Mr. Fitzgerald in his place again. Mr. Fitzgerald is recovering slowly from his long illness and is gradually regaining strength.

Was It Intended Suicide?

Woodville Advocate: The engineer of a C.N.O. engine running light, on Wednesday came upon an unknown man stretched across the track some two miles north of Redford. He was with considerable difficulty removed, and on the passing of the engine was seen to lay down upon the track. The strange man would give no name and appeared to be quite sane and sober.

BURGLARIZED DRUG STORE

W. Dunoon's Premises Instead of McLennan's Hardware Store.

Evening Post of Aug. 15

Yesterday a rumor spread around town that a hardware store had been burglarized the previous night. The Post went up to McLennan's store, which had been mentioned. For some reason Mr. W. McLennan evaded the question and refused to state whether it was his store, that had been entered or not, and as the remaining hardware stores had no knowledge of any goods being stolen, it was inferred that our information that the McLennan store had been entered was correct.

Later it was stated that Dunoon's drug store had been broken into by thieves, and an investigation this was found to be the original robbery. The thief or thieves entered the drug store from the rear through the back door. Evidently they were "on to their job" and thoroughly acquainted with the premises, ingress being effected over a shelf lined with bottles, without one being broken. The daylight is at a considerable distance from the floor.

The thief moved freely around the store. The till was rifled of its contents, which was very little, the proprietor removing the cash every night. A certain class of goods were taken, which may denote that the robber had a special purpose. These goods can be easily identified by the owner, and a clue may be had in this way. To a Post reporter Mr. Dunoon mentioned that he had some facts in his possession that might lead to running the thief off the earth.

"What were the value of the goods stolen?" asked the reporter.

"I think it would be better to keep that private," answered Mr. Dunoon.

The Chief of Police is on the track of the burglar, and an arrest may occur at any time.

Smash-up at Millbrook.

Peterborough Review: A smash-up at the G. T. R. station at Millbrook on Friday night last, broke up a couple of freight cars, and knocked the end out of Tixton's coal shed. Half a train had been left up south of the station while the engine went down for water, and the brakes not being tight enough the cars started to run back and met the engine, causing the collision. No one was hurt.

YACHT VERSUS A MACHINE.

Seneca is a Racing Machine and Can't be Beaten.

Toronto News: From Commodore Macdonald down everyone considers the cup to Seneca, which has again demonstrated the fact that the Canadians will have to reconcile themselves to a departure from the old style of boat they put their hopes upon in the past, go after the Yankers at their own game, and resort to the sleek style of naval architecture before they can hope to win the cup.

When the new universal rating rule was adopted two years ago, it was felt that the yachtmen had at last evolved something that the designers could not use. It was hailed with delight, particularly on the Canadian side of the line, where the death of freak types of yachts was regarded as inevitable. "We will now have a healthy type of boat, something showing power and stability; the day of the racing machine is over," said everybody in yachting circles, where it was generally conceded that all valuable points of the rules had been eliminated.

But they had reckoned without the great Herrschhoff, who, as a matter of fact, was one of the first to be consulted when the yachtmen of the Sound, who had evaded the rules for ten years of experience and costly experiment, first drafted the new rating conditions. With characteristic Yankee shrewdness, the "Big Wizard," as soon as he grasped his opinion upon the rules, suggesting changes here and there, and apparently doing everything possible to neutralize the tricks of his own trade, went to work to beat the rules he himself had helped to construct. How he has succeeded in besting the Seneca and her sleek characteristics is the story of the regatta.

This is the first Canadian cup race under the new rules, and the Canadians have produced a type of boat whose usefulness will not depart when the race is over, while the Lochester syndicate, when the series is completed, will have on their hands a beautiful ornament, a monument to the skill of Herrschhoff. As for the Yankers, they will have to dispose of the cup of the lead in their hands, which is no good for practical purposes, but as a racing machine, she is one of the most perfect pieces of workmanship ever produced by an American designer, who has succeeded merely in frustrating the rules, and doing nothing to perpetuate and encourage the construction of the healthy user-boat that the new rules aimed at. He has beaten the rules, and now he is encouraged to try, their hand at the same game.

This is what the Canadian yachtmen are saying, and the inference is that the R.C.Y.C. will try the experiment themselves when they next try for the cup, if, indeed, the lessons of the present contest, furnished by Mr. Herrschhoff, do not in the meantime result in further revision of the rules.

The recent race was not a battle of skippers, it was not even a contest between the boats, but merely a duel of the mind, after the first few minutes to a struggle between Addison G. Hannan and the Seneca on one hand, and Butler Time on the other. Jarvis and Hannan merely tested their relative skill once, and the Canadian came out with flying colors, outgeneraling her famous rival in a way that gladdened the hearts of the Canadians, giving them the only bit of consolation afforded during the race.

Golden Wedding at Kew Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Battisby Married 50 Years—All the Children Present.

The following from last week's Toronto Star with interest many Lindsay friends:

Kew Beach, Aug. 15.—The residence of Mrs. Carl, 1989 Queen east, was in gala attire last evening in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Battisby. The lawn and house were profusely decorated with flags and Chinese lanterns for the occasion, and dinner was served on the lawn by a caterer. The gathering was unique in its way. Mr. and Mrs. Battisby having the pleasure of the company of all their children, five daughters and two sons, with their husbands and wives, and several grandchildren as well as many friends from the city and outside points.

The guests enjoyed a dance later in the evening, in which Mrs. Battisby's son, took part with as much vigor as some of the younger braves of the family.

Mr. Battisby was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, 74 years ago, but came to this country at an early age, taking up his residence at Port Hope.

Mrs. Battisby is a Canadian by birth, having been born in Port Hope as also were all her children. Mr. and Mrs. Battisby were married in Port Hope, and resided in that place for thirty-eight years, when they removed to Newburg, where they lived for ten years, and for the past two years have been living in Toronto.

There has been only one death in the entire family of three generations, one grandchild being dead.

Congratulations were received yesterday by wire from Albany, Ont., Chicago, Port Hope, Peterborough, Toronto, Brockport, North Madison, Iowa and Grand Rapids.

Among the members of the family present were: Mrs. M. A. Carr, Mr. J. J. Battisby, Mrs. R. A. Gladhill, Toronto; Mrs. A. G. Shaw, Mr. W. A. Battisby, of Chicago; Mrs. S. B. Lall-law, Lindsay; and Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of Peterborough.

Departmental Examinations.

Inspector J. E. Knight, town, furnished The Post with the following: Of the two examinations, Junior Matriculation and Junior Teachers', at which a few wrote on both examinations, but no one passed in both. Bobayevon passed 3 out of 5, O'Brien passed 6 out of 14, and Lind passed 19 out of 70.

CHEMONG PARK REGATTA.

Sturgeon Point Contestants Won Many Prizes

Evening Post of Aug. 16

Ideal weather favored the annual regatta under the auspices of Chemong Yacht Club, on Chemong Lake yesterday, and as a result the attendance was large. The races were well managed and keenly contested.

The Str. Esturion, carrying close on 200 people from Lindsay, Pleasant Point, Sturgeon Point and Bobayevon, reached Chemong at 2 o'clock, just as the races were commencing.

Representatives of Sturgeon Point Yacht Club Association made a fine showing in the several events, winning the following:

No. 3—Canoe Paddling, Ladies' Team—Miss Jean Travette, Miss Grace Knowlson, Sturgeon Point, 2nd, Misses Hall, Stony Lake.

4—Canoe Paddling, boys 16 and under—Miss Wilfred Knowlson, Sturgeon Point.

10—Canoe Paddling, Ladies' Single—Miss Ryan, Sturgeon Point, 2nd Miss Knowlson, Sturgeon Point.

12—Canoe paddling, four men—Miss A. Simpson, R. Fort, G. Myers, W. Knowlson, Sturgeon Point; 2nd Bruce Hopkins, G. Warner, Bruce Wilson and A. Bell, Sturgeon Point.

13—Gasoline launches, 3 hp. and under—Miss Hopkins' Viking, Sturgeon Point, 2nd Wilson's Roy II, Sturgeon Point.

The dinghy race for the championship of the Kawartha Lakes and the Challenge Cup was won by Holdings, 2nd Hamilton. The open sailing race was won by Shaw, 2nd Knapman.

The ladies' tandem was worth watching. When Miss Travette and Miss Knowlson, who were behind, got on a grand spurt and gained the lead, the Lindsay contingent stood on their tip toes and yelled themselves hoarse. (The Misses Hall hitherto have been invisible, but they took their defeat in fine spirit and were the first to congratulate the winners.)

The Esturion reached the Point on the return trip at about 9 o'clock, and tied up at Lindsay at 10:30.

Railway Notes.

Excess baggage rates have been issued by western lines in all states having a passenger rate of two cents a mile.

William F. Hawkins, assistant attorney-general of Texas, holds that a stockholder in a railroad cannot accept free passes on the line under the anti-free pass law.

H. J. Dean, of Prospect street, Mendville, has patented a new metal adjustable engine pilot which he hopes to have adopted by the railroads in the United States.

W. S. G. Harris, a locomotive engineer on the Southern Pacific, has invented an automatic safety device for boilers, which will serve as a warning to the engineer when the water is getting low.

Western lines will abolish the party rates between Chicago and the Pacific coast as soon as it can be legally effected. They have withdrawn clerical permits and charity rates in territory where the passenger rate is two cents a mile.

The Grand Trunk announces that it will have ready in September or all traffic $7,000,000 worth of rolling stock, which has been under construction for some time. So far $6,000,000 worth of cars, of $200, have been delivered, which at $500 makes $4,200,000. Of the sixty passenger coaches, thirty have been delivered, a total of $720,000, and of 100 engines, sixty have been received, amounting to $1,500,000.

Conventions were received yesterday by wire from Albany, Ont., Chicago, Port Hope, Peterborough, Toronto, Brockport, North Madison, Iowa and Grand Rapids.

Among the members of the family present were: Mrs. M. A. Carr, Mr. J. J. Battisby, Mrs. R. A. Gladhill, Toronto; Mrs. A. G. Shaw, Mr. W. A. Battisby, of Chicago; Mrs. S. B. Lall-law, Lindsay; and Mrs. W. J. Thompson, of Peterborough.

INTERESTING FARM NOTES

DAIRY BRIEFS

Feeding milk too cold or too much at one time will cause scours.

A half cupful of wheat flour and a raw egg in the milk given to a calf with scours will often prove effective.

Cows will vary considerably in the amount of solids in their milk and especially in the amount of butter fat.

The kitchen has a lot of odors which will not improve the milk.

Every dairy utensil should be thoroughly rinsed and well scalded with boiling water. If, in addition, they can have a good sun bath in a sweet, airy place, so much the better.

Select a dairy breed and stick by it. Be sure it is a dairy breed.

Weeding out the poor animals and keeping the good ones will soon build up a herd.

It is better to wash the milk out of the butter in the churn than to work it out on the worker.

It is important to ascertain how much food it requires to keep the cow in good healthy condition, how much food beyond this is converted into milk and at what point she begins to lay on flesh.

Keep the calf pens clean and dry. Calves never do well in dirty, damp quarters.

It is easier to keep cows from getting out by fixing the fence good beforehand than it is to break them of the bad habit after they once get it.

Cottonseed meal produces the richest yield and the richest cream of any food that can be used, but care must be taken not to give in large quantities, as it is very likely to cause scours.

You always need a dairy thermometer, but especially at this time of the year. There is nothing better to tell you when the milk is cool.

Training and feeding may be made a valuable means of developing the capabilities of cows and a preliminary step to their improvement by breeding.

A little grain will help even on good pasture.

A good cow usually bears the marks of her excellence with her.

Leaving butter fat in the milk is throwing money to the pigs.

By keeping and rubbing the udder of young heifers and drawing the teats a good form may be given to this organ, and the milk secretion may be considerably increased.

THE MAN BEHIND THE COW

If "the man behind the cow" would do his part, no unprofitable cow would masquerade under the fictitious appellation of "milk cow," says F. D. Coburn, of Kansas. She would either be sent to the butcher's block or be made to return a profit by more intelligent care and management.

It passes understanding why theft in a cow should be tolerated more than theft by a human being.

In effect the loss to the consumer is either the same. Our government has found it wisdom to study and establish far reaching methods for the detection and suppression of crime by the human family, and by the same token why should our farmers and dairymen be less vigilant in regard to this possible proclivity in their cows—beasts described as dumb, yet outwitting their owners?

So long as cows of this class are permitted in the dairy herd just so long will there be dissatisfaction and failure. Improvement is the route to success, whether by breeding or better management and intelligence in our cow owners is the power that will force development in the right direction.

HORSE FACTS

Have his harness fit.

He'll last very much longer.

Above all, don't overtax his strength.

Give him a little water very often.

Don't give him a big drink directly after a meal.

Don't allow him to eat too fast.

Even scatter his grain on a clean floor.

Don't beat a stupid horse—that only proves the driver's stupidity.

Stay with him while he is shod—the shoe may hit him over the head, ruining him.

A few days' rest, with earth to stand on, unshod, will do him more good than veterinary treatment in many cases.

STANDARD IN PHYSICS PAPER

It is Said That Students Wrote on Questions Not Taught.

It is apparent from the general talk among the authorities of Education Department, that the regulations authorizing the lowering of the standard on certain examination papers will be put into force this year with reference to the senior physical science paper. While it is not admitted that the paper as set was too difficult, it is said that the questions asked were not exactly along the lines of work taught the pupils throughout the Province. None of the authorities would take the responsibility of stating that the standard would be lowered on any one paper.

"Due allowance will be made where papers are altogether too difficult for students," said Registrar Houston when questioned.

Dr. South, Superintendent of Education, characterized as absurd reports to the effect that any stated percentage of pupils had failed to pass their examinations. He further stated that it was altogether too premature to make any forecasts in this direction.

Under New Management.

Our readers will be interested in the news that this season our pretty theatre, the Academy of Music, will be under the management of Mr. W. R. Roenigk, leader of the Sylvestre Band. Being likewise leader of the Lindsay orchestra, and having the time required for the efficient performance of the duties, as well as the necessary popularity, it will no doubt appear to the theatre-goers that Manager Small, of Toronto, who controls the Academy, has made a most judicious choice.

It's both wide and deep, so that you can easily place a big steak right over and almost touching the red hot coals, where it will broil quickly.

And it's only by rapid broiling that a steak will retain its natural flavor and rich, juicy tenderness.

Pandora is the range that cooks things right.

This broiler door can also be used for feeding the fire without disturbing the pots, etc., on the top.

It is a very tribute, and it is quite appropriate that the fittingly named "Kap-tha" should be the first point of interest in the two water. SISTERHOOD OF ST. JOSEPH

Twelve Novices Made Final Vows, Four Postulants Made Novices

(Peterboro Examiner, Thursday)

The beautiful Chapel of Mount St. Joseph, was the scene of a sublime and impressive ceremony this morning, when four young ladies became novices, renouncing the world, and entering a new life, which they devote entirely to Almighty God.

More important was the ceremony in which four novices, who have been on probation for about two years made their final vows, and are now Sisters of St. Joseph in every sense. This is the largest number that has ever entered the service of God here at one time, and the chapel was thronged with relatives and friends of the young ladies who were present to offer their congratulations that they had been found worthy to be called to the Sisterhood of St. Joseph.

MASS BY THE BISHOP.

The Chapel was very pretty in its ivory, white and gold details, with floral decorations, artistically arranged by some of the Sisters. The two ceremonies were performed by His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, during a low mass, which he celebrated, Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, and Rev. Father McGee, of Peterboro, and Rev. Father McColl, of Peterboro, who were deacons of honor to His Lordship, and assisted in the sacrifice of the mass. Rev. Dr. O'Brien as Master of Ceremonies, had many duties to perform. The four Postulants, who have been on probation for some months, and who become novices, are:

Miss Mary Lalonde, of Cornwall, who received the Sisterhood name of Sister Wilfred.

Miss Lena King, of Peterboro, Sister Mary Francis Xavier.

Miss Mary Kennedy, of St. John's, Newfoundland, Sister Mary Francis Margaret.

Miss Marie Dalton, Newmarket, N. B., Sister Mary Florence.

The ceremony by which these Postulants were made novices is not only sublime, but it is pathetic. These young ladies appeared in full nuptial attire, accompanied by maids of honor. During the service they were questioned by His Lordship, and expressed the desire to enter the Sisterhood. Soon after they left the Chapel and returned in the humble dress of a Sister of St. Joseph, and were accepted on probation of several years, when, if they are still filled with the holy desire, they take their final vow.

SPRITUAL BRIDES.

The second ceremony was that in which twelve novices took their final vows of obedience, chastity and poverty. Following is given the names by which they are known to the world and those by which they are known in the Order.

Miss Bridget Ryan, of Renfrew, Sister Mary Celestine.

Miss Gertrude Markle, of Thessalon, Sister Mary Noberta.

Miss Elizabeth Markle, of Thessalon, Sister Mary Constance.

Miss Mary Lonsdale, of Warkworth, Sister Mary Mercedes.

Miss Alice McCabe, of Grafton, Sister Mary Mildred.

Miss Bridget Laroche, of Mount St. Patrick, Renfrew, Sister Mary Eulalie.

Miss Mary Casey, of Peterboro, Sister Mary Marcelle.

Miss Ella Tomlin, of London, Sister Mary Delphine.

Miss Mary Ellen Crowley, of Peterboro, Sister Mary Angelica.

Miss Bridget Moreau, of Victoria, C.B., Sister Mary Laurencia.

Miss Mary Cannon, of Ennisville, Sister Mary of the Rosary.

Miss Lucy O'Sullivan, of St. Charles, Sister Mary Mary Francis.

The maids of honor were Misses Ellen Warrington, Mary Galvin, Emma Cook, Marie McCarthy, Florence Groux and Gerlie Condon.

Visiting clergy were: Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay; Rev. Father Heenan, of Sarnia; Rev. Father O'Sullivan, of Port Hope; Rev. Father Brannan, of St. Mary's; Rev. Father McDonnell, of Alexandria; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, Renfrew.

DUCKS SHOT OUT OF SEASON

Local Citizens Saw Hundreds of Wild Ducks Shot in Chemung Lake.

Peterboro Daily Times: Yesterday a prominent citizen was loud in his denunciation over the slaughter of wild ducks he witnessed last Monday at Chemung Lake. As our informant was driving round the head of Chemung Lake, near Hoates church, he saw flocks of black ducks that must have numbered hundreds, if not thousands. There was a heavy sea running on the lake, caused by the stiff wind blowing. This compelled the black ducks to seek safety in the bay near that church mentioned, around the rice fields. A man, although long before the legitimate season for duck shooting, was hidden among the wild rice and weeds. As the ducks would raise his position, he aimed and arched round and round, until he was in the little bay, this sportsman would let drive with his gun and was simply slaughtering the game by scores. Our informant could not see the man, but judged that he was using a single barrelled gun, as only one shot could be heard each time he murdered the ducks. The gentleman said he never saw wild ducks in such numbers or so tame before. Hundreds of them would gather about the shore, and about the shore of the lake and sometimes fly within thirty or forty feet of his car. He added that if the sportsman was any kind of a good shot he must have filled his boat or canoe. It is now up to the game warden to find out the man who was murdering the ducks.

A Band Tournament Judge.

The Port Hope Guide states that Bandmaster Tenwick, of the Port Hope band, sent a communication to Mr. Geo. McGuire, the judge at the recent Midland tournament, asking for criticism on his band, and that the judge, in reply, says that he didn't want the Grilla band to appear so inferior, so he marked down the Port Hope band. If this is so, McGuire belongs to a class of band judges who are extremely undecidable. He also advised the addition of several instruments.

ELDON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

MEMBERS TRANSACTED MUCH BUSINESS AT LAST SESSION

Drainage Matters Came Up for a Lot of Attention

Council met pursuant to adjournment in Plank's Hall, Lorneville, on Saturday, Aug. 10th, at the hour of 11 o'clock a.m. Members all present with Rev. in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting of July 15, were read and adopted.

The following reports were received from members of the Council as yet appointments of last Council meeting:

Reeve Hawkins reported on his and Council Ross' consultation with Burnstetter and Hector McFadyen about the flooding of McFadyen's property, stating they met Messrs. Ross and McFadyen on McFadyen's property, and they, together with Mr. Weeks, went over the ground. The Reeve gave a detailed account of the condition of the grounds and ditches. The matter was fully discussed.

Councillor Ross stated that McFadyen was complaining to him that there was more water carried through his property from the south on account of the road ditches than would naturally flow there. The matter was left in the hands of the township solicitor for the present to deal with.

The Reeve and Councillor Ross also reported on the Dan F. and John F. McEachern trouble. They both advised that McEachern's remedy was to start proceedings under the Ditches and Watercourse Act, as the Council could not deepen the road ditches to give them an outlet and at the same time keep within the limit of the statutes.

Councillor Spence reported on the Colin N. McDonald trouble. He drew a plan of the territory, showing the Council's natural water flow, and stated that he could not see that any damage occurred to Mr. McDonald's property on account of the road ditches. No action was taken.

Joseph Staples waited on the Council re the matter of the wire fence erected last year by Christopher Anderson opposite east side of lot 1, corner 6, Elidon, for which the Council refused to allow Anderson any compensation on account of the road allowance not being left the regulation width, as is required by the law of the municipality of Elidon re snow fences. Mr. Staples thought that Mr. Anderson was entitled to receive compensation, for he had measured the road allowance and found it 66 feet wide at the south end of the fence. Part of the fence, as far as he could judge was correct.

The Reeve explained to Mr. Staples that the matter of Anderson's fence had been disposed of last year, but stated that if Mr. Staples had authority for appearing in Mr. Anderson's interest, and if the Council desired to have the question for discussion, he drew Mr. Staples' attention to the fact that each Councillor had taken the declaration of office and that each one was in duty bound to give every man justice in the discharge of his duty, and when a Councillor reported on the fence in his ward the Council acted solely on his (the Councillor's) report in passing the same.

Councillor Ross stated that he had examined the fence and measured the road allowance in company with Mr. Staples, and found the road allowance too narrow, but said that if Mr. Graham's fence was in the correct place, then Anderson's fence was also in the correct place.

Councillor Robinson stated that he had examined the fence, and found it correct, and that the Council should have been completely satisfied, as the appeal had been decided by him long since; that the engineer should have followed the provisions of the Act and let the work not be completed in the time fixed by the completion; that the engineer to be appointed in the place of the one who should try and arrange not to trespass upon the lands of the Grand Trunk Railway Co. The work should be completed without further delay.

A petition from the following taxpayers of Elidon in Union School Section No. 9, W. J. Cunnaw, James Grant, M. J. A. C. Graham, D. Hickman and N. J. Noel, desiring that the boundaries of the U. S. S. No. 9, in the townships of Bevelly, Elidon and Elton, be altered, by adding thereto.

McDiarmid and Weeks, regarding the appeal against the equalization of the assessment of the County of Victoria, asking for the names of the assessors of Elidon and their addresses for the years 1905, 1906 and 1907.

Mr. H. Routh, on behalf of Hector McFadyen, offering to accept $150 in full of claim for damages for flooding his land, without prejudice.

E. McEachern, asking that the township engineer be put on the township drain No. 1, as an engine, as it will save further expense.

A. G. Cunnaw, O.L.S., township engineer, stating that he would give his attention to the Wm. McEachern drain on his return to Elidon in a few days.

Grand Trunk Railway Co., stating that the matter of their fence and railway crossing along road would be attended to at once.

J. D. McDermott, asking for a certified copy of the Palace Morris By-law of the township of Elidon.

J. R. McEachern, County Clerk, asking that a copy of the Assessment Roll of the township for year 1907 be sent to him as soon as possible.

An application from Malcolm McMillan for the office of collector for 1907 at a salary of $80.

An application from Wm. Manning for the office of collector for 1907, at a salary of $80.

Mrs. Owen Murphy, asking that her name be placed on the voters' list, as that she had been forced to leave her home and to ask Mr. McEachern to take the look of her vote, and also complaining that Mr. Cullen's house is on the road allowance and his family about the cattle going by along the road.

From the following, notifying the Council of their intention to erect wire fences as follows: Alex. Matheson, 120 rods along his property; Donald J. Smith, 180 rods along his property; Colin N. McDonald, 115 rods along lot 15, corner 7, Wm. R. 125 rods along lot 20, fourth quarter road.

GETTING READY FOR THE FAIR

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL LINDSAY CENTRAL EXHIBITION

Will Undoubtedly be the Greatest and Grandest of All.

Fall fair matters are commencing to claim a big share of our citizens' attention, while in the case of the energetic president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, Messrs. Johnston Ellis, Robt. Bryans and James Keith, they monopolize their waking moment to the exclusion of everything—except their prayers, of course. Senator McHugh, S. J. Fox, M. P. P., and various members of the Executive are likewise devoting their time and energy to Central Fair matters, and there is work for many more.

The great improvement effected in the appearance of main building, grand stand and judges' stand by painting same, is remarked by every visitor and passer-by. The color is red, with white trimmings.

Good progress is being made by the men engaged in the erection of the grandstand horse stables.

Secretary Keith reports an unprecedented demand from business men for space for displays in the main building. All the available room has been allotted and it is possible that another section adjacent to the judges' work department upstairs will have to be floored for the convenience of the many exhibitors still unsatisfied.

The speeding track has been receiving needed attention. The stones have been picked up and the sides and corners of the track levelled up. The course will be in first-class shape for the big events on Sept. 20 and 21.

Among the special prizes is one offered by James Winderman, of the new and best foot sired by his station, Improved Amber. The amount is a handsome one, and competition will be keen.

Ryrie Bros., the Toronto jewellers, have again donated handsome silver and bronze medals to the Fair. The former will go to the exhibition winning the largest number of prizes in sheep, and the latter will be awarded to the leading prize-winner in swine. The medals are on exhibition in Mr. A. L. Campbell's grocery window, west side.

Sylvester Bros. Mfg. Co. again offer one of their superior plows to the winner of first prize for general purpose team, owned by a farmer and exhibited by himself or son, speed and value to count, weight of animals not to exceed 1300 lbs. each. The second prize in this competition is given by the R. M. Reed Co., pair horse collars, value $5.00.

Expert lady drivers—of whom we have a number fit to compete with the best lady whip at New York Horse Show—have not been forgotten by the contributions of special prizes. The first prize for double team drive will receive a $6 prize given by J. Sutcliffe & Son; 2nd prize, $2, given by D. Simclair, Lady driver; single outfit will be awarded a $5 prize given by Baker & Bryans, while the winner of 2nd prize will receive $2 given by M. O'Hilloran.

STURGEON POINTERS EXCITED

Village Was all Agog Wednesday

—The Cause Thereof.

Residents at Sturgeon Point were in a flutter of pleasurable excitement yesterday, and for a time—between 1 and 3 p. m.—the tension was greater than it was on the days when Messrs. A. B. McIntyre, A. D. Kitchener and James Graham captured their monster specimens of the genus muskallonge.

The cause had naught to do with things piscatorial, however—it surpassed all everyday occurrences in the Colony, and even blurred the memories of the recent regatta.

Dear reader, you couldn't guess in a month so we will tell you all about it without further ado. The ecstatic thrills were due to the fact that there was to be a real wedding celebrated on the Point—the first in many years, although the popular Mayor, Mr. D. MacIver, and the energetic village clerk, Mr. H. Hopkins, have done all in their power to encourage matrimony by discouraging the preparation of hot dinners in favor of light lunches carried to the golf ground in their pockets. They have been cheered somewhat by the frequency with which newly married couples have chosen the Point as the spot for a quiet and delightful honeymoon, and it is possible that yesterday's event may lead to the appointment of another civic officer—that of issuer of marriage licenses.

Yesterday's nuptials were those of Mr. Robt. Graham, village constable and general factotum, who has been a resident of the Point and vicinity for many years, and Miss McQuade, an estimable person from the north of Ireland, who has been in service in the families of Messrs. J. C. Bruce and P. A. Clary, being highly esteemed as an excellent cook and one most careful of everything under her charge. The ceremony was performed by the Baptist minister from Fenelon Falls at Mr. Graham's cottage in the presence of about 30 invited guests, including favored Point residents and relatives and friends of the groom.

From a country roundabout, afterwards a dainty luncheon was served, when many kind wishes for the happiness of the bride and groom were extended. The guests were numerous, and all of them selected with a view to usefulness.

The Post begs to be permitted to join with Mr. Graham's many friends in wishing himself and young bride a long and happy wedded life.

ARBITRATION JUDGES.

Four to Be Appointed At Hague For American Continent.

The Hague, Aug. 28.—Joseph H. Choate and James Brown Scott, for the American delegation to the peace conference, have drawn up a new proposition with respect to the allotment of judges for the international high court of justice.

In this proposal the United States announces the willingness of all the countries of the American continent, including the United States, to have altogether four judges, to be appointed for the 21 countries comprising the continent, on the understanding, arrived at through diplomatic channels, that this will reduce the matter of judges to 15.

The proposal does not go any further, but it is understood that the Americans hope the other continents will take similar action, that Asia will be allotted two judges and Europe nine.

The Hague, Aug. 28.—R. Barbosa (Brazil) protested against the appointment of judges as projected by the American proposal, insisting that this question must be settled in a manner which fully recognized the equality of the powers.

The meeting was then adjourned until Sept. 2.

SHOCKING SUICIDE.

Clergyman Cuts His Throat In View of Playing Children.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—Rev. Dr. Edward H. Jewett, for fifteen years professor of pastoral theology in the General Theological Seminary in New York, committed suicide Sunday by cutting his throat.

Dr. Jewett was seventy-eight years old, and was living with his son-in-law, the Rev. Angus M. Porter, rector of the Episcopal church at Redlands.

The act was committed at Manhattan Beach, eighteen miles from this city, and was witnessed by a thousand persons, many of them children playing along the beach.

Dr. Jewett was much impressed by the so-called Oeler theory and frequently remarked: "I think that some way should be found out of an unbearable existence for old people who have outlived their usefulness. I think it should be provided that old men should be hit over the head with a club and mercifully killed."

He had suffered for several years from chronic rheumatism.

Dr. Jewett was born in Nottingham, England, in 1830. He was the author of several works on religious thought and worship.

Two Cobalt Accidents.

Cobalt, Aug. 28.—Alex. Groulx, of middle age, who lived at Latchford, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon by being struck on the head with a piece of ore, which weighed about a quarter of a pound. Groulx was walking on the road which crosses the railway and leads to the Nipissing dock, when a blast occurred on the Nipissing property and hurled the fatal chunk of rock across the Cobalt Lake. The rock struck on the forehead of the unfortunate man's skull, crushing it in and also caused a slight abrasion near the nose. He lived only a few minutes after the accident.

Yesterday, while near the Nipissing landing on Cobalt Lake, Moses Menard, foreman of the Bailey-Cobalt, was seriously injured by a large chunk of rock, loosed from a blast, on the Government right of way. The rock struck his foot with such force that it not only badly smashed it, but forced it through the bottom of the boat. The boat at once sunk and Menard was picked up by the Nipissing launch.

M. C. R. RESPONSIBLE

Gross Negligence Charged in Verdict of Jury at Inquest.

CAUSE OF ESSEX DISASTER

Explosive Was Sent as Ordinary Freight—Employees Took No Extra Precautions—May Institute Criminal Proceedings Against Company—Superintendent Admits Car Was Negligently Handled.

Windsor, Aug. 24.—Gross negligence on the part of the Michigan Central was charged in the verdict of the coroner's jury at the Essex inquest yesterday afternoon. Witnesses were called to testify that the car from Black Rock to Essex. The evidence went to show that it was four days on the way, being sent on the morning of Aug. 6, reaching St. Thomas on the evening of Aug. 7, and remaining there until the morning of the ninth, then being shipped to Essex, where it was kept until the next morning—the day of the explosion.

It went all the distance as way freight, stops being made at Welland, St. Thomas and Ridgeway before reaching Essex to unload and receive consignments.

The regulations concerning shipments of explosives were produced and called for special construction of cars. The evidence went to the effect that no precautions were taken by the railway employees.

Six trainmen were called, and only one had seen the regulations. Conductor Barry said it had been the rule to send a dispatch ahead of dynamite cars, but this had not been done.

A case of dynamite belonging to the same consignment was produced, and an expert, Frederick Julian, employed by the consignors, the Pluto Powder Co., testified that the dynamite was properly manufactured.

Superintendent Adams of the Michigan Central admitted that the car was not handled as it should have been, but he would not admit the explosion was due to that.

The jury went out 20 minutes before returning the verdict. Crown Attorney Rodd would not make a statement as to whether he would institute criminal proceedings or not.

The verdict against the railway company caused no surprise, particularly in view of the fact that claims agents of the Michigan Central have been on the ground ever since the explosion, quickly making what arrangements for settlement were possible with those whose property was destroyed or damaged. Claims amounting to over $20,000 have already been settled in this way, and it is expected that practically a full settlement will be reached without recourse to the courts.

FOUR MINERS BURIED.

Caught in Cave-In in Pennsylvania Mine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 24.—Four of the miners who were Thursday caught in a cave-in in No. 14 tunnel of the Pennsylvania Coal Co., near here, are still entombed, and it is believed they are dead. The voice of James Boyle, one of the entombed men, was heard at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, but since then silence has reigned in the vicinity of the cave-in. Boyle's companions are Peter Flynn, John Koenig and Joseph Koenig. The cave-in was caused by a heavy fall of rock. Six men were entombed, but two of them crawled from under some of the debris after several hours' effort. One of these, Michael Naghorn, was badly injured, but the other man escaped unhurt. Rescuing parties working in shifts labored all night to free the men still in the mine.

CRASHED INTO BARGE.

Steamer Imperial's Steering Gear Went Wrong.

Montreal, Aug. 24.—The steamer Imperial, belonging to the St. Lawrence Navigation Co., rammed and sank a barge yesterday afternoon in the St. Lawrence River. The Imperial was leaving for Quebec on her regular trip, and had just got nicely started when her steering gear went wrong and she headed at full speed for the dock. Her engines were reversed too late, and she crashed into the barge, which was unloading brick, and sank there. There were six people on board the barge, but they escaped in time. The barge lies 35 feet under water, with 60,000 bricks on board. The Imperial backed off and proceeded on her way to Quebec, as if nothing happened.

He was directing his gang of men and failed to get out of the way of the west-bound Sarnia local. He was hurled 50 feet and had his back and ribs broken, his skull fractured and his collar bone broken. He died in Victoria Hospital, London, a few minutes after arriving there.

Deceased was 70 years of age and had been railroading for thirty years.

MEETS AWFUL DEATH.

Young Man Decapitated in Elevator While at Work.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—While the body of Thomas Davidson descended down the elevator shaft of the Traders' Bank building, his head rested on a cross-beam on the ninth floor, having been severed as though by a guillotine by one of the heavy weights of the elevator.

Davidson, who had been but a short while in this country, engaged at the Traders' Bank building about two weeks ago, to do general work about the building.

Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock he was washing windows and cleaning about one of the elevator shafts, and to do this had to stand on top of the elevator and move it down as he cleaned.

He had reached the ninth floor, when in some way he stuck his head too far out and the weight of the elevator in the next shaft struck him on the back of the neck. His head was severed by the blow, and the headless trunk fell down the shaft, while the head remained on a cross-beam at the ninth floor.

Nobody seemed to be aware of the accident at the time it happened, but a young man who sells papers at the building on the ground floor heard the body fall to the bottom of the shaft and gave the alarm.

Davidson was 23 years old.

FOUR KILLED—MANY INJURED.

Panic Follows Explosion at Powder Works in Frisco.

Sau Francisco, Aug. 26.—Four persons were killed and many injured in an explosion at the Dupont Dynamite works at Sebastopol, 16 miles from the city yesterday, and the plant set on fire. When the three thousand employees in the plant of the California Fruit Cannery Association, in this city, heard the explosion they thought there was another earthquake, and rushed wildly for the street. Many were trampled upon and injured, none fatally.

At least thirteen persons were severely hurt at the cannery panic. Ten women were removed to hospitals, and three other women were treated at the cannery.

When the shock of the explosion was first felt, several Italian employees went into the street to investigate. On re-entering the building they said it was an earthquake and this started a stampede.

During the efforts to get outside a few men drew knives and wounded several persons. Others jumped into a chute used to send boxed cans from the second floor of the establishment, and were landed in a heap at the bottom.

ALLOTMENT OF JUDGES.

Union of American Continent in Arbitration Court.

The Hague, Aug. 26.—Joseph H. Choate is working on a new plan for the allotment of judges for the international high court of justice under which the representatives of the United States and those of all the Latin-American countries will form one group. This plan, it is believed, will dissipate any feeling arising from the previous proposed allotment.

This union of the whole American continent, it is considered, would be of great importance, not only in the establishment of the court, but as a great political move, rallying around the United States, as it would, all the states of Central and South America. Such a plan would insure the 21 court the immediate adhesion of 21 countries. Adding to these countries, Germany, Austria, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and Russia, which are also favorable to the proposition, this would give the court the adhesion of two-thirds of the countries of the world, without taking into account other countries whose support is most likely, such as the Netherlands, Spain, Turkey and Switzerland.

Strike Settled.

Montreal, Aug. 26.—The Valleyfield strike has been settled and the men agreed to return to work this morning. On the whole, the Montreal Cotton Co., has won, as the men have abandoned their demand for 10 per cent. general increase. This was the main dispute in the strike. The company, however, agrees to pay the mule spinners, who are a small part of the strikers, the 10 per cent. advance. The company agrees to submit disputes and claims not properly looked into by the arbitrator to arbitration under the same Act.

During the strike the cotton mills, employing some 2,500 men, have been closed down.

Docks Causing Trouble.

Kenora, Aug. 26.—The question of what to do with the Dockhobos is growing serious. Saturday the charge of wilfully trespassing on the C. P. R. tracks was brought against the party of 34 at the police court. They pleaded guilty and were remanded in custody until to-day, when it is thought the Government will have to come to some decision in regard to deporting them.

Women and children are allowed their liberty, but they herd around the prison.

FOUGHT IN MID-AIR

J. Hutchinson's Terrible Struggle With Huge Snake.

SWUNG OVER DEEP CHASM

Poisonous Reptile Crawled Down Rope and Attacked Him—Was Preparing to Lay Dynamite Blast—Pit Was One Hundred and Fifty Feet Deep—Fought While Clinging to Rope—Narrow Escape.

New York, Aug. 24.—A despatch to The Herald from Trenton, N. J., says—Half a dozen laborers and fifty or more convicts at the stone quarries of the Mercer County workhouse farm yesterday helplessly watched John Hutchinson, blaster, as he fought for half an hour in mid-air with a big mountain pit snake, a poisonous species, that had crawled down a rope ladder to attack him as he was swinging half-way to the bottom of a chasm one hundred and fifty feet in depth, preparing to place a dynamite blast.

None was able to render aid, and Hutchinson was obliged to fight alone until he beat off the reptile with an iron drill in his one hand, while he clung to a rope with the other. He dared not drop the dynamite lest he cause an explosion that would have blown him to pieces, and he was obliged to keep a tight hold on the rope or fall to the bottom of the pit. He slipped the dynamite into his pocket, and as the snake dropped within his reach he struck it with a small drill. The swinging of the rope spoiled his aim and he missed. He struck again and again, the snake's progress was impeded, and finally it uncoiled from the rope and dropped to the pit below.

Hutchinson signalled for help and was drawn to the top in an almost exhausted condition. As he stepped back two other pit snakes struck at him, but his heavy boots blocked their fangs. They were quickly killed.

MURDERER WAS FOILED.

Victim's Prayers Led to Timely Arrival of Assistance.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—Prayer prevented the escape of a prisoner from the Mt. Holly jail early yesterday morning. George R. Clark, who recently attempted to murder Thomas J. Barrell, had his plans to flee from the institution, but his threat to kill Joseph Misler, his cell-mate, proved his undoing.

Clark was engaged in removing bricks from a chimney in his cell. The noise awoke Misler, and when Clark realized that his effort to escape had been discovered, he removed the blade from a razor, rushed toward Misler and commanded him to pray, saying: "I am going to kill you and then commit suicide."

Misler prayed so fervently that Charles Williams, a "trusty" prisoner, heard his voice. Williams summoned Deputy Sheriff Fleetwood and Turkey Gaskell, and the crime was frustrated.

KILLED BY COUNTERFEITERS.

Deserter From French Army Brutally Murdered.

Palermo, Aug. 24.—The finding yesterday of two half-burned chests containing portions of a human body in the forest of Belletempo brought to light a brutal murder and led to the discovery of an extensive plant for the manufacture of spurious bank notes. Italy has recently been flooded with counterfeit money. The victim of the murder was identified as Henry Francois, a deserter from the French army.

A local engraver, his wife and two merchants were arrested both as the assassins and as counterfeiters. The motive of the crime is alleged to have been the fear of betrayal by Francois, who was a member of the gang.

Two Fires at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23.—Two fires yesterday, caused by the explosion of gasoline in clothes' pressing establishments, caused damage estimated at $250,000, and for a time threatened the entire east end section of this city. The three-story brick building was destroyed, and 14 employees were rescued from the windows by firemen.

The second fire, before it was under control, wiped out seven buildings. Four men were hurt during the fighting of the fire.

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—Antonio Bardesoli, for stabbing Arthur Charbonneau 12 times with a stiletto, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Gunn to eighteen months in Central Prison. POWER OF THE LORDS Question to Be Forced to an Early Issue.

FEW MEASURES ARE PASSED

Serious Political Problem in Britain—Cabinet Ministers Make Vigorous Speeches—Will Ask the Electors for Verdict—Bills Thrown Out by the Upper House—Campaign for Reform Outlined.

London, Aug. 26.—Of the many measures promised in the King's speech at the opening of the present session of Parliament, which will be prorogued next Wednesday, but few have reached the statute books.

Like the education bill and the plural voting bill, the most prominent measures of the last session, and which were thrown out by the House of Lords, the Irish council bill, which was to have been the most important piece of legislation at this session, met with early defeat, but in a different way. The education and plural voting bills gave the Liberals an opening for a campaign against the House of Lords, which was indicated by the speeches of Herbert H. Asquith, former Home Secretary; Richard B. Haldane, Secretary of State for War; Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell, Winston Churchill, at various meetings throughout the country Saturday night, is to be carried on vigorously during the recess.

A licensing bill, the object of which was to have been to diminish the evils of drink—another question on which the two Houses promised to clash, and on which the King's speech intimated would come up during the session—was put off on account of the pressure of work; but the Government found in the Scotch small landholders' bill, which Lord Rosebery made his reappearance to attack, a substitute which the House of Commons passed by a large majority, but which was withdrawn by the Government on account of the antagonistic attitude of the peers and the antagonism shown in Scotland and throughout the kingdom by the Labor party. This action of the House of Lords becomes a weapon for attack in the campaign for the reform of the Upper Chamber.

The Irish universities' bill, which also was catalogued in the King's speech, was not passed.

Among other bills which came up was the Irish evicted tenants' bill, which the House of Lords so radically amended that there is little likelihood of the House of Commons finally accepting it in its altered condition.

London, Aug. 26.—That it is the intention of the Government to force the question of curtailing the power of the House of Lords to an issue was made apparent in speeches delivered in various parts of England Saturday.

Herbert H. Asquith, former Home Secretary; Richard B. Haldane, Secretary of State for War; Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrell, and Winston Churchill, all emphasized in their speeches that the claim of the House of Lords on equal legislative rights with the House of Commons was the most serious political question of the day.

Mr. Churchill, in speaking at Cheshire, near Manchester, said that the bills rejected by the House of Lords would be re-passed by the House of Commons without delay until the time came to ask the country for a verdict.

Speaking at Corsham, Mr. Asquith asked if the people intended to allow the leader of a discredited minority in the House of Commons to strangle their bills and add to the miseries of the country. He declared that the Government proposed to give the ultimate power to the House of Commons, making it prevail during the course of a single Parliament.

The building was occupied by the International Harvester Co., a restaurant and other small concerns. The fire made rapid progress. The building occupied by the Toledo Club and the newspaper offices of The News-Bee and The Times were filled with smoke and threatened with destruction. The loss is well covered by insurance.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council of Ottawa the statement was made that girls of 10 and 12 years of age are employed in local mica factories to the detriment of their health and in contravention of the Factories Act, and that in one case at least the reward for eleven days' service amounted to only $2.13.

The Ottawa delegates to the next Dominion Trades and Labor Congress will urge for united action on the part of the Federal and Provincial authorities for an increase in the appointment of factory inspectors, and that the latter be given unlimited powers both in regard to inspection and prosecution.

CHAOS IN MOROCCO

Sultan's Brother Marching to Meet the French Troops.

A GERMAN SHIP CAPTURED

Was Carrying Cargo of Rifles Under Cover of Spanish Flag—Desperate Encounters With Tribesmen—Arabs Display Reckless Courage—Mowed Down by Hundreds—Europeans Ask for Warship.

Casablanca, Aug. 26.—Absolute fearlessness continues to characterize the attacks delivered by the tribesmen upon the French forces encamped here, and Friday bands of Arabs made isolated reckless advances. A detachment of one hundred natives, while stealing in toward the city, were ambushed near the beach by the French. A merciless fire mowed them down. Those who were not killed fled precipitately, but many dead were left behind. Those who face the French shell fire do not return.

Continuing his offensive campaign, Gen. Druide Saturday pushed his reconnoitering parties four miles out from his centre. The main body of the enemy was not sighted.

Mulai Hafag's Plans.

Tangier, Aug. 26.—A courier from Morocco City, who arrived here Saturday, confirmed the reports that Mulai Hafag, a brother of the Sultan, Abd Hel Asiz, had been proclaimed Sultan on Aug. 16. After announcing his assumption of the throne by a salute of four guns he immediately formed a court, with Ben Jabbar Oursak, Pasha of Kasbah, as Vizier.

The influence of Abd Hel Asiz in the south is disappearing, and Mulai Hafag has declared his intention to appoint his brother, Mohammed Kalifoff, and then proceed to take command of the Moorish forces besieging Casablanca.

The captain of the cruiser did not like the appearance of the ship and sent a party to board her. They found that the vessel, which was a German, was carrying a cargo of French rifles of the Gros pattern. It is stated that the arms are the property of the Moroccan Government, and were being taken to Mogador.

HAS THE BEST TARIFF

Declares Mr. Asquith, Speaking of Canada.

BRITAIN AND PREFERENCE

Chancellor of Exchequer Says None Can Be Given on Staple Foods or Raw Materials—Colonies Cannot Admit Competition on the Same Level With Their Own Industries—Praises Sir Wilfrid.

London, Aug. 26.—Mr. Asquith, speaking on Saturday night, referred to Laurier's pronouncement that none but British would have given autonomy to South Africa. Laurier, he said, then spoke with the voice of empire, not with the voice of the small, dis-appointed faction at home.

Alluding to preference, Mr. Asquith said the United Kingdom couldn't adopt any form of preference involving taxation on corn, meat and raw material and the colonists, on their part, could give no form of preference, which would admit the British manufacturer or level terms into competition with their own protected industries. That was the principle upon which the Canadian, best of all colonial tariffs, was based.

Its principle is still more conspicuous than the new Australian tariff.

If the Government left office to-day he would wish them to be judged by whether they hadn't justified the confidence of the nation in colonial administration.

UNIONIST TRIUMPH.

Election at Bury St. Edmunds Won on Tariff Issue.

Bury St. Edmunds, Eng., Aug. 26.—The Unionists scored a triumph here Saturday when their candidate for a seat in the House of Commons, Hon. Walter Guinness, received 1,831 votes as against 741 cast for W. E. Yates, the Liberal candidate. This is a majority of 890 as against the majority of 890 obtained by Capt. F. W. G. Hervey, Unionist, in the last general election.

Capt. Hervey succeeded to the peerage upon the death of the Marquis of Bristol, and the seat consequently became vacant.

The campaign attracted a great deal of interest, and was fought out on the question of tariff reform. Mr. Guinness is an out and out protectionist.

his last year's overcoat with an intense yearning. The crowd was a large one, but fairly liberal, contributing nearly $6 for the needs of the league. Of this the ladies gave their little share, and Joe Rodenick is to buy the ice cream for them next summer.

To revert to the game—or rather slaughter—the Orientals put up the gunky, punkiest ball they have ever exhibited this summer, and but for one bad mess, their opponents did the opposite and played decent ball. Their hitting was the feature. By this win the C. L. S. are now tied for the championship with the other team to play with the Oriental.

It was just like getting money from home in a box car for the great and good last night. The team they had to play for the Easterners was a jolly one. Bosses Dwyer is just a running over with happiness, and has taken a new lease of life.
The Oriental supporters little expected the set-back, but still retain the utmost faith in their pet.

In justice to the Orientals it must be said they were as far off color as they could possibly get. Their defenses by the Sylvesters seemed to have taken the heart out of them.
The horseshoe must surely have been lost. Suggitt was sore and stiff and pitched a poor game. Their hitting was fair, but out of place.

Duck pitched the game of his life for the winners and fielded his position with surprising accuracy. He had seven assists and no errors. O-Neil, Cain and Killan cover yards of ground in the infield, while Leo Cole in the central garden, had a beat on every fly. The surprise of the evening, however, was McIlhenny on first, who certainly deserves credit for the amount of ball put up.

The Orientals came first to bat and went out 1, 2, 3 on pop outs. The C.
L. S. started right from the word go, and pitched up runs. Four batters were out in the first. Cole got first and O'Neil struck him. Cain hitting him between about and third and striking the others. Cain and O'Neil also scored. In the second Kiddor drove out a two-bagger for the Cobcocks. Parkins got a hit and O'Neil's hit and a wild return brought in two runs after two were out. Suggitt was nailed at the plate as he was about to complete the circuit. This was the only scoring the Orientals did. The C. L. S. gled in one more in the second, three in the third and two in the fourth for luck.

WIDEAWAKES 10, C. L. S. 6.
The Wideawakes are "hoo-dooed"— decidedly so, the C. L. S. think. The latter received a severe drubbing at their hands last week. Darkness was made the excuse to retire in dispute.

The crowd that assembled to witness the contest was a large one.
Both teams had their full quota of fans, but the C. L. S. supporters had not much of a chance to exhibit their vocal powers. They did their best for their nine, however.

The Wideawakes took a notion to swat the leather, and as soon as they loosened up, the C. L. S. went straight up on an aerial trip. Langdon, of the Wideawakes, was the heavy hitter of the evening, and drove the ball out twice for two and three-baggers.
"Melly" Moynes, Soanes, Houge and Williams took their turn in making good drives. Two runs were tallied in the second to the C. L. S. one. In the fourth was where the real excitement occurred, and when the smoke cleared, the red and greys had flammered out six runs.

The C. L. S. got two in the third and three in the fourth. The Wide-awakes then came to bat for the last time and scored two runs, and a man was on third with none out, when the C. L. S. quit, refusing to play, and Umpire Butler called the game.
A half innings more had to be played.

The game was a complete surprise to the C. L. S., who never dreamed of their opponents showing such form as they did last night. Killan and O'Neil were decidedly off color for the C. L. S. the former mishandling the ball four times, each error being costly.

The Wideawakes strenuously objected to having the game unfinished, as the C. L. S. had been doing all in their power to prolong the last innings. Duck going so far as to throw the ball over the fence, playing for darkness. Just one half an innings more had to be played but the Wide-awakes appeared to have too big a lead and Manager Jos. Dwyer asked that the game be called.

Along the base lines, particularly at first base like a mad dog, and and their conduct was disgraceful at times, they hurling epithets at the players.

Koyl for the Wideawakes pitched a good hard game. His support was listless at times.

PETERBORO 6—LINDSAY 4.

These old-time rivals met for the second time of the season on the Peterboro diamond August 22, and the "Peters" pulled out two runs to the good.

In the holiday season it was hard to get nine players together and a pitcher was not available, but "Pony" Workman jumped into the breach and pitched a whirlwind of a game.
The locals led by a good margin at several stages of the game, but a few juicy errors gave the Electric city some of the game.

That the score was so close came as a surprise to local fans. Fast fielding and good batting, however, helped the locals.

McIlhenny, Burns and Burridge were on the points for Peterboro and was touched up frequently. Quinn's ward arm was saved for Port Hope's benefit Saturday.

PETERBORO—LINDSAY GAME.

Examiner: In an exhibition game that was utterly devoid of any exciting features, the local ball team yesterday beat Hero. Workman's band of Lindsay Red Stockings by 6 runs to 4, before a fair sized crowd, who seemed to have left their voices and their enthusiasm at home. The game was not as interesting as the class score would lead one to believe, the fielding being rather loose. The Red Socks led for the greater part of the game, being two to the good in the first of the eighth. Peterboro got two in their half and won out in the ninth with one down.

The locals had a patched up lineup and did not play their best game. Red errors gave Lindsay several runs, and on the other hand, poor base running lost the locals several counters. The men never forgot Saturday's game with Cobourg, and did not exert themselves very much.

A DIFFICULT FEAT.

Jimmy Ryan, while playing right field for Chicago, performed a clever feat, leaping into the bushes at Washington and capturing a fly. But Ryan's greatest catch was made on the old Staten Island grounds. The centre field there was built out over the beach and was an inclined plane of boards, which slanted up from the field. Ryan, who was playing in right, saw a long line drive going outward. The centre fielder, who had run almost to the edge of the boards, stopped. Ryan, however, thought he could reach the ball. He raced across and up, leaped, and with the ball disappeared over the edge of the planks. His feat mysteried the referee. Ryan was standing in three feet of water, as the tide was at flood, and holding the ball. He waded out and, in spite of the ardent protest of the Metropoli-tans, was awarded the catch.

A NEW AILMENT

Every once and awhile some versatile genius crops up in baseball and brings out something new.

A Mr. A. J. Kennedy, a Philadelphia pitcher, has invented a new ailment.
Kennedy, whose arms and shoulders have apparently been bad, has just been looked over by a physician. The doctor says that the muscles back of Kennedy's shoulders are so abnormally developed that they have pushed one of his ribs out of position. The doctor replaced the rib and Kennedy is now out of business altogether.

The only fear now is that some brilliant talker may overdo the muscles of his face talking to the umpire and wrench his jaw bone out of place.

TOOT CAUGHT FOR COBOURG

In a Midland League game in Peterboro on Saturday, the home team defeated Cobourg by 14 runs to 6.
Jack Toft, formerly of the Toronto Eastern League team, caught for Cobourg, while the Peters batted three pitchers out of the box. Toft, of Providence, twirled five innings for the losers and was touched up hard by Fisher and Burridge were on the firing line for Peterboro. O'Hearn, of St. Mary's, Toronto, held down the first bag for the winners and made five hits, one of them being a homer.
Peterboro will now play a series of three games with Port Hope for the championship of the Midland League.

A TEAM IN HIMSELF

This season has demonstrated the fact that the great House Wagner, of Pittsburgh, is without a doubt the mightiest ball player in the business from every point of view. His only rival for years has been Lajone, but the repeated injuries that the Frenchman has sustained every year put him out of the running.

THE COMMITTEE'S DECISION

The T. B. L. executive committee met last Monday and considered the recent C. L. S.—Wideawake game.
The game was ordered to be played over again from the fourth innings to the seventh. The score at that period of the game being 6-8 in the Wideawakes' favor.

C. L. S. 7, WIDEAWAKES 4.

Excitement, more, and that is putting it very mild, was shown at last Monday's ball game. The C. L. S. in full strength and an additional C. S., were there with a merry band of fans and mothers, certain of pulling down the two run lead of the Wide-awakes from the game of Friday last.
Wideawakes appeared with seven men only, two of their numbers, Nesbitt and Koyl, not showing up at all.
Koyl was away for some unaccountable reason; Nesbitt was missing, though he was in town. It did not entirely cripple the team, but left the Wideawakes open for a protest, as they used two men without authorization, Stoddard and N. Menzies.

The Wideawakes opened up on Duck in the first innings for three well-earned runs and things looked good for Dicky Butler's Braves, but the C. L. S. came back strong with the willow, and with the aid of a few errors thrown in, scored six runs, leaving them one to the good all round. The Wideawakes then got down to business after being ret-ried in order in second innings. In the third and fourth innings, with a succession of third innings, with a succession of hits and good base running, they hit three more runs, putting them in the lead. The C. L. S. came to bat for their last innings, and on an overthrow, J. O'Leary made the outcast. Right here, let it be said, Langdon, who proved to be a find,

got down to business, and with a man on third, which, if he scored it would have tied the game, struck out the hard hitting O'Keefe and Duck.
Great excitement prevailed all through the game and either team were likely to win at any stage, as they both appeared to have their batting clothes on.

THE C.L.S. PROTEST.

To the President and Executive Committee of the Lindsay Town League:

Dear Sirs,—On behalf of the C. L. S.
Baseball Club, I wish to protest the game played on Aug. 27th, on the following grounds:

1st.—Playing Stoddard, who is a member of the Orientals.

2nd.—Playing Menzies without a certificate.

3rd.—I maintain the executive have no power to change an umpire's decision on a game, as was done in this case, thereby making the position of umpire a farce.—Signed.

JOS. DWYER,
Manager C. L. S., B.B.C.

FOR THE FANS

The Maybes and Express Nine tonight.

Doc Newton won his game for New York recently.

Harris, the Providence pitcher, is a clever man.

Report bills Rube Kissinger for New York next season.

Burns, Peterboro's catcher, floats
the ball in great shape.

Workman struck Burridge out twice yesterday, in Peterboro.

"They're lightning on bases" said Capt. Bert Menzies of the Peterboro club.

Herb Workman left for Sutton last night to play a game for that town's nine.

Sentelle, known as "Peaucluck", of fame as a third baseman, may play with Toronto.

Lounds the Toronto pitcher, who will report next spring, has won twelve and lost eight games for Harrieburg in the Tri-States.

Mitchell of Cincinnati was a weebit under the weather Tuesday. The best he could do was to clip out three singles, a double and a home run.

The Express Nine brimmed the May-bess August 21, to the tune of 7 to 2.
The winners played stellar ball and are going to make a bid for the Healey trophy.

The Massey-Harris baseball team, of Toronto, are negotiating for a game here on Labor Day with the Sylvesters. Mr. Percy Skitch, formerly of Iowa, figures on the Toronto line-up.

American League news just now runs about 80 per cent slump. The Naps have had their regular mid-season slump; the Tigers are being played for their fall slump; Washington and St. Louis are in their chronic slump condition, while the Pirates are showing sporadicness, and at not too great intervals.

The secret of successful batting has been discovered by Frank Chance. Hit the ball in the eye, he says. Other authorities say hit the ball on the chest and others hit it in the scapplexus, while there are those who declare that the only correct and resultable spot to apply the patch is the trade mark.

Walter Johnson, the new pitcher of the Washingtons, who has done excellent work in the two games he has pitched for the Cantillons, is described by Jack Warner as being of loose build and with a free, easy delivery. "He reminds me more of Christy Mathewson than anybody else," says Warner, "and has a barrel of speed."

They have not got room enough for the spectators who crowd to the ball games in Detroit. A big planing mill and lumber yard, adjoining the park back of right and centre fields, has been appeared. The ground has been leveled and the fence will be moved back about 150 feet. Though no more seats can be provided, there will be plenty of standing room. The diamond is to be moved out this fall and a Joundecker grandstand erected during the winter.

Here is how the New York correspondent of Sporting News hands it out to our old friend, "Doc" Newton:
"Newton looked to me as if he had just tumbled out of bed when Gif-fith sent him a pitch. He acted as if he had a pain in his head as he lobbed some fat ones over the plate, which the Browns hammered all over the lot. Giffith, however, allowed the physician to stay in the box until the visitors had away with seven runs to win the game. The Cobcocks went to the slab and did fine work."

Eddie Karger made a new record for the present season in both major leagues in the second game when he hit Boston down without a hit in the first seven innings of this contest. Not only that, but he did not give a single free pass, not a runner reached first, and it was a pity that the game was not allowed to go the full nine innings, as he was going in such excellent fashion that it was all but certain he would have finished out the two remaining innings in the style he pitched the seven. McIlhenny's share of the record-breaking lay in the fact that he won two consecutive games on two consecutive days, a feat which has not been performed by any other league pitcher this season.
As for the Cardinals, the team smug-ged its own winning record for the reason to smotherers by winning five straight games, six out of the last seven, and getting an even break on the series at home, with nine games won and nine games lost.—St.
Louis Globe-Democrat.

they don't meet in a league game

HOCKEY

The International Hockey League, of Lake Linden, Mich., has refused the offer of a handsome cup to be played for as emblematic of the international championship, the men financing the League not wishing to endorse liquor in any form.

RUNNING.

Tom Longboat failed to lower the American four-mile record Aug. 22,
the Indian is erratic.

"Curly" Elliott, the "winged mid-get", will once more run against the pick of Victoria and Holliburn counties in the five mile race during the fair this fall.

GENERAL SPORTING NOTES.

Miss May Sulton, the champion woman tennis player, is in Toronto.

O. H. Latremoulin, of the Toronto police force, is the champion athlete of the police forces of Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

THE ROAD RACE.

The five-mile road race, billed for the Agricultural exhibition this fall promises to be a drawing card. Many contestants intend entering. The race takes place on the last day of the fair, the start taking place from the foot of Kent-st. at 1 o'clock. The course is up Kent-st. to Adelaide-st.
to the Agricultural Park. The race to be finished on the half-mile track.
The first prize is a gold watch, second a silver watch.

A THOUSAND-MILE WALK

For the benefit of science, Dan O'- Leary, 62 years old, pedestrian, who has walked a total of 93,000 miles during his lifetime, will attempt to walk a thousand miles in 1,000 consecutive hours on a Cincinnati track.

The track will be padded with tan bark, and in the centre will be a cent with provision where O'Leary will rest each hour after he has completed the mile. Each day physical examinations will be made and a record kept. Local physicians declare it impossible for a man to accomplish the feat, but O'Leary says he will do it. The start will be made next week.

IN CAMP AT "MUD TURTLE."

Lindsay Party 'Revell'-ing in Ozone and Pure Enjoyment.

Camp Iola, Mud Turtle Lake,
Camp Iola is situated on little Mud Turtle Lake, near what they call the "Chutes", some three miles above Coboconk, and is composed of eight joly fellows, as follows: Messrs. C. Revell, W. Revell, Lindsay, T. Revell, Cleveland, J. Watson, Leamington,
A. Fisher, C. Fisher, B. Terry, W.
Perkins, Lindsay.

Since arriving the fishing has been splendid. The first day Cam' Revell caught a 10-lb. lunge, and on Thursday Bill Revell caught a 4-lb.
bass.

Thursday the two "redskins", Cam
Revell and Bill Perkins went to Coboconk after grub. The charms of the Cobcoconk glen groves are indeed, consequently they didn't get home till after dark. The rest of the boys at camp had to get out and gather grasshoppers for bait next morning.

Miss B. Brown, Lindsay, and lady friend visited the camp on Saturday.
Mr. C. Perkins and Mr. M. H. Revell, of Lindsay, spent Sunday at camp.

These Revells, commonly known as "Teddy", arrived from Cobcoconk on Tuesday.

Mr. J. Watson, of Leamington, had the misfortune to upset out of the canoe. He got wet and sported around in pajamas for the balance of the day.

The boys visited the Holland camp
a mile up the river, on Tuesday evening, and had a splendid time telling fish stories around the camp fire.
Some of the boys are leaving for Friday morning at five for Scudville Lake, some twenty miles above camp, for a two days' fish. The fish story will follow later.

"Cheer" Terry has gained five pounds since coming to camp.

A grand regatta was held on Tuesday on Big Mud Turtle Lake, and "Hogart" Revell carried off the honors in the upset race.

In reference to the cooking department, we must not forget to mention Mr. Fisher, who excels in making apple sauce. "CAMP SCRIBE"

WORE FUR COATS AT CHURCH

But Crops in the West are Still Safe
From Frost.

The following from the Peterboro Examiner refers to a gentleman who formerly resided in Mariposa, and was well known in Lindsay:

Mr. Wm. Byres, who is largely interested in farming in the Canadian West, is receiving daily reports of the conditions there, and he stated to the Examiner that so far he had been notified of no serious frost, and the crops were represented to be satisfactory in the majority of cases.

It is true that at Red Deer there was snow on Sunday and at Calgary of lady wore her fur coat to church —but there was very little frost, certainly not enough to do any injury to the crops, and Mr. Byres is convinced that the western crops will come through the ordeal in good condition. The danger point has not yet been passed, but it will only be a matter of a few days.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, AUGUST 30, '07

YOU ARE INVITED.

During Lindsay's big fair, which takes place on the 19th, 20th and 21st of next month, many of our subscribers will visit town. To all such we extend a hearty welcome to see "The Post" in its new home. We think we have fine premises, and we wish to have the pleasure of showing our friends what a modern, well equipped office their family paper has.

OUR VANISHING NAVIGATION

The lowness of the water in the river is causing our citizens so much annoyance that The Post called upon Superintendent McClelland, of Peterboro, to learn what we could of the trouble and any prospective remedy. Mr. McClelland said that his men had got away, within the last few days, a large quantity of water that had been stored in small lakes up north, and that Balsam and Onondaga lakes were now at flood level. This water should now be flowing into Sturgeon Lake, and in a day or so the water should raise several inches. He also said evaporation had been so great this season, coupled with the continued lack of rain, that water was not available to maintain the normal level.

The Post also telephoned Bobbajon, and learned that there is a very bad leak in the dam at Little Bob that is losing fully as much water as is entering Sturgeon Lake. If this be correct, there can be little relief expected this season, but we understand an amount has been provided to replace the present dam during the coming winter with a new one.

THE SHUB VICOROUS.

The other day, remarks an exchange, when the announcement was made that Mr. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, was about to set out on a political pilgrimage throughout the country, the Montreal Star, whose management is said to have been intrusted with some election arrangements of importance to the party, volunteered some fatherly advice as to the wisdom of carefully choosing his associates. It said:

Two members whom Mr. Borden should certainly leave at home are Hon. Mr. Foster of Toronto, and Mr. Fowler of New Brunswick. In the former the people have too confidence, and the latter has no business to go before a popular assembly as the representative of a great party until he makes good his insinuations uttered on the floor of parliament.

This attitude on the part of the Star was well received by the Tory organs generally, and not a word was heard in protest against the proposal to avoid defilement by excluding these men from the leader's entourage. Mr. Borden, however, has opened his campaign, and one of his first acts is to invite Mr. Foster, the excommunicated, to be his companion and fellow-spokesman in his Maritime tour.

What does it mean? What is Foster's power over Borden that he should thus disregard the advice—what we say, dictum?—of Mr. Higinbotham, of the Star, chief party ringer, and call the Man with a Plan to his arms? Is it a hint to Mr. Graham to take up a more modest position in the rear? Is it due to sheer lack of brains and ability in the party? Or can it be that Mr. Borden's Northwest trip in association with the land-grafting party had in it anything which might lead him to wish to avoid the slightest appearance of reflecting on Foster or risking his antagonism?

Will Fowler, too, be asked to join the party? And what will the Star say? The affront to it cannot be explained away. One can almost imagine Foster's face taking on some thing as nearly like a smile, as ever looks in the direction of Montreal and makes strange signs with his thumb at his nose. The Star is to be heard from.

SEPARATE SCHOOL TRAINING.

The Catholic Register is impelled by recent experience to advocate the use of the higher or secondary schools by the Catholic scholars, remarks the Kingston White. Our contemporary is delighted with the splendid standing of the scholars in the entrance examinations, a standing which is not confined to any city or district in the province. The Catholic schools have been greatly improved in their teaching force, so that there is the evidence of the higher standing which is taken by the pupils of the separate schools.

Encouraged by this fact the Register does not see why the Catholic people should content themselves with the education which is granted in the primary schools. "Truth and custom," says our contemporary, "have somehow magnified and misinterpreted the 'entrance' as the point where school life closes, instead of regarding it in its true sense as the beginning or entrance to knowledge. For such it really is. All before is out a preparation to the understanding of things that make for effectiveness in the race of life. For years there has been talk of a Catholic high school for Toronto. If every child whose sight it now is to attend a high school aspires that right by presenting itself for the tuition the high school affords, accommodation for so doing must and will be provided. Universality in this matter will benefit not alone the individual child, but our Catholic youth generally. From every point of view the path to follow at the opening of the next school term is plainly for every successful candidate to present himself or herself for admission to the secondary school."

In Toronto the high schools are crowded, and there is not, as in Kingston, a high school which is maintained by the Catholic people without aid from the government or the city. The ambition is to excel, however, and the idea is gathering force that there is something in the teaching of the separate schools—the zeal or ardour of the teachers, the energy put into their work—which is showing its effects all over the province.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Japanese are forging ahead. In 1890 it was reported that 55.00 per cent. of the boys and 59.04 per cent. of the girls of school age were attending school—figures which had increased five years later to 93.50 and 89.84 respectively. During the school year 1903-4 (the latest for which we have figures) $1,500,000 was spent on public education, and 5,978,121, or 93.23 per cent. of the children, boys and girls combined, of school age were recorded as receiving elementary instruction. Such a people will not fail to make rapid progress.

POINTERS FOR SPORTSMEN

Hunting on Sunday Will Invite Action by Game Warden.

As Sept. 1st, the opening day for the shooting of duck, plover and snipe, falls on Sunday next, it is possible that a few of our sportsmen may feel tempted to let fly at the birds on that day if they happen to come across a flock, instead of waiting until the next morning, as the law demands. For the benefit of such Game Warden Bradshaw asks us to publish the following clause of the Fish and Game Act:

Clause 13.—No person shall on the Lord's Day hunt, take kill or destroy any game, or use any gun or other engine for that purpose—63 Vic. 49, s. 6.

Warden Bradshaw will visit the various game resorts Saturday night and Sunday, with assistants furnished by Lindsay and Sturgeon Point Fish and Game Associations, and law-breakers will be severely punished.

Mr. Wallace Jones, of Sturgeon Point, saw a flock of about 100 ducks flying from the north towards Emily Creek, the other day. This is a much larger flock than has been noticed hitherto, and suggests the possibility of the birds being the first contingent of the fall flight from the northern lakes.

The low water is bothering the old duck hunters quite a bit. "Old birds" are useless owing to the receding water having left the channels short of lanes of bottomless mud in place of the navigable waterways of old. Every single party can be seen poking their way through the sedge looking up new points of vantage, and this is having a bad effect on the birds, as they are being constantly disturbed.

Non-residents of the Province who wish to hunt ducks and other small game must pay a license fee of $25 for a season. If moose and deer are also desired, the fee is $30. The first-mentioned license is of green tint, the latter red.

Hours of Labor on the Farm

Orinda Times: Why should the farmer expect his hands to work more hours than a man in town? This is one of the reasons why he finds it so difficult to obtain hands. No laboring man will endure working from 5 a. m. to 9 p. m. for 10 hours' pay. It is a relic of the old times only, and, as the farmer thinks it pays him to do so, he will continue till the inability to procure help drives the fact into him. In some places farmers demand 10 hours a day, and claim that it pays. They do not slave themselves to death; their boys and girls stay on the farm; they can obtain help that will stay with them, and the yearly bill at the hand still keeps up with the old time slavery, of 14 or 15 hours a day.

THE NEW COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

Will Add Vastly to Usefulness of Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

An Outline of the Studies Comprised in the Course, Which Opens Next Week—Equivalent in Value to One Year at Guelph Agricultural College.

On Tuesday, September 3rd, the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province will re-open. Many farm boys leave this summer against the Entrance examination, and with many of these boys and with their parents, the question is, "What about a course at the Collegiate?" Lindsay Collegiate Institute for the first time in its history will this year offer to its students a course in agriculture. This course has been designed especially for farmers' sons, and for boys who intend to make farming their life's work, their life's business.

In this age, when farm labor is high in price and hard to get at any price, and at this season of year, when help is so much needed on the farm, the question arises—"Is a course at the Collegiate, with what it costs in time and money, well it pay?" Without hesitation, but after having considered all the pros and cons, we answer emphatically, "Yes." Farming is both a science and a business. Only the farmer who, through years of experience and training, or who, through training and education, has acquired a knowledge of the scientific principles according to business methods—only this man can be a truly successful and contented farmer.

The course in the Collegiate will teach both the science and the business of farming. The course has been designed especially for boys who intend to go onto farms, not it is so broad a course, and embraces so many subjects that it cannot fail to interest and be of use to any boy. Every boy wants to know how to drive and feed horses, how to know the different classes of horses and how to select good individuals in these classes. Almost every boy wants to know how to handle cattle. In the course boys will be taught how to raise and how to buy and feed good beef steers; how to build up a good dairy herd; how to feed for largest profits; how to take the records of each cow's production; how to weigh her milk and test it for butter fat. The course in poultry will also interest both town and country boys. Very many town boys are now making more than their pocket money by keeping a few hens, and perhaps by running an incubator. The course in poultry will deal with all of the most useful breeds of poultry and with the most advanced methods of producing eggs and market poultry, and methods for preparing for market and marketing. In horticulture a broad training will be given, which also should prove interesting to all boys, and even to girls. The production of golden plants and flowers will be dealt with; the most advanced methods of vegetable growing will be taught in classes and illustrated in the experimental plots; methods of pruning, grafting, cultivating and spraying fruit trees will be discussed and illustrated, also the growing of the smaller bush fruits. From time immemorial "the busy bee" has been held before boys as an example of industry, but how few boys, or even men, know how the bee gathers its honey, how it carries its honey, or how it deposits its honey, much less how to feed and care for a colony of bees. A course in agriculture will give to the students a good working knowledge of the care of bees and the production of honey.

These are but a few of the many subjects which will be taught in this new course in agriculture. A course in entomology will take up the more common beneficial and injurious insects, their habits of life, and methods for increasing the beneficial and destroying the injurious. The course in soil physics will give a knowledge of the many different types of soils and of the best methods of treating each class for most successful crop production. The work in chemistry will deal with the composition of the soil and with the best fertilizers for various soils and for various crops; also the composition and manufacture of the various insecticides and fungicides will be fully explained. A course in dairying will explain the manufacture of butter and cheese and the production of milk and cans of milk during the process of manufacture. A course in forestry will deal with the care of our remaining wood lots, also with methods for reforesting waste lands and for producing and planting shade trees along our line and roadside fences. The course in agronomy will be perhaps one of the most practical, as it will take up the most advanced methods of crop production, the rotation of crops, the judging and selection of grains for seed, the recognition of and eradication of weeds.

Space will not permit us to more than mention the many subjects of this broad course, but we think it has been stated to show that the course in agriculture will be one of the most interesting and practical courses in the curriculum of the Collegiate Institute. This course should induce many farmer's sons to enter the Collegiate, and all boys entering the Collegiate should give the course in agriculture careful consideration before deciding what course to select. For students who do not intend to take more than two years in the Collegiate, this course, with the English, Science and Mathematics of the regular course, which it includes, offers probably the broadest and most useful training. Also, as this course is equivalent to a year at the Ontario Agricultural College, it is worthy of consideration from those who intend going on for professional positions.

A circular giving a detailed outline of the course has recently been issued by the Department at Toronto, and any wishing further information regarding the course should apply to the teacher in Agriculture, Mr. T. H. Reed, at his office in Lindsay, on Kent-st., opposite the Market.

R. B. RITCHIE WAS KILLED IN A STREET CAR ACCIDENT

Alighted From a Trolley in Yonge st. and Walked in Front of One Going in the Opposite Direction—Came Here From New Liskeard.

Start of Tuesday: A fatal accident occurred about 1.45 this morning, when R. B. Ritchie, a Colbat investor, was struck by a northbound car at the corner of Agnes and Yonge-sts. and died thirty minutes after his removal to St. Michael's Hospital.

Ritchie had stepped from a car which he had boarded at the corner of College-st. and was crossing the tracks in the rear of the car he had just left, when he was struck by a northbound car in charge of Motor-man John Neal, 33 Davenport road. Ritchie fell clear of the wheels, but struck the pavement with such force that the base of the skull was split completely open. The unfortunate man was taken into a night by a restaurant, where Drs. Graham and McBurnie attended him until the arrival of an ambulance, which removed him to St. Michael's Hospital.

The deceased has two brothers in Toronto and five at New Liskeard, Ontario, where his parents also live. He was twenty-eight years of age, and was born in Hamilton county. The family later removed to Lindsay, where R. B. Ritchie distinguished himself in the field of sports, and especially in hockey and football.

In 1894 the family moved to New Liskeard, being among the earliest settlers in that district. The two brothers of the deceased living in Toronto are S. S. Ritchie and C. J. Ritchie, the latter being the Toronto secretary for the Temiskaming and Hudson Mining Company, whose headquarters are in New Liskeard.

R. B. Ritchie was well acquainted of the Central Business College, Toronto. He has been living in Toronto in St. Albans-st. Coroner Rowe will hold an inquest.

The above sad news will be read with deep regret by Lindsay friends of the family and of the unfortunate young man, who was a favorite with all when a resident of the town.

WALKED 1,150 MILES.

Visitor From Indiana Saved Railway Fare to Muskoka Lakes

Midland Free Press: A young man walked into town the other day from Lafayette, Indiana. He had been forced to die over a day out of Pennington, because the high wind had prevented the sailing of the City of Toronto. Hearing a great deal of the growth and business of Midland he walked over to see the town for himself.

The visitor was Mr. A. W. Smalley. He started from Columbus, Ohio, on June 18th, dressed in a Khaki suit and carrying a knapsack weighing fifteen pounds. He travelled on foot, stopping for meals and lodging, generally at hotels in the smaller towns, but sometimes at farm houses. In this way he walked through eastern Ohio to Pittsburgh, Perth, then south into Maryland, and east to Gettysburg, from that point far south into Virginia and north again to Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia, next up the Delaware and Susquehanna Valleys and across western New York to Niagara, crossing Lake Ontario to Toronto, he has come here on foot, and after going to Barry Sound by boat, will finish his journey at Muskoka. He has covered 1,150 miles on foot, besides several hundred more on wagons, boats and electric cars. He says that the best treatment he has received along the road has been in Ontario.

DOINGS AT THE MARKET.

Clerk Callaghan Kept Busy Weighing Stock, Hay, Coal, etc.

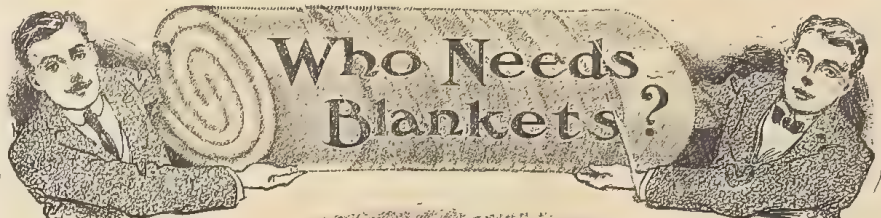

Evening Post of Aug. 28: Things have been pretty slow at the market lately. Mr. McIlhenny is preparing to ship a carload of cattle and later one of hogs. Hogs at present are bringing $2.25. Cheese has been going over the scales of late.

Hay at present is exceedingly scarce, selling as high as $13. The prices run from $11 to $13.

A carload of ashes and quantities of old iron have crossed the scales for the Sylvester Co. and others. Mr. McIlhenny recently bought a large Durham bull weighing 1985 lbs. He intends to ship it with the rest of the cattle on his ranches. He has about 125 head of cattle in all. Quantities of coal from McLennan & Co. and from Flavelles Limited were weighed for Francis-st. and south ward schools, and also a small amount for the House of Refuge.

Came to Owen Sound.

Mr. Frank Adams left on Saturday for Brighton to visit his father-in-law for a few days before leaving for Owen Sound, where he has purchased and will operate a fruit evaporating plant. Mr. Adams was quite popular in town, and his many friends hope to see him back again in the near future.

OPS TOWNSHIP LEGISLATORS

THE VARIOUS RATES TO BE LEVIED FIXED IN COMMITTEE.

A fairly short session—The Business Transacted at the Meeting.

A regular meeting of Ops Council was held on August 26th, with all members present. The minutes of last meeting were read, and on motion of Messrs. Coulter and Wilson were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A letter from S. A. Armstrong, Inspector of Prisons and Asylums, enclosing a list of persons who, it is alleged, were admitted to asylums as residents of the municipality, and chargeable to it under the provisions of the Act, with blank forms to be filled and returned to the Department.

A letter from D. J. McDonald, Roadmaster of C.P.R. Co., stating our letter in reference to the improvement of the crossing at Pottery Corner had been forwarded to the Superintendent.

A copy of a resolution passed by Mansvers Council calling the attention of Ops Council to a portion of Mansvers boundary, said to be dangerous to public travel.

Requests from Weldon, Rea and Mrs. Jaskett, that the persons interested in their respective drains be notified to clean them out.

An order from the township engineer, that Thos. O'Neill be paid $22.50 for work on the Harcourt drain, and be charged therefor.

Councillor O'Loughlin reported that he had viewed the road on 4th gr. line, 1st con., and the boundary leading southward to Mr. E. Thompson's place and found part of the roadbed rough and in need of gravel to cover the stone bottom, and that the boundary road, being high land, grading would suffice. He said he would try to expend $20 or $30 graveling the gr. line this fall.

WORK AT GRAVEL PIT.

Mr. Thos. A. Newman, caretaker of the gravel pit, said he was obliged to have work done on the pit to the value of about $15 to make a frontage of 25 ft. so that several teams might be loaded at once. The Council approved, and on motion of Messrs. Wilson and Coulter, he was paid $7, Richard Hopkins $6.75, and Patrick Murphy 75c. for the work done.

With regard to the resolution passed by Mansvers Council the commissioner for Ops said he had viewed the road complained of since that resolution was passed and did not consider it dangerous to public travel at all and thought that the other members of the Council would be of this opinion if they saw it.

A resolution was passed accordingly, a copy of which the Clerk was instructed to forward to Mansvers Council.

Mr. Wilson explained to Council that he had to expend more money on crushing stone than he expected. Owing to the scarcity of gravel in his extensive road division there was a large quantity of stone to be crushed, which was very expensive. He would require an additional grant of $185. The Council were satisfied with his explanation and judicious expenditure—the stone had to be left over for another year—and on motion of Messrs. Coulter and Best his appropriation was increased by $185.

MUST BE CLEANED OUT.

Mr. Coulter moved, seconded by Mr. Best, that the Clerk notify the patrons of Drain No. 1 to have their respective portions of said drain cleaned out by the 20th of September next, as required by the award of the Engineer, or the Council will hereafter complete the work at the expense of those in default, and that the patrons of the Jackett-Hutchinson drain, and those of the Weldon-Rea branch of the Harcourt drain be also notified to clean out said drains, as per agreement, before Sept. 20th prox., otherwise the work will be done at their expense.

TAX RATES STRUCK.

In committee of the whole the Council considered and discussed the township rate necessary for the present year and decided to levy a rate of 3-1/4 mills per dollar.

Mr. O'Loughlin then moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the following rates be levied on the assessed property of the township for 1907, and that a by-law be introduced to confirm the same, namely, township rate, 3.25 mills per dollar; county rate, 3.150 for those liable for County school rates, 3.031 mills for owners of Lindsays schools not exempting by the County school grant; general Public school rate, 2.14 mills; Separate school rate, 3 mills; and the several Public school section and union section rates, as required by the requisitions of the several boards of trustees; railway rate, 65 mills; municipal and fire drainage levies being fixed by by-laws.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Best, that the following accounts now passed be paid, viz.: Thos. DeGall, fencing pit, $9; Jos. Hickson, half cost rep. washout, $1.50; Thos. Laird, work in gravel pit, $1.50; Geo. McHugh, for gravel in 1906 and '07, $14.50; Thos. O'Neill, work Harcourt drain, $22.50; Henry W. Jackson, fee as fence viewer, $2.00; W. F. O'Boyle, award of fence viewers, $1.00.—Carried.

A by-law to confirm rates and levies was then passed, after which the Council adjourned, on motion of Messrs. O'Loughlin and Coulter, to meet at the call of the Reeve.

W. F. O'BOYLE, Clerk.

LICENSE LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Woodstock Sentinel - Review contends that the section of the Liquor License Act licensing bar-tenors (whatever may have been the intention of those responsible for it, is capable of being used to prevent, rather than facilitate the enforcement of the law. In short, the responsibility for violating the law is now, in some instances, placed upon the bar-tender, when it ought to rest with the landlord.

The Pioneer, the organ of the temperance people, and at the same time the apologist, of the Whitney Government, now sets the point in this way:

"Under law, as it formerly stood, the licensee was personally responsible for all that went on in his house. If he allowed another man to sell liquor unlawfully he had to bear the heavy penalty for the offence to which he was a party. Now, the poor tool may be used as a scape-goat, and a comparatively light fine makes the licensee-holder, exempt from punishment. The system is a distinct encouragement to law-breaking, and a shield for the trickster, who, under the former plan, would have to take the consequences of the crime which he permitted, including the risk of losing his license."

In the attempt of the Whitney Government to make two horses out of one in dealing with the license question—by placing the traffic and not the temperance element—such has been done to prevent effective enforcement of the law. The two-fold clause, thrust into the local option law, was certainly not in the interests of temperance reform, and it seems to us that the provision relieving a licensee-holder from responsibility and saddling it upon an employee—the bartender—with the ostensible object of facilitating the enforcement of the law, is comparatively, but actually hostile to effective enforcement of the law.

THE ALL-RED LINE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's advocacy of a line of fast British steamers between the various colonies and the mother country has created a vast amount of talk, and aroused much criticism—some of it unfavorable. The idea is one that must appeal to everyone desirous of promoting the imperial spirit, and at the same time has immensely the trade carried on between the respective countries. The London Times, which generally interprets the feelings of the great mass of the British people at home, recently referred to the project in the following terms:

"The scheme is one in which Canada's interest is too obvious to need demonstration, while the interests of the whole Empire are likely to be promoted by it in a very great degree. Canadian sympathy with the project has got beyond the mere theoretical stage. We hear now from Ottawa of a syndicate with Lord Strathcona's name at the head of it—assuredly the best guarantee for the stability of any enterprise of the kind. It is noteworthy that a fast passenger service that Canada is anxious for. She wants it, as Mr. Borden, the leader of the Canadian opposition has pointed out, a thorough and effective freight service at the lowest possible rate. These suggestions, apparently, are being adopted by the scheme. It is estimated that the cost of the Atlantic section of an all-red route would be $225,000 for both the British and Canadian governments. There is every prospect for the serious consideration of such a subsidy by the imperial government. We joined with Canada and the Australian governments in subsidizing the Pacific cable; on the method of a Uganda railway, we financed the Uganda railway; and only five years ago, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier reminded the conference, we gave a subsidy to the Canadian company for the service to New York. The scheme of an all-red route has, perhaps, a stronger claim on imperial support than any former plan of inter-communication. It will require careful thought, and it may have to be done piecemeal, but most certainly it is not a project to be unceremoniously set aside.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Four bye-elections to fill vacancies in the Commons will be held next month. Perhaps they may help to dispel Tory fears of a general election this fall.

Canada's foreign trade for the first four months of the fiscal year was over $214,000,000, an increase of $22,000,000 over the corresponding period of last year. Our export of manufactures increased $750,000 in July.

Mr. Borden reproaches the Liberals with their desire to have an annual session in the West Office Department. Certainly this is one charge which could not be made against their predecessors—who, moreover, gave a wretched service for the money.

Montreal Herald, notwithstanding the warning of the Star that heralds must keep away, Mr. Foster says he is going to stump Nova Scotia with Mr. Borden. Mr. Foster is yet to hear from, but he may pluck up courage enough to tackle a few meetings in Prince Edward Island.

It is stated by a western correspondent that there are 132 opium mines in Alberta, and that seventy of them are operated, producing from five to fifteen hundred tons per day. They are scattered over the province. Coal is also found in Saskatchewan. Thus, in addition to farming and stock raising, these provinces will have important mining industries. Petroleum is also found in Alberta, and is expected to form the basis of still another industry. The resources of western Canada are immense. The resources of western Canada are immense. The Peace and Athabasca river country is now attracting much attention to its fertile soil, its forests and its minerals.

The editor of the Bob. Independent, in an article referring to the criticism of a minister by another, writes: "at the cloth for drinking a double at top over a hotel bar, asks, 'And why not Scotch?' He then continues:

"There is no reason why any drinking glass should not be perfectly proper, one for a man to take his wife or daughter. If it is not so it should not be permitted to exist. If these drinking places are given to improper conduct, who is better able to set an example of correct behaviour than the minister? So far from fault-finding with the rev. gentleman for entering the bar, he was perfectly within his rights, and his line of duty. If the Associations of ministers in each town made an agreement to periodically visit all bars they would probably accomplish more good for the cause than by condemning each other, from their pulpits.

EVADE PAYING DOC TAXES.

Many Citizens Use Subterfuges to Escape Paying Tax.

Chief Vincent has an interesting time of it these days collecting the dog taxes. People who care enough for a dog to feed it and keep it should be willing to pay the nominal annual tax, but such is not the case, and all kinds of subterfuges are used to evade the law. One "lady" stated up and down that she owned a dog. Later, when she was confronted with evidence, she said the dog was her son's. Other deceptions of similar nature are continually being employed, but the Chief says he will take no excuses—all unlicensed dogs will have to undergo the death penalty.

ON HIS BLINDNESS.

(By John Milton.)

When I consider how my light is spent

Ere half my days, in this dark world

And wide.

And that one talent which is death to hide,

Lodged with me useless, though my sight

To serve more use than I have left.

My true account, lest he, returning,

"Doth God exact day labour, light denied?"

I fondly ask; but pause, to prevent

That murmur, soon replies, "God doth not need

Either man's work, or his own gifts;

Be that as it will, thy eye is not

Reared to blind, 'tis state

Is strangely, thousands at his bidding

And post o'er land and ocean without

Rest;

They also serve who only stand and wait."

CHURCH NEWS OF INTEREST.

Clipped from Our Exchanges and Original.

Rev. S. C. Lord, of Grafton, has been called to the Presbyterian charge at Fenelon Falls.

The Bishop of St. Albans, who recently announced his intention of preaching in workhouses, began his crusade at Bishop's Stortford Union workhouse. He preached from the text, "Honor all men."

Dr. Arnold of Rugby, would not permit his boys to say, "Christ died for us," but instead he taught them to say, "Christ died for me." So we are to take the messages and promises of the Bible and apply them to our individual life.

At a vestry meeting of Christ church at Bobcaygeon, held the other evening, it was unanimously agreed to request His Grace, the Archbishop of Toronto, to appoint Rev. Mr. Barker, now of Stouffville, to the charge of the parish of Bobcaygeon.

The "Dead March" in Sam was played in St. Paul's church at the close of the morning service in memory of the late Mrs. A. E. Pitkey, by Inspector Knight, who presided at the organ in the absence of Miss Leary. The hymn, "My God, My Father, While I Stray," was sung in the morning, and "With Thee, O let the Words" in the evening.

The Rev. Dr. McDonald, of Inverness, Scotland, will deliver a lecture to-night in St. Andrew's schoolroom on his travels, particularly in Australia, contrasting the conditions of that land with Canada. The reverend gentleman has done a considerable amount of travelling, and being a fluent speaker, his lecture is bound to be interesting.

Christian Science may be a delusion and a snare, and Mrs. Eddy may be unable to handle her own affairs, but her teaching has taken a deep hold upon many people. The London Tribune says that Christian Science is only forty years old, and was first heard of in Great Britain fifty years ago. At that time the name was unknown in the whole of Europe. To-day the Christian Scientists claim a million votaries and more than 650 churches, and point to nearly all the principal countries of the world where the doctrine is taught and their healing power manifested. In London a high temple or church is being erected for the Scientists which when completed will accommodate a congregation of 1,700.

AT STURGEON POINT.

The afternoon service at Sturgeon Point was taken by the Rev. Dr. Barclay, pastor of the Forest-ave. Presbyterian church, Detroit, who was called on to fill the pulpit without preparation owing to the unavoidable absence of Rev. Geo. W. Henderson, who was to take the service. The Rev. doctor gave an excellent talk, full of helpful messages and delivered in a convincing and forcible manner. The service was well attended notwithstanding the heavy wind-storm.

AT ST. ANDREW'S.

Rev. Dr. McDonald, of Inverness, Scotland, preached both sermons at the Presbyterian church on Sunday. Mr. McDonald is a minister of wide experience, who has travelled extensively in the course of his work, and he was listened to with interest.

At the evening service he spoke of the subject of the sermon, the story of the prodigal son, so familiar, but ever appealing to all. He read the passage from the scripture, expounding it with commentaries as he went along. In his sermon he pointed the similarity of the course the prodigal took to the course many take in the present day. The youth demanded his allotted portion from his father and took his departure from home. This began his downward career. Similarly many of God's children pursue their portion of God's benefits in riotous living, leaving God entirely out of their lives. Like the father of the prodigal, God is ever willing to receive back the repentant sinner. No matter how low the man has fallen, return is always possible.

Miss Florence Jackson played on the pipe organ in the absence of Mr. H. Hamilton. The solo parts of the anthem were taken by Miss Leggett and Mr. R. C. Gray.

CLEAN HANDS, CLEAN MIND.

Dr. Franking Webb tells us that the hands are the most unclean part of the body; that they should be frequently washed each day, to keep them free of poison.

He points out, for many experiments made by him and other scientists, that the hands convey more poison to the lips and throat than any other organ of the body, and that keeping them clean is the only way to prevent their carrying disease.

If custle soap and water will keep the hands pure, as much might be said in another way for keeping the mind pure. The custle soap of pure thoughts, sustained by pure action, will keep poison out of the mind and build the strong character that will not be won.

The average boy has splendid life opportunities before him. He has work to accomplish, school to conquer, church and Sunday school to make a part of his life, constant friends to win, parents to sustain. All these things call for the highest efforts, a strain of the mind to get to the top, just as the muscles get forth when a tree is to be climbed.

If a boy is afraid of unseen things he has a thousand more reasons to fear an unseen mind. Wash out the dirt and vicious thoughts and desires. Think of the best and the highest. Make it a daily habit and watch your spiritual character grow into new strength.

A GOOD SERMON.

Mr. H. A. Pearson, of this town, late Y.M.C.A. secretary at Collingwood, is now in charge of the splendidly equipped "Y" in St. Catharines. On Sunday of last week he took charge of the evening service at the Methodist church and preached from John 11, 3—"There was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews; the same came to Jesus by night and said unto him, 'Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God, for no man can do these miracles that thou doest except God be with him.' Jesus answered and said: 'Verily, verily, I say unto thee except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God.'"

The speaker said, in part, that there have been leaders in all ages who have drawn to themselves certain followers and certain classes. But we find that Jesus drew to himself all classes and all colors, men and women. No man was so good that he could not find some good in him. He wanted leaders—men who could attract the people, who had enough education to explain his gospel. He wanted also leaders who could stand behind the scenes and be the power behind the throne." On one occasion Nicodemus went to Christ secretly and asked Him the question quoted in the text. He went secretly because he was afraid of his neighbors, afraid that if he approached Jesus to seek doctrine as an apostate from his own father might the Jews would accuse him of being a convert to Christ's doctrine and an apostate to his own faith. So he went to Christ and asked the question quoted in the text, and Jesus answered in the words repeated in the scripture. The evening ended with a prayer.

There are those of us who, like Nicodemus, have heard the gospel preached and have been touched by it, but unlike Nicodemus, we neglect to seek further light. There are men in our public service, in the church, who are in every way fitted to be leaders—if we only would be born again. The power of God, sometimes comes to those as the healing power of Christ passed out to the woman who had faith that if she could only touch the hem of His garment, and it makes them leaders of men.

It is true that we can come to God at the very last hour. But why put it off? Why not do it when we are young and strong and have so many years of service before us? We owe it to God. Why not pay? We cannot understand how the power of God comes to men. We all have read how He imbued the brazen serpent raised by Moses to cure the Israelites of deadly snake bite. We know that if we only come to God we can get that power.

The speaker closed with a strong appeal to his hearers to seek the healing power of God to "be born again."

ing desire to probe her secret to the bottom, he was also carefully studying every nook and cranny. There was only one way out of the room—the door, which was half-open. He carefully moved so that he might face it, and if a swift rush were necessary not have the table between him and the road to escape.

"There are the papers," she said in her passionless tones. She had taken them from a cupboard in the wall.

He betrayed no eagerness, but his fingers trembled and his heart thumped wildly as he looked them through by the dim light of the lantern, one eye at a time watching the masked girl, who quietly knelt down by the fire with her back to him and began to blow on the embers with a bellows.

"They are what you want, are they not?" she remarked over her shoulder.

"I believe so," he answered as carefully.

Yes, the vivandiere was right. The paper was a complete plan of the French encampment, marking accurately the positions of each battalion and each battery, and in the corner was drawn in blood a curious sign—two crossed daggers with 101 inserted in the gaps.

It sent an icy shiver through him, this countermark of the traitor's success and good faith. God! they were betrayed indeed to those damned Austrian hounds and English dogs. But he, Andre de Nerac, had saved the King and the army of France!

"I thank you," he said, folding the paper up and putting it deliberately within his cloak.

"Do not desire your thanks," she replied as she blew away some ashes.

Andre stared in dumb bewilderment at her on her knees there in front of the fire. Should he run her through at once or strangle her for an execrable traitress? The woman betrayed neither fear nor interest. She seemed to have forgotten his presence.

Are you 'No. 101?' he asked at last.

"Oh, no." She was laughing softly. "I am only her agent."

"Then the trait—then she is a woman?"

"Yes." She stood up and shook some cinders from her cloak. "Yes, she is a woman." And Andre knew she was lying. The fingers on his sword relaxed. Kill her he could not—yet. Depart he could not—yet. For he was in the grip of a weird fascination—a secret whose mystery numbed his senses.

"It is marvellous," he muttered, "but the English army thanks 'No. 101' and you."

"Yes," she answered indifferently, "it is marvellous, but the English army is nothing to her nor to me. For myself I detest the English officers, but give me the gold and I will wish you good-night."

The gold! English gold! Pest on it! The vivandiere and he had thought of everything but that. The perspiration sweated on to his forehead. He grasped his sword and took a step towards the doorway.

"It was given no gold," he said brusquely and waited with drawn breath.

"No!" She shrugged her shoulders and astonished him by kneeling down and taking up the bellows. "It is like English officers to buy secrets and not pay for them."

"You are unjust to the English," he protested. Ah! that surely was a stroke of genius.

"I know them, the English," she said without looking round.

Dead silence broken only by the wheezy puffs of the bellows. Pity, fear, astonishment, and a burning curiosity wrestled in Andre's breast. Was this masked girl flesh and blood or a devil in human form?

"Do you want the papers back?" he demanded.

"They are not mine to ask. I was told to give them to you; keep them."

The ice contentment in her voice stung.

Two flickering candles danced in his eyes as he opened them.

"Bravo!" whispered a caressing voice. "Bravo!"

He was lying in a long chair and the little vivandiere was kneeling beside him.

"Bravo!" she repeated, "and now drink—drink!" She forced brandy, glorious and hot, down his throat.

"Ah!" He sat up. The horror was slowly fading away, though he could still see floating between her face and his that black cabin rearing red, and that outcast woman's face crushed into pulp beneath the iron of his horse's shoe. "The papers—the plans," he muttered.

"They are here," she waved them softly, they were stammering with joy. "We are saved—France and the army and the King are saved and you—you have saved us."

Andre smiled, letting his head drop. He was supremely happy. Denise would hear of this—Denise—ah!

"Come, my friend," the vivandiere whispered, "look at yourself. It is too droll."

He took the mirror from her and laughed—laughed loud and long. Here was, indeed, a picture of a ruffian with a uniform torn and stained, the paint smeared over his cheeks, one sleeve cut away, and his left arm bandaged! Pahl! that was where Statham had stabbed him. He would pay for it tomorrow—no, to-day—to-day.

"I found the papers where you faint-ed," said the vivandiere. "I wept when I found them, for I was sick with fear that you had failed, and now, mon ami, I take them to Monsieur le Marechal."

"Yes, Mademoiselle, they are yours."

Then Andre told his story while she listened eagerly. But he did not tell her all, for instinctively he felt some things he had discovered that night had better be kept secret in his own heart until he knew more.

"I do not think that 'No. 101,'" she remarked thoughtfully. "But it is a pity you did not see her face. Some day hereafter it might be useful to be able to recognize that woman."

"Perhaps so," he assented, and he added to himself, "I shall see it before I die. It is written in the stars." For the curious thought haunted his mind that if he had seen that woman's face he would never have returned. Yet Captain Statham had seen it; suddenly his cry, his look in that narrow passage, rose before him. Was it what he had seen which had shot such awful fear and horror into his eyes? Could it be that the girl in the mask was—ah! he must wait before the question was answered. And the answer would certainly come. That too was written in the stars.

"And now sleep, Vicomte," his companion whispered. "In four hours the dawn will be here. A battle is at hand, and once more you must fight for the fair eyes of your mistress, for the honor of France and the King."

She half-carried him to the bed. The flame-red pictures of the night kept shooting through a blackness of pain in his eyes. How tired and weak he was. From far away a trumpet note rang, a drum throbbed, a snatch of revelling song bubbled mockingly up.

"I made a promise," dropped the soothing words in his ear, "but Monsieur le Vicomte must never betray the secret to Monsieur le Marechal. The King. Yet remember, I beg, there is nothing—nothing—I will not do for you if I can serve you, for I am grateful—A cushion was slipped under his neck. Two soft arms enveloped him for a second. "The lips, Vicomte," came the caressing chant—"the lips that a king has kissed salute you." His head rested on her breast. "Adieu!" She had vanished and his numbed senses ebbed away into an enchanted oblivion. The Loire floated at his feet, the autumn sun ruled a perfect peace and peace, and Denise standing beneath the carved mantelpiece with "Dieu le Vengeur." In a scroll of gold above her head in her forgiving arms.

What was that? Hoarse voices and cries, the rush of feet, of horses, of wagons, and of guns, the rattle of the drums and the challenge of trumpets.

Andre leaped up, flung the window wide open. The dawn was here, and, hark! In the distance the silver trumpets of the Chevaliers de la Garde de la Maison du Roi. The trumpets of the Guard calling as they called at Steinkirk. To horse! to horse!

And what is that away yonder through the pearly mist of the morning out there in the enclosures and copices dripping in the dew of May? Answering voices and the feverish thud of drums. They are coming—the white-coated Austrian hounds and the red-coated English dogs! They are coming! To horse! to horse! For to-day we must fight for the honor of France—fight that we may have the play promised to the army by the actresses of the Theatre-Francaise when Monsieur le Marechal de Saxe has won yet another victory for His Majesty, Well Beloved. Ah, they shall see, those English dogs, what lies in the hearts and swords of the nobles of the Guard. Foutenoy! Neither they nor we will ever forget Foutenoy.

CHAPTER X.

The dull boom of a gun away on the right greeted Andre as he flung himself into the saddle, and the trumpets were echoing all along the line from the citadel of Antioch over the slopes on which the brigaded army lay right up to the forest of Barry which covered the French left. A plumed officer galloped up to him. It was the Chevalier de St. Amant.

"The Dutch and the Austrians," he cried, "are concentrating opposite us on our right, but the centre of the attack will be—" he waved his sword northwards of Foutenoy—"the English form the enemy's right flank."

"And the Maison du Roi?"

"Will make the third line of the cavalry, the skirmishers and the foot guards yonder. But you are wounded, Vicomte?"

"A scratch—nothing at all," Andre replied brusquely.

The Chevalier looked at him, smiled, and galloped away.

It was past seven o'clock. Andre paused to cast a hasty eye out towards Maubray and Vevron, whence the foe must come, and around staff officers came this way and that; hoarse orders were being shouted, regiments were falling in, deploying, lining the entrenchments, one, two, three deep. Everywhere the strenuous confusion and fierce excitement of an army hurriedly preparing for battle. Over the plain hung a soft grey mist gently rolling up as the day grew, but dimly in the distance, past the enclosures and the copices in the mist, the English wrecked hamlet of Bourgeois still smoked sullenly in the raw air, troops—cavalry mainly—were collecting. Yes, the enemy really meant business. It was to be an assault, along the whole front and there was no time to waste.

With the Chevaliers de la Garde Andre found St. Benoit.

"What are you doing here?" his friend demanded. "We looked for you everywhere last night. Jeannette and Gabrielle supped in my coach."

"Two assignments," Andre laughed. "Such fun. I can tell you."

"And you got that slit between the two, I suppose."

"Yes, and a good deal more. Hullo! What's that?"

The guns from the citadel and the redoubt on the slopes and begun to roar earnest, answered as yet feebly from the enemy's left. St. Benoit and Andre trotted forward to make the position out.

"Mark you there!" cried St. Benoit. "Those are English cavalry forming up and see—see! There come the red-coated blackguards behind 'em. By God! they're going to let us give 'em a taste of our quality."

"You're right," Andre said. "They will dare to march across the plain in the teeth of our artillery?" Andre asked.

"It looks like it," St. Benoit replied smiling. "And so much the better."

The pair watched eagerly. The rattle of muskets crackled up from the left—the skirmishers, the Pandours and Grassins are out, and every minute it is hotter and hotter work; the smoke lifts up, and though it they can catch glimpses of red-coated infantry falling in, company on company, battalion upon battalion, in the rear of the covering squadrons or horse. Hal! our guns up here have chimed in now, and already there are empty saddles in the dragoons so placidly arrayed amongst the lanes and enclosures, but those stolid islanders mind it as little as a fisher does flies on a July day. And the smoke waiting sullen clouds, shrouding the slope and the enclosures, only broken by fitful puffs of air or torn by red flashes and the dull plunge of the round shot. Yet this is a mere prelude up here, though on our right the engagement has really begun.

"Monsieur, poor devil!" whispered St. Benoit, but what a spirit!

Yes, that is Monsieur le Marechal de Saxe, carried in a victrola litter, for he cannot sit his horse. He is dying of dropsy is Monsieur, but he will see for himself, and as he is carried along he sucks a leaden bullet to assuage his raging thirst. The fire of battle glows in those eyes which Adrienne Lecouvreur and so many women have adored, and it inspires everyone whom his glance falls on, so full of confidence and calm he is as he issues his orders, serene, majestic, and watchful. No troops in the world can ever force this entrenched camp he is thinking, and before death takes him he will win another great victory for his master, King Louis. Northwards of Foutenoy is where he mostly prefers to stay, for this is the critical place where by a miracle the French position may be turned, and here he holds the Maison du Roi and his reserves in leash. Those English are such stubborn devils when they are in the stomach for a tussle at hand grips. We must be ready even for miracles.

An hour—another passed. The Chevalier emerged from the drifting smoke with welcome news.

"The Austrians and Dutch are retreating," he says. "Can you not hear their drums beating to reform? Down there we have handled them so roughly that they have sought cover, huddled behind Bourgeois. Their horse is broken and tumbled up, and the plain is littered with their dead. They won't trouble us much more."

Andre will be surprised here, worse luck, St. Benoit grumbled, "those cursed artillerymen are to have all the honor to-day. We shall not be wanted at all."

"Not be too sure," Andre said quietly. And the Chevalier nodded in agreement before he spurred off to carry a message to the King, who with Monsieur le Dauphin is watching the fight near the Hermitage of Notre Dame des Bois.

"Boom! boom!" on our front at last. Those are the English field-pieces beginning to reply to the salute we have been lavishly doing out. They fire well, those English artillerymen, and their shots come plumping into the entrenchments and crashing into the forest. The men begin to drop in the first line.

"Look at that fool de Grammont," Andre muttered, pointing with his sword.

An officer on a white charger was galloping to and fro in front of his regiment of guards, encouraging them in this gallant madcap fashion to keep steadily under the ever-increasing fire.

"By God! he's down," he exclaimed as he saw the white horse stumble and fall, struck by a six-pounder, and friendly arms are carrying his shattered rider dying to the rear.

"Poor de Grammont!" said St. Benoit, wiping away a tear, "never again will his hot-headed chivalry lead us into a devil's trap as at Dettingen."

And he was right. De Grammont, who had ruined a French army on the Maine, had found his last fight the morning, for a cannon-ball had smashed his thigh.

"Drums! English drums!" Andre cried excitedly. "They are advancing—can't you hear 'em? We may be needed—thank God! we may be needed now."

Below and across the roar of the guns, through the dirty smoke blended with the last wisps of the pearly mist, throbs in a glorious challenge the solemn tuck of English drums and the marching call of English trumpets. They are coming on now. Can we not see the flutter of English colors and the flash of light on panoply and sword?

"A noble sight that!" muttered St. Benoit with a catch in his throat.

"They are fit for gentlemen to cross swords with," said the generous Andre. "I hope they'll last till we can meet them as they deserve."

Through the smoke they could both make out how the cavalry had fallen to the rear and the infantry was calmly advancing across the plain in two long lines with the Hanoverians stepping out on their left. Aligned as on the parade ground, never halting, never hurrying, ready to shoulder not a falter, not a wrinkle, the great red column in two long lines comes on to the music of its drums; to-day these English dogs will achieve the impossible if they can. But can they? Surely not. From Foutenoy shriek the cannons, from Eu roar our guns, taking them in flank and in front; there are gaps in the files—they close; a hideous noise is sealed up; like a great ear-riest wave they roll on majestic in irresistible silence. Nothing can stop them, not all the guns in Europe—marching on, marching on, marching on unreasoning, dogged, straight into the throats of our artillery and the muzzles of our muskets, mad—mad—mad, but the madness that intoxicates the heart and ennobles the soul. Dutch and Austrians have twice faced this hellish fire and twice recoiled, but these English will come on; they said they would storm the entrenchments on the left, and get to them they will, for a promise is a promise, and they have English gentlemen to lead them.

For a time they are lost in the smoke and the roar and the gentle folds of the slope.

"They are broken," cried St. Benoit. "Well, they did their best, but it's a pity."

"Broken! by God!" burst out Andre, "look there—they've done it—done it—and—"

A cry has risen from the French ranks, a cry of rage and dismay and surprise.

The smoke had suddenly lifted, cut asunder by the flashes of the guns, and it revealed a superb spectacle. Not a hundred yards from the entrenchments, right across our left front almost on the top of the slope, have suddenly emerged into sight the grim faces of those serried red files. The English infantry are on us—actually on us! Hoarse commands, repeated, a quiver, they have halted, the drums still placidly beating, colors gently flapping, while the officers calmly redress their battalions.

A frenzied moment, for behind on the slope here it is our men's first real sight of them, and Swiss Guards, Gardes Francaises, the regiments of Courin, Aubeterre, and of the King are hurried, dashed, into order. What are we waiting for? Keep cool for God's sake! We have got to fight for it now. This is going to be a serious affair.

And then a touch to stir the blood. An English officer has quietly stepped forward—it is my Lord Charles Hay. Politely he doffs his hat to the French lines and raises his flask as a man drinks a health at a banquet. "Gentlemen," he cries in French, "be brave—"

SCALY SORES AS BIG AS PENNIES

Covered Whole Head and Neck After an Attack of Measles—Hair All Came Out—Doctor's Treatment Had No Effect—Suffered 6 Months

CURED IN 3 WEEKS BY CUTICURA COSTING $1.50

"After having the measles my whole head and neck were covered with scaly sores about as large as a penny. They were just as thick as they could be. My hair all came out. I let the trouble run along, taking the doctor's blood remedies and rubbing on ointment, but it did not seem to get any better. It stayed that way for about six months; then I got a set of the Cuticura Remedies, and in about a week I noticed a big difference, and in three weeks I was well entirely and I have not had the trouble any more, and as this was seven years ago, I consider myself cured. I used a bottle of Cuticura Ointment, one box of Cuticura Soap. I think it a splendid medicine, and I recommend it whenever I can. Mrs. Henry Porter, Albion, Neb., Aug. 25, 1906."

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when the delicate womanly organs are neglected, so surely as the system is healthy, the face and figure are beautiful. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mother, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as Favorite Prescription. It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve tonic, adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Things in General

By "THE STROLLER."

We have not heard so much recently about the working of the Lord's Day Act as we did at first, but whether this is a sign that it is working all right or not is hard to say. Occasionally an item appears showing that there are those who are determined to run counter to the Act. The worst that appears against it are the thinly veiled jokes that some newspaper men are continually throwing at those who wish for a quiet Sabbath. Of all men in the world, one would imagine that newspaper men would be the last to kick against the Act, but it only goes to prove that things go by contraries. For instance, we have seen an item in some papers, evidently copied with great glee by others, stating how a minister of the gospel at Grimsby, jumped into fifteen feet of water, and saved a young lady's life, and suggested that that was more in consonance with his calling than hunting around for people who sold a few cents' worth of peanuts on Sunday.

Now there is one great mistake that the opponents of Sunday rest make; and that is, in thinking that the leaders in the movement are bigots, and that they are laying awake at nights working out schemes to tie the people up, and make them be good. As a matter of fact, there are no more sensible men, nor liberal men, either religiously or judging from any other standpoint than these same men. They realize the fact, however, the very serious fact—that if we do not have a proper rest day, not for a part of the people only, but for the whole of the people, that our nation will not progress as it should. No doubt they can stand the jokes and even the untruths, that are uttered about them. It would not matter if they stopped there, but untruths travel far and fast, and cannot but do harm.

Some time ago one, J. Engh Thompson, who is the champion of a "wide open" Sunday, wrote to a Toronto paper, giving two instances, of so-called narrowness, likely with the idea of hurting the cause. The first was where a florist had sent flowers to a funeral of an Odd-fellow on Sunday, and was threatened by a minister; that if he did so again he would be prosecuted. The second was where a recent immigrant arrival, who whilst waiting for church time, spent the interval digging in his own garden, and being seen by a policeman, was threatened with a summons if he did not quit. He described the place as being in the country, where he had to carry water so many hundred yards, and where, by the way, there are no policemen—just a little forgetful discrepancy. It is needless to say both incidents were manufactured. But the whole with, that is a small matter to this class of people, if it serves their purpose. These manufactured incidents would have passed unnoticed, only that they had caught the eye of a very prominent British journalist named Hamilton Ryfe, who recently passed through Canada, and is now giving his experiences in the British papers. He gives these stories as gospel, and as showing the narrowness (?) of our people, especially in Ontario, although he finds fault because the stations and the railroad were deserted in Nova Scotia on Sunday.

Referring to the peanut remark again, we doubt if anyone is looking out for people selling peanuts, but if people, (mostly foreigners) will flaunt their disregard for our laws in our faces, what are we going to do? If a man can sell peanuts, why not sugar or soap? They are both more necessary, and if a man can sell soda water or ice cream, why not sugar or even hot Scotch? It certainly would not add to the appearance of Toronto, for instance, were the Dagos and Greeks, who line the streets on week days, permitted to sell "nuts" and "nuts", permitted to do the same on Sunday, and yet they would have as much right as one of their confederates who happened to be running a store. The fourth commandment says plainly, "thou shalt do no work," and then goes on to state who shall not work. (The only person omitted, and who is not prohibited from working, is the man who is poor, and, as is presumably left out, so that the little bit to eat can be got ready without breaking the commandment. Everyone else is strictly prohibited from working.)

Last week we took up the Chinese question as they have it in H.C. We saw the Argentin race have always looked on the Chinese as an inferior people, although why we should do so, would be pretty hard to explain intelligently. We—that is, the white people on the western coast, both in the U. S. and B. C.,—at first permitted them to come in without let or hindrance. They were very handy in fact absolutely necessary to the building of the trans-Pacific roads and other hard labor, but when the roads were finished, and they still kept coming, the white race became alarmed and called a halt. We in Canada imposed an entrance fee of $50, but that only seemed to whet their appetite, as they continued to come in even larger droves.

Again the fee was raised to $500, and that stopped them completely. The greatest kickers against the influx of Chinese have been the labor unions, purely from selfish reasons. Of course they give other reasons, but they are only for spectacular use. They claim, for instance, that the Chinese have vices that are below any that we have, that they live more cheaply and therefore are able to work more cheaply than we can, that they are not permanent, and therefore not good citizens. We rather think that if any one, or dozen objections of this sort, were taken and investigated by unbiased parties, they would be found to be holes in them and unable to hold water. After all, the main objection, and really the only one that will

TUMORS CONQUERED
SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

Mrs. Fannie D. Fox

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation. 'Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles I directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well.'—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chesnut Street Bradford, Pa.

hold water, is the fact that they are of an alien race, and that they are thought, word and deed, are in another class than even our lowest poor white trash.

Such being the case, if there is anything in it, and we are to preserve this as a white man's land, we might as well unite on the real question and work from that point. We can readily see the problem the U. S. have with their negroes, and although we do not think either the Chinese or the Japs are to be classed with them, yet we do not want to take any chances and have a permanent Oriental question as U. S. have a permanent Negro question. We cannot explain the psychology of the fact, but it is a fact nevertheless, that the mixing of the black and white races means the deterioration of the mixture to a remarkable extent. We hardly think the same, or any deterioration would occur in the mixing of the white and brown races. There is a curse on the race of Ham that is not on any of the rest of us, and that will probably account for it. At the same time, it is doubtful if we want the experiment tried to any large extent amongst us. We do not lose sight of the fact that we are doing a thing of national building, and mining and fishing, and have got to have the labor to work these things or lose the benefits to be derived from them. Those who are in a position to know, say that either the Chinese or the Japs are the most satisfactory help for these things, that can be had.

The question to be solved is now before these "alien" experts. If a man of these "alien" experts is to let in without creating a disturbance? There is no getting around the fact that Japan is now a first-class power, and is not going to stand idly by and see its citizens slighted or abused or treated as inferior by anybody. Another feature of the business is, that she is now a close ally of Great Britain, and the United States. We feel satisfied that Japan would rather have a war with the United States than to see her power and prestige diminished. One thing is sure, and that is, that some modus vivendi has got to be reached, and that has to be done quickly and soon. Surely we have statesmen here and in G. B., who can devise some scheme that will be acceptable to Japan, without belittling her before the nations. We feel satisfied that Japan would rather have a war with the United States than to see her power and prestige diminished. We feel satisfied that Japan would rather have a war with the United States than to see her power and prestige diminished.

One of the leading planks of the present Ontario government is to give us cheap school books—a very laudatory object. A great deal of capital has been sought to be made out of the bargain the late government had with the companies who did the publishing, and we think rather unjustly. We can well remember the old school books that member the old school books that were not more than double what the present series cost. We can also remember what a good thing it was considered the government had done, by instituting the present system, and it was a good thing, but it was not so soon with and left far behind, and the same people were condemned for the same thing that a few years before brought them commendation. All parents will be glad, however, to know that the price has again been cut in two, but we feel satisfied that the cost will be greatly enhanced, and we feel sure that the cost will be greatly enhanced, and we feel sure that the cost will be greatly enhanced.

Miss Mound's Cookies
(Denver Post)
A cooking school girl named Miss Mound made cookies one day, nicely browned. Her pug chanced to try them. Now the town wants to buy them. To kill off the dogs in the pound, adly and collectively, fully fifty per cent. of what it costs them now for shoes.

There must be an immense amount of money lying idle in unused cookie belonging to private parties, which, belonging to the public, would be used until their usefulness was gone. An economical fact this ought to command itself to any thinking community. Another feature that also ought to commend itself to the thinkers is, the handsome that is placed on the poorer section of our community by withholding free cookies from their children. We think Kerr Hardie it is, who stated that there were over 15 millions of people in Great Britain who were under the poverty line—never were properly fed. That seems an astounding statement, but as the gentleman is known to have his facts well in hand, we presume it is correct.

The same condition of things exists in Canada, although not to the same extent. No doubt many of these sort of people are themselves to blame for this condition of things, but even so, fancy anyone going to bed continually hungry—never fully satisfied. If there are any number of this class of people in our midst it can well be imagined that school books would be as far from their wants as gold watches, and they would only be bought at the point of the law, and then at the expense of a meal or other necessary of life. It does not seem right that this should be so, and if we want to hold up good citizens we must get rid of them at school age and do all we can to help them along. Free text books would be a good beginning, and free meals to the hungry would be a good second.

Henri Bourassa is getting lots of sympathy these days from the Tories on account of the stope throwing at Quebec. The Grit papers are all pointing out the other camp, but show that, even if it did happen in Sir Wilfrid's constituency, he (Sir Wilfrid) had nothing to do with it—an entirely superfluous apology. We do not know what has happened to Henri in days gone by, but whatever it was, it has seemingly soured the young gentleman on Sir Wilfrid, and although it was not enough to send him over to the other camp, he has had his own row ever since and has not attended caucus. As we have endeavored to point out at times, the Liberal party has room in it, and is composed of units who are twenty years behind their fellows, all the way up to units who are twenty years ahead. When the party is an opposition, it does not matter how far each one advocates his views, but when in power, it is absolutely necessary that some equitable compromise be effected on debatable questions, so that the different wings can support them and the government of the country be carried on. This is why it is so much more difficult to manage a Liberal government than a Conservative one, a point that is seldom considered when criticizing government.

It is only once in a century that a statesman and party manager of Sir Oliver Mowat's perspicacity comes to the front who knows just how far the people will support a reform, and when they are ready for the move. Such being the composition of any Liberal party, we can readily understand Henri's independence, but it seems to us that there is a good deal of "horse" in Bourassa's make-up and conduct. It is hard to say what he has in his bones, but there is no doubt that he gives both Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Borden many a good quarter of an hour. Some are inclined to speak of him as a broad-minded statesman—he is not so. In some respects he is very narrow, notably regarding anything pertaining to his own province. A Quebec statesman, in Federal politics, who wanted Canada to progress, would look at any proposed law from the viewpoint of a Canadian, and not a Quebecer, bearing in mind that the majority of his countrymen are English-speaking and Protestant. Mr. Bourassa would have fished on the new provinces a Separate School law, utterly distasteful to the great majority of their citizens. He would have prevented Lord's Day Act that nine-tenths of the whole country wanted, although his province was specially exempted from most of its penalties. In other ways he has shown himself to be of a narrower build than we care to have in Federal politics. At the same time, we believe he is honest and conscientious in his views and is very anxious to do what he can to run honestly, and by honest and upright ministers. There is no doubt but that, in the best and most scrupulously clean government, flaws can always be found. They are only human, and it would be wonderful indeed if, with a country over 3000 miles across and nearly as many wide, and with thousands of civil servants scattered over the immense area, on whom the proper running of the machine depends, some of them did not turn out to be rascally, either intentionally or through force of circumstances. It is good to have an independent dangle, to look into these things—it will have a tendency to make the service more careful. Mr. Bourassa has undertaken to talk to the people on these matters, which is a very good idea, and it would be well if more of our members held meetings in their constituencies, and had heart-to-heart talks with their constituents.

There is a certain amount of horse-sense, however, that everyone ought to use—even Mr. Bourassa. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has just returned from what might be described as a conquering tour and had the reception of his life the week before, in his own constituency. Bourassa arranges to speak there the week after, with a view of outwitting Sir Wilfrid, the idol of his constituency, inviting as it were, a fight. We believe in free speech, and are sorry to hear that anyone took the trouble to throw a stone, but human nature is the same all the world over, and people generally get what they want if a man is out for a fight, and takes the right way about it, he can generally get it. It looks to us as if Henri got exactly what he was looking for.

BE A BOOSTER BOOSTER.

Do you know there's lots of people settin' round in every town, Growlin' like a broody chicken, knockin' every good thing down? Don't you be that kind of catty, 'cause they ain't no use on earth.

You just be a booster booster—crow an' boost for all you're worth.

If your town needs boostin' boost 'er don't hold back and wait to see

If some other fellow's willin' to sail right in, this country's free. No one's got a mortgage on it, and just yours as much as his.

If your town is shy on boosters, you got in the boostin' biz.

If things just don't seem to suit you an' the world seems kinder wrong.

What's the matter with a boostin' just to help the thing along? 'Cause if things should stop a-goin' 'd be in a sorry plight—

You just keep that horn a-blowin' boost 'er up with all your might.

If you see some fellow tryin' for to make some project go, An' you can boost it up a trifle, that's your cue to let 'em know.

That you're not a-goin' to knock it just because it ain't your 'shout.

But you're going to boost a little, 'cause he's got the best thing out.

If you know some fellow's father's just forgot 'em, for you know the same fellow's got some good points, them's the one's you want to show.

'Cause your father's out on the waters' 'em, they'll come back, a sayin' true.

Maybe they will come back 'buttered' when some fellow boosts for you.

MY UNCLE KNOWS.

I was always used, when I went to bed, Right under the clothes to hide my head.

But my uncle Joe came back one day— I was only three when he went away—

And he told me what I didn't know In all my life, did my uncle Joe.

'There are no bogies at night,' he said; Just birds and flowers that have gone to bed,

And crickets and such things scattered 'round, Tucked up in the dark and safe and sound;

'And dreams out of Wonderland,' said he, On the lookout for sleepy-heads like me.

So I'm not afraid of the dark one bit; But I lie half awake, just watching it.

And wait for the dreams to take my And lead me away to the Wonder-land.

Sometimes I think if it wasn't true, But just pretending, what should I do!

But since he says it, it must be so, I so, For my uncle knows, does my uncle Joe.

THE DEAD ONE.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said: "My trade of late is getting bad, I'll try another ten-inch ad."

If such there be go mark him well, For him no bank account shall swell; No angels walk the golden stair, To welcome home the millionaire.

The man who never asks for trade By looking line or ad displayed. Cares more for rest than worldly gain And patronage but gives him pain. Tread lightly, friends; let no rude sound Disturb his solitude profound;

Here let him rest in calm repose, Untroubled, except by man or dove. And when he does go place him deep That night may break his dreamless sleep.

Where no rude clamor may disturb The quiet that he loved so well, And that the world may know its loss Place on his grave a wreath of moss And on the stone above, "Hush, here A man who did not advertise."

STRANGE TURNS IN POLITICS.

(Weekly Sun, Toronto.)

At the last session of the Dominion Parliament, Mr. Scowen, of Souris, moved to reduce the duty on agricultural implements from 17 1/2 to 10 per cent. Mr. Borden, Conservative leader in the Commons, is about to make a tour of the Dominion, and the Brandon Examiner links the motion and proposed tour together.

It says of Brandon is on Borden's list of places of call, perhaps he will tell the manufacturers of that city whether or not he is in sympathy with the motion introduced by one of his followers.

Could there be a more striking illustration of the change which has taken place in party alignments since '96 than is contained in the above paragraph? Here is a leading Liberal journal challenging the leader of the Dominion Conservative party to defend a movement inaugurated by one of his followers, looking towards free trade. MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

Honeybourne — Barry

The home of Mr. Chas. Fynn was the scene of a very pretty wedding (Wednesday, Aug. 21st, when Noble, daughter of Mr. Garrett Barry, of Fenton Falls, was united in the bonds of matrimony to William Honeybourne, of Lindsay. Rev. A. C. Collier, M.A., curate of St. Paul's, performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of friends.

The bride was prettily gowned in cream crepe-de-chine over a lace waist and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies. Miss Violet Barry, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and wore cream serge and carried a bouquet of asters. Mr. Charles Honeybourne, of Lindsay, was best man. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. John Barry, of Fenton Falls. The house was decorated for the occasion with a variety of flowers arranged neatly.

After the ceremony was performed a pleasant time was spent in music, singing and games. The young couple left later for a visit to the bride's parents in Fenton Falls. On their return they will reside at 20 Williams-st.

A large number of guests were present from Allandale, Rosedale and Braebridge and the presents were numerous and useful.

McFadden — Begley

Peterboro Review: At eight o'clock mass in St. Peter's Cathedral this morning was celebrated a very interesting ceremony in the marriage of Miss Mary Philomena, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. Begley, to Mr. Hugh Francis McFadden, of Lindsay. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColi, in the presence of a number of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride, who was attired in a neat traveling costume, was assisted by her cousin, Miss Mary Begley, of Lindsay, both carrying beautiful bouquets. — Mr. James Gillingham, of Lindsay, ably filled the duties of best man.

At the conclusion of the wedding mass, the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. P. J. Begley, Victoria-ave, where a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of.

The popularity of the bride was attested by the beautiful wedding presents received.

Mr. and Mrs. McFadden left on the 5.33 G. T. R. train for Toronto and on their return will take up residence in Lindsay.

OBITUARY

Death of Mrs. Maines.

Free Press, Aug. 22nd: After an illness of only a few days, Mrs. Wm. Maines passed away at her home, Queen-st., on Monday evening.

Deceased, though not enjoying the best of health, had a number of boarders. One of them had an abscess on his neck, which Mrs. Maines had been dressing. By and by her thumb became sore, but no attention was paid to it for several days, thinking it was a blister that was causing the trouble. It got worse, however, and became inflamed and swollen. Dr. Clark was called in and pronounced it blood poison, caused in all probability, from dressing the abscess on the boarder's neck.

Treatment was at once administered, but the poison rapidly spread throughout her entire system, and on Saturday morning she became unconscious, in which condition she remained until death. Mrs. Maines had spent a life of service, treating the sick of others and nursing them back to life. Six years ago her husband met his death at one of the saw mills here and was laid to rest in Lakeview cemetery. She had reached the age of 66 years, and was survived by three sons, two daughters, and two sisters, the latter being Mrs. Perry Brown, of Toronto, and Mrs. Lorne Starr, of Lindsay.

For many years she had been an active member of the Loyal True Blue Association, and on Wednesday the members of Midland (Rich) Lodge headed the cortege to Lakeview cemetery and performed the last sad rites to their departed sister as she rested peacefully beside her sleeping husband. The deceased was a consistent and pure-living member of the Baptist church. Services at the house and grave were conducted by Rev. Mr. Simpson, pastor of the Methodist church, in the absence of the Baptist pastor.

Indians Who Fought on the Esturion Cot

Liquor There.

The drunken Indians who created a disgraceful row on the Str. Esturion while returning from Stony Lake regatta on the 12th inst. were tried for the offence on Thursday before County Magistrate Edmondson, who gave judgment as follows:

On the charge of assaulting Fred Wright, mate on the steamer, Isaac Johnson was fined ten dollars and costs. On the same charge Jonas Jacobs and Alex. Knott were assessed five dollars and costs and David Jacobs, one dollar without costs.

For "being drunk" David and Jonas Jacobs and Alex. Knott were each taxed five dollars and costs.

What the costs in each case will amount to is not known yet, but it is expected that they will be pretty heavy.

HEAVILY FINED

His Worship also gave judgment in the case of H. W. Darcy, proprietor of the Park Hotel, Barleight Falls, for selling liquor to an Indian on Civic Holiday, August 12th. Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for Darcy. He was fined $50.00 and costs. This is the minimum fine under the clause relating to the sale of liquor to Indians.

HUNGRY FOR GOOD CHEESE

FIVE BUYERS ON LINDSAY BOARD MONDAY MORNING.

Mr. Clomes, for Flavell's Ltd., Bought 1398 Boxes at 11-1-2c.

There were a pleasant lot of sales—on Monday morning's meeting of Victoria County Cheese Board, the reason being the presence of five buyers, three being from Peterboro. They were Messrs. Brown, Clomes (for Flavell's Limited), G. L. (Leslie), Cook and Weir, Peterboro.

"We are after cheese," remarked Mr. Weir to President Robertson, after a hearty handshake. "The pastures are drying up down our way, and we've got to come to you."

"Glad to have you come often," responded Mr. Robertson. "Somehow the demand seems keener when we have a couple of visiting buyers." And the house men looked at one another and smiled.

FACTORIES BOARDING.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese placed opposite:

Star	99
Cameroon	70
Dunford	112
Mariposa	88
Cambray	65
Omcece	170
North Verulam	115
North Ops	75
Reabro	102
Bobcaygeon	170
Maple Leaf	100
Leistine	46
Red Rock	110
North Harvey	59

(Number boarded same date last year, 1921).

THE HIDING.

"Now, gentlemen, make your offers," remarked the President.

Mr. Clomes led off with 10-3-4c. Mr. Cook called 11c. Mr. Weir made it 1-8c. better. Mr. Clomes came back with 11-1-4c. Mr. Cook made it 11-8-8c. for the Board, and Mr. Clomes took the mark and raised to 11-7-16c. He called Reabro, Bobcaygeon and a few other factories, but the gossamer refused to part with their product at the price, manifesting a desire for the even half.

"The figure I've offered is the highest given in two weeks," remarked Mr. Clomes.

This failed to melt the hearts of the salesmen, although one of them expressed his willingness to accept the offer if the others would.

After a few moments' delay Mr. Clomes said, "Well, I'll make it 11-2-2c." He called Bobcaygeon, Reabro, North Verulam, and Red Rock as a starter, and on getting his second wind, went ahead with a rush until every factory had been engaged up.

"Well, we've had a real nice visit," remarked Buyer Cook, "but I'm sorry to go away empty-handed. You've got a mighty good price, because I count it worth an extra sixteenth to inspect and ship cheese from this district."

The next sale will be held two weeks hence, when the last half of August make will be offered.

Str. "ESTURION"—During June, July and August, special Half Regular Return Fare from Lindsay to Bobcaygeon on Mondays, Thursdays and Saturdays, 40c. Valid for return same day of issue. To Sturgeon Point, daily regular return fare 25c. Valid 30 days from issue.

DELAYED EXCURSION PARTY.

Esturion Grounded Near Bobcaygeon—Late Arrival in Lindsay.

Evening Post of Aug. 23.

Citizens who venture the trip down the river or lake at this season of low water seem to be incurring considerable risk of disaster. Last evening the Esturion took on at the lower wharf about 75 people, some of whom had walked a mile and a half to reach the dock. The steamer was bound for Bobcaygeon, where a garden party under the auspices of Christ church was the attraction.

Part of the Sylvester band went along, and the trip down was an enjoyable one, although the steamer struck a number of logs on the trip down Lindsay river, greatly alarming certain timid passengers, and when near Bobcaygeon the grinding of the vessel over the rocks was especially fearsome. However, Mate Brooks managed to land passengers in safety, and all enjoyed a cozy, pleasant hours, the villagers extending a cordial welcome.

On the return trip things happened — as the boat was passing out into the lake, she grounded and remained fast for almost an hour and a half. A line had to be passed to the shore, several hundred yards away, and the captain manned by passengers, before a release was effected. It was 2 a.m. before the Sturgeon Point people disembarked, and almost 4 o'clock when the lower wharf was reached and the many excursionists set out on their journey over the rails and ties on their weary way up town.

Touring the Kawarthas.

Evening Post of Aug. 22.

The handsome steam yacht Sancia, from Lake Couchiching, arrived in port last evening with the Tudhope party of Orillia, who left that town Tuesday to make a tour of the Kawartha Lakes under the guidance of Mr. Geo. Goodwin, of this town.

The party comprised: Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tudhope, the Misses Begg, Mr. and Mrs. B. Cooke, Mr. Roy A. Cranee and Dr. A. H. Morton. They spent the night at the Simpson house, and this morning started early and inspected the town thoroughly, being most favorably impressed. After dinner they boarded the yacht and left for Bobcaygeon, on their way down the lakes.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop to the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had. For stomach distress, bloating, flatulency, bad breath and salivary complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Tablets or liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. Missed Death By Three Inches.

Bob Independent: Mr. Wm. Mann, who was councillor for so many years had a marvellous escape the other day. He was helping to set up a stumping machine, part of which consists of three great sticks of timber about twenty feet long that stand up on and forming a triangle. By some means they fell, grazing Mr. Mann's back. His clothes were torn off and his back bruised. Three inches more and he would have been smashed to a pulp. It gave those around a fright they will not forget for a while.

Separate School Teachers Successful.

Peterboro Examiner: Though the official returns have not as yet been made public, it is understood that the Department of Education has forwarded to every Separate school teacher who tried the recent examinations held in St. Peter's school here, a certificate, all having succeeded in passing the examination. This is a very creditable showing and proves that the teachers, although in the past they have not been in possession of the certificates demanded by the Education Act of Ontario, were well qualified to teach. In the neighborhood of 60 teachers tried the examinations here, they having come from many points in this district.

HE HAS FAITH IN THE WEST.

MR. ROBT. BRYANS THINKS THERE WILL BE A BIG CROP.

Regard Silver Bar District, Alberta, as Good as Mariposa.

Mr. Robt. Bryans, town, who returned last Friday evening from a five weeks' trip through the West, extending as far as Edmonton, is satisfied that unless, most unexpected for conditions set in, another large crop will reward the husbandmen of that flourishing portion of this great Dominion.

Mr. Bryans, it will be remembered, some months ago disposed of several sections of land in Southern Alberta at a figure which about doubled his original investment, and his recent trip was taken in the hope of being able to make another good purchase. This time he invested in two choice quarters in the famous Clover Bar district, about sixteen miles east of Edmonton, seven miles south of Fort Saskatchewan, and three miles from a point where the Grand Trunk Pacific will erect an elevator. Mr. Bryans also acquired a couple of situated building lots in North Edmonton.

"That's going to be a big city there," he remarked with emphasis. (The population now is close on 20,000, and in the course of a few years Strathcona, now a brisk town of 4,000, is sure to join hands with its more go-ahead neighbor. When it visited there everything was on the move, and it was estimated that 3,400 people were living in tents owing to the impossibility of building houses rapidly enough to supply the great demand.

SAW LATE MRS. PICKIE.

Mr. Bryans also visited Vermilion, 134 miles east of Edmonton, to which point a train now runs daily over the C. N. R. He had tea with the late Mrs. Albert Pickie at the time of the visit, about three weeks ago, and dined on his knee the neighbor's child from whom Mrs. Pickie contracted the fever which resulted fatally. Her own little daughter, aged about two years, had taken the fever previously, but made a quick recovery.

Speaking of Clover Bar district, Mr. Bryans said it reminded him of Mariposa. "There's field after field of the prettiest fall wheat I ever saw spring out of the earth," was the way he described the soil qualities. Many settlers from Reboro and Lindsay districts are located there, and all are prospering—the Reid, McArthur, Moore, Burke, and other well-known families. Many Ontario young ladies are teaching in the schools of the section, and the attendance of children is good.

Speaking of the crops, Mr. Bryans said that in Southern Manitoba there had been a dearth of early rains and a lot of the crops were blighted. Indeed, a lot of damage in other parts more favored. In centre and north Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the crops were on the whole good, and in parts magnificent indeed. Mr. Bryans added as an afterthought that Swift & Co., the great Chicago packers, are erecting a great establishment near Edmonton.

DRAINING OF LAKE SCUGOG.

PORT PERRY STAR SOUNDS A NOTE OF WARNING.

Predicts Another Slaughter of Fish and Other Undesirable Things.

In last week's issue the editor of the Port Perry Star set forth at some length, editorially, some reasons why the citizens of Lindsay and Port Perry should join hands in registering a vigorous protest against the constant lowering of the water in Lake Scugog. The possibility of the fish being again decimated by frost during a cold winter will be disheartening news to the members of Lindsay Fish and Game Association, and, indeed, to every citizen who realizes that every sportsman attracted to this locality leaves behind him a considerable sum of money in return for a few fish and the pleasure of breathing our brand of ozone and perhaps sampling our blend of whiskey.

More important, of course, than any question relating to fish or fishermen, is that of the health of the people, and beyond doubt this will be very seriously endangered if the draining of the lake be continued further. But let the Star be heard; another evil threatens. A few years ago, owing to an unusually severe winter when the water froze to a phenomenal depth, the fish in the lake died by the thousands, and were almost entirely cut off. Consequent quently fishing has ever since been prohibited, and an effort was required to be made at some expense to restock the lake. Now if the water remains at its present low level throughout next winter, and these, that which happened before will undoubtedly happen again, and once more the stock of fish will be destroyed. (The town of Port Perry has already suffered greatly on account of there being no fishing there, and can't but poorly afford to have the close season prolonged for another term of years.)

There is yet another, and a greater menace still, arising from the low level of the lake. It has been remarked that the water at present is scarcely more than a foot above the intake pipe through which the town secures its water supply. If this be true, and should the level of the lake not be raised before next January, the intake pipe will be almost certainly frozen in, and the town's supply will be cut off. This is a condition that no property owner or business man care to contemplate. Naturally one is led at once to inquire into the cause or causes of the unusually low water. This has by no means been a dry season, and there has been no lack in the supply of water. The water is low simply on account of the waste and leakage at Lindsay. It has been intimated that the mill owners at Lindsay are using more water than they are entitled to use. Leaving that issue of waste for the moment it is very evident that something requires to be done on the works in the river to prevent the shameful waste of water now going on there day and night. In the first place the dam is in urgent need of repairs. The water is seen trickling through it at its base in quite large streams almost its entire length. The river is fully a foot and a half, if not two feet below the top of the dam. The looks, too, are of the most antiquated style, and are in a most disreputable condition. The water comes boiling up from beneath the gates, rushing through the centre where the gates fail to meet, and pouring out through the rotten crib work at the sides in all directions. The fish way too, in its present condition, is utterly useless, and serves only to add to the constant waste of water. The entire works, including the dam and the locks, need to be thoroughly overhauled and put in modern and approved shape. Until this is done there can be no hope of keeping up the level of the water in the lake.

An appeal to the Government should be made at once in this connection. The people of Lindsay and Port Perry should unite in this appeal. Both have good cause for action in the premises. And joint action on the part of these two places would no doubt bring to pass the work that is imperatively needed. We hope to see the matter taken hold of with vigor and determination. The case is an urgent one.

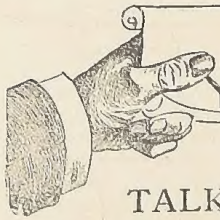

Summer Advertising.

I recently had the opportunity of examining an advertiser's records, which showed that his longest sales for any month in the year were in October. The only explanation was that this was the accumulative result of the advertising he had done in the summer months. Many advertisers are, however, opposed to advertising in the summer months. Some have reasonable grounds for this; some simply cannot resist the temptation because others do it, or because they've heard it doesn't pay. People eat, drink and live in the summer, and buy goods just the same as they do in the winter. Many read more in summer than in winter, because they have more time to spare. —Leonard Darbyshire, Publisher Spare Moments.

ON AUGUST 1st, I will open a School in Lindsay, to be known as the

National School of Telegraphy

Board here is reasonable, and all ordinary students should graduate here within six months. Write or see me for terms. The greatest and most successful managers of to-day have, with rare exception, risen from the ranks of the operators.

Salaries of operators run from $50 to $80 per month, according to the importance of the position. Operators who are Agents, make from $60 to $100 per month, and are always eligible for promotion. Lady operators for commercial work are in great demand.

Qualifications necessary are few but absolutely essential, viz.: a common school education, strict sobriety, honesty, industry and carefulness.

Sir William C. Van Horne, of C.P.R. fame, began his railway career as an operator, so did J. W. Leonard, C. W. Spencer, Geo. C. Jones, and scores of others, all now holding high positions.

IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

Told in Interesting Form by the Bright Correspondents of The Post at the Various Centres.

CENTRE ELDON.

(Special to The Post.)

Most of the farmers around here are almost through harvesting. Several have had some of their threshing done, and report the grain turning out good.

Mr. Malcolm Morrison, who had the misfortune of breaking his leg, is doing as well as could be expected. We hope to see him about again ere long.

Mr. John Gillanders had a windmill erected on his barn. John will make things hum if he will get the wind when required.

Our school re-opened on Monday, 19th, with Miss Post as teacher. We hope success may be with them this term also.

Miss Annie Gillespie, trained nurse, of Buffalo, has gone back after spending a lengthy visit with her parents here.

Rain is much needed in this district. Grasshoppers are numerous around here, and prove very destructive to gardens and root crops.

We are sorry to hear that Ned McArthur of Palestine, lost one of his horses last week. Mr. McArthur is to be pitied, as he has to buy another one and prices are high for horses at present.

DUNSFORD
(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The farmers around Dunsford are nearly through harvesting, and the whistle of the threshing engine may be heard every day.

A company of from twenty to thirty men of this vicinity has purchased a new threshing machine and engine. The new outfit is strictly up-to-date, and is giving perfect satisfaction.

The Farmers' Bank of Canada has established a flourishing agency in our village. The new bank, although it is as yet but plainly furnished, is open every Tuesday night and all day Wednesday.

The Dunsford school re-opened for the fall term last Monday, with Mr. R. C. Gray as teacher. Mr. H. L. Lindsay having resigned to take a position in the Farmers' Bank of Canada.

Mr. McGill, of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, spent a few hours at Dunsford last Wednesday.

There was a large crowd out to the service in the Methodist church last evening. The singing was exceptionally good. Mr. Skitch, of Peterboro, and Mr. Lewis, of Ancona Point, sang solos that were much enjoyed by all. Mr. Lewis also helped in the singing by the use of his violin.

Dunsford is progressing favorably as a business centre, but is doing nothing in the way of sports. A village as large as Dunsford should have a sporting organization of some kind. Why not start football going now that the nights are getting cooler and the harvest is about completed?

Mr. Stubbs, of Peterboro, is going to give an entertainment consisting of stereopticon views and music, in the English church hall, Thursday evening, Sept. 5.
